Christian Education Fails

When it exalts intelligence above integrity.

When there is no moral force in the classroom.

When success is substituted for character.

When doubt concerning the Christian verities supplants confidence.

When an expanding ego minimizes or discredits Jehovah.

What is the use of training philosophers if the result is to create a doubt as to the existence of a God to whom we are accountable for our deeds?

—H. J. Klooster.
Mrs. Alice McGohan is enjoying an extended visit at Collegedale with her daughter, Mrs. Carl Romans. Saturday evening, January 12, an interesting series of pictures on the life of Abraham Lincoln was shown in the college auditorium. Sunday evening Mr. Fuller motored to the Graysville Academy to present the pictures to the students and teachers there.

Miss McGee is superintendent of the Collegedale Sabbath School for the new semester, with Kenneth Crofoot and Lowell Byers as assistants. Martyn Ingram has been elected as secretary, and Ted Webster as music director.

During the vacation many of those who remained at the school spent several days in bed with the influenza. However, we are glad to report that the last patient is up and the last room fumigated.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jacobs, Carl, and Ray were visitors at the college during the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stork and Eddie, Jr. have moved from Chattanooga to Collegedale. Mr. Stork is enrolled in the Bible classes of the school.

The Science Club, with Elmer Leitner as president and Eulala White as secretary, reports an increase of interest and activity. Dr. Vivian Shull of Chattanooga and President Klooster have been recent speakers at the meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McFarland of Madison, Tennessee were visitors at Collegedale over the week-end of January 12.

The junior deacons and deaconesses of the church for the new year are Mr. Ray Olmstead, Mr. Lewell Smith, Miss Martha Brown, and Miss Audrey Klaus.

Begin now laying plans to attend the Youth’s Congress. From the Field Tidings we read: “We have at last completed arrangements whereby our next Youth’s Congress will be held July 4-8 at one of the most beautiful spots in the mountain section of North Carolina. It will be at Blue Ridge, about two and a half miles from Black Mountain. The elevation is such that the temperature is always ten degrees cooler than in Asheville. The cost of four nights’ lodging and twelve meals, through special arrangements, is being held down to five dollars per individual.”

Mr. Calhoun is continuing the work of the Missionary Volunteer Society during the second semester. He is assisted by Albert Smith, Robert Kepkey, and Mildred Bradley. Sunshine Bands and Progressive Classes are a part of the work for the remainder of the year.

Arrangements are being made for an increase of equipment in the printing and in the woodworking laboratories.

The men’s glee club and the church choir, under the direction of Professor Haussler, have been alternating in furnishing special music for the church services. The choir is now preparing the cantata entitled, “A Morning in the Orient.”

From Mrs. Strickland we learn that three hundred and fifty shirts and two hundred dresses are turned out weekly by the college laundry, as well as hundreds of pounds of flat work. The pressing department handles fifty suits a week.

The girls of North Hall responded liberally after hearing of the fire at the Gilbertown Academy, Alabama. A large box has been prepared for mailing, containing dresses, skirts, and shoes.

“Every year is a fresh beginning.
Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain.
In spite of old sorrow and older sinning,
Take heart with the year, and begin again.”
An Elementary Teachers’ Institute, sponsored by the Georgia-Cumberland Conference, was held at Collegedale December 31 - January 3. Professor C. A. Russell of the General Conference was in attendance. The teachers were as follows:

Miss Lois Clark - Savannah, Ga.
Mrs. Claudia Dillard - East Ridge, Tenn.
Miss Elaine Giddings - Columbus, Ga.
Miss Mabert Hinton - Collegedale, Tenn.
Miss Ruth Ingram - Graysville, Tenn.
Mrs. Bessie Levering - Sevierville, Tenn.
Miss Carolyn Louis - Atlanta, Ga.
Miss Myrtle Maxwell - Collegedale, Tenn.
Miss Ruth Newton - Monteagle, Tenn.
Mrs. J. R. Perkins - Savannah, Ga.
Mr. Powell - Douglasville, Ga.
Mrs. R. R. Price - Atlanta, Ga.
Mrs. Jennie Taylor - Collegedale, Tenn.
Miss Edna Mae Trammell - Atlanta, Ga.
Mr. Arthur Twombly - Wolf Creek, Tenn.
Mrs. B. F. Wrenn - Postell, N. C.
Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Shelden - Knoxville, Tenn.

“Should auld acquaintance be forgot?”

Bruce Benjamin, Class of ’33, writes the following: “There are in Loma Linda ten former students of Southern Junior College engaged in the study of dietetics and medicine, so you can see that we have a fair representation of our old Alma Mater. As a group and individually, we never tire of getting together and recalling old school experiences and acquaintances. We enjoy reading the Southland Scroll and learning of the whereabouts and activities of our friends.

“We are busily engaged in the study of medicine. Our daily program consists of school from seven-thirty in the morning until five in the evening, and on Sunday until six, with the remaining hours until midnight devoted to study. Regardless of this, we are not at all sorry that we have undertaken to become doctors, for the study is really interesting and fascinating.

“A few of us are looking forward to spending a few weeks’ vacation at Collegedale this summer. Our greetings to all So-Ju-Connians.”

A letter received from Mr. John M. Jansen, Class of ’32, will be of interest to our readers:

“Ever since the first number was issued in June, 1929, I have been saving the Southland Scroll, so that I might possess a complete file. A few days ago I spent many happy hours perusing the material in a scrap book which I have called “Memories of S. J. C.” I recalled the many pleasant times which I spent at Collegedale, and endeavored to live over again some of those days as I passed from one item to another. My loyalty to Southern Junior College has not dimmed, and I hope to visit my Alma Mater in the near future.

“I left Southern Junior College nearly three years ago, and have been attending Emmanuel Missionary College. I shall be graduated with the class of ’35. Since coming to Berrien Springs I have been employed in the business office. The first year and a half I assisted in keeping the college books, but since the organization of the college wood products as a separate unit, I have been the bookkeeper of this new plant. I am very happy in this new line of work which has made me acquainted with the manufacturing end.

“To the many teachers and students with whom I am acquainted, I send most cordial greetings.”

A WISH

May whatsoever things are just and true, And full of love and good report and cheer, And beautiful and pure—just come to you As normal thoughts each day in this New Year. H. J. K.
Did You Know

that S. J. C. went over the goal during the Week of Sacrifice?
that in the college department Martyn Ingram made all A’s last period?
that in the secondary department Grace Fields, Nina Shoemaker, and Miles Nyberg made all A’s?
that Mr. Ludington and his family have spent eight years in Burma?
that the kitchen uses a hundred loaves of bread and forty gallons of milk each day?
that there are twenty-two girls in the dormitory from Florida?
that the hosiery mill puts out four hundred and twenty-five dozen pairs of hose each week?
that we have thirty-four milch cows in the dairy?

cost of the upkeep of grudges. They are an expensive luxury—a very expensive sort of foolish and wicked indulgence.

In the first place, a great deal of vitality will have to be spent on it just to keep it alive. A grudge has a curious way of dying suddenly and completely if it doesn’t have a fresh injection of vitality every so often. Then there is the time required to keep a really worthwhile grudge at the proper temperature. Once a grudge has been allowed to cool, it is of no use to anybody again. Then, too, a grudge is hard to clean up after. You have to leave your mind cluttered all the time with ugly thoughts so that they will be handy when you want to do a little active hating. This means that there isn’t room enough left to put in a really big worthwhile thought even if you should have one—which isn’t likely. Thoughts, like human beings, mainly consort with their own kind.

Why cause ourselves all this distress, inconvenience, and expense? If the object of our grudge is really as low, as contemptible, as mean as we think, surely he or she isn’t worth the priceless gold of time, vitality, and thought we will squander on him or her if we hang on to that grudge. We shall find it infinitely cheaper to forget it.

"Let not the sun go down upon your wrath." It was Paul who said that; a man who had been beaten, slandered, vilified, and misrepresented probably to a greater degree than any of us will ever experience. That is good advice. Don’t invest in grudges. There is nothing more expensive and unsatisfying to maintain than a miserable old grudge.

—H. J. Klooster.

THIS DAY OF YOUTH

These are days of disillusionment. With a devastating wrench the depression has violently shaken society loose from its faith in the old order. The confidence of mankind has been deeply shaken. Those things in which we trusted—bank accounts, governments, education—have all proved their inadequacy.

There has never been greater need for an envisaged leadership than now. We have come upon a rare day of opportunity. It is essentially a day of youth. We need the timely word of Paul, “Stir into flame the gift that is in thee.”

There are latent gifts in every youth; smoldering fires capable of blazing into greatness of service. “With such an army as our youth, rightly trained, might furnish, how quickly the message of a crucified, risen, and soon-coming Saviour might be carried to the whole world.” May God help all our young people in this strategic hour of human history to live up to the limit of their own powers and of His grace.

H. J. Klooster.
We feel fortunate in having Elder D. A. Ochs of the General Conference with us for the Week of Prayer. His talks during the chapel hour and the evening worship are proving of benefit and help in directing us in our Christian life. Prayer bands precede the evening meetings.

In the honor of Mrs. D. A. Ochs, the ladies of the Faculty met at the home of Professor and Mrs. Haussler Monday afternoon for an informal entertainment.

We are proud of the record of our girls. In one afternoon Margaret Beauchamp and Parizetta Mangum painted seven hundred and fifty broom handles.

Are you acquainted with the fact that Mrs. Anna Hall is the oldest girl in the dormitory? She will be sixty-eight years old February 2.

Old Man Winter prepared a surprise for the students last Wednesday morning. When they awoke and looked out of their windows, the ground was covered with a beautiful blanket of snow. Many were the admiring remarks about the change of scenery. One girl from southern Florida was heard to exclaim, "Oh, it looks just like the pictures!"

Elder Taylor, piloted by Mr. Edward Stork, took aerial views of the snow-covered campus Wednesday morning.

Miss Maude Crump, Bible worker with Elder and Mrs. H. F. Taylor in a recent effort in Chattanooga, has been a guest in North Hall for the past week. She has favored us with several readings at the Athenae Club and at the Joshi Club meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin of Collegedale announce the birth of Clement Arthur.

The members of the Collegedale Dorcas Society mended forty-three garments Monday afternoon. They are appreciative of the sewing machine donated them by the young men of the dormitory.

President T. W. Steen of Emmanuel Missionary College spent the week-end of January 19 at Southern Junior College. His talks at the Friday evening and Sabbath morning services were of real inspiration to all who heard him.

With President Steen as guest of honor, Professor and Mrs. Ludington invited all who had attended Emmanuel Missionary College to their home for an informal gathering Saturday night.

Merrill Ashley was happy to have his mother, Mrs. H. V. Ashley, spend a recent week-end at Collegedale.

N. B. White has been elected president of the Athenae Club for the new semester, with Irma Storey as secretary.

The members of the Spanish I class in the secondary department were given the American Council Beta Spanish Test at the end of the first semester. The whole class averaged A.

The matriculants for the second semester are as follows:

- Lucille Brizendine, Indianapolis, Indiana
- Gerald Dunham, Moncton, N. B., Canada
- Gladys Leitner, Ocala, Florida
- Clayton Petty, Collegedale, Tennessee
- Joe Rainwater, Collegedale, Tennessee
- Jack Randall, Birmingham, Alabama
- Raymond Rice, Glendale, California
- James Roddy, Lane, Tennessee
- Lewell Smith, Shreveport, Louisiana
- Myron Stone, Indianapolis, Indiana
- Edward Stork, Chattanooga, Tennessee
- Jewel Swain, Mobile, Alabama
- Woodrow Tillman, Pigeon Creek, Ala.

"Let me today do something that shall take a little sadness from the world's vast store."
THE RAMBLER

It was night—night in North Hall just before the lights were turned out, and as the Rambler peered into one corner and then another, he observed an unusual amount of study. To himself he questioned, "Why all this amount of learning?" And suddenly he remembered. It was the night before the semester examinations. Vocabularies were being reviewed, theorems learned, and parts of speech memorized.

Lingering long after silence reigned and all was in darkness, the Rambler found himself at last before the door of a sophomore. And the longer he listened, the more he was reminded of those words which read:

The High School Sophomore's Dream

"Twas the night before Monday, and all through the house
Not a student was stirring, not even a mouse;
When from the next room there arose such a chatter
That I ran to the door to see what was the matter.

"The sophomore dreamed; and she talked
In her sleep
Of algebra, history, and subjects so deep;
Three x plus four y, take away seventeen,
The answer is wrong; it is minus, I mean.

"The Battle of Marathon—50 A. D.
'Twas Homer who fought it at Troy, you see;
The Persians were armed with—adverbial clauses,
Be sure you put hyphens in all of those pauses.

"The children of Jacob were—Caesar and Dan—

I know I shall fail in tomorrow's exam;
That line is, I think, a dactylic perimeter,
If y is one side, then 4y is the trimeter.

"A gerund is—no, it's cuneiform writing,
They had it in Egypt to help with the fighting.
Three z I shall need to make out this equation—
I know I shall flunk in the examination.

"One long and one short is the meter iambus,
The Joshi was one of the ships of Columbus.
A hike, did you say, for our club? I am happy;
Make your reading report just a little more snappy.

"The school bell is ringing, the moment has come,
The pencils are sharpened, but I am so dumb;
It's history, English—I haven't the breath
To scream if I fail—and they give me an F!"

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot?"

Mary Philmon, Class of '34, writes from the White Memorial Hospital, Los Angeles, California:

"It seems only a short time ago that we were in school at Southern Junior College, and yet we have been here long enough to complete one-fourth of our course.

"Physiological chemistry, which has required most of our time, has been a continuous process of digging. How thankful I have been that I took general chemistry. At the time, I did not realize the full importance of the many problems we had; but now I can see their necessity and can say, 'the more the better.'
"Another course which was interesting to me was our class in Testimonies in which we studied everything that Sister White has said about different foods and diets. Then we searched the medical journals in order to find how science is confirming revelation.

"I look upon the two years that I spent at Collegedale as very pleasant years, and I shall not forget the wonderful help and counsel that I received there. I am looking forward to the time when I can return to the dear old sunny Southland."

From the White Memorial Hospital Mary Lucas adds:

"One semester of our course is over now, and that means that we have finished physiological chemistry.

"Our work at White Memorial is about the same this month as usual. We get some valuable experience here at the hospital, besides being close to other places of interest that we can visit on our days off and between sessions.

"I still say with increasing emphasis as the months go by that the dear old Southland is my future place of labor."

"A man finds as much good in people as he looks for."

"David's brightest thoughts came to him in his darkest days."
"This One Thing I Do"

"The great difference between those who achieve and those who fail consists not so much in the talent they possess, nor yet in the amount of time they devote to study or work, but in the degree to which they apply their powers, mental and physical, to one purpose.

"It is a Webster, spending thirty-six years on his 'Dictionary'; it is a Hume, writing thirteen hours a day on his 'History of England'; it is a Field, crossing the ocean fifty times to lay a cable while the world 'ridicules.'

"It is a Paul, saying, 'This one thing I do'—nothing could daunt him, nothing intimidate—the Roman empire could not muzzle him; the dungeon could not appall him; no obstacles could discourage him. The quenchless zeal of his mighty purpose burned its way down through the centuries, and its contagion will never cease to fire the hearts of men.

"Nothing can take the place of an all-absorbing, concentrating purpose. What this age wants is young men and women who can do one thing without losing their identity, or individuality; or without becoming narrow, cramped, or dwarfed."

—Selected.
The annual meeting of the College Board was held at the college February 14 and 15. Professor W. E. Nelson of the educational department of the General Conference and Elder O. Montgomery were in attendance.

During the Sabbath school hour last week, Elder Montgomery presented in a stirring message some statistics to show the far-reaching effects of our investment, birthday, and Sabbath school offerings the world over. His words proved of inspiration to the members of the Collegedale school, for the collection of the day showed an increase over other Sabbaths.

The members of the Athenae Club enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin, February 9.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Jennie Taylor, who has spent several days in Dr. Shull’s sanitarium in Chattanooga, is well on the road to recovery. During her absence from the school, Mrs. H. J. Halvorsen has been teaching in her place.

Miss Ellen Lundquist, who has been a member of our school family for several years, left Monday to accept a position in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference office in Nashville.

On their return from the colporteurs’ convention at Nashville, representatives from the different conferences of the Southern Union made a short visit at College Dale. Their message during the chapel hour of February 14 was of vital interest as they portrayed the progress and advance that our Union is making in the canvassing work.

Miss Avaleen Davis was pleasantly surprised to have as her Sabbath guests her father, her brother Jack, and her aunts, Misses Blanche and Mary Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Boone Holmes and his brother, Oliver Holmes, of Memphis, Tennessee, visited the college over the week-end. The Holmes brothers are former students of Southern Junior College.

Thursday evening the college orchestra, under the direction of Professor D. R. Edwards, presented a program in the auditorium. Varied features of the evening included a trombone solo by Jack McCaughan, two vocal solos by Doris Kirstein, and a piano solo by Bertha Lee Braddock.

We were glad to welcome to the college as visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Stinson and their daughter Ellen, of Lawrenceburg, Tennessee. Miss Beatrice Leach accompanied them.

Professor J. E. Weaver, educational secretary of the Southern Union, spoke to the members of the Normal Club last Saturday evening.

The members of the Missionary Volunteer Society at College Dale are active in Christian help work. A portion of a letter written to Donald Payne by one of the patients at the Silverdale hospital, which we visit weekly, reads as follows: "Your people put on a good and interesting program here today. I want to say that the oftener I am with your people, the better I like them; and your conception of heaven just suits me. I should like to join your church and your community."

Professor M. E. Olsen of the Home Study Institute in Washington, D. C., spent Tuesday, February 19, at the college.

Miss Dorris Sweat of Waycross, Georgia, has joined the North Hall family.

Mr. J. I. M. Jones of the United States post office bureau recently inspected our College Dale post office.

Mr. Raymond Lilly and Mr. Alton Anderson of Atlanta, Georgia, spent a short time at the college Tuesday.
During the chapel hour of February 12, a program was given in honor of Abraham Lincoln’s birthday. Carl Romans read an interesting sketch of his life, Martin Shain repeated the stirring words of his “Gettysburg Address,” and Martyn Ingram recited Walt Whitman’s poem, “O Captain, My Captain.”

At the chapel hour, February 7, the following committee was appointed to nominate officers for the So-Ju-Conian organization:

Raymond Morphew
Walter Ost
Bernice Meacham
Ellen Lundquist
Mrs. Lockamy
Robin Simmons
Lewell Smith

The first meeting of the So-Ju-Conian organization was opened, February 20, by the singing of the school song, directed by Jones Douglass. The report of the nominating committee, read by Bernice Meacham, was as follows:

Menton Medford, President
Martha Brown, Vice-president
Gladys Leitner, Secretary
Martin Shain, Treasurer

Alumni Association

“She said acquaintance be forgot?”

Carol Randall, Class of ’32, writes from Lincoln, Nebraska: “I am glad that we have an alumni section in our Scroll. Last year I attended the University of Nebraska, and this year I am in the senior class at Union College. I enjoy my work and study and life in general here on the great rolling plains. Last June I took a trip a thousand miles west to visit my brother Winslow and his wife at their home in the heart of the Rockies. I hope to get back to the South this summer.”

The following letter from Clarence E. Murphy, Class of ’32, tells of his work in Wilson, North Carolina:

“I feel somewhat like the shoemaker who stated that his work was witnessing for the Master, but he cobbled for a living. I keep books for a body-building industry here in Wilson, but I am not losing sight of my greater duty.

“We have an interesting Sabbath school here, of which I am superintendent, and it falls to my lot also to take charge of the after service—a capable man would call it preaching. Every Friday night, in company with other members of our Sabbath school, I go over to Rocky Mount, where we hold Bible studies with an interested family. I am conducting a series of meetings on Sunday afternoons in a church about fifteen miles from town. The interest is good and the attendance is growing. Although it was rainy yesterday, there were twenty-six present to hear the subject, “The Home Over There.” We have also organized a Sunday school at this church, and are using our Sabbath school supplies. I feel very much encouraged with the interest, and know that God will bless these efforts with soul-winning results.

“Let me say that I read every word of the Southland Scroll with interest, and always want my name on the mailing list.”

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION:

We should appreciate your writing us about what you are doing, where you are, and how you are enjoying your work. We want the alumni section of our Scroll to serve as a connecting link for all the graduates of Southern Junior College.
DID YOU KNOW

That the enrollment for the college and secondary departments now totals 256?
That of this number 129 are boys and 127 are girls?
That the enrollment for the elementary school is 80?
That the first semester grades for the girls averaged higher than those for the boys?
That the college students made better grades than those in the secondary department?
That the resident boys of the secondary department averaged higher than the resident girls?
That in the college department Martyn Ingram made all A's for the first semester?
That in the secondary department Grace Fields, Nina Shoemaker, and Mrs. Rhoda Speed made all A's?

During a recent chapel hour Elder Snide, head of the department of Religious Education at the college, presented some interesting material regarding the general knowledge of the Bible.

Out of one hundred and thirty-nine students in one of our large state universities, seven per cent could not name a single book of the Old Testament, and less than fifty per cent could give ten books. Quoting from the Literary Digest, he stated: "Among original ideas the following were mentioned as Old Testament books, 'Paul,' 'Timothy,' 'Titus,' 'I & II Romans,' 'Philistines,' and 'Xerxes.' Fourteen students mentioned 'Hezekiah' as one of the books of Moses."

The answers in regard to the New Testament were still more unsatisfactory. Eight per cent were unable to name one book. Five put Samuel in the New Testament; three, the Psalms; and two, Esther.

Dr. Dahl, professor of Old Testament literature at Yale, finds, as he states, "that too many men who have taken biblical courses have sketchy, inexact, and confused conceptions of what they have read. Fifty of a class of sixty students desiring admission to the Yale Divinity School recently contributed such information as that Palestine is a flat country watered by the Nile, that Abraham wrote Genesis, that the flood is an example of an apocalypse, and that Hezekiah was the king in Deuteronomy."

"Another student, lost in a mist between physics and divinity, testified that a vacuum is a large, empty place where the Pope lives."

The challenge, "Study to show yourself approved unto God," comes home to us with new force at this hour when the Bible no longer holds first place in the school and home of today.

“Mehrer Des Reiches”

The German nation confers the title of honor, "Enlarger of the Empire," upon a very few of its greatest warriors and statesmen. The title may appropriately be conferred upon those heroes of the cross who have given their talents and even life itself to extend the Kingdom of God in the hearts of men. The Christian student can aspire to no higher distinction than that of winning, by a long life of faithful recruiting in Christian service, the right to the title, "Enlarger of the Kingdom."

H. J. Klooster.
Eulala White and Grace Fields were happy to have their parents from Nashville as their guests over the week-end.

Sunday morning, March 10, those eligible to senior standing met in room 306 to organize the senior class. The officers chosen were as follows:

- Lowell Byers, President
- Irma Storey, Vice President
- Vivian Boyd, Secretary
- Donald Payne, Treasurer

Mildred and Lucille Bradley were pleased to have their mother, Mrs. G. A. Bradley, of Dalton, Georgia, and Misses Gertrude and Margaret James of Chattanooga, Tennessee, spend a short time with them at the college.

We were fortunate in having Judge Wilkerson of Chattanooga as a speaker at a recent chapel hour.

Mrs. A. Maiden of Birmingham, Alabama, spent several days this week at Collegedale with her daughter, Roger Mae.

Principal and Mrs. C. A. Schutt of the Graysville Academy visited the college the week-end of March 9. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ethel Dart, Miss Elizabeth Storey, and Miss Ruth Ingram. At the vesper hour Friday night, and during the church service Sabbath, the message brought by Professor Schutt proved of inspiration and help to all who heard him.

Howard Johnson was happy to welcome his mother and sister of Louisville, Kentucky, and his brother of Graysville, Tennessee, as his guests over the Sabbath.

Professor W. S. James, educational secretary of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference, was the speaker at the Missionary Volunteer meeting Sabbath afternoon.

George Ingram of Memphis, Tennessee, and Jean Davis of Reeves, Georgia, were week-end visitors at Collegedale.

Saturday night, March 9, the men's glee club, directed by Professor J. C. Haussler, presented a program in the college auditorium. A cornet solo by Donald Payne, and a clarinet solo by Robert Kepkey, were the special features of the evening.

Mrs. West is happy to have her mother, Mrs. W. S. Ruffin, of Springfield, Tennessee, spend a few days with her at the college.

At the chapel hour, March 5, Menton Medford, president of the So-Ju-Conian organization, read the names of the different bands with their leaders. The divisions classify under the following titles:

- Squirrel, Henry Reese
- Kangaroo, Raymond Morphew
- Fox, Robin Simmons
- Tortoise, Joe Rainwater
- Deer, Robert Kepkey

Enthusiasm soared high as the members met in various rooms to discuss ways and means by which their bands might take the lead in raising money to build a porch for the girls' dormitory.

"Christianity is the only religion in the world that places service to man on the same basis as service to God."
A Southern Boy

Oh, he was a lad from the Southern states,
And a jolly lad was he.
Merry and tall and with it all,
As fine as a lad could be.

"Now what shall I do?" said the Southern lad,
"I want to go to school,
And study and work and never shirk,
And live by the Golden Rule."

He packed his grip with a merry flip,
And straight he drove with glee.
O'er plain and hill and laughing rill
To the gates of S. J. C.

He took his place with a smiling face
In the freshman class so new;
He studied well, so it's safe to tell
That his knowledge daily grew.

He had little gold, I am truly told,
But he had a right down grit.
Within the shop he would never stop
Till the bell was rung to quit.

On Sabbath days with a heart of praise
So still he knelt in prayer;
He joined the song as it swept along
In happy, fervent air.

When time to play he was free and gay,
And he ran with ready zest;
And the students said that the games
he led
Were always the very best.

Now what shall we do? For our lad so true
Has grown to a senior tall;
He is going away and I fear to stay,
For he'll not come back next fall.

O, Southern boy, you're the pride and joy
Of your school and teachers too;
You have made a place with your noble grace
That will always belong to you.

And when you go, we shall murmur low
To the Father good and great,
"Oh, keep him pure, and lead him sure—
Our lad from the Southern state."

THE RAMBLER

Gaining or losing! The Rambler, from a corner of the medical room, studied the scales intensively, as one student after another recorded his weight. To himself he questioned, "And why all these charts?" But his inquisitive nature was soon satisfied as he glanced over to the table where Mrs. Williams, the school nurse, in white cap and uniform, sat writing. Bending over her manuscript, he read with eager gaze:

"If we were living in the days that used to be, we might nail horseshoes over our doorways to keep bad luck away, and to catch the good luck as it fell from heaven. But now we know that a hundred horseshoes brimful of good luck cannot keep us healthy. Illness and disease come, not because of bad luck, but because of our disregarding or disobeying the scientific laws of health.

"Our ideal is that each student at Southern Junior College should systematically build health principles into his personal habits, that he may realize his highest physical, mental, and spiritual possibilities, developing normally from every point of view. We are trying to keep our minds and bodies at their highest level, that we may live at our best.

"There are many evidences that Southern Junior College students are approaching this ideal. Part of the proof is intangible, but there is some that we can actually weigh and measure! Three hundred and thirty pounds have been gained by the group who found themselves underweight in the September physical inventory. Some individuals have gained as much as sixteen pounds. Fifteen girls and nine boys have come up into the normal zone.

"Another evidence of improvement is the correction of certain defects. A few students are looking at the world through recently prescribed spectacles, and as a result are perceiving more interesting things than before. Some find that they are getting along much better without the diseased tonsils they brought with them."

The Rambler paused, and as he meditated upon what he had read, he whispered to himself, "Truly those at Southern Junior College believe in the statement which says, 'The health should be as sacredly guarded as the character.'"

Alumni Association

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot?"

Miss Opal Miller, Class of '32, writes from Little Rock, Arkansas:

"Last spring I completed my college course at Emmanuel Missionary College, and am now teaching the ninth and tenth grades in the Little Rock church school. I enjoy my work very much because of the ready response of my students, and because of the congenial teachers with whom I work.

"I hope that the So-Ju-Conian campaign this year will be a great success."

We were happy to welcome Mr. Walter Martin, Class of '26, as a visitor to the campus over the week-end of March 9.

A Prayer In Spring

Our Father, Creator of all the glorious life and beauty in nature, we thank Thee for the many and convincing wonders of the Springtime. Instill profound reverence in our hearts and evoke praise from our lips, as we ponder the mysteries of garden, field, orchard, and woodland, with their wealth of color and teeming life.

Thou who dost bedeck the cold lifeless earth with such garment of radiant splendor, and dost enshroud it with an aroma of sweet perfumes, clothe us with inner raiment of spotless white, and bring to flower in our natures the finer fruits of the Spirit.

As Thou, the wise Gardener, dost awaken dormant energies, revive lost hope, restore vanished faith, may the garden of our heart be redolent with generous purposes and noble deeds. In Jesus name. Amen. —H. J. Klooster.

The constituency of Southern Junior College has repeatedly demonstrated its interest in and its loyalty to Christian education by making heroic sacrifice, as various situations in which financial assistance was needed, have arisen.

At present, the students of the college are united in an enthusiastic drive to raise one thousand dollars for the construction of a new porch for North Hall. Nearly a year ago the old porch was removed because it was no longer safe, and could not be replaced without the school’s going in debt to do so. We believe that our constituency will approve the policy of keeping out of debt, and will respond at this time to the appeal our students are making.

We wish to assure all our readers that the construction of this porch is a real need of the college, and that the cooperation and financial assistance of our friends throughout the southern area will be sincerely appreciated.

H. J. Klooster.
Dear Patrons and Friends,

This is a personal letter, addressed in particular to each one of you to whom the Scroll is sent. We know that you are interested in the development and progress of our college, and we are sure that you will be glad to hear what we are doing this year by way of improvement.

Each year the members of our So-Ju-Conian organization have worked long and untiringly to fill some outstanding need at the college. One year it was a heating system for the administration building; another, it was a suitable dining-room to meet the needs of an increasing enrollment. Books for the library, floor furnishings for the dormitories, a sidewalk, and a grand piano for the chapel have been among the projects of our past years.

This year our need is a real one. Only compare the pictures below, and you will see the difference. To the right is a home for the young ladies, bearing every sign of finish, culture, and dignity, with just the kind of appearance an Adventist institution should maintain. To the left is a structure presenting a crude incompleteness—totally out of harmony with the other buildings and surroundings.

As we considered our needs this year, we could find no project more worthy of our energy and effort than that of raising money for a porch for the dormitory. You have helped us in the past, and we know that you will help us this year. Won’t you sit down right now and send us a check or a money order for ten dollars, for five dollars, or for even one dollar? Every dollar will build one-thousandth part of our new porch.

We need your prayers and we need your help in making this campaign one of the very best that Southern Junior College has ever known. In the days to come, when you visit our school, we want you to realize that many of the things which we now use and enjoy have been made possible through your generous efforts and gifts. We trust that you will not disappoint us this year.

Very truly yours,
Menton Medford, President,
SO-JU-CONIAN ORGANIZATION.
"Nothing Succeeds Like Success"

"I have been told that 'money does not grow on trees,' but I was inclined to doubt this old adage when I received an answer to one of my So-Ju-Conian letters recently. With no feeling of excitement other than the prospect of a very ordinary offering, I opened the envelope to find a fifty-dollar check smiling at me, and you may be sure that I smiled back. I wish that more surprises like this might come to put our campaign 'over the top.'"

Lois Benjamin.

"Even though our campaign started only three weeks ago, we have received more than two hundred and fifty dollars as a result of the letters written and the personal solicitations. Our band is in the lead, as already we have turned in over one hundred dollars. We feel it a real pleasure to work for the school by raising money for a porch for the girls' dormitory. We trust that everyone will do his part in making this campaign a success."

Raymond Morphew.

"Am I boosting the campaign? Well, just listen! Even though I don't expect an answer from every one of the forty-eight letters I have written, yet I feel more than encouraged. Already I have eleven dollars, and am looking for more. No one can tell me that it is impossible to get money. I wrote to an uncle in Georgia. Back came a check for five dollars. Two of my uncles in Atlanta sent me two dollars each, and of course my grandmother is a loyal supporter of the college and did her part. My enthusiasm is growing, for I am confident that this will be one of the best campaigns Collegedale has ever known."

Ann Brooke.

"Several days ago I solicited a Chattanooga firm for our So-Ju-Conian campaign. The manager appeared interested, and upon my suggestion of a five or a ten-dollar donation, he replied that he might do better than that. It was with pleasure that we wrote a receipt in his favor for twenty-five dollars."

Walter Ost.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my work during the two days that I spent in Chattanooga soliciting for the So-Ju-Conian campaign among our business friends there. During these times of depression it is easy to tell what the outside world thinks of our institution by the donations given towards its improvement. Already I have received three ten-dollar contributions, and the promise of more. Remember, just one hundred such offerings will build a porch for the ladies at North Hall."

Ted Webster.
Several of the North Hall girls have been fortunate in having their parents and other members of their families as their week-end guests.

Mrs. W. B. Nix of Chattanooga, Tennessee, visited her daughter, Edna Nix.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Boyd of Griffin, Georgia, were guests of Vivian Boyd.

Mary Moore was happy to have her parents and her brother of Madison, Tennessee, spend a short time with her.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Freeze of Nashville, Tennessee, spent the week-end with their daughter, Opal Freeze.

Ann Brooke was glad to welcome her mother and her sister of Canton, Georgia, as her Sabbath guests.

Miss Nannie Mae Smith, Sabbath school and educational secretary of the Kentucky-Tennessee conference, is spending several days with us at Collegedale.

Mrs. M. E. Walker of Memphis, Tennessee, visited her niece, Mary Virginia Parrott, this week-end.

The men’s glee club, under the direction of Professor J. C. Haussler, motored to Rome, Georgia, March 17, to broadcast a program of sacred music. Last Saturday night they broadcast over WDOD in Chattanooga, Tennessee. The glee club has a membership of twenty-four.

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Mitchell of Atlanta, Georgia, were welcome guests at the college last week-end. Dr. Mitchell spoke at the eleven o’clock hour on Sabbath, and in the evening gave a lecture on dental hygiene.

We were pleased to have Mrs. F. L. Cam and her mother, Mrs. Frank Lockwood, of Indianapolis, Indiana, as our guests at the college several days ago. Mrs. A. F. Schleicher, who is the mother of Mrs. Robert Woods, accompanied them.

Blanche Black was happy to entertain her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Crowley, of Asheville, North Carolina.

We are glad to report that Mrs. R. C. Hampton, who has been away from Collegedale for several months because of illness, has returned to the campus.

Myron Stone was happy to have his parents of Indianapolis, Indiana, visit him recently. They were accompanied by Merrill Ashley’s mother and brother.

The girls are proud of the new chairs and bookcases which have been placed in their rooms. The boys are enjoying the new chairs in their parlor.

Miss Anita Martin, Sabbath school secretary, and Professor W. S. James, educational secretary of the Georgia-Cumberland conference, were recent guests at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Felton Lorren are the proud parents of Robert Ashby, born March 21.

Southern Junior College welcomed as guests from Washington Missionary College last week, President H. H. Hamilton; Mr. Fred Green, business manager; and Mr. John Sampson, superintendent of the woodcraft department. President Hamilton’s chapel talk on courtesy in everyday life was one that will be long remembered by all who heard him.
Your Unworked Mind

What youth is there who has not at some time in his life felt the urge of ambition to press on to the height he would reach or to accomplish the thing he would do. The urge to climb and achieve is among the most sacred impulses of life.

In each of us there are unknown treasures, more precious than fine gold. All the riches of the world cannot begin to measure up to our unknown qualities. In each of us there is an unworked mind. The only way we can cultivate it is to carry out our ambitions.

Time and circumstance often dull the urge to improve our character and ability, and the years keep adding until on the surface we look barren. Others passing by think us uninteresting. In fact, we think ourselves so. Unless we keep digging, using the tools that nature has devised for our use, we shall never know the hidden treasures of our beings.

Forging ahead is the simple process of yielding to our better impulses, and in yielding to them we shall slowly but surely reach the goal. Dig, and let your dreams come true!

H. J. Klooster.
The twins, Ella Mae and Thelma Thomson, were happy to have their mother, Mrs. Ray Thomson, of Jacksonville, Florida, spend several days with them recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Steward and Quentin of Pensacola, Florida, were the guests of Maggie Lou Steward this weekend.

Pastor and Mrs. A. W. Cott and Joyce, who have labored for eight years among the Indians of British Guiana, spent several days on the campus. Wednesday night at joint worship, Elder Cott showed some thrilling pictures of their work among the people there.

Peirce Lysinger was happy to have his mother, Mrs. H. E. Lysinger, of Atlanta, Georgia, as his weekend guest.

Ellen Lundquist, Mable Hinkhouse, and LaVanee Hazelton motored from Nashville to spend a few days at the college last week.

Evelin and Gerald Dunham were happy to welcome their sister, Catherine, as their visitor from Graysville Academy.

Mrs. J. H. Whitehead of Macon, Georgia, visited her daughter, LeVitae, last weekend.

Dr. Vivian Shull of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was the guest speaker at the last meeting of the Premedical Club.

Miss Florence Ransaw of Charlotte, Michigan, and Miss Jennie DeYoung of Petoskey, Michigan, spent several days at Collegedale on their way home from spending the winter in Florida.

Laura Ashby was happy to welcome her parents and her brother of Memphis, Tennessee, as her guests for a few days.

The annual colporteur institute was held at Collegedale April 12-19. We are glad that quite a number of our students are making definite plans to enter the colporteur work this summer.

Eulala White, Grace Fields, Opal Freeze, and Grace Frank reported pleasant visits to their respective homes in Nashville the week-end of the 20th.

President H. J. Klooster is spending several days in Washington, D. C. attending the Spring Council.

The men’s glee club, under the direction of Professor Haussler, is broadcasting a program of sacred music over station WDOD in Chattanooga nearly every Saturday night at eight-forty-five o’clock. We extend to all of you a cordial invitation to tune in at that time.

Carol Klooster was happy to have as her recent guest, Miss Katherine Whitman, of Atlanta, Georgia.

We are pleased to learn from the College of Medical Evangelists that Fuller Whitman, Class of ’29, is president of the junior class.

The members of the junior class have chosen their officers as follows:

- N. B. White, President
- Lora Lavender, Vice-president
- Joe Cruise, Secretary
- Blanche Black, Treasurer

The many friends of Fred Cothren will be sorry to learn of the death of his mother the 25th of April. The funeral services were held in the Nashville church Sabbath.

George Stephenson, Ivan Crowder, and Elton King motored to Florida the week-end of the 20th to visit friends and relatives.

Miss Eva Maude Wilson spent several days of last week visiting friends in Memphis, Tennessee.

PLAN NOW TO ATTEND SUMMER SCHOOL.

Term begins June 3 and closes August 1.

It was the chapel hour. The Rambler had arrived just in time for a So-Ju-Conian program. He listened eagerly as Bernice Meacham was speaking.

"There are formal porches, informal porches, and each kind lends its characteristic touch to the building of which it is a part. There are square porches and round porches, long, short, tall, and low porches. The porch is the distinguishing feature of its possessor. In reality, the porch tells whether or not the owner is industrious. If his porch is dilapidated and worn out, we immediately label him as shiftless. If it is only half completed, we label him as industrious if progress has not been suspended too long.

"Porches are made for use and beauty, and for the most part ornament the buildings inhabited by mankind. The deck of a ship is in reality its porch, the observation platform of the de luxe train is its porch, the running board of our modern automobile is its porch.

"A front porch of lovely design and perfect scale is like a beautiful hand held out in welcome. Porches are the first to impress us and the last to be forgotten. So-Ju-Conians, let's make our porch as the beautiful hand held out in welcome to the visitors who come to Collegedale."

The Rambler was deep in thought. "If only the readers of our Scroll could know how very much we need a porch for our dormitory," he murmured, half aloud, "I am sure they would be willing to send us at least a dollar to help make this possible."

"The greatest troubles I ever had were the ones that never came."

ADVENTIST PIONEER STARTS BOOK WORK

True, George King is dead, but the vision that he obtained from the Lord to circulate the printed page has never been lost by the youth of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. It was over half a century ago, in 1881, that George King, after he had proved himself to be an utter failure in the ministry, brought an absolutely new idea to the General Conference men, the idea of selling our literature.

George King had a vision, a vision of a lost world. He saw that there were men and women who could never be reached by Seventh-day Adventist school teachers, doctors, or preachers. Yet they must be warned. George King had heard from the lips of Mrs. E. G. White the words: "God will have men who will venture anything and everything to save souls. Those who will not move until they can see every step of the way clearly before them, will not be of advantage at this time to forward the truth of God. There must be workers now who will push ahead in the dark as well as in the light, who will hold up bravely under discouragements and disappointed hopes, yet work on with faith."

With this stirring message in his heart, George King determined to go out and sell our literature, and thus support himself. In a little while he saw souls coming into the truth as a result of his labors. From that time to this, thousands of souls have been won to this message through the work of the faithful colporteurs. Colporteuring has advanced until Elder I. H. Evans has said, "There is no branch of the work that is doing any more, so far as I know, to bring the people into the truth, than is the distribution of our literature."

Alumni Association

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot?"

A letter to Menton Medford from John Duge, Class of '31, will be of interest to our readers.

"I know that the So-Ju-Conians will put their campaign over in a big way this year. They always do. They know no stopping place except the goal for which they set out. I should like to be there to help. As it is, I am going to do my share of the 'hollering' in California.

The project this year is a good one, and we want to see it succeed.

"More and more I am convinced that Southern Junior College is a school of which we may justly be proud. I am glad to be a graduate of it. Don't think for a moment that I fail to take advantage of every opportunity to let people know that I am from there."

A Quiet Corner Wherein We May Continue To Enjoy The Sweet Influence Of The Friday Evening Vesper Hour.

"They that feared the Lord spake often one to another."

There is a story of a canary that was put into a cage of sparrows. Soon its song was gone and it was twittering like a sparrow.

One vital reason why our students should be faithful in church attendance and in fellowship with their Christian associates is that they are thereby kept keyed up to their natural note. There are few, even of saints, who can survive continuous, complete immersion in the world. Ere they know it, they have lost their clear, sweet song of faith, and are twittering like the world's sparrows.

Our vesper services, chapel exercises, and other religious appointments are designed to act as tuning forks to keep our spirituality up to concert pitch. Here, under the inspiring touch of God's harpists, we may catch the pure, true note of the harp of heaven, and may detect in quiet meditation any discordant note in our lives that reveals that we are out of harmony with heaven.

In close, dear fellowship with Thee and with Thy children we would walk, O Lord, that Thy radiant likeness may be mirrored in us, and Thy song be ever on our lips. Amen. H. J. Klooster.
MEN WHO MATTER

The discerning eye must perceive that the men who matter most are not the jockeys, criminals, movie stars, politicians, and athletes to whom the newspapers give the greatest publicity; but rather those obscure souls who are doing their bit day by day to build better characters into men.

The consecrated ministers, the godly teachers, the earnest writers—those who are so often lampooned in the press, on the stage, and at the pictures—they are the ones who, by strengthening the moral foundations, are making a continuance of civilization possible. They are the salt of the earth, preserving it from the consequences of its follies.

H. J. Klooster.
As the seniors gathered in front of the boys' dormitory last Wednesday afternoon, it was with eager anticipation that they looked forward to the entertainment to be provided by the juniors. After a picture of the combined classes had been taken by Elton King, Mr. Woods, the junior sponsor, led the hikers down the road toward Ooltewah. But the hike was a short one, as the seniors spied two large trucks waiting for them in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hickman. The site selected by the juniors was the beautiful Lake Ocoee, situated in the heart of the mountains. After an afternoon of boating and ball, the picnickers gathered for a delicious supper and an entertaining program. Everyone returned to the college feeling that the afternoon was one of the merriest of the year.

We were happy to have Professor E. C. Waller of Pisgah as our guest last week.

An informal dinner for the school family was held in the dining-room last Sunday evening at six-o'clock. The tables were artistically arranged, and soft candle light lent a mellow glow to the atmosphere. A short program of music and readings followed the dinner.

The first of the canning for the season has been started, with approximately two hundred gallons of spinach as a result of the first two days of labor. Mr. Carl Romans will be in charge of the cannery for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Collins have accepted the call to connect with the Fountain Head Sanitarium in Tennessee.

A meeting of the College Board was held at the school May 2.

Mrs. Clarence Field of Arpin, Wisconsin, is spending some time at Collegedale with Elder and Mrs. F. W. Field.

A PRAYER

AS THE SCHOOL YEAR CLOSES

Eternal Father, Thou whose love endureth unto all generations, lift up the light of Thy countenance upon us, and bestow upon teachers and students alike Thy benediction, ere we go forth from this school.

We remember before Thee in penitence and humility of spirit the blessings of this school year that we have received with too little gratitude, and have kept with too little care—the difficulties and trials in which courage has deserted us, and our faith has failed; the opportunities we have neglected, which come not back again.

And we remember also with infinite thankfulness all that has enriched and ennobled our lives—the good gifts we have been permitted to treasure up, the dear friendships which have blessed our days, the lasting gains of knowledge and wisdom, the higher aims and worthier pleasures which are ours.

In these fast fleeting moments of the closing year, make known to us Thy will, and help us to follow Thee joyfully with a perfect heart. Arm these students, we pray Thee, against sudden temptations in the summer that lies before. If any should be cowardly, blessed Lord, may Thy look of love call them back to repentance; and bind us with ever deepening and ever purifying loyalty to Jesus Christ.

We are sure that our readers will wish to become acquainted with Miss Irma Watt who comes to us as head of the Department of Commerce. She received her A. B. degree from Union College, and is now completing the work for her A. M. degree from the University of Nebraska. She has had several years of experience as instructor in the Bayard City Schools in Nebraska. We welcome Miss Watt to the staff of Southern Junior College.
Whenever you go out-of-doors draw the chin in, carry the crown of the head high, and fill the lungs to the utmost. Drink in the sunshine, greet your friends with a smile, and put soul into every handclasp. Do not fear being misunderstood, and never waste a minute thinking about your enemies. Try to fix firmly in your mind what you would like to do, and then, without violence of direction, you will move straight to the goal. Keep your mind on the great and splendid things you would like to do, and as the days go gliding by, you will find yourself unconsciously seizing upon the opportunities that are required for the fulfillment of your desire, just as the coral creature takes from the running tide the elements it needs. Picture in your mind the able, earnest, useful person you desire to be, and the thought you hold is hourly transforming you into that particular individual. Thought is supreme. Preserve a right mental attitude—the attitude of courage, frankness, and good cheer. To think rightly is to create. All things come through desire, and every sincere prayer is answered. We become like that on which our hearts are fixed. Carry your chin in and the crown of your head high.

The members of the school family were happy to welcome the many visitors who came to attend the Commencement exercises at Collegedale the week-end of May 18.

The members of the junior and senior decorating committees arranged the platform of the auditorium with trelliswork, flowers, and ferns. The motto and the aim were printed on scrolls. Two large urns, the gift of the senior class, held large bouquets of the class flower.

The Consecration sermon, Friday evening, was given by Professor J. C. Haussler. The response from the seniors and juniors expressed their heartfelt thanks for the opportunities that had been theirs during their days spent at Collegedale.

Elder R. J. Sype of Meridian, Mississippi, was the speaker for the Baccalaureate service, Sabbath morning. By the use of many beautiful illustrations, he emphasized the theme of the motto and the aim, "Service for Others."

Saturday evening, May 18, the college orchestra, with Professor D. Robert Edwards as the director, presented a program of unusual interest.

The senior class program Sunday morning was followed by a stirring address from Elder F. D. Nichol of the Review and Herald Publishing Association.

Three honors diplomas were awarded this year: one to Irma Storey, valedictorian of the class; one to Vivian Boyd, class secretary; and one to Roger MacMaiden, because of superior scholarship during their college days.

At the time the scholarships for the coming year were awarded, the name of Robert Andrews was read as the one representing his class. The scholarships for the other schools are as follows:

Mattie Mae Carter, Miami Junior Academy
Evelyn Linderman, Meridian, Mississippi
Arvel McAlexander, Fletcher, North Carolina
Irma Osteen, Forest Lake Academy
Beatrice Leach, Lawrenceburg, Tennessee
Vera Noss, Nashville Jr. Academy
Catherine Scroggins, Covington, Kentucky
Beatrice Kinsman, N. A. N. I.

Sunday afternoon Mr. Stork and his aeroplane were kept busy, as many of the students went to the municipal airport in Chattanooga to take rides, and view the campus from the air.

Miss Irma Storey was happy to have her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Storey, of Columbus, Georgia, her brother, Frank, and her sister, Betty, as her commencement guests.

Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Coolidge of Greeneville, Tennessee, attended the graduation exercises of their son, Everett.

Mrs. R. C. Thomson of Jacksonville, Florida, is visiting the twins, Ella Mae and Thelma.

Pastor H. E. Snide, instructor of religious education and history at the college, will attend the teachers' summer school at Pacific Union College.

Miss Mabert Hinton will spend the summer at her home in Wilmington, North Carolina.

Professor and Mrs. J. C. Haussler and June have motored to the West, where Professor Haussler will connect with the faculty of Walla Walla College for the coming year. Mrs. Jennie Taylor accompanied them as far as Boulder, Colorado.
Miss Ellen Anderson left Wednesday to spend the summer months with friends and relatives in San Diego, California.

Miss Pearl Hall will continue her studies this summer at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, and will receive her A. M. Degree.

We are happy to learn in a telegram from Elder F. W. Field that Mrs. Field successfully underwent an operation at the St. Thomas Hospital, Nashville, and is now on the road to recovery.

Monday evening, May 20, President H. J. Klooster delivered the Commencement address at the Pisgah Institute, and is now attending the Florida camp meeting at Maitland, Florida.

Roger Mae Maiden is enjoying a short vacation in Atlanta, Georgia, before the opening of the summer school session, June 3.

The workers of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference are busy making plans for the coming camp meeting which is to begin Friday, May 24.

The evening of May 21, Lona Crittenden and Harvey Williams were united in marriage, Elder T. R. Huxtable officiating. The place chosen for the wedding was the lawn between North Hall and the administration building. Those of the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams, Everett Barrett, and Audrey Klaus. Marilyn Olmstead acted as flower girl. The reception was held at the home of the sister of the bride.

Miss Louise Sisk is spending several days in Canton, Georgia, with Ann Brooke

Bertha Lee Braddock is happy to have her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Braddock of Miami, Florida, spend some time with her at Collegedale.

Evelyn Anderson was happy to welcome her parents, her brother, and her sister-in-law as her week-end guests.

Marjorie Fields has been spending several days at the college with her sister, Grace.

Mrs. Talbot Boyd came from Griffin, Georgia, to be with her daughter, Vivian, at the time of her graduation.

A few lines from Mr. Honesto C. Pascual of the Philippine Union College, Manila, Philippine Islands, will be of interest to our readers: "For some time I have been receiving your school paper, the Southland Scroll, and I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks and gratitude to you for sending copies of it to me. I find it very interesting, and the things written therein are entertaining as well as instructive. We do not have a school paper in this college at present, but we are planning to have one next school term. Your paper has been an inspiration to me to be a booster for the idea."

Alumni Association

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot?"

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind,
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And auld lang syne."

Sunday afternoon, May 19, twenty-two alumni of Southern Junior College, remembering the acquaintance of old, gathered in the parlor of North Hall for the annual session of the Alumni Association.

Chairman T. R. Huxtable, Class of '22, opened the meeting by welcoming those present, among whom were Mrs. Mona Deyo-Strickland and Myrtle Maxwell, Class of '24; George N. Fuller, Class of '25; Mrs. Dorothy Peppers-Mouchon, Walter B. Clark, and Mrs. Ethel Dart, Class of '27; Eva Maude Wilson and Eulala White, Class of '30; Ruth Ingram and Arline Chambers, Class of '31; James Chambers and Martyn Ingram, Class of '33; Gordon Burdick and Menton Medford, Class of '34; Marion Reiber, Lynne Suduth, Lowell Byers, and Quinnette Maxwell, Class of '35.

The report of the nominating committee, presented by the secretary, Mrs. Mouchon, was read and adopted as follows:

T. R. Huxtable, President.
Eva Maude Wilson, Vice-president.
Martyn Ingram, Secretary.
Eric Lundquist, Treasurer.

After a discussion as to whether the policy of giving scholarships each year should continue, it was voted that during 1935-36 no scholarships be given, and that the debt of the Association be paid. It was further voted that each member present write to members of his class whose addresses were known, in order to create interest in the Association.

In response to the welcome given by President H. J. Klooster to the Class of '35, Lowell Byers, president, pledged himself and the members of his class as loyal supporters of the Association.

After the remainder of the business had been discussed, a delicious lunch was served, and the song, “Blest Be the Tie that Binds,” was sung as the meeting adjourned.

Martyn Ingram, Secretary.

“It is only the ignorant who despise education.”
