DEDICATION

As a sincere Christian he has, by his own example, inspired us to live better lives. As a minister he has given us a glimpse of the task that lies before us and has fired us with the enthusiasm to accomplish this task. As a counselor he has helped us when we were uncertain, cheered us when we were unhappy, and has made plain God's plan for our lives. As a teacher he has taught us the principles of Christ-like living in a selfish world. As a friend he laughs with us, sympathizes with us, and understands us. He is honest, kind, patient, friendly, and always willing to help. Because of all these things and many more, he has endeared himself to us, and he will always hold a place in our memories.

Thus it is that we proudly dedicate this year's Southern Memories to our beloved Elder Banks.

PROLOGUE

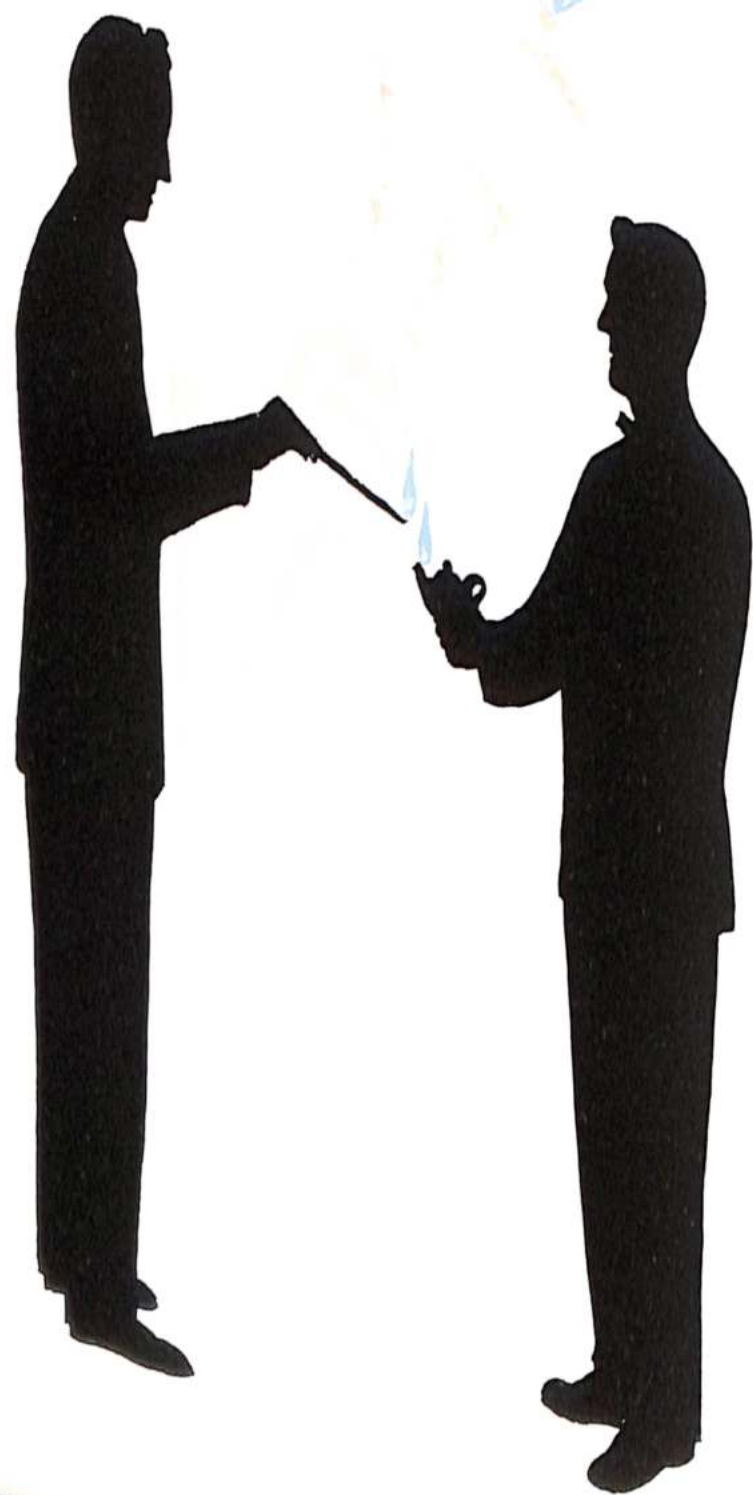

When you meander through these pages you will see reflected in them the hopes, dreams, and ideals of the students of Southern Missionary College. The light of truth, we believe, is given by God to our teachers, who in turn kindle a tiny flame in the lamps of their students. Throughout the coming years we shall cherish and share this flickering light until the world is ablaze with the message of God's love and the hope of His soon return.

THE PURCHASING POWER OF EDUCATION AND FREEDOM

In Joshua 24:15 is reported a challenge made by one of God's most able men to his people whom he had led and taught for a quarter of a century. The aged hero, whose courage was sufficient to render a minority report as a member of the famous twelve-man spy committee, again cast all fear of consequences to the winds. "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." He well knew the powerful influence of the Amorites "in whose land he dwelt." But he was confident that the result of God's education and constant guidance would direct their choice—and it did.

The busiest words in the troubled world today are "Freedom" and "Peace." I sincerely believe that both of these worth-while and universal objectives have their real foundation in education—Christian education. The only real freedom we have is the freedom of choice, and Christian education, of the Southern Missionary variety, teaches us how to make eternal choices. Surely freedom is not divisible whether it be so-called freedom of speech, religion, assembly, or something else. Long ago we learned the axiom, "The whole is equal to the sum of all the parts"; and, if we lose or deliberately disregard one part, the Master Teacher has told us we have fallen short. Christian education teaches us how to make life's choices. The background or precept and example gives us knowledge to weigh one alternative against another.

Last fall the United States Government urged its young men and women to return to school, using a real material appeal, backed by national statistics that proved buying power is related to education—yes, formal education that can be measured by high school grades. The more schooling, the more sales. The statistics state that in a given metropolitan area of 100,000 to 250,000 population, where the average adult has completed eight years of schooling, the retail sales amounted to $835.00 per adult. In another area of the same population with educational average of 11 to 12 years, the retail sales averaged $1,076.00. Again we are reminded that "The highest price paid for education is paid by him who has none." Nature abhors a vacuum. In place of education and its noble fruitage, we find ignorance, superstition, economic need, and lack of privileges, which bring about spiritual and cultural deficiencies. The kind of peace and freedom the world needs is the kind that originates in the individual heart of the man or woman who is inspired by the Author of Christian education. Money and time spent in college is the best possible investment in this wonderful economic age. It is the small cultural college like ours that still gives our nation four-fifths of the leaders of all branches of national life. Later in the same chapter, Joshua 24:22, the great professor of practical theology said, "Ye are witnesses against yourselves that ye have chosen you the Lord, to serve Him. And they said, we are witnesses."

Kenneth A. Wright, President

DEAN'S MESSAGE

Today I was thinking back over this school year, trying to pick out the most interesting and satisfying experience. Perhaps, since I am a teacher, my viewpoint was prejudiced. At any rate, from the legion of pleasant memories there emerged above all others the picture of a class in session. Most clearly in focus was the face of a student whose knit brow and squinted eyes indicated the serious thought he was giving to an idea just expressed by the teacher. Behind him a tilted head and quizzical expression bore witness that another young man was weighing carefully the proposition which the professor had made. Near the back of the room was a raised hand, and over in the corner another. Into my ears came the quiet hum of whispered comments and above it the voice of a learner who was half objecting, half thinking out loud. To me, this is the best memory of 1955—preeminently a memory of learning experiences.

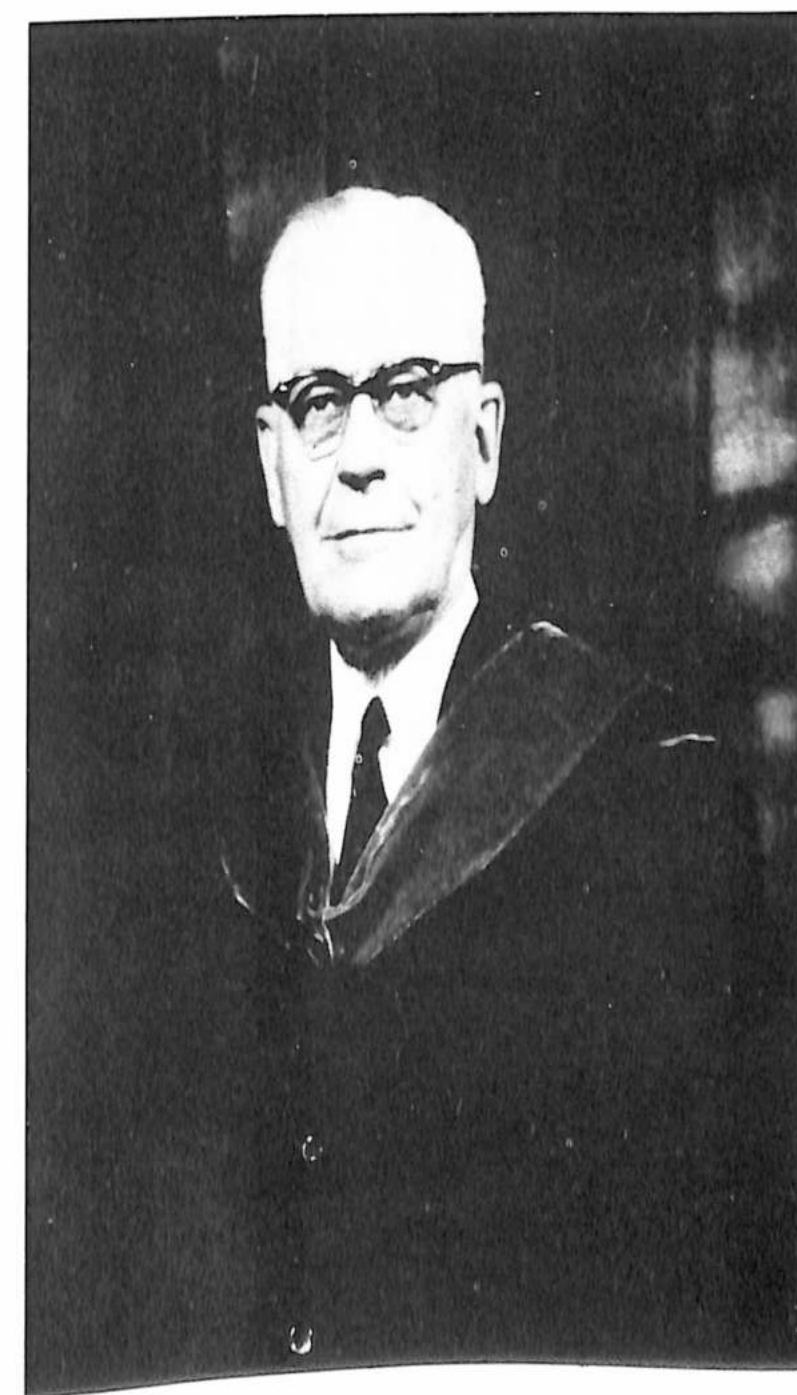

I like to think of this college as consisting, not of a dichotomy of faculty and students, but of a community of scholars and students who together are seeking to learn about the world in which they live and about the God who created it and them. We desire our college to be a place full of ideas so that young minds may be stimulated by them. We want it to be a place to transmit the accumulated wisdom of the ages so that young people do not have to start from rock bottom in their search for the meaning of life. We want it to be a place where spiritual values and Christian ideals are inculcated and where youth may develop a sterling character that is able to deal seriously and unafraid with the difference between what is and what ought to be. I sincerely hope that Southern Missionary College has meant all this to you; and that above, or at least equal to, the memories of pleasant social occasions, you will recall with gratitude the new intellectual vistas that opened before you this year.

"Where there is no vision the people perish." Southern Missionary College has its dreamer of dreams and seer of visions. Ever and always, when we have begun to "catch up" to one of his many visions, he has left us far behind, pioneering new fields, opening new plans, fixing our eyes upon the lure of his distant gleam. From the campus planting of dogwood trees to the classroom planting of ideas we have felt the influence of his high idealism.

Doctor Ambrose Suhrie has brought to us a great wealth of experience, matured by years of purposeful service. To this background he has added the practical idealism of prophetic guidance through Ellen G. White, which he understood and appreciated as only a man of his caliber can. As a result he has become a pioneer in Seventh-day Adventist education. Faculty-administration relationships, faculty organization, student-faculty relations, student government, the cultural element in education, mastery of our mother-tongue—these are a few of the many things that have responded in part to the magic of his touch and foresight. His influence has resulted in boosting Southern Missionary College to the forefront of Seventh-day Adventist colleges in many respects. Southern Missionary College needs Doctor Suhrie. May his unrelenting energy, his persevering courage, and his high vision push us on, prod us on, and lure us until we, as a school of standards, fulfill the high purposes he holds up for us.

Ambrose L. Suhrie Ph.D.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

IF YOU WOULD SUCCEED

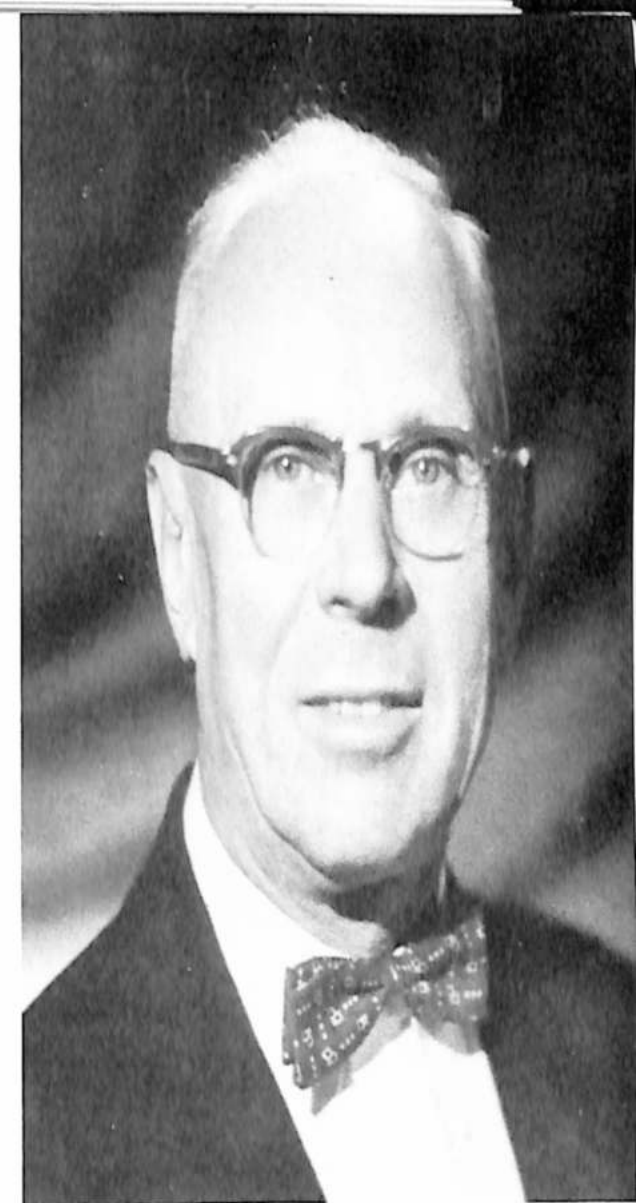

You are a normal youth. You look upon the successful and wish for yourself the same wealth, prominence, and happiness. You may observe that one prominent and wealthy man is happy and generous while another is self-centered, greedy, and unhappy. The important thing to understand is why this is true—to observe that the difference is due to the route to financial success followed by these men. Wealth may be the product of greed, but it also may come to those of noble character. Happiness, however, comes only to the latter.

Professor Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College, in making a broad survey of the traits most necessary for financial success found in his replies that character not only stood first but was voted three times more important than judgment, technical knowledge, or understanding. You have been aware that character is important, but did you stop to think before that it has a cash value—that it is the most necessary characteristic for financial success?

Some through lust for power and wealth achieve same but are unhappy. Others by seeking to serve and abiding by the Golden Rule find promotion, success, and wealth bestowed upon them. These are the only truly happy people. They have found that by seeking happiness one does not find it, for it is derived only as a by-product of service. Others find that by striving for wealth they may secure it, but find it void of happiness.

Student, if you would succeed, seek not for thyself, but "seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." The "adding" may come slowly, but happiness and satisfaction will accrue to you daily.

Charles Fleming, General Manager of Southern Missionary College and Associated Industries and Enterprises.

LIGHT FOR THE LAMPS OF YOUTH

Southern Missionary College is a liberal arts institution. Here the tapers from many Lamplighters strive to set aglow the lamps of youth. Here too, it is the hope that the glow of inspiration will warm the hearts of many and cause them to go forth inspired to do great things for God.

It was Arnold Bennett who said: "The manner in which any single ray of light, one single precious hint, will clarify and energize the whole mental life of him who receives it, is among the most wonderful and heavenly of intellectual phenomena." This is in keeping with words of inspiration from Mrs. E. G. White that "every gleam of thought, every flash of the intellect is from the Light of the World." It is only as we sense the significance of this great truth that we come to recognize the superiority of Christian education over secular education, and are thus motivated to sacrifice for it.

Here at Southern Missionary College, much in the way of education is the result of real struggle. Many students must work at hard labor to secure money for expenses. Somehow I cannot feel sorry for them, for I am persuaded that character is the result of struggle and that education is self-effort resulting in growth.

The Bible tells the story of God's prophet, Elijah, standing at the mouth of a cave whence he had fled. He saw disaster after disaster, hurricane, earthquake, and fire sweep through the mountains, but none of these seemed to open his mind to God. After all this was over "a still small voice" sounded in his soul. There was more persuasive power in God's whisper to light the mind than in all the material forces of nature. Thus youth who light their lamps of knowledge at the Lamp of God attain heights of wisdom and knowledge unknown to those who do not know Him.

May your experiences at S.M.C. and your memory of them lead you to a personal acquaintance with Him who is the Source of all Light.

COMMITTEES

The purpose of the Student Association of Southern Missionary College is to provide Seventh-day Adventist young people with training and experience in Christian, democratic leadership. Our student organization is characterized by its carefully integrated program of student-faculty participation in policy making for the school. This program operates through the Student Association with its Administrative Council and Student Senate, its four class organizations and three forums, its three periodicals, and its permanent committees, each having jurisdiction over a section of college life and activity.

Each of these groups meets regularly with its own faculty sponsors, and recommendations voted by the standing student committees may be steered through a number of official channels to the student senate, to the corresponding faculty committee, to the President or Dean of the college, or to other units, such as the President's Council. Members of these student committees frequently meet with parallel faculty groups, where student counsel is sought and often followed. In harmony with the objectives of the Student Association and of the college, the Coordinator of Student activities guides and counsels all leaders in the organization and seeks to integrate their activities with the total school program.

STUDENT EVANGELISM

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Guinn

On November 27, 1954, Mr. and Mrs. Robert White were baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church as a result of soul-winning efforts put forth by students of Southern Missionary College. For many months Bob East (graduate of 1954) and Jack Martz (graduate of 1953) held Bible studies with the Whites and with Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Guinn. This year, after both of the students had graduated, all four of these people gave their hearts fully to the Lord and adopted the faith of their young instructors.

Today Jack Martz is continuing his service for the Master as a minister in the Carolina conference, and Bob East is a pastor-teacher in Louisville, Kentucky.

"How far yon little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world!"

EPILOGUE

Those of you who have walked these halls
have found in their unpretentious
classrooms the light of Truth.

All too soon the year will be gone
 Time has flown so smoothly and swiftly across the razor edge
 we call the present

that graduation
 will presently close forever
 the experience of the year that is passing.

Your taper
has been lighted at the Source
of all light.

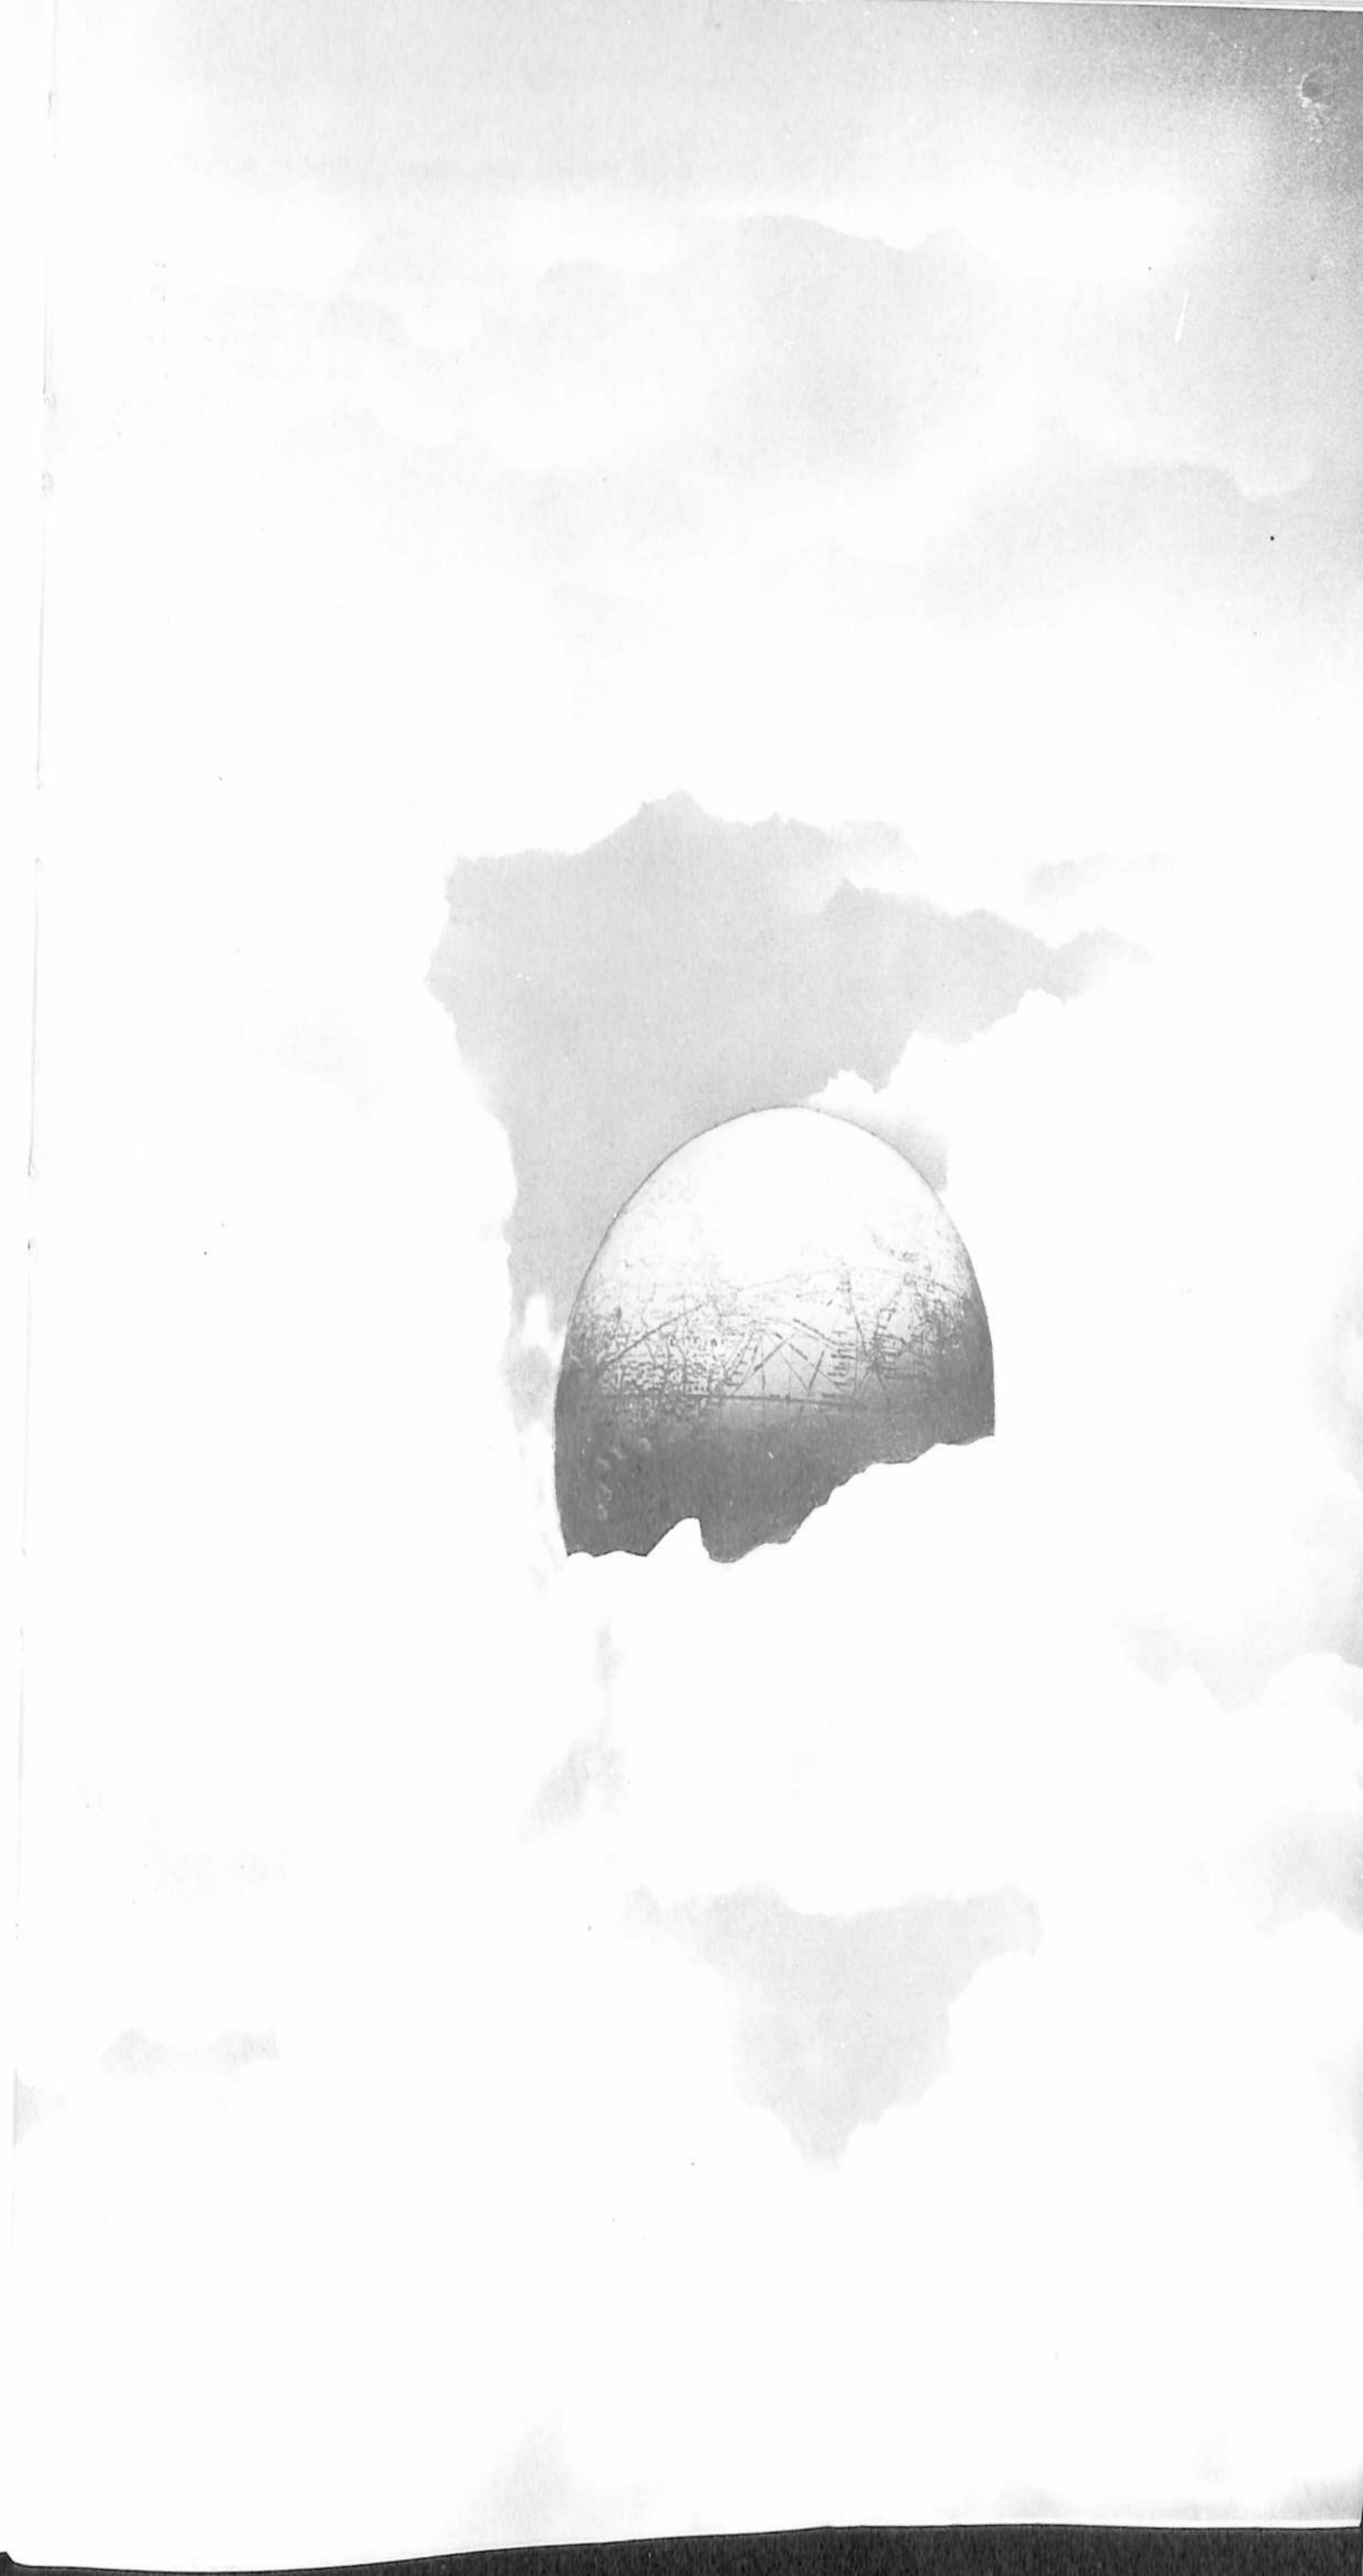

Go
forth now

and carry your glowing taper into earth's remotest corners.
Thus will we hasten
the day
when God Himself

shall rend the heavens,
and the light
of His eternal glory
shall cover them
that are His . . .

"And the earth
shall be filled with the . . . glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.

Students learn nursing procedures by practical demonstrations and classroom practice under competent supervision. Early in the nursing program at the clinical division, the student nurse will put into practice what she had learned in the classroom and will have the satisfaction of knowing her skill has benefited patients.

To Make Man Whole

Fifty years ago the College of Medical Evangelists opened its doors for service. For the past half-century its students have sought and found an educational environment which magnifies the fundamental principles of religion, science, and culture. The resultant Christian philosophy is personified in the lives of the graduates who today serve around the world "to make man whole."

Youth of the Advent Movement need the REVIEW. Keep abreast with the thrilling mission stories from the far corners of the earth. All cannot go overseas as missionaries, but all, whether at home or abroad, need the encouraging and faith-building influence of the REVIEW. "The good old REVIEW has been a golden chain running through these many years, linking the Advent people and their work together in one united world movement."—W. A. Spicer.

Let the YOUTH'S INSTRUCTOR help solve your problems. It is the one youth's paper prepared especially to help answer spiritual, Scriptural, and social questions. Its writers are youth leaders, teachers, ministers, doctors, missionaries, and young people like yourself.
