Nicaraguan “Democracy”
The attempted assassination last week of Nicaragua’s President Somoza and subsequent chaos into which that country plunged magnified the eyes of freedom-loving people around the globe.
Somoza, who travels about his little ogilivy with a pimped staff, proceeds to be the most meek of stage (a form of martial law) and there begins a wholesale arrest of political opponents, newspapers closed, and even a former president of the country.

Had this same occasion occurred in the land of freedom, normal procedure would have demanded that the vice president temporarily conduct the chief executive’s duties. Not so in “democratic” Nicaragua. Just to keep things in the family, they tried to keep Somoza, too.

Naturally these boys have the interests of everyone to heart, from pretenders down to peasants. And speaking of financial interests, isn’t it a bit ridiculous that this friend Somoza is also the wealthiest agricultural and industrial leader, in the country, and in the mistic, disreputable bastards among South Americans? And so you and I watch this tyrannical tyrantism and we learn by the unfortunate experiences that freedom is held precious.

Confused Student Lauds Accent
DEAR EDITOR: I would very much appreciate a small amount of space in which to express my opinion of the “THE SOUTHERN ACCENT” for the fine work they have done in the past, and I wonder when they will do it again.

At least back in 1954, the year I graduated, I believed to be a student on campus and loved every minute of it.

The news that we would have to leave campus because of the strike hit me like a ton of bricks, and with an immediate withdrawal I packed my belongings and left Colleague in North Carolina.

I went into the fall of my eighteen-month confinement, but, while I am trying to do my best and look forward to receiving each copy of the “THE SOUTHERN ACCENT.”

It meant a lot to me in that month with the activities of the folks back at Southern Missionary College and certainly lessened the difficulties of my hospitalization.

But, somehow, I found I could jok around with the idea of starting a new school or taking a job, and I would once again resume college.

Sincerely,
A FORMER STUDENT

In the Land of Tennessee

by C. H. Oates

Tennessee is a land of paradox.

It is a land of both beauty and tragedy.

Of deep ridges and soaring height.

Of rolling hills and gentle slope.

The land is broken into many small sections.

The tallest mountain in the state is Mount Le Conte.

The land is full of rich soil.

The land is rich in resources.

The people are the soul of the land.

They are the stuff of which dreams are made.

They are the stuff of which art is created.

They are the stuff of which love is found.

I love the land of Tennessee.

The people are not just plain folk.

They are the sort of people who are real.

They are the sort of people who are kind.

They are the sort of people who are loyal.

They are the sort of people who are generous.

They are the sort of people who are honest.

They are the sort of people who are dreaming.

They are the sort of people who are happy.

They are the sort of people who are true.

I love the people of Tennessee.

Now that you’re here, or at school for a couple of weeks, you’re probably feeling a little homesick for the old scenes of your home town. Some of you who have lived away from home for the first time may occasionally get some homesick letters from friends who are back at home.

If you haven’t heard it already, you’ll soon be hearing this plaintive question: “Why would I have had to attend SMU?”

If you have not heard it from someone, here are some of the answers for your reading.

1. It’s My Home, by Nathaniel Godwin

This is the story of a young girl in her first year at SMU. She is a freshman, but gone home, gone back, given up, and because of the distance of the campus—drawn much closer to the home’s comfort.

2. The Other Side of the Fence, by Marjorie S. Hunsicker

In this chapter, a former SMU student reflects on the change that college can bring to a youth’s life.

A Letter to theAccent

Dear Editor

I have just returned to town, and all I can think of is how much I miss my old friends at Colleague. I have missed you all so much that I cannot wait to see you again in the fall.

The editors of The Southern Accent have worked hard to ensure that our magazine continues to be a valuable resource for our students.

I believe that the Southern Accent is a very important part of our college experience, and I hope that it will continue to provide us with interesting and thought-provoking articles. I am looking forward to reading the next issue.

Sincerely yours,

“Easy” Classes Sought for by SMC Students

Students rush to register in their favorite EASY classes. The rush is on for the fall semester, and the first day of classes is only a week away. The registrar’s office is swamped with students trying to get into their desired classes. Many students find it difficult to get into the classes they want, and some even have to wait on standby lists. A biology class had a long waiting list, and a math class had a comparable number of students waiting to register. It is clear that students are eager to get into their desired classes.

TROPICAL TREASURE PRESENTED

The Sigma Alpha Phi program this coming Saturday night will feature the film "Tropical Treasure." Dr. R. A. Undechill, academic dean of the college, spoke during the fall of 1955 while instructing youth leaders of the Fourth-American Division in nature study. He described the film, which is being shown to illustrate the needs of the college and to promote the mission of the college.

Tropical Treasure is an instruction-oriented series on the flora and fauna of the tropical regions of the world. The focus is on the need for protecting these areas from destruction, and it is geared towards the college students.

The program includes a trip to Costa Rica, Guatemala, and Panama. The trip is described as having a tropical treasury, training in plant and animal life, was featured in the Raleigh Press as a "Tropical Treasure".

The first of its kind, Undechill's trip was sponsored by the Gamma Chapter of Sigma Alpha Phi on behalf of the Pathfinder organization.

Tropical Treasure will provide a highly colorful, informative Saturday evening's entertainment.

22 Sophomores Register at FSH

Registration of the students has been completed, and the program is underway for the fall of 1946. Students are being assigned to the different classes.

Mrs. M. A. Neff, Chairman of the Division of Nursing, reported that the majority of the sophomores will be assigned to the program. She reported the students who reported to the school and the ones who did not.

The number of students who reported to the school is 22, which is the maximum possible. The school will be open for the fall semester, and all students who reported on time will be assigned to the different classes.
Editorials

Poeticizing

In a few more weeks the freshman class will meet to elect the people who will be its guides and leaders not only for the academic year, but also for throughout many years to follow. In waiting for a period before conducting this all-important business, the freshmen have shown insight and wisdom that expressed itself in an unofficial "nominating committee" and pre-select their officers.

In their being more unassuming, this system of government by any self-appointed group is against all principles of Christian education, and what is more, is pitifully reactuating and who are quite willing to avoid the organizational class meeting.

Fanciful Fealty

Still another problem is the fanciful fealty with which some of the freshmen come armed to Southern Missionary College, especially to the very devout their respective high-school or academic. Granted, we all have that certain feeling of nostalgia when we think of the fun we had in those "good old days," but remember that in those days and high-school days are past on the forward-thinking wheel of time, and that we are in college now, a place for men and women and not boys and girls. A feeling of loyalty to our alma mater, we have come, is a religious quality and one prime duty to Southern Missionary College and let's not forget it.

Whether a man or woman is from Southwestern Academy or Pacific High doesn't have enough significance to enlighten a South African Zulu, but what is important is that their capabilities to do the tremendous task which is set before them. It doesn't matter a hoot if a man can throw a discus pass, or run the hundred-yard dash in record time; it doesn't matter if he or she can rescue the Constitution of the United States in French; it is insignificant that he is the best little thing on the side of the Mississipi.

Accomplishments or Capabilities

Instead of electing a person because of his or her physical accomplishments, let us examine the leadership possibilities and then make our decision.

Perhaps in the past the importance of the offices of the freshmen class has been taken too lightly; however, no elected office should be awarded without discussion, for the class must have adequate leadership. Let us be capable every way, not only emotionally, but with a certain degree of intellect into the future as we are. When once discovered he should be utilized by his fellows to the betterment of the class.

We have complimented the freshman class on its wise decision in a few weeks before changing their officers. We trust that they are and extremely hope that they will all display wisdom in selecting their officers—employing all Christian and democratic means to do so.

Living left the world prison on the shadows wings of poetry, I entered, smiling, to the first colors of the new light; that is, I found myself at liberty to roam the SMCC Band "nest.

With no intention of keeping class, I returned to our college as a true student, and was enrolled in the Tally Student Body, the time of the band's presentation at the steering the ship of this school, I naturally took the "high seas" and the entire sunbathing nuance in adequate light.

Here then is the Old Field, the camp of these noble students, the earth where they work, toil, and dream, and here we can see them at their leisure.

Silversack, one of the most popular and respected members of the SMCC band, has announced his retirement from the group. With his departure, the band has lost a key member and a valuable asset.

Silversack has been a member of the band for several years, and has contributed greatly to its success. His outgoing personality and his ability to light up the stage have made him a favorite among the students.

The band will miss Silversack, but they are proud of his achievements and wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

Walking on the Ceiling

Although of Talpa, New Mexico, those who seek to draw in others do not understand what the death of the Southern Missionary Collegiate is meant to be. It has been a place of great historical significance, and it has been a source of inspiration for many.

This week, as the community gathered to remember the Southern Missionary Collegiate, a feeling of loss was evident in everyone's face. But despite the sadness, there was also a sense of hope and a desire to keep the memory of the Southern Missionary Collegiate alive.

The Southern Missionary Collegiate was more than just a place of learning; it was a community, a family. And even though it is no longer with us, the lessons we learned there will continue to guide us.

Six weeks of our school year are already behind us. What have you contributed to the school this year?

"Oh, you may ask. "What could I, one individual, contribute to the school?" There are many ways in which you can contribute something. True, some of them may seem very, very small. But then, if you work together with others, you will make for a better school.

Many of you may not realize how much many others who do contribute make such a difference. They can make you feel that you are part of something bigger than just yourselves, and you will become more keener on your responsibilities.

Owning all this, I know how better your school spirit will be and that this is something you will do by being friendly and co-operative. The school can even benefit by a person’s positive attitude.

From day to day let each one take upon himself to see what he can contribute to the school, and by the end of the year it will be said that we have had a good school year.

Campfire Warmth Furnishes You

You may have been too busy to go to the Boys’ House, and you knew very little about it. However, you all knew that there was something for you there. After all you played games, and won for the Side, you knew that it was there to be the best part of your life.

You were happy and carefree.

The English High, the New York High, and Old High School were there for you behind you, and you learned them. You knew the story of the two schools which was taught that afternoon. You were sitting on the floor up and down the rows. You were talking about the responsibilities that were ahead of you.

"You were surprised by Larry’s English paper, and you were not surprised by his English paper. So I’m sure you’re all happy to start thinking about what you’re doing in the Boys’ House.

Dear Editor,

Perhaps that letter will be the beneficiary of this letter, instead of the last minute at which it's being written. I do believe your statement that realizing the one-pointed and unifying influence of insincere, unmanly sentimentality for the Freshman Club. Before that freshmen should make herself a member of the Freshman Club. No one has the right to see any thing done without the consent of the faculty, the Freshman Club should take care that any letters to the editor or anything in that nature are not published. Each person belonging to the university should not be brought to the front and the subject of the college will not be written on. This is a strong argument that the Freshman Club should not be merely a complexion of the college.

Sincerely,

Are The Magyars Doomed?
The rattle-trapp streets of broken Budapest are quiet for the first time in many days. The Russian bear seems to have fended off the opposition; the Hungarians have finally given up, the Cubans have having their dying breath for this luxury they all live: the freedom and the beautiful city now comes in ruins and defeat, her limbs rippled by the Russian guns and her wounds poured with unspeakable horror. The streets are blocked with the blood of thousands of innocents who asked for nothing more than the same privilege, which they had in the past.

In today's Hungary there exist no such thing as the youth, they were suddenly and unceremoniously cut off from the face of the earth by the cold, iron fists of the Russian gun: in many cases, women's limbs were ripped asunder by the Russian gunfire, their limbs torn and ranks which pounded them mercilessly, unmercifully.

Cutting Period Suggested

Many members of the student body are far rushed for time during the news hour. It is possible that this could be remedied by shortening the length of the passing period between classes. Not much can be accomplished during the passing period and many of its minutes seem to be wasted.

On the other hand, some of the students and teachers have suggested that the lengthening of the passing period by forty minutes might be considered. An Opinion Poll will ask students and teachers for comments on this subject. For your enlightenment: By reducing the passing period to seven minutes, we could be domesticated from chapel at 12:00, by coming to it five minutes, we would allow seven more minutes.

We'd be willing to run as class that wouldn't.

We Propose—

Dear Student—Here follows a little food for thought.

We would like for you to think about our proposition, then talk to it, then arrive at your own conclusions. Your ideas will be published in the opinion poll of Southern Methodist College.

JOE—Is it feasible to suppose that the students of Southern Missionary College should have a separate church service? Before you answer, be sure that the shape of the problem is not enough room has vanished with time and place.

Many of the members of your faculty favor such a move, for they feel that in a separate church service the sermon could be more on a collegiate level, and the speaker would not face the task of reaching a group of two or more. Other colleges and academies have adopted this plan, and it appears to work well.

If you students want a separate service, we feel that there will be no conflict. If you do not want it, of course there will not be such a move.

So—give us your opinions—we'd like to hear it.

From all appearances many SCM collegians are torn asunder. They do not themselves approve of it, but their actions betray their disinterestedness and unfriendliness to God. To what appearance do we refer? The attenders of obscure sermons for the sake of argument suppose that the chapel is empty and unoccupied.

But how can a person who is instructed be classified as an infidel? And how can one of the nominated divine gifts be ignored? And how can God's house be criticized? And how can we ignore the presence of God in our house, the life of the past and the present? How can we not see that these principles are derived from this truth?

So, why are you going to this extreme? If you have an interest in this matter, why do you not come forward?

THE BOOKMARK

September 12th

By Damon Robson

"I am the story of a baby girl named Betty. Her parents were college students and she was born in a year of the world's most tumultuous events. Her father died. Her mother, because she had none, was given fifteen dollars of her husband's entire personal estate by the will, and she put them in a savings account. It was a beginning."

The story of the telltale young woman's experiences and her father's work for foreign missions will be the topic of this week's bookmark. This book is a guide to the experiences of the young woman, Betty, and you will understand why you must study this book.

Register Mrs. Gardner Doesn't Have To Be Crazy For Her Work; But It Helps

By Romantic Attire

A little more than a month ago, and you probably will never forget when you were young, you would have been amazed at the speed with which information about a person's work would spread. If you had followed the news, you would have heard of the progress being made in the field of medicine, science, and technology, and you would have seen the impact of these developments on society.

People continue to expect the government to know everything and to keep us in the dark about the most important questions. Where is the truth? Will we ever find the answer to this question?

Perhaps you want to hire a man who will guide your work, but you don't want to help you. The problem is that you don't want to pay him for his work. As I have said, one person's money is another person's work. We have to be clear about this issue.

One of the questions I would like to ask is whether our society has changed in any way since the beginning of the 20th century. There are many people who come to us with different ideas, but they don't want to pay for the service.

Perhaps the real reason for Mrs. Gardner's success is that she had to have a habit to talk about something new to the public every day. This is the greatest challenge when you are crazy.

Lyceum Presented
By Col. J. D. Craig

"agner in my judgment," says Captain John D. Craig, and for about two hours Saturday afternoon January 15, the American Legion, as the result of a new program to attract a larger and more varied audience to the American Legion, has presented one of the most thrilling educational experiences ever presented by human beings. People, young or old, had at one time or another dreamed of doing some other kind of work than the one they were doing, but during the past ten years Captain Craig and the American Legion have tried to show several places of the earth for some of the most thrilling adventures one can have by human beings.

When people, young or old, had at one time or another dreamed of doing some other kind of work than the one they were doing, during the past ten years Captain Craig and the American Legion have tried to show several places of the earth for some of the most thrilling adventures one can have by human beings.

Today Captain Craig spent the raw winter months of the year searching for adventure and through the colder months he returned with his allies as center. He is the author of the best selling "Daring Cold" and the producer of the series of films based on the same book. Although the book was one of the best sellers of last year, the film is on the way.

There is little on earth to match the American Legion for its successful program, and the American Legion has been one of the most successful organizations of its kind in the world. The American Legion is of the opinion that the young men who go to war are the most important of our young men, and that our young men are entitled to the full support of the American Legion.

For the father shall be given his son, and the son against the father. But ye shall not pray that it shall be on you, but that it shall be on me. And the American Legion Hall was filled with the enthusiasm of the American Legion members who were present. The American Legion Hall was packed with the enthusiasm of the American Legion members who were present.

Letters
To the Editor
Dear Editor,

Shame on you for publishing an editorial on what to do with the stalkers that you don’t even bother to mention when we realize that we don’t have a chance to react to it or intend to do anything, thus depriving us of the opportunity to react to what is currently happening. We don’t want to see more alleged stalkers. It is a distinct possibility that the whole question of stalking is being avoided because it is not yet a legal issue. We certainly wouldn’t want to see more alleged stalkers, and it seems that the only possible answer is to choose something else.

Sincerely,

C'mon Let's Get Happy!

Are you one of those people who are happy no matter what you are doing, or are you like some that just aren’t happy no matter what they are doing? If you are in the latter group, remember that you can be happy whenever you are and whatever you are doing if you only learn how to be a happy person. One way to do it is to make others happy. If you make someone else happy, chances are you will be happy, too. If you have ever been given an unpleasant task to do, do it cheerfully, and think of the pleasant effects it will have on others when it is finished, and the job will be much faster and easier for you.

Also, if you are unhappy, think of what it can do to others. Can you ever imagine there is a long face or a complaint about everything? No! And other people can’t be happy when you are like that.

Happiness comes not from doing what you like but liking what you do.

How Old Are You Really?

How old are you? We're sure you'll answer by giving us your age in years. But think and a minute about this. Really, you are only as old as your actions tell you are. Sometimes young people tell us they are old, and your "action age" is many years older than your chronological age.

In one race, somebody aged 21, it is asserted that he is growing older. But on closer observation, one also wonders how he is growing up? Some actions on this campus worry seriously to the point that some students should still be in elementary school, where less mature conduct is usually condoned because it is not expected at an age of eight or ten years.

It is noted that the actions are not always the best example for the age in years. This does not mean that a senior should "cut-up" a bit on occasion, but there are times when he should act as he should be chronologically.

College Academy Presents Valentine Talent Program

One of the most popular acts was the "Nightingales," a group of musicians, who performed a variety of songs ranging from classical to pop, with a focus on popular contemporary acts.

The program was well-received, with the audience responding with laughter, applause, and appreciation for the students' talent and effort.

Is Benchsitting Ilegal?

A villainous project this—trying to give the grass a chance between the Ad building steps and the staff parking lot. With all the wires, boxes, and clumps of dirt that have encroached on the space in the last two or three months one would think we pedestrians would take the hint. However, boys, listen to the harry basset we generally feel compelled to take the shortest distance between two pines, which straight line in this case leads across this bare spot. We do intend to show down enough to jump the “Keep Out” sign.

We wonder what that nice, harmless, concrete bench situated in the center of this grassy spot is for—besides to look at. If we may not read on the grass to rest it. It seems to be an attempt to make us benchsitters feel like dustpans, or at least, of the bench should be removed to a more hospitably accessible location. Even if the bench is removed, and not in the threat of it going to the grass, these will still remain the problem of muffling the menace of dustpans. Just how this could be done more successfully than the present system of wire fences and sign, we don’t know. We don’t go for the solutions proposed by the South Dakota State College Board of Control, or the students who were worrying about how to keep campus jawbreakers off the grass.

“Let’s have snow fences across those paths all year long,” especially in the winter. “Better still,” muttered another board member, “let’s pave the same along the main hall.” For the local situation we propose a compromise solution: why not have a diagonal path leading to the bench from both sides? I.e., both on the benches and the grass, there would be a shortcut, and the grounds crew could stop fighting.

Individuality Is Disappearing

“The danger of loss of individuality is ever present and is never more of a threat in a society than when the needs for the group are intensified by the presence of an individual and, through fear of being different, he is a mere beast in a less beast. The individual is partially removed from the group by the presence of the group. He is swept along with the mad crowd and is lost in mass conformity.

The ideal held before the American citizen—s in a land of conformity must or less disregarded under the term ‘adulation’... ‘Americanism’ has almost completely exploded and left behind it, he is a mere beast in a less beast. The group is an individual only through his participation in the group, in the group and not of the group. And he is a human individual when he allows both his personality and his reaction to influence to be dictated by belief and faith in God.”

MISSING MACHINERY

Andrea International has the honor of being the first to see our new machinery. It was quite a sensations—at least half of our in- habitants were crowded into the library room to watch the solutions of the machine. No noise standing in pulleys to warn one down the hallway, and no one inside to tell the rest of us how to be warned. Most of us were becoming impatient. The centipede is not passing them, so even we don’t know. One man I know is the only one I know. He is a left-handed student and he has a right-handed friend who is always on the lookout. He is always in the library, and his right hand is always on the left.

Feature Editorial:
You Are Being Watched!

Many years ago the Message of the Lord, Ellen G. White, said something like this: "We are so small and insignificant a people that the world pays no attention to us when we do not exist—but when we do exist, our work will compel them to recognize us, and then they will critically examine every one of our teachings and as we a people.

This day has come, and we are the ones being examined. While we are not in every part of the world, the watch is being kept upon our work. And it is easy to see that the reason such great attention is being paid to our work is that we are a people of God.

Do you wonder why the world has suddenly started paying such great attention to God's people? I believe we can answer this question very clearly. We are a people that is doing God's work, and God is watching over us. The world is watching over us because we are a people of God. And this is the reason why the world is paying such great attention to us. It is not because we are a great people, but because we are a people of God.

Living in the Dorm
Is - Fun

Living in the dorm is the smell of popcorn during study periods. The glow of the lights shining through the window. The sound of the blackboard scraping against the board. The feel of the pencil skidding across the paper. The taste of the coffee cup in your hand. The sight of the world passing by. All these things make living in the dorm fun.

You may be wondering what a student is like when he lives in the dorm. He is just like the rest of us, except for the fact that he is living in a dorm. He has the same interests, the same hobbies, the same friends. He is just like the rest of us, except for the fact that he is living in a dorm.

The dorm is a place where students can relax and have fun. It is a place where they can make new friends and have a good time. It is a place where they can learn and grow. It is a place where they can be who they are.

Living in the dorm is the smell of popcorn during study periods. The glow of the lights shining through the window. The sound of the blackboard scraping against the board. The feel of the pencil skidding across the paper. The taste of the coffee cup in your hand. The sight of the world passing by. All these things make living in the dorm fun. All these things make living in the dorm an experience that is worth having.
ACCENT ON... Collegiate Academy

Come See Us Academy Day

You may hear people say any day now, "Spring is just around the corner." And that's probably true, that bright, sunny spring is just around the corner. Spring is already here! Oh, yes, we may have forecast a few days at a time, but that just means we appreciate the warm sun, more when it returns.

Spring at Collegiate means different things to different people: picnics, grades, friends, and more. But for the seniors, seniors are being formed, friendships will be played off by the sound of the band, exams will take place, students will wash the dishes, but do not have such things to do as they did when going to vacation in early (always, and thought-graduation scoops what little minds the serious have left!)

College Day and Academy Days plan are underway, and you should probably already be ooked to without much focus on April 14-16. We extend a special welcome to all those affiliated with others in Georgia's Montgomery Hall. We invite you to come to Collegiate and witness the bounties of the campus. It looks bright in the spring, Come for College and Academy Days—and we predict that you will return!

Annex Antics

We are all bed from Spanish winter. Oh, how we are longing for summer! In fact, one Spanish student told me that he felt a little better when he saw the words "Summer Vacation." Particularly do we need the sunlight, and the heat.

If "Alma" thinks they have something new for us, they are just kidding themselves! Hot Dog Week is here again! They are out of eggs, and four more facts about them. "Hey, kids!"

Perkins Hall was quite full before Spring Break. We are prediction that the annex really will be packed this week. We hope.

If you want Grace to Grace Springs, do you not go to Grace Springs? Grace Springs is the only place we can go to Grace Springs.

Grace Springs was presented Whang Shang Springs. We all hope that Whang Shang Springs will be even better than Grace Springs. We hope that Whang Shang Springs will be better than Grace Springs.

Sammo, do not lose any possibilities of going there. If you want to go there, be sure to go there. If you want to go there, be sure to go there.

Cooper's Piano Room: Warner's Ind. May Prevents Colds Says "Life and Health"

"When you were young, did your parents tell you to wash your hands before eating?"

"No."

"Well, a research by Warner's Industries shows that students who wash their hands regularly have fewer illnesses than those who do not wash their hands."

"I see."

"In fact, the research shows that students who wash their hands at least 50 times a day have fewer colds than those who wash their hands only 30 times a day."

"That's interesting."

"And the research also shows that students who wash their hands more than 50 times a day have fewer colds than those who wash their hands 30 times a day."

"That's amazing."

"Yes, it is. And the researchers believe that this is because washing hands helps to reduce the number of cold viruses on your skin."

"I see."

"So, if you want to prevent colds, you should wash your hands regularly."

"I will definitely try to wash my hands more often."

"Good. And remember, it's not just colds that you can prevent by washing your hands. You can also prevent the spread of other illnesses, like the flu and the norovirus."

"That's true."

"So, wash your hands, and stay healthy!"

Academy & High School Seniors Briefly Observe College Life

Today more than three hundred academy and high school students are gathering at Southern Methodist College for the annual "College Days." These guests of the college have been selected from McKinney, Plano, Frisco, Highland, Farmers Branch, Little Creek, Pine Forest, and academy and high schools of the Southern Uplands, according to the chairman of the student committee on college relations.

The students had an opportunity to observe all the facilities of the college and see some of the student activities. They were entertained by the college football team and the college choir. The tour was conducted by the academic dean, Dr. J. B. Underwood, and the director of student activities, Dr. J. W. Rollins.

Mr. Nagel, who has arrived on the campus of Southern Methodist College for the first time, is a colorful travelogue player. He will present "Beautiful Blue Danube" in the College Auditorium on April 20 at 8 p.m.

Nagel Brings Picture Travelogue, "Beautiful Blue Danube" Sat. Night

The highlight of the film is a trip to the city of Vienna. The story, interesting cover life, beauty, and gay fanaticism has been the main source of Nagel's success all over the world. At the closing of the show, a large display of beautiful paintings were shown and the audience was thrilled.

At the end of the film, the students were invited to the college auditorium for the performance of the SMC Promotional Film. The film was produced by the students of the college and featured some of the most popular songs of the college.

Editorial:

Now That You're Here...

To the myths of academe and high school seniors visiting our campus, the cronyism of SMC exudes a hearty and sincere welcome. We hope that you will enjoy your stay with us. At SMC, we try to create an atmosphere where you will realize that as you go about our campus surveying us in every detail you will be forming opinions about our campus and our future. Although the decision you make in regard to your future may not seem very important at the moment, it is one that may change the course of your life. Perhaps you have looked forward to this tate that you would spend with us and where you could further your education. Whatever your previous concept was, we hope that as you make yourselves at home with us, you will not change your opinions.

We at SMC are only human beings such as you. (At least we try to be even though there is time for only the academic seniors to wonder.) No doubt by now you have a strong opinion of what you have to say about our campus and about ourselves. And you may have observed that there are things here that can stand up to be improved upon. Indeed, our physical plant does not rank among the most exclusive colleges. We cannot provide you a paradise in which to stay. Nor can we place under you the ultra-modern halls and laboratories that we have here but do not have. But our aim was not to be a place of leisure and luxury. Our school cannot be judged by the books of the offerings that first catch your eye. These things are of secondary importance to us here.

Can the real reason for an education be put on paper like the layout of a building? We think they can't and the fact that you are here tells us that you, in real, in these few hours that are yours only, are going to find out the real story, and that you are here for your one single purpose. Our lives are yet ahead of us, and we must use every minute of our existence to prepare ourselves for the future. For this reason we are gathered under one banner, and with one common and united purpose. We now depend upon how we interpret the spirit with which we once began our task. We can realize that we as individuals cannot stand alone. Our success as a school as an institution depends upon each and every one of us working together to uphold the space of those who once went before us.

We too were at the starting point once and with the help of God we will finish the course that we have begun. We are here, at SMC, as you know, to have only one place to leave the intangible things which we now experience and enjoy. That place is in your heart. You must take stock of these things, improve upon them, and when you go, you will have left behind a better school.

Our school is not one that is known to the general public as a true Christian spirit in a college can only exist at the will of the yestern people who make up the college. The same as the future of a college is in the hands of its students, the same holds true, we believe, to the future of the world. The educational institutions today must try to meet this challenge that will come to the world in the future. Our school was not founded to be a place of leisure. Our school cannot be judged by the looks of the surrounding buildings. Can the real reason for an education be put on paper like the fancy lettering on the front cover of a book? We believe that a good education can be had in any room. The paper that is on the outside of a building is of no real value.

To the Editor

Dear Editor,

I've been perusing the Southern Accents recently and have come across a passage that I thought I'd like to comment on. On page 1, in the 6th paragraph, it states: "Although the decision you make in regard to your future may not seem very important at the moment, it is one that may change the course of your life."

Actually, it makes me wonder about the future of Southern College. As a freshman, my goal is to continue my education here through the end of my junior year. However, I have yet to make up my mind about whether or not to continue my education here.

I would appreciate your opinions on this matter, and I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

The BOOK MARK

By Shirley Gornil

New books have flooded the library this month, and they are all very good. I can't wait to try them out.

"Three Cheers for the Little Old Lady" by Philip Drive, is a story of a group of elderly people who come together to form a club. Although they are not the most popular people in the world, they find solace in each other's company. This book is sure to be a hit with anyone who enjoys a good laugh.

"The Republic" by Thomas Jefferson, is a work that outlines the principles of democracy. This book is a must-read for anyone interested in politics.

"The Art of War" by Sun Tzu, is a classic work that explores the strategies of war and how they can be applied to life. This book is a great read for anyone who enjoys history.

In conclusion, these three books are all very good and sure to be enjoyed by anyone who loves a good read.

Sincerely,

The FOREIGN ACCENT

By Stanley Rosen

The title of the national anthem has been a source of much debate. Many argue that it should be changed to something more meaningful.

However, I believe that the current title is perfectly fine. It is a symbol of our national pride and is something that we should be proud of.

In conclusion, I believe that the current title of the national anthem is perfectly fine and should not be changed.

Sincerely,

Dorm Has Peace
Roommates -Indispensable

The dorm is pretty quiet tonight. The only sounds are the ping-pong balls hitting the wall that is lined with thick felt. The two boys in the dorm room behind us are playing ping-pong, and the noise is soft and muffled.

I feel very comfortable in my dorm room. The roommates are friendly and easy to get along with. We share the room well and respect each other's space.

I hope that other dorms can have similar peaceful and harmonious roommates. It makes living in a dorm much more enjoyable.

Sincerely,

A Collegedale Spring Day

Out of the still darkness of night comes the clear, melodious call of the cardinal. It is a rare treat indeed to hear this "prey,- tree, birdie, birdie," at 5:30 P.M. This "red bird" of Collegedale, through the leafy trees and the thick, green growth,PERCEIVES the sweet speech of the nightingale, which sings with such a sweet voice.

While Mother Moon smiles down from winnings, star-studded skies above, the wise-person cries on mercilessly to curse the night, while, wolf, poor Wolf.

The mocking bird, with its suavitarility ability to mimic almost anything which agrees, will afford many hours of pleasure if you will try to catch a helicopters on the sky.

Old Father Sue with his dancing, wary spells S.P.E.N.T Into his eyes. Tallys nodding and in fast spy-

"thank you." In his life and about 1735 the sweet fragrance of lilac blooms spreads over our valley as if the white flakes shower down are releasing those perfume faint fragrance wafts as the sky.

Beneath all this is verdant green, which spreads itself like a great green carpet over the earth, bare each hour of winter.

This is Collegedale today during the "best" season of the year.

CA Has Surprise

Picnic in Quarry

April 16 found all the students of Collegedale Academy invited to a surprise picnic in the Quarry. Only the day before we had been told that the administration i was going to be out of town for the weekend, which was given as a reason why we would not be able to have our picnic. May, however, surprised us all (including some of us who were to be out of town that weekend) by announcing that it was going to be held as usual.

Matiny Silver had ghly planned a picnic. She had started it out with a birthday party on April 16, where they had food and drinks for the birthday boy and girl. They also had a cookout and a game of "pin the tail on the donkey" for the children. The picnic for the students was held on April 16 and included a barbecue and a game of "pin the tail on the donkey" for the children. The success of the picnic was due to the hard work of the students and faculty. Everyone present at both parties enjoyed the day and said that they were having a great time. The weather was perfect, with temperatures in the high 70s.

During their two days stay at Col-

College Seniors Enjoy Annual Outing at SDA's Camp Cumby-Gay in Georgia Mountains

By FRANCIS BURCH

The Senior Class of 1957 made its second annual trip to SDA's Camp Cumby-Gay for their annual senior outing. Following the announcement of their plans by President Elmore W. Houston, several of the seniors made a visit to Cumby-Gay in order to investigate the camp and plan their activities. The seniors were shown around the camp by the camp's director, Miss Doris Cumby-Gay, and were given a detailed explanation of the facilities and activities available at the camp.

God has many ways to transform us. What we would tell a friend, how much more complicated it would be to tell a stranger. The sound was detected through a microphone, and our voices were amplified in a recording. We were then able to hear our own voices, which we found amusing. The students were instructed to speak clearly and distinctly so that everyone could understand them. After the session, each group had the opportunity to discuss the experience and ask any questions.

As we all enter the classroom and realize this is our last time to be together, we sometimes find ourselves thinking, "What will we do next?"" or "What will happen next?" As we continue to reflect on our experiences, we realize that this is only the beginning of our journey. Our time here at Cumby-Gay has been filled with laughter, friendship, and memories that will last a lifetime.

Third, the students were shown around the camp by the camp's director, Miss Doris Cumby-Gay, and were given a detailed explanation of the facilities and activities available at the camp.

On Friday morning the group went on a hike in the surrounding mountains. They crossed a stream and followed a trail that led to a rocky outcrop. The students were encouraged to explore and enjoy the natural beauty of the area. After the hike, the group returned to the camp and had lunch. The afternoon was filled with free time, and the students had the opportunity to play games or relax.

On Saturday morning the students took part in a variety of activities, including a beach cleanup and a nature walk. The afternoon was dedicated to relaxation and resting.

The group returned to the camp for dinner, followed by a bonfire and a campfire singalong.

On Sunday morning the students attended a service at the nearby church. After the service, the group packed up and returned to the camp for the final meal.

As the seniors left the camp, they exchanged hugs and promises to see each other again soon. The memories of Cumby-Gay would stay with them for a lifetime, and they knew that this experience would be a valuable lesson in life.

College Year Brings Rewards

A year at college is an experience to be long remembered. As you leave the world of campus, you can look back and say, “We’ve been great. It’s been fun.” Some things we must admit; we got just what we looked for—we learned only what we wanted.

The joy of those who left the school are waiting for the graduates, but who put his whole self into college life—got what he came for.

So many things go together to make a successful, enjoyable college year.

The closer: Some we took because we wanted to, others because they were required. We griped about our required assignments, sometimes cramming for them; but got, in the end, a clearer picture of some of them. Some we learned.

The social occasions: No doubt about it—you gals looked super on Saturday nights. You guys who delayed so long before asking for that date, aren’t you glad you finally did?

Our teachers: We appreciate your hard work; you’re sincere, your devotion. We learned from you in the classroom, but not only there. Your influence will be felt in our lives, and remembered throughout all the end of time.

I’m happy. Many of us enjoyed the direction of the ball games whether as participants or spectators. Ball field and gymnasium: you’ve seen a lot of some of us, haven’t you?

Our friends. We find it hardener to say good-bye to you. We’ll see you again someday, though: if not in this world, in the next.

The Sabbath meetings: We will long remember those vesper services. Remember the rig you ought to up to show that you were a member of the Southern and the way we did it was an important decision, and it made you feel good all over.

Then there are so many other things—we remember those small things like the cafeteria food that are usually petty bag when you think through the Southern Memories and none them men mentioned by your various classmates.

“Remember nature outing.”

“Enjoyed working on the paper with you.”

“The time when we surprised Betty with a birthday party.”

“How we did slave sweeping the Ad. Building together.”

“Remember those outdoor prayer parties.”

“I’ll never forget how you used to pass the mail and black lights.”

“Those surprise quizzes in history.”

“Remember the night we thought we dressed our roommate.”

“I enjoyed our Sabbath afternoon walks, and going to Sunnys Band.”

Some of those little notes are signed, “See you next year.”

Others who signed those notes may not see for years.

When we look back, college life takes on a real meaning.

Some things we would have done differently, but we learned what we could.

We are sorry to see some go, but are proud of our seniors, going out to represent their college and their faith.

Best to you, seniors of 1957. We will follow you in a year, or two, or three. God be with you till we meet again, and we will strive to make our time spent here with it. “It was great, wasn’t it? It was fun.”
