COLLEGIANS REST FROM WEARY REGISTRATION LINES, CLASSES, LECTURES

By JAMES PHEL

With the onset of registration September 9, students began pouring into Collegedale, faculty members began their grays in various classrooms, and the wealthman began showing an account of the fatigue that would come to everyone there to study.

It seems that several of the recreational activities have had to be altered or completely given up in weather conditions. Little did most of the freshmen know if they returned to the dorms from the home of their general faculty last September 9, that the rain was just a prelude to a week of rain. The following evening was inaugurated as small dorms materialized from the clouds. The volleyball players, shielded to all bad points, didn't seem to notice, and the game continued.

When the time arrived for the $4 sponsored film "Marilyn Carle," only those fortunate enough to own an umbrella and a raincoat could claim a dry day. We certainly forgot the few who were lucky enough to find a small space between clouds—like, even they were not to be hit by Chief Thunder-bolt after the program.

Professor Gordon Hyde, after scanning the clouds for some time, finally planned an indoor recreational program for Saturday night, Sept. 14 for Saturday night. Sept. 14 was a beautiful, clear, bright day, and the program was held at the home of Professor and Mrs. Cyril C. Buehler. The program was the showcase of each person was drawn (?) by Vinson Buehler and placed conspicuously around the room. There were many comments thrown to identify the lectures. There were other interesting games enjoyed by all.

Although the weatherman report of 9.3 inches of rain September 9-11, the spirit of our students were not dampened, nor their enjoyment of life suppressed.

The store has offered their last umbrellas, with the effect that only borrowed clothes seem to be the fashion. Does anyone know if they make shoes that won't mold inside?

Bruce Kepkin, a quiet but capable young man with a flair for art work, is the year's Publication Chairman. Bruce was born in Orange Falls, Wisconsin, and came to Southern Missionary College from Lima, Indiana. Besides being treasurer of the Associated Student Body at Lima, Indiana he serves very capably on the art staff of the school paper. Most of us will remember Bruce for his fine art work he did to promote this year's school picnic.

Miss Maude Jones Takes to the Air At 85 Years of Age

By DON PARRISH

Miss Maude Jones, English teacher here from 1917 until her retirement in 1952, recently made her first trip by air. She alighted at Chattanooga's Lovell Field upon her return from a visit to relatives in Memphis.

Miss Jones stated that she was a little nervous at first, but that the ride caused no discomfort except a slight headache which she attributed to the puffing of the engines.

Miss Jones was thrilled with the fact that the airplane trip lasted only two hours as compared with seven hours by bus or train. She has decided that hereafter most of her traveling will be by air!

Ed McCuan said the newspaper men very favorite publication. Don Short told how they had obtained the women's club house for their meetings. He said the building was favorably built and attractive, with very comfortable seats. At the time he said, he did the attendance fall below 75 during the week night and from 200 to 250 on Sunday night.

Elde Don Keyson, pastor of the nearby church, is the company in St. Matthews, Kentucky, stated that this new company was organized July 20 with 85 charter members. He also reported $2,600 in the treasury for the building. In the future, he says, they are searching for a lot, and he is asking SMC to remove the company's prayer that God will help them find just the right lot. He said he felt sure that the Lord would provide.

Students from the college participating in the Don Cameron Foundation. Don Short, Eddie McCuan and Don Parris. They all expressed interest in this year's field enrollment. In Don Cameron said that the personal center was worth a great deal to him.

Several from the Louisville area were present for the symposium and dinner. Elder S. P. Bowen, from the Peck Wee Valley church; and Mrs. M. S. Bowen, from the Peck Wee Valley church. Don Keyson from the new company at Saint Matthews.

New SA Elections Name Publications Editor and Chairman

By DON WILSON

The first election of the 1957-1958 school year was held on Monday morning, September 16, during the Student Association Chapel here. Approximately 85 per cent of the student body participated in this very important election.

Anna Jean Robinson, a vivacious English major, was overwhelmingly chosen as this year's Secretary and Editor. Her home is in Dayton, Tennessee, and she is a graduate of Little Creek Academy. Anna Jean takes up her new responsibility with a great deal of experience, having edited her academy paper for two years.

Bruce Kepkin, a quiet but capable young man with a flair for art work, is the year's Publications Chairman. Bruce was born in Orange Falls, Wisconsin, and came to Southern Missionary College from Lima, Indiana. Mrs. Gardner Rests After Accident: No Registration Duties Now Often we wonder what the Register of a college does after registration is over. There is much work to be done all year, as Mrs. Elva B. Gardner, the registrar of SMC, well knows. She has grades to be distributed, a great pile of average to figure, class cards to be filed, program cards to be kept up to date, and numerous questions to be answered.

Mrs. Gardner has held many positions in the dissemination and has fulfilled them all excellently. As a missionary in India she was awarded a faithful (by all) who knew her. One can imagine her telling her students in India many interesting stories as well as listening to their own stories of test, heartache, or sorrow.

Many people will remember her as an author of books and short stories: Love in India, Glad to Happen, and Judy Goes to India. She is a few examples of her work. She is working on another at the present time.

Mrs. Gardner's main interest is one that none of us should have—people. She is willing to help anyone and everyone who comes to her for counsel. Her ability to cope with problems is almost unmeasurable.

Mrs. Gardner served as dean of women at West India Training College for approximately three years. With her good nature and wit the duty must have been a competent one.

Here at SMC she is rated far above a "go-getter." When SMC was working for accreditation Mrs. Gardner contributed a great deal of time and effort. Her faithfulness to her duties and to the school has made her a favorite of the SMC staff.

Elder D. A. Deafield, secretary of SMC, while publications, conducted the fall weeks of spiritual emphasis on the campus of SMC during the week of September 27 to October 5.

Elder Deafield has a background of rich experience, having worked extensively with Advent youth. He is the father of two teenage children. He has been an associate editor of the Review and Herald and the Voice of Prophecy radio broadcast.

The opening meeting of the series was held at the regular vesper hour Friday evening, September 27. Elder Deafield spoke at the eleven o'clock hour Sabbath morning, and again at midweek meditation on the college campus. The meetings continued through the week, with prayer bands meeting for fifteen minutes before the chapel hour, and Elder Deafield addressing the student body at five o'clock each day. Another emphasis was given to the spiritual objectives of the series at a joint assembly in the college chapel at the opening worship hour.

Elder Deafield featured in each meeting an interview with students concerning problems that young people face today. There was a telling her students in India many interesting stories as well as listening to their own stories of test, heartache, or sorrow.

Many people will remember her as an author of books and short stories: Love in India, Glad to Happen, and Judy Goes to India. She is a few examples of her work. She is working on another at the present time.

Construction on Home Economics and Cafeteria Building Started

Early this September work started on a new building, located on the slope in front of the natural science building, which is to house the home economics division and cafeteria.

President T. W. Walters stated that the building will contain classrooms and laboratory space for the home economics department featuring modern kitchen appliances, as well as an especially planned study and craft room. There will be a complete apartment unit, including living room, dining room, and kitchen, for the use of the home economics students in the preparation and serving of meals and entertaining guests.

A student action room covering 200 square feet will be located in this building and to be used as a social center where the young people can meet and study. The new dining hall and kitchen also contain an important part of the building.

The structure is planned on a modern colonial style, in harmony with the present brick buildings of the campus, but it will have new window space. Beaulieu and Pella, of Chattanooga, are the architects for this building which will cover approximately 19,000 square feet of floor space.

It is hoped this student help can complete most of the construction under the supervision of Percy Gaultier of the building and grounds department. President Walters hopes to have these new facilities ready for use by the fall of 1958. Perhaps some parts of the building can be used for the '58 summer school session. This is the first of several

Press Employs Former Students For Several Departments

By CHRIS MULLIGAN

An important part of a scholastic journal such as the Southern Accent is the plant where the actual production takes place, either that of the Editor. Thus the purpose of this article—to better acquaint the public with the procedure required in printing such a publication.

All of the departments other than the office of the Manager of the College Press are headed by men personally this year.

Serving in the capacity of receptionist and secretary is Mrs. Louise Bales. This is Mrs. Bales' first year at the press. Her duties include, besides being general receptionist, payroll clerk, billing clerk, and secretary for the manager, Mr. H. F. Meyer.

The shop superintendent, John W. Henson, has returned to his home at Collegeville after an absence of two years. Mr. Henson is a native son of Collegeville, having been born here. He graduated from the college in 1934 and left to teach school at Summerville Academy where he was an instructor in chemistry and mathematics. He is well qualified for his job with a total of eleven years in printing.

After an order is sent to the shop, it passes through the hands of Dan McBroon, who is the composing room foreman. As such, he has charge of the Linotype machines, the art room, the type setters, and the proofreading department. Before coming to Collegeville, Mr. McBroon was shop foreman at the Murray Printing Company in Newton, Georgia. Mr. McBroon is also a local person, but was born in Chattanooga and has always considered this area his home.

SENIOR SKETCH

Puerto Rican Pupils Plans to Teach

Juan Acevedo came to Southern Missionary College from Aguadilla, Puerto Rico. He first visited SMC one College day during his stay in the army. The young lady who was to become his wife was at the time attending EMC, and had often suggested that he attend an Adventist college to prepare himself in his chosen field, secondary education. Juan originally knew that he had never been sorry that he followed the advice and attended SMC.

Johnny Felt is the binder foreman. The binder department cuts the paper for the different jobs, does the falding, handles the mailing, not only of the ACCENT, but also of The Southern Tidings, besides numerous other catalogs and brochures. Only recently the department started wrapping the Tidings by hand to facilitate mailing. Mr. Felt has an accumulative record of about ten years in the various phases of printing.

A dental student, Renald Nuble, who graduated from SMC this past year, is now a full-time worker at the press, but intends to return to school this next fall. He worked his way through the academy and college during presswork at Forest Lake Academy, Madison College, and SMC.

One other full-time employee who is working his first year at the press is Hank Langless from Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Langless comes to the college from the army. The prevailing spirit at the press is the desire to accomplish a better understanding of the principles of the school to those with whom they make contact.

Extending from September 17, 1957, to January 21, 1958, the Photo Mart offers two awards in each of four classes. In addition, the Instructor may buy other pictures submitted for consideration. Members of the panel of judges will be drawn from the Instructor staff, the Review and Herald Art Department, and Washington Missionary College. First award in each class will be $25; second award, $10.00.

Although Instructor cover pictures are frequently bought from commercial dealers, a few are supplied by authors who have pictures to illustrate their manuscripts. The Photo Mart, however, provides opportunity for all Adventist young people to share in the production of their own youth magazine and offices a satisfying and profitable hobby by selling.

Black and white glossy pictures may be submitted in one of four classes: Student Life, Out-of-school Life, Socials, Annual Life. Although color transparencies are not eligible, it is permissible to convert a color shot and submit the black and white print.

Requests for entry blanks, guidelines, and complete rules and instruction sheets should be addressed to the Youth's Instructor Photo Mart, Review and Herald Publishing Association, National City, Washington, 12, D. C.

Ackerman Judges Singing Contest in Chattanooga

Dorothy Evans Ackerman, instructor in voice, who is a member of the National Association of Teachers of Singing, was asked to serve as adjudicator, or judge, of the Regional Contest of Young Singers, sponsored by that group, which was held in Cadez Conservatory of Music, in Chattanooga, on Sunday, November 3.

This regional contest is held in the eastern part of the state of Tennessee, and includes students from Johnson City, Knoxville, Chattanooga, and Cleveland, as well as other cities in this area. The 100 participants in the contest were all students of members of the NATS.

Each contestant sang three numbers, most of which were operatic in nature. Mrs. Ackerman stated during the interview that the widest that all of her students might have had the opportunity to visit the contest and observe the great amount of work each student put forth. Mrs. Ackerman felt that all of the students were of very high caliber and well trained.

The students were so excellent that the three judges deliberated over one hour before reaching their decision. Serving with Mrs. Ackerman as judges were Mrs. Donald Brown of Tennessee Temple College in Chattanooga, and Mr. L. Humphrey, of Lee College in Cleveland.

Dr. T. W. Walters is away this week attending the Southern Union Conference and Preliminary College meeting in Miami, Florida, which are scheduled November 8 through 10.

Southern Missionary College, Collegedale, Tennessee

Board of Trustees Meets in January

A meeting of the Board of Trustees will meet in January 16, 1958, all members will be present and they will discuss plans for the coming school year.

On November 20 the Division of Nurses Co-ordinating Committee will meet in Orlando, Florida, on the Florida State campus. They will discuss problems concerning both the Southern Missionary College and Florida campus. Those from here who are on the committee and will attend are: Miss Marie Hein, Dr. R. A. Underhill, Dr. T. W. Walters, and Dr. L. N. Hulen.

A committee has been appointed to make recommendations for utilizing the space which will be available when the Home Economics Department moves into its new home. Recommendations will also be made as to the space which will be needed by the cafeteria. There will be a discussion as to the future of the campus roads and parking space. A discussion will be held as to whether or not to discontinue the College Drive as a through street. This committee meets Saturday, November 11, with the College Buildings Committee. Members of this committee are: Mr. Betts, Elder Fearing, Mr. Sumner, and Mr. McDow.

New Truck Insures Prompt Deliveries

Blind-The College-Ed-Grumley has a new truck.

"You say, what does this mean to me? Well, even though you may not be a direct customer of the Grumley, you are a recipient of several of its products through the mechanics of the store and the cafeteria. It therefore has an indirect bearing on all of Collegedale.

The new addition will undoubtedly mean increased business production to ease for new customers received, and the added expense of more prompt and efficient service to the areas surrounding Chattanooga and Collegedale and if therefore a great asset to our college.

Poverty and shame shall be to him that refuseth instruction; but he that regards reproach shall be honored.—Prov. 13:18.

SUNDIN PRESENTS "THE GOSPEL TEAM"

Elder Cud Sundin, Associate Secretary of the Medical Department of the General Conference, arrived at the SMC campus November 4 to spend a few days with the college students in the interest of the medical work in this denomination.

On Wednesday evening Elder Sundin spent the worship period with religion and medical topics, presenting to them the need for a concerted vision of their calling. The subject of his presentation was "The Gospel Team: The Great Commission." He brought out the fact that the concept of the gospel team including the medical workers was unique to this denomination, that no other church has this use of the medical ministry.

This concept was substantiated by the illustration of the life of Jesus. His command to His disciples, and by the words from the Pen of Inspiration: "If ever the Lord has spoken by me, He speaks when He calls the workers engaged in educational lines, in ministerial lines, and in missionary lines. He must stand as a unit, all laboring under the supervision of God, one helping the other, each blessing each."

Students Choose Faculty Counselors

During October the faculty was asked which of them would consent to be counselors for the students. All of them agreed to take part in this project.

The list of names was placed on sheets of paper, and these were passed out in Chapel for the students to give their first, second, and third choices of whom each wanted as a counselor. They were tabulated in the Dean's office, and third student was given as far as possible, his first choice. Each counselor was given a list of students whom he was to counsel. The counselors in turn wrote cards or letters to these students informing them who their counselor was to be.

The counselor's job is to try in any way to help the students. The students should feel free to go to their counselors with any problem they have in their lessons or for any religious guidance they need.

Crane Leads Effort In East Brainerd

The opening night for a Voice of Youth Effort to be held in East Brainerd has been set for January 13, 1958. The setting for the series of meetings is approximately eight miles from the SMC campus. The meetings will be held every Friday and Sunday night for seven weeks.

This is another in the series of Voice of Youth Efforts which are being held all over the world by the youth of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. All of the meetings will be planned and conducted mainly by students of Southern Missionary College. There will be four speakers each evening, consisting of two boys and two girls, who will present the basic doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. All of the special music and the conducting of the song services will be done by the students. A census of student opinion reveals a great deal of enthusiasm for the Effort. Many students plan to participate in this program, although at yet plans are not complete. Working bands are to be chosen within three weeks. These will take care of finances, arrange transportation, and to advertise the meetings. Literature bands will distribute literature before the opening night of the Effort in order to create an interest in the community.

Elder H. V. Hordenburt is chairman of the effort, with Elder Paul Boynton as his associate. The student director is Don Crane and student director is Don Crane and associates are Bill Henson and Judy Smith. The remaining officers have yet to be chosen.

COURTESY WEEK

"Golden Glow of Southern Culture" Theme Chosen by Courtesy Group

A most inspiring and beautiful Courtesy Week, November 18-23, was directed by the Social Education Committee, Carl Stingers, Chairman. The purpose of the week was focused toward the interest of the student body. Time was given to the positive education of common courtesy, refinement, and culture activities, as well as dramatic activities, especially for modern Christiana colleges.

Courtesy was the dominating factor in chapel programs and joint worship. During each day a different phase was stressed with the aid of posters and demonstration. Souvenir sheets were given telling the theme and highlights of the day as well as hints for courtesy.

Monday was devoted to courtesy throughout the dormitories, presented by Professor Hiley. A film, "Spoke No Evil," dealing with the problems of gossip and its results was shown. Monday evening an appropriate evening for the day. The music and art appreciation proved to be another major phase of this cultural week. Each evening, Monday through Thursday, between the hours of 7:30 and 8:45 an art exhibit in Mutual Jones Hall gallery was open to the students and was made more enjoyable by a background of high-quality music. The subject was highlighted by a Definite Bushnell Tuesday evening.

This time culture has a definite significance in the Christian life as brought out Wednesday by Dr. Otto Christensen.

The need of courtesy in our daily, social, and dining rooms was made more picturesque Thursday evening after the showing of the film, "The Rim of the Wheel." The story of a housewife who became involved with evil responsibilities

The World Famous General Floral Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers celebrate this season the 17th anniversary of their first American performance which took place at the World's Fair in San Francisco. We are very fortunate to have this group on our campus November 23 to present another outstanding lyrical program.

This presentation will include many unforgetable highlights, including the rendition of easily recognizable music, classical numbers, and stirring folk melodies. Enticing includes throughout the program will also be presented in the traditional dances as performed in skillful and excellent manner.

Since their organization the Floral Chorus has toured six continents, appeared in 65 countries, and in 17 years of singing has performed more than 2,000 concerts in the United States.

The membership of the Chorus consists of 44 men and 25 women, of the best of vocal talent and dancers obtainable among the college students engaged in the region along the Don River. The entire group are now American citizens, and they have returned to home and love America's Birth home.

The Chorus will be presented at 8:00 p.m., Monday, November 23, in the Student Union. Admissions by lyric text, or $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

showed how easy it is to neglect one's subordinate duties for an excess of extra-curricular activities.

Friday chapel closed the entire week with a paid discussion by five professional and six leaders visiting the campus from Chattanooga, Mr. George Conner, director of the Adult Educational Council, acted as panel moderator. Other guest panelists included Mrs. M. J. A. Aught, director of adult clubs of the YWCA; Mrs. Jack Pridlow, graduate of the University of Tennessee, student of the Convales Center, and executive of the annual Cotton Festival; Bert D. McGee, Methodist student counselor at the University of Chattanooga; and Mrs. Robert Clark, owner of the Reader's Book Store. These very efficient panel members discussed civility, dress, grooming, posture, and industry—the basis of true courtesy.

Deviations for the program throughout the week were given by Sharon Olson, Chuck Adair, David McFadden, and Dr. K. M. Kennedy.

Friday was declared to be "Backwards Day." It was paper for the young ladies to show all the respect and attention to the names of Yalge Holl who takes notes on correspondence. Dates were requested by the young ladies and Saturday evening they were given to the gentlemen to be Don Cossack's young presentation. Afterwards, before seeing them safely through the gates, they took their gallant ladies to a reception in the dining room.

Committee members responsible for the success of the week are: Pat Hattenstead, David Kugler, Rosalind Hattenstead, Reginald McFadden, Charles Sullivan, Orville Sauer, and Marilyn Young.

"The Year Time Ends," the title of a dramatization presented Friday evening. This was an effective adaptation of the story by Earnest Reed which appeared in The Times. Elder E. S. Bell, MV secretary of the Georgia-Carolinas Conference, along with Elder Gordon Hyde, chairman of the SMC Speech Department, put much time and effort into making this program a success. The story is recounted around the year before Christ's second coming. The world was presented as controlled by one power was "John Day." Day was portrayed by Elder Belle in the absence of Dick Tetz who was taken suddenly ill. Sen. also were Eddie McCoin as Carl (Day's assistant), and Stanley Showalter as TV news commentator.

A fitting finale was Dorothy Evans-Arkenshaw's vocal solo, an arrangement of "Are You Ready For Jesus to Come?" and "Will You Meet Me in the Kingdom?"

Fits Guy Speaks

Sabbath morning many of the students were made that assembled by rising earlier than usual for a joint worship in the college chapel. Elder Fitts presented the morning worship talk. He showed them to us as a man with great mental power, superior physical strength, and with spiritual perception which is available to all—Jesus that is attractive to you. He said it is not a lack of religious progress, but a lack of Christ-likeness in our lives and our projects that hinders our success.

At a 9:15 Sabbath school began with a song service led by Elder F. W. Foster, MV secretary for the Florida Conference. Dr. S. W. Will, Home Missionary Secretary of Ga. Comb. acted as superintendent. For the lesson study a printed document the day's program. Participants were Joan Kautler, Channah Dale Valle, Carl Bookler, Kenneth Klumpp, and Dick Tetz. Elder Foster acted as moderator. The minutes report was extended by Mrs. Emil Foster, who presented a thoughtful report on the influence as a missionary, she told of the persecutions sometimes endured by those people because they are Christians. The benediction was given by Elder Tetz. Belle, MV secretary of the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference.

Choir Sings

The college choir, led by Prof. M. W. Hill, sang as the ministers entered for the worship service. The offering was furnished by the String Ensemble. Elder T. E. Lucas presented a challenging sermon in which he asked the questions, "Is there something to be done for God today?" and "Who will do it?" He related the history of our MV work from its beginnings with Luther Warren and Meadie Mae. Guide up to the present time.

At 2:15 the Tabernacle Auditorium was almost filled again at Elders Belle, Mohr, and Foster led out in Musical Cavalcade. There were the well-known and loved choruses and gospel songs led by these enthusiastic youth leaders.

The congregational singing was generously interspersed with special numbers including two spirituals by the Addison Mite Chorus.

Speech Men Interviewed

In the next section of the program Elder Hest introduced the "space man" Lusk, objectively his "earthlings" he felt that man can degenerate.

The objectives and value of the Youth's Home were also brought to our attention in the next section by Elder Fritz Gray.

In the Advocate church there is a great demand for leaders of youth. Elder George Yost, of the Carolina Conference, told of the Leadership

Teachers Attend Knoxville Meeting

Recently at 4:55 in the morning, Professor Cooper brought his station wagon to a halt in front of the city dormitory. There, Alice Miller, Shirley Pendleton, Faye Haupt, Katie Phillips, and Doris K. M. Kennedy joined to make the trip to the East Tennessee Education Association meeting at Knoxville. This group attended the meeting of the Association of Student Teachers of the Elementary School Principals, the Division of Childhood Education International, and the Health Education meetings.

At the general session of the convention, the group had the privilege of hearing Paul Hartz, nationally known author, columnist, student of world affairs, and newswriter, speak on "Dreams in the News."

The group also had the privilege of collecting from 70 displays of school textbooks and supplies. From his contact with the textbook industry, Dr. Kennedy was able to obtain over a hundred dollars worth of new textbooks for the curriculum laboratory.

The group not only had the privilege of attending the meetings, but also were able to become personally acquainted with some of the speakers and national leaders in education.

But ah, their secret,
To fade from mind
Was never meant.

course which is designed to train interested leaders for our young people. He was interviewed by an off-stage voice which represented the "inner thoughts of the congregation."

To show how effective Voice of Youth affairs can be, Elder Foster interviewed 40 young persons who have helped conduct these meetings. Betty Edwards, Shirley Puckett, Don Patrick, and Bill Benson told how these efforts helped them personally as well as to bring results into the lives of their MV fellow students that 111 people have been baptized to date in the Southern Union as a result of the Youth's Home.

Youth Activity Reviewed

Elder Lucas was chairman of the last session in which youth groups carrying signs describing different types of youth activity marched through the streets and placed them on a large bulletin with the theme, "Sharing the Faith of Our Fathers."

Elder Yost was chairman of the following meeting which featured band concert presented by the SMC Band under the direction of Prof. Burton Jackson. A packed audience enjoyed next some solos around by Elder T. E. Lucas and the Missionary Vocal quartet around the world included were some pictures of our MV youth in East Tennessee.

Nurses Present Program to FLA

Four of the nursing student faculty on Collegedale's campus, with Miss Marie Hiner, presented their 1957 Pharmacy and Health chapter on October 18, 1957, in the interest of the nursing program. Barbara Beavers, Joann Arnold, Carol Russell, and Ronald Mitchell, departed through talks, different aspects of the nursing curriculum, the years of study on each campus.

Merit Scholarship Given to Don Hall

Don Hall, a freshman accounting student, has been awarded one of the highest scholastic honors that can be given a high school graduate. He has been selected as a Merit Scholar by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is a non-profit organization which was set up to make it possible for promising high school students to continue their education, regardless of their financial ability.

Through a program of selective testing, the outstanding high school seniors of the nation are chosen to be honored and to be given financial aid, if needed.

The first step of the program is a test given at all co-operating high schools in the top five per cent of the senior class. Approximately 170,000 seniors participated in this test. Of that group, 8,000 were selected to take a second test.

Of the 8,000 participating in the second test, 900 Merit Scholars for the entire nation were chosen. The 900 were selected on the basis of the second test and on their promise of future leadership as indicated by their extracurricular activities and the recommendation of their principals.

The annual amount paid to each scholar varies with the student's individual need. It may vary from a minimum of $400 to the full cost of a year's college work, including tuition, room, and board. Also, the school the scholar attends receives an amount equal to the difference between the actual cost to the school and the amount paid by the student.

The Business Administration Division of SMC has a steady stream of opportunities for those who are interested in business or secretarial work.

This year the number of students enrolled in the curriculum are about equally divided, with 50 secretarial students and about 50 business students.

There is at the present time a situation in the United States causing business majors to be in great demand. As Miss Krogstad stated, "The opportunities are unlimited. The demand is never met, either innumerable or secondary."

In the secretarial division there are three courses of study, the one year, the two year, and the four year. The one year course has just been in operation since the school year 1956-57; and Charlotte Blair, Cindy Numbers, and Phyllis Fletcher Young were the first three to finish this course.

John Anderson, who is a four-year graduate, will be starting an extensive survey in the Southern Union second semester. The survey will be of the different business majors in the various offices in the Union.

All college students who have never typed can have credit for typing 13 first semester or typing 14 second semester. Typing credit is given to students in no matter what course of study one wishes to pursue.

Students graduating from the business administration curriculum, in various positions such as advertising, selling, marketing, accounting, and general office management.

In the course of study stress is placed on the business communication curriculum, in various positions such as advertising, selling, marketing, accounting, and general office management.

In the Business Division there are four courses of study publishing, business administration, secretarial, and bachelor of science.

The teaching staff of the Business Division consists of Miss T. E. Brinkman, Miss Irma Jean Koppitz, Mrs. P. J. Hest (second semester), Mrs. H. H. Kuhlman (at the College), Mrs. M. V. Anderson (at the medical secretaries), Dr. L. N. Holm, Mr. Charles Fleming, Jr., Mr. W. V. Anderson, Mr. J. H. Davidson and Mr. D. L. West.

The Business Club is both interesting and beneficial for those planning to follow this line of work. The club has a membership of about 60 students. The president is Beaur Moore, and Ann Elliott is the vice president, with Wray Durrell as treasurer.

Miss Wray Durrell is a sponsor many interesting things are in store for the members of the Professional Business Club of SMC.

Textbook Group Surveys Studies

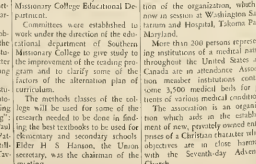

The Meary conference room was the setting for the meeting of the Southern Union Textbook Committee, which met to hear reports on textbooks available in the field of English and reading. The committee consisted of the educational superintendents and secretaries of the Southern Union, Mrs. Myrtle Mizwail of Atlanta, Mrs. Levening of the Florida Conference, and Dr. K. M. Kennedy of Southern Missionary College Educational Department.

Committees were established to work under the direction of the educational department of Southern Missionary College to give study to the improvement of the reading program and to clarify some of the factors of the alteration plan of curriculum.

The method classes of the college will be used for some of the research needed to be done in finding the best textbooks to be used for elementary and secondary schools. Mrs. H. H. Hanson, the Union secretary, was the chairman of the meeting.

Davidson Attends Business Meeting

Mr. Ralph Davidson, the teacher of Accounting here at SMC, attended a meeting of the Association of Schools of Business in Colleges and Universities on November 7. The meeting was held in Memphis, Tennessee. There were 100 persons present, including the deans of business colleges from such universities as Harvard, Columbia, Florida, Chattanooga, Duke, and North Carolina; and also representatives from many other colleges. In order to be a member of the Association the University must have a college of business within a set of representatives from all colleges are invited.

The Dean of Harvard University spoke at the luncheon hour in the evening. The Banking Association was the sponsor of the dinner and discussed two problems of concern (1) the problem of colleges and universities being able to compete with industries in good teaching and (2) what the curriculum should include to meet the needs of industry. The solutions proposed for these problems were: (1) the possibility of using part time teachers and the colleges' training their own teachers, and the raising of teachers' salaries, and (2) the standards of the quality of the curriculum being raised. The problems were discussed on both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held in the spring near Knoxville, Tennessee.

Chiapas Mission Helped by SMC

An appeal for a Christmas gift to the people of Chiapas, Mexico, was presented during the chapel hour December 11 by the officers of Christ's Foreign Legion, 2000 South Hamilton Avenue, Dr. Ray Underhill as the speaker of the meeting. Dr. Underhill gave to the student body a description of the conditions in Chiapas, which he had seen first-hand. A film was shown picturing the self-supporting mission established by Ray and Marie Gustaf.

The main objective of the Committee, Dr. Underhill stated, is to build a model village to use as a base in teaching the natives how to live.

Donald Skret was the first to speak, stating the student body give in cash or pledges money sufficient to build one house.

YOUTH EFFORT

VOICE OF YOUTH CRUSADE PRESENTS TYPICAL MEETING

During its chapel hour December 12, 1957, the first official meeting of a Voice of Youth Effort is conducted by the students of SMC.

Clayton opened with a song led by Larry McAnulty. Don Cane, chairman of the MV Youth Effort Committee, announced the plans of the MV students to make SMC the first of our denominational colleges to sponsor a Voice of Youth Effort Crusade for Christ's effort. He announced that the following are the associate pastor of the college the crusade. Introduced also were Bill Henson and Judy Smith, both of the Youth Effort Committee.

Dasowakita Club Stages Life of Stephen Foster in "Hour of Charm" Benefit

How many times did you hear these words: "Have you purchased your ticket for Saturday evening's program yet? Only $10 for students and faculty; $4.00 for visitors?" If you never once heard this statement, you spent very little time in the vicinity of Maude Jones Hall, or more aptly known as the "Frankie's Student Center." For some time past the Dasowakita Forum had been supporting the presentation of the "Hour of Charm" which was scheduled for Saturday evening, December 7, at 8:00 p. m. For some time past some committees were working feverishly, house to house talking for funds through the sale of tickets which was done in the afternoon, and performers were practicing their acts every evening.

By 7:00 p. m. Saturday evening most of the young ladies were gathered (think to some you thought young men) with automobiles through the dazzling rain to the liberate-suburban. An hour of music and excitement, list minute preparations, and the curtain opened upon a lively display of beautifully dressed young ladies gracefully and bravely bowed and shined on the front lawn of an imposing Colonial had begun.

After a few words of prayer by Miss Lucy Watkins, president of the Daughters of Borneo, we were transported to the boyhood days of the troubadour of the Southland, Stephen Foster, the music of his youth of the early 1820's. The visits to the old plantation home, the use in preparation and happiness as the gifted young artist gave to the world of his beautiful compositions—were merged into one with the narration of the life of this kind-hearted Southern gentleman and the presentation of his best-loved works by the girls' chorus.

Features of the evening's performance were the string ensemble and several vocal selections. Characterizations in the program were Ken Kenwood as Stephen, Barbara Smith as Jeanette, Gladys Evans as Stephen's mother, Gayle Barton, Bernegre, Gadsden, and Martha

Elder Hyde Offers Radio and TV Class Second Semester

Ann Walker

Today there is a resurgence of radio as an excellent means of mass communication. It is doing more than merely holding its own during the present day of television. It may have been expected that a world of modern scientific inventions would bring an end to the old radio uses, but such is the contrast with radio. Now yet has man succeeded in placing a television screen before the eye of the automobile driver; neither will this happen before he is perfectly remote controlled automobile. Parabolic reflectors and bodies which continue to be in popular demand.

These facts are of vital interest to Christian youth preparing for lives of service. The radio can well be utilized for the giving of the gospel. In view of this, a new course is being offered by the speech department second semester, "Elements of Radio and Television: Judging the potentialities, influence, and development of both."

Professor Gordon Hyde, chairman of the department of speech, will be the instructor in this course. He will be assisted by the speech department staff. The course is a combination of the preparation and presenting of programs. Technical and business aspects are covered. Equipment for two studios provides for complete broadcast recordings which facilitate class discussions.

A laboratory session in connection with the course is to be arranged with the students' practical experience on handling of microphone, radio control equipment, and familiariza-tion of terms on programming will prove beneficial.

Inasmuch as the college has no television equipment, less attention will be given to this phase of the course. However, Professor Hyde terms, studio procedures, as well as its uses, limitations, and problems.

"Elements of Radio and Television" is a three hour upper division course meeting at 7:30-9:45 Monday, Wednesdays, and Fridays. It may be entered by the consent of the instructor. The course promises to be a great deal of fun in addition to being practical in return for a reasonable amount of work.

Science Exhibits In Academics

The Science Department of Southern Missionary College, headed by Dr. John Christensen, has been making demonstration trips to different academies in the Southern Union. These trips are being made to demonstrate different scientific facts about physics and chemistry and to create an interest in the study of science.

Dr. Ray Hoffert is in charge of the physics demonstrations, and Dr. Christensen has charge of the chemistry. Several physics and chemistry students assist in the demonstration.

In May, 1957, a trip was made to the University of Tennessee. Dr. Hoffert was accompanied by students Alan W. McCarty, Oliver Hayes, and Dave Pugh made the trip with Dr. Hoffert and Dr. Hoffert to Monte Pugh and Elmer Anderson. A trip was made to Kent Laclede May, December 15.

Chemistry Dept. Adds New Items

The chemistry department of SMC has recently received several new items of equipment, according to Dr. John Christensen, chairman of the Division of Natural Science. The equipment will be put to use in the various classes of the department.

The most important new instrument is the spectrophotometer which will be used in the qualitative analysis class and possibly in the general chemistry class. The spectrophotometer is useful as being the property of all elements having characteristic lines in their spectra which represent the wave lengths of light given off by the elements. The material to be analyzed is placed in a cuvette and solution between two platinum electrodes. When an electric arc is passed between the electrodes, the material gives off characteristic spectra, and the lines given off are then compared with known standards.

The department also added a glass tank to complete a constant temperature bath for physical chemistry experiments. The bath will be able to maintain a constant temperature to within a one-half degree tolerance.

A sodium vapor lamp to be used in conjunction with a polarimeter is a welcome addition to the biochemistry section. Previously sodium tungstate has been used, but this method varied with the time of day when the readings were taken. With the sodium vapor lamp constant results can be obtained.

This year a new filtering mantle for use in organic preparations has been added. This is useful in distilling low-boiling liquids and eliminates the dangers of using an open flame.

Two triple beam balances have been added to the general laboratory, which brings the total there to seven.

Dr. Hoffert and Richard Boland assisted in the demonstration.

There were many interesting demonstrations given. An apparatus was used to show that water was split into H_2 and O_2 . This was then placed in a solution which turned out to red again. Dr. Christensen made the statement that this could be very economical for the school. The apparatus was used to show that water is not a simple substance for the proof of one it could be used for their red dress it could be used in a great deal of work in addition to being practical in return for a reasonable amount of work.

Dr. Hoffert, in his physics demonstration, showed some which he stated was the "newest" and the "latest." It was an electronic stove which does not get hot or glow red. It heats water in less than a minute. The only problem which makes it impossible to remove the food from the kettle after it has been cooked. These and many other interesting demonstrations will be observed here at Collegedale on March 5 when the Science Department will have a Science Open House.

Youth Effort Begins January 31

The students of Southern Missionary College are presenting a youth effort at the American Leg in Hill in East Brantley, Tennessee, starting from the thirty-first of January and running until the twenty-third of March.

The student speakers are divided into four bands composed of both trained and untrained students from all classes and curriculums; however, there are other bands and organizations working on this project such as various prayer bands, Bible Study Training, and Literature Distribution bands.

The effort is being presented with a very limited budget, but, thanks to several civic minded citizens, the project will be wanting for little of the necessities such as hand bills and advertising posters which will be printed, free of charge, by the State Printing Company of Chattanooga.

- The following is a list of the speaking bands, dates of meetings, and sermon titles:
- Band 1 January 31 Daniel 2
 - (8) Will Rustia Succed in Heaven
 - Band 2 February 7 Hebrews (22)
 - Band 3 February 7 The Signs of Christ's Coming (43)

Little Chorus Performs Saturday

One of the outstanding attractions of the SMC lyceum season will be a performance by the concert choir, The Little Chorus, in the Tabernacle Auditorium at 8:00 p. m., February 1, 1958. G. M. Hyde, lyceum orator, introduced the Little Chorus, announced as a minor musical ensemble, has parted from tradition and is to carry on from the standard vocal ensemble. Having established themselves as independent interpreters of the classics in supervisory singing arrangements of Schubert, Brahms, and Rosenberg, to name but a small portion of the magnificent repertoire of special Little Chorus offerings, these choristers are staged and directed by three of the most gifted young men in New York.

Donald Smith, comes from Oberlin, musical director at New England's Isabel Colwell Music Center. Mr. Smith has been an active conductor at the New York City Center Opera and pianist for the popular Max Liebman TV "Show of Shows." He also had a musical hand in the Broadway show and is presently on the staff of "The Voice of Freedom." One of the most talented young American choral and orchestral conductors, William Jensen, was assistant conductor of the "Bury and Bess" production which toured the world. A former director of the Collegiate Choral, Mr. Jensen is known for his work in the presentation of "Wonderful Town" and "The Book of the Month Club" record selection, the Little Orchestra and Choral Art Society. "The Education" has Jensen as its choral director.

Grace Boyce, who has worked with "The Voice of Freedom" and is stage director of The Master Singers, has additional credits at the Birmingham Opera Under the Stairs, Colwell Music Center, and on numerous TV programs. Consistently praised for the superb hand-picked choir, and warmly held in their audience, the members of the Little Chorus are Frances Falck, Louise Frank, Joyce Harwood, Rita Shoon, Lynn Derwale, Richard Paul, Howard Shaw, and Donald Smith. Their accompanist is Dobbs Frank.

First Capping of SMC Nurses Secured Group to Florida

Capping for the nursing students was held on Friday, January 10, in Lyon Wood Hall. It was the first exercise of its kind to be held on the Collegedale campus, but an air of excitement prevailed among all of us as the time drew near.

At about 9:30, a group of visiting nurses from the Florida campus quietly marched into the chapel followed by the pre-nursing students. Lyburn Underhill played the pre-nursing. Dr. T. W. Walters, president of SMC, addressed the nurses, telling the nurses name of the duties which they would be called to fulfill in their chosen profession, and of the Great Physician to whom they might take all of their problems.

After the capping, Robert Minkell offered a prayer of consecration. On Thursday, January 16, after a week of trying semester cases, a group of happy (yet a little sad for leaving all of us behind, we hope) pre-nursing students left SMC campus to go and take up their duties on the Florida campus.

Board Approves Dorm Construction, Road Paving, Campus Improvements

The regular 1958 session of the Southern Missionary College Board of Trustees met Thursday, January 16, on the SMC campus. The majority of the board members were present in the parlor of Maude Jones Hall at 3:30 a. m. and continued into the evening. The board assembled to lay plans for the operation and future expansion of the college.

T. W. Walters, president of Southern Missionary College, stated that the board gave evidence of understanding the problems facing SMC and higher education as a whole. This, he felt, was to a large degree responsible for the success of the council in its endeavor to secure the support of the current and projected college program.

During an interview Dr. Walters disclosed that many advanced reports were taken. The SOUTHERN ACCENT is the first publication to announce the fact that approval was given to the construction of a new women's dormitory. Plans will be developed at once to be studied and developed over a period of several months, and the beginning date of actual construction will be determined by the board within the year planned by the 1959 school year. It will be situated on the south end of the campus, immediately to the north of the small grove which flanks the tabernacle.

A further action provided that the industrial road, located to the rear of the principal college buildings, be paved from King's Bakery to the College Press and that it be continued to the academy building. This road is to be hard-paved through coming spring and summer and will eventually become a main thoroughfare.

Barbara Hoar Gets First Award in Temperance Meet

On Monday, January 13, the temperance contest for the academy was held in Lyne Wood Hall Chapel. Elder J. M. Akersman, temperance leader for College, presided. The speakers were Susan Bloor, Eugene Brewer, and Barbara Hoar.

Barbara Hoar, whose speech was on alcohol and its ill effects, placed first and was awarded a prize of $15.

Second prize was won by Susan Bloor, and she was awarded $10. Eugene Brewer took third prize as he challenged everyone to fight against the national habit of drinking American home life, morality and social life.

Barbara Hoar, who went on to enter the Union contest, won second prize and was awarded $75.

Underhill Visits Cuba Congress For Nature Studies

Dean R. A. Underhill visited Cuba during Christmas vacation to attend the 50th Anniversary Youth Congress which took place December 17-21, in Havana. It was the first Youth Congress to be held in the Inter-American Division, which at present has over 50,000 MY members.

Dr. Underhill was invited by the Inter-American Division to take charge of nature studies in the Junior and Pathfinder groups. He was also requested to make observations of the congress which will be sent throughout the conference.

Elder Theodor Lucas, MY Secretary of the General Conference, was there along with Elder H. M. S. Baskins of the Voice of Prophecy.

Special music was presented by the Cuban Harpists quartet of the Voice of Prophecy and Dr. and Mrs. Bittinbaum along with Mrs. Shabert from Collegedale.

Dr. Underhill stated that the Congress was wonderfully organized and beautifully directed. Elder David Bush, son of Elder Schoon, father of Avo Schoon, a former student of SMC.

The congress, which was attended by approximately four thousand ministers, was held in all sections of the Division, was held in the new Biltmore Coliseum, which will seat 7,000 people.

temperance contest the honorary degree of Professor Emeritus on two teachers who have become an integral part of SMC. For his long and selfless service to this college, Mrs. Mary Holder Dietel, M.A., was made Professor Emerita of Modern Languages; and Mrs. T. Carter, B.S., will receive the title, Professor Emerita of Business Administration. Mrs. Dietel has taught at SMC for 20 years, and Professor Carter has taught in our denominational schools for sixty-five years.

Plans for beautifying the campus include the masonry raising of Tucker Hall, an iron staircase at the entrance to the school property. This phase of campus improvements will be undertaken as soon as the notice and arrangements are made for the tenants of the old yellow house.

The Board of Directors of Southern Missionary College is comprised of the following:

Dean R. A. Underhill, President of the Southern Union Conference, chairman; T. W. Walters, President of Southern Missionary College, secretary; R. A. Underhill, Dean of Southern Missionary College, recording secretary; Louis N. Anderson, Principal of Highland Park School; J. H. Dorn, Principal of Dorn's Bible College; A. C. Fearing, President of Georgia College of Business Administration; L. B. Bunting, Manager, Florida State University and Hospital.

G. R. Hays, Educational Secretary, Southern Union Conference; William Sanborn, President of Madison College; H. D. Lawson, Principal of Highland Academy; L. J. Leslie, President of Alabama Missionary Conference; H. Lester, Senior Counselor; F. L. Murray, President of Kentucky-Tennessee Conference; W. L. McClure, Principal of First Lake College; A. P. McDow, Secretary-Treasurer, Southern Union Conference; Gerald Miller, President of Woodstock College.

G. R. Hall, President of Carolina Conference; L. M. Nelson, Youth Secretary, Southern Union Conference; M. C. Patten, Attorney-at-Law and CPA; H. H. Samford, President of Florida Conference; L. C. Sinclair, President of Georgia Conference; B. F. Sumner, Cotton Seed Producer.

Clymora Anderson Presents Graduation

Before Reclit

A senior school was presented Sunday night, January 13, 1958, by Clymora Anderson.

The program was opened with Mendelssohn's Song Without Words, No. 66. This was followed by four movements, Grace, Adagio, Allegro, and Poco. Then "Mourning, Peace, and Hope," "The Great Particles," "Let All Together Praise Our God" and "In This is Glorious" were sung with typical soloists which were amply demonstrated by Miss Anderson.

The third action of the program consisted of two works of Beethoven, "Chaconne" and "Cancion con Variazion."

The recital was concluded on a grand scale by Mendelssohn's Grand Fugue. Soloist by Howard.

A reception was held in her honor after the program.

Miss Anderson is of the class of Miss Abiah Wood.

SMC Names Nine to Receive "Who's Who" Awards; Chosen for Scholarship and Leadership

Helen Case

Nine names were selected from among the students of SMC to appear in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. Upper freshman students are selected each year on a basis of scholastic achievement, leadership ability, moral character, religious interest, and prospective usefulness.

Those who were chosen are: Ronald Haupt, Helen Case, Romayne Godwin, Joan Ausherman, Robert Ingram, Robert Purvis, Paul Jensen, Tom Walters, and Donald Wilson.

Chattanooga hospital while attending SMC. He has held a variety of offices, including chairman of the programs committee, president of United Delta Phi, and president of the Future Business Leaders Club. This year he is treasurer of the SA and photographer for the ACCENT.

A senior theology major, Bob Pierson has been an active leader in the spiritual life of the campus. Bob attended school in India while his parents were missionaries there. Perhaps that accounts for the fact that his first choice of work is "mission service." Bob was pres-

Paul Jensen

Paul Jensen is a resident of Collegeville, and a junior theology major. Last year he acted as chairman of the religious interests committee. This year he has helped to lay the foundation for the Youth Effort in his work as MV leader.

Romayne Godwin, an Alabamian, is a junior English major. This year he has passed his ability by taking

Joan Ausherman

Joan Ausherman is a native of Savannah, Georgia. He is a senior pre-med student with a major in chemistry. His previous extracurricular activities have included vice-president of his freshman class, chairman of the scholarship committee, and teacher of the junior Sabbath school department.

He has also been a noted performer with the touring troupe. Last summer he married Evey Cox, also a student of SMC.

Joan Ausherman

Ronald Haupt, current president of the Student Association, is a native of Savannah, Georgia. He is a senior pre-med student with a major in chemistry. His previous extracurricular activities have included vice-president of his freshman class, chairman of the scholarship committee, and teacher of the junior Sabbath school department. He has also been a noted performer with the touring troupe. Last summer he married Evey Cox, also a student of SMC.

Helen Case, from Chalzone, N. C., will graduate in May with a major in business and economics.

Don Wilson

SOUTHERN ACCENT editor Don Wilson is a junior theology major from Tennessee. A son of missionary parents, he received part of his education in Singapore. While at SMC he has worked in the physical education department, assisting the coach by teaching academy classes. Don has been chairman of the health and fitness committee and secretary-treasurer of the Ministerial Seminars.

NEZ WILL Complete Business Degree

Richard Bell, a native of Lakeland, Florida, has attended SMC for five years. His college education was interrupted for a time when he was "invited" to serve as an army personnel clerk. Later Richard returned to school to complete work on a degree in Business Administration. After graduation he will work towards becoming a certified public accountant.

On August 27, 1957, in Florida, this senior married Newell Hedden, who was also an SMC student. His job at the Mill and More Supply Company, Inc., has helped Richard pay tuition for several years.

Richard has served as assistant auditor of the Collegiate church for the past two years; he was the treasurer of the Modern Languages Club, and a member of the Future Business Leaders of America Club. Hobbes of water skiing and swimming, are quite natural for the Floridian.

Printed monthly by the Student Association financial report which may be of interest to the Student Association constituency at the present time.

It may be of special interest to note that the Student Association in producing the Index Student Directory has not been able to meet expenditures incurred in printing it, but it has done so in a special service to the student body in order that scholars may become acquainted with each other in the preparing of the annual at the close of the term.

Any additional surplus that may have accrued from the SOUTHERN ACCENT was added to the Student Union trust fund, which will go toward financing the new Student Union room now under completion in connection with the Home Economics building. Each year, unless there is a loss, a certain amount of money is paid back into a contingent reserve fund, which the Student Association draws upon in case of a loss.

To all who have contributed to the Ambrose L. Subline Memorial, which is now exhibited in the A. G. Danville Memorial Library, please sign a special notice of this report in regard to the coin involved. Dr. Subline was the founder of the SMC Student Association in 1946 and served as its coordinator for several years.

The exceeded expenses by income in regard to the Student Association statement is as wide as intended to be a reflection upon the past administrators, but during the year addressed coins were incurred in certain projects which were not allowed for in the original proposed budget. However, by the assistance of the student publications, SOUTHERN ACCENT and Smoker's Memories, additional funds were made so that the past administrators in reality came out in the black and not in the red, as might be indicated by only a casual observation of the attached statement.

Norman Wakeman Narrates Movies Taken Himself

"The World Between the Tides" was the name of the film shown Saturday night, January 11, in the college tabernacle. The author, Norman Wakeman, was here in person to narrate the picture.

The scenes were taken around the sea ports of San Francisco, Monterey, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver Island, and San Juan Islands. There were many beautiful scenes taken from the various ports of call.

Visiting the University of California Marine Station the audience was entranced as they watched the educated whale "talk" performer. Special interest was given to the act of tanning oil fishing nets to their salmon. One could not imagine the beauties that can be seen in the depths of the sea. Many life of all shapes and sizes were found in striking colors.

JUNIOR CLASS ORGANIZES TOLER, GODWIN, MADDOX, JONES, AND WASHINGTON ELECTED

Richard Toler, an accounting major from Takoma Park, Maryland, was elected to serve as president of the junior class. Dick is actively engaged in extra-curricular activities, being vice-president of the American Temperance Society and a Student Association senator.

To assist Mr. Toler, a capable English major, Romayne Godwin was selected as vice-president. She is a native of Oklawaha, Alabama, and a graduate of Forest Lake Academy. While at SMC she served as COC secretary, MV secretary, and columnist for the ACCENT.

Caryl Maddox, a graduate of Highland Academy, was chosen to serve as class secretary. Kirby Combs from Louisville, Kentucky, will be in charge of elementary education. She is serving as secretary of the Club Officers Council this year.

A business administration major, Billy Jones was elected to coordinate the finances of the class as treasurer. He attended Forest Lake Academy and since coming to SMC has been active in the different mutual organizations on the campus.

Herman Washington, a theology major from Albuquerque, New Mexico, was chosen to lead out in the spiritual life of the class. His high school was president of the Christian Mission Band and president of

Barksdale Addresses 43 Seniors; Doctor Underhill Makes Presentation

The senior class of 1958 was presented before the faculty and students during the chapel period Wednesday, February 12.

As Professor J. Mabel Wood at the organ played the processionals Dr. T. W. Walters and Dr. R. A. Underhill led Dr. J. A. Barksdale and Dr. Ray Heffelin and the seniors down the aisles of Lynn Wood Hall Chapel.

The class was presented by Dr. Underhill. The class consists of 43 students—30 of them men and 13 women.

A vocal solo, "The Great Awakening," was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Anderson with Vinton Bushnell at the piano and Professor Wood at the organ.

Dr. J. A. Barksdale, dean of Southern Polytechnic Institute, gave the address. According to Dr. Barksdale, the three main things that a student should go away from college with are: 1. The idea of freedom, 2. enough knowledge to contribute to everything, 3. an understanding which will enable him to get along with other people.

"We can retain freedom if we have the courage to work for it. There are three things from which freedom is lost:

1. Surrendering freedom and submit to dictators. 2. Continue to exist as we are for a while, then we won't exist any more. 3. Do everything in our power to help ourselves."

In conclusion, Dr. Barksdale stated that happiness comes to men when we completely understand that "it is better to give than to receive."

Dr. Heffelin offered the dedicatory prayer. The seniors marched to the chancel to the strains of the recessional played by Professor Wood.

The candidates for degrees are as follows:

Acredo, Juan
Austin, Ails
Bikes, Paul

Dasowakita Holds Reception; "Hearts" Theme of Evening

The annual reception was held in the tabernacle-auditorium Sunday evening, February 16, with the young ladies of the Dasowakita Forum acting as hostess for the young men of Upsilon Delta Phi.

Upon arriving at the tabernacle the young ladies and their escorts walked through a large heart and then went to their proper places at the long banquet tables. Old-fashioned horseshoe lamps were used on the tables for lighting, and the center pieces were stuffed red velvet and lace hearts with red and white streamers. Suspended from the ceiling in the center of the room was a large heart, glittering with fragments of mirror.

Carolyn Hoofard, president of the Dasowakita Forum, gave the welcome address. Chas. del Valle, president of Upsilon Delta Phi, followed with the response.

The dinner was served in courses by waiters and waitresses dressed in red and white. The menu consisted of baked potatoes, peas, carrots, meat with gravy, rolls and butter, ice cream and cookies.

Dinner music was furnished by Virginia Green, pianist, and Marilyn White, cellist.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Josephine Cunningham Edwards, who related a variety of her own experiences, stating that there were some days that, though barefoot at the time, "it would always be here."

Following the dinner a program was presented entitled, "No Everything Nice." This was a representation of the life of a girl from childhood to the time she was a grandmother.

The scenes progressed from the first, a little girl playing with her dolls, through her first grade at school, her academy days, registration for college, pieces of her cell life, life, her graduation, her marriage, young motherhood, and finally grandmotherhood.

Organ music was furnished by Sylvia Sletten. The scenes were interspersed with vocal solos by Jennie Arnold, Anne Davidson, Irene Cook, and Mary Rhoads, a vocal duet by Sharon Olson and Charles Perry, and readings by Marilyn Miller and Jule Anderson. Joan Kuster acted as narrator.

Palme Presents Program of Music

The Talge Hill benefit program, a musical production, centered around the male chorus with several other musical groups participating, will be presented March 15.

The musical will include vocal and instrumental solos as well as recorded music produced through Motorola high fidelity sound equipment.

According to Brian Wilcox, the director of the male chorus and co-ordinator of the musical production, there will be a wide variety of music including campus favorites across the nation, traditional, and patriotic music.

The price of admission will be $75 for adults and $50 for children. For tickets write to Treasurer, Men's Club, Talge Hall, Collegeville, Tennessee.

Walters Reports Annual Progress

Annual enrollment of all copy for the 1958 yearbook, Southern Missionary, has already gone to press. Working two and often three nights a week, the Memorial Staff has made great strides toward completing all copy by the deadline, March 1. If the marvelous staff continues to turn out copy as rapidly as it has done up to this deadline will be met, and the annual should be printed and ready for distribution about one week before school closes, states Tom Walters, editor of Southern Missionary.

For the first time the Southern Missionary College yearbook will be printed at the College Press. Special equipment was purchased in order to print the annual here. Since the printing is being done at the College Press all layout and paste-up work is being done by the Memorial Staff.

The cover for the annual, designed by Bruce Knapstad, an editor, has been completed, and it is being reviewed. If somewhat based, letters to be magnificent Leslie Peniston, the capable business manager, has said thirty-five hundred dollars worth of advertising space, that is still somewhat short of the $40,000 necessary to finance the job.

There has certainly been evidence that Lamar Phillips is vigorously working to get all students to enter the annual contest. Deadline for snapshots to be turned in is February 21.

Men's Forum Swims, Plays Ball

By Ron Pickett

The first big success of the new administration of the Upsilon Delta Phi took place last Sunday night, February 9, at the Central YMCA in Chattanooga.

Clamming the basketball games in the YMCA gym, to which the club also had access, was a nice refreshing swim in the pool.

Various water sports and other new activities such as diving, assorted races, and water "dog fights" were enjoyed by all.

When asked if he had a good time, Dick Larson said, "It's the best evening I've been on yet this year."

A number of short films were shown to the club members on Monday night at an added feature. The "Men of Valor" now known as "Men of Valor," now known as "Men of Valor," and how to referee an octopus fight.

These two events will be the opening of numerous plans of the Upsilon Delta Phi's new administration.

Biologists Earn Credit for Atlantic Coast Summer Field Trip

The first extensive biology field trip ever to be offered by Southern Missionary College is on its way to reality.

To be conducted in the coming summer, the activities will take ninety hours from their respective Tennessee valley during July and August.

Making camp along the two thousand mile itinerary will be done with two specially constructed trailers. Gifts from the Southern Union, one is to be used for food storage and preparation, and the other is a cache for mounted specimens collected enroute.

Three to four semester hours of college credit will be given in the fields of ornithology, entomology, and botany. Special biological field work is planned for the unoccupied time.

The group of 40-50 members will be directed by Dr. R. A. Underhill with the assistance of Professors E. O. Grandt and H. H. Kullman. This trip will conduct a special "Patriarchal leaders" training course in the local conferences. Held on the trip with the aim of developing active interest in nature study and campcraft. Details are being worked out by the local conferences.

The first week end will be spent in Meriden, Mass., and from there the party will proceed to the Gulf coast where they will be the guests of the Mississippi Gulf biological experiment station.

Working their way along the North Florida gulf coast and across the "sunshine" state to the Atlantic, the caravan will plunge into the deep recesses of the Oklawaha swamp. Later they will head toward Jekyll Island, a famous bird sanctuary in the Atlantic.

"On to Carolina" will be the theme as faces turn toward the mainland. Then to close the first camp Carolina they will reach their desert as the last week and end their sojourn.

A friendly "alley will welcome these "bearded" adventurers back to the "city of refuge."

This unprecedented project is the child of Dr. Underhill's recent film, Nature—God's Other Book. It is imperative that the study of nature be conducted in our elementary schools and throughout the Southern Union. More extensive and varied work in the future will carry their interest alive.

Branson Locates Site for Southern Junior College

The SJA work in the South... first obtaining a foothold in 1888... in which state a conference organization was effected eight years earlier, in 1880.

G. W. Colford opened Graysville Academy in 1893. This school grew to a considerable size; it passed into the hands of the denomination and became known as "Southern Training School."

In the autumn of 1912 an article entitled "Turkey and the Prophets" was written by E. D. Haskell of East Ridge for the Chattanooga Times. At this time Turkey and the Balkan states were threatened with war.

The Baptist pastor at Ooltewah read the article and was so deeply impressed that he advised Mr. Haskell to attend the next Fifth Sunday Convention at Ooltewah. Mr. Haskell was asked to give a lecture on the prophetic.

Mr. Haskell wrote to Elder W. E. Branson, at that time president of the Cumberland Conference, asking that he arrange for someone to fill the appointment. Elder Branson decided to do it himself. At the appointed time, Elder Branson and Mr. Haskell went to Ooltewah to attend the two-day meeting. They were kindly entertained by the Baptist church members. Elder Branson gave four lectures, and the people were delighted.

Elder Branson was invited by the pastor of the church to return for their next Fifth Sunday Convention. He continued his series until the message began to stir up opposition and the series was discontinued in the Baptist Church.

However, Elder Branson secured a tent in which he conducted a regular course of evangelistic services. The results were not very encouraging, but among the seekers for truth were D. Webb and John Hester.

The girls' dormitory of Southern Training School was destroyed by fire in 1915. It was decided to erect a location removed from town life, where the institution could have a larger development in agricultural lines.

A locating committee was appointed by the General Conference. This committee visited several places in different parts of the field without coming to a definite decision.

While the matter was still pending, Elder Branson made a special call on Dr. Webb D. Webb asked about the progress of the committee's work. Upon learning that no definite decision had been made, Dr. Webb told Elder Branson that he knew the very place for the school's location. He took him to the Thatcher farm, and Elder Branson was so pleased with what he saw that he assembled the whole committee on the site, and a favorable decision was made.

SENIOR SKETCH

DAVID HESS

David Hess, a displaced Northerner, comes from Orlando, Florida, but is now living in the Collegeville community. He really seems to love!

This coming May David hopes to get his bachelor's degree in business economics with a minor in religion.

He has taken a very active part in the extra-curricular activities as treasurer of the Upsilon Delta Phi business managers of the SOUTHERN ACCENT, and treasurer of his junior class.

It seems when the words "David Hess" are mentioned, David's eyes get big and fill with excitement. This just happens to rank first among his hobbies.

David's five years here at Southern Missionary College have been well spent, and he says he has enjoyed every one of them to the fullest.

Kim Attains Honor Roll

We are sorry to have overlooked the name of Joseph Kim, a student from Korea, in posting the first semester honor roll. He has successfully achieved a 2.4 GPA and should have been included on the list with the other scholars. Mr. Kim has done very well in spite of his inexperience in the English language.

SENIOR SKETCH

HELEDA HEFFERLIN

Declaring herself to be "Augustus' typical female," Heleda Hefferlin has more than the normal allotment of vivacity, personality, and friendliness. She claims six main hobbies, that of keeping her husband happy.

As of humankind for the youngest Ph.D. on this campus serves a full-time job, Heleda has maintained honor roll grades while completing work for her degree in home economics, with a religion minor.

Heleda Hefferlin

This senior was born in Merced, California, grew up in a family of seven, and was perfectly content to remain in her home state for 19 years. She is a graduate of Monterey Bay Academy.

When asked the dangerous question, "What do you think of your husband?" she answered, "Oh, he's O. K. I would never tell anybody that I think he's wonderful!" Heleda enjoys being a senator but considers senior sketches dull and dull, unadorned flattery.

Matron Retires

Mrs. Esther Williams will be retiring at the end of this school year after having spent 18 years of service at SMC, both as head of the laundry and the lichen. Mrs. Williams came here in 1940, spending her first ten years in the laundry and the last eight as matron in the dining room.

After retiring from her work here, she plans to visit her relatives in different parts of the states and then later perhaps live with her daughter in California. On coming to Collegedale in 1940, Mrs. Williams said that there are two things she would never do—laundry and lichen work. Nevertheless, she states that she has enjoyed these 18 years of work with young people.

SENIOR SKETCH

DAVID JARRETT

David Jarrett

On February 12, 1957, in Morganton, N. C., a vital bundle of energy was delivered, in the form of what was later named David Jarrett. David is known on this campus by his eagerness and thoroughness in anything which happens in his sphere of living. Never is he satisfied to let any explanation or phenomenon go unnoted until he has a satisfactory explanation of what whoever is doing the explaining is exhausted or just admits that he really doesn't understand the thing either.

David's hobbies consist of photography, swimming, woodworking, and "embology." A very big event happened to David on June 2, 1957, which was his marriage. This event has made several changes in him but their continuing, the most obvious one being the added weight he carries around (another way of putting it is "he displays more air than he has before"). He claims further that he has no pet peeves since he moved out of the dormitory. (Warning don't ever ask David what he thinks of marriage unless you have the afternoon free.)

Some of his activities while at SMC were: pastor of the Gym Club, partner of the sophomore class, vice-president of the chemistry club, leader of the ball band, leader of the seminar band.

His favorite classes are in the fields of chemistry and religion. We want to wish David the best of luck in his ambition to be a general practitioner in the mountains of North Carolina.

Leave Granted for Dean of Women

Miss Edna E. Stoenbarr, dean of women at SMC, will be leaving Collegedale at the end of the academic year. She will join her sister in southern California at the White Memorial Hospital. Miss Stoenbarr has spent most of her life with women and has requested a leave of absence in order to be with her mother and stay.

During her stay at the White Memorial she will continue her

Research Project Reaches Climax

In the spring of 1952 a research project was started which was to last six years before a certain final phenomenon was correctly forecast. The measurements were finally made as a result of discussions and studies made in the field of quantum physics, in which three SMC students took part last semester.

Dept. Quenches Many Local Fires

The Tri Community Fire Department, under the leadership of Roland Stone, has been having a real workout during the past few days.

Largely due to situations caused by the severe cold, this area has suffered several fires have broken out on the campus and in the surrounding community.

The Tri Community Fire Department serves Apison, Ooltewah, and Collegedale. In tone of emergency subscribers report by telephone to the business office of the college or to Maude Jones Hall. The area is immediately sounded, with a steady line to on-campus fires and a fluctuating tone for those off campus. This summons the volunteer firemen, who immediately leave where they are doing and rush to the fire house for duty.

"Adventures in Hi Fi" for Benefit

Adolphus Male Chorus
By BOB PICKETT

The Upsilon Delta Phi, members of Talge Hall, presents "Adventures in Hi Fi" featuring the Adolphus Male Chorus of Southern Missionary College in a unique and unparalleled program March 15, 1958.

This program is going to be one of the best ever presented on the SMC campus. As the name implies, "Adventures in Hi Fi," the entire program will be broadcast through the finest high fidelity equipment to insure the ultimate in sound reproduction.

The Adolphus Male Chorus under the capable direction of Bruce Wilcox, will present a program of the best in choral music. The selections will range from semi-classical to old-time favorites, to music something to enjoy every one.

As an added feature a guest singer will be presented.

Ann Davidson, Barbara Smith, Ann Jane Robinson, and the Schantz twins, Barbara and Beverly, will also add their talents to the program.

Hi-Fi Equipment
The Harwell Distributing Company of Chattanooga will furnish the high fidelity equipment to be used. Southern Mercantile Agency of Collegedale is the local dealer for all Motorola appliances.

The costs of the program will be a number of Motorola copies. The costs of the program will be a number of Motorola copies. The costs of the program will be a number of Motorola copies.

"Pages in Our History" Pageant Presented by Chorus and Band

By GENE KENDALL
Collegedale Academy's annual program was presented Saturday evening, February 22, 1958, in the Yubelane. This year it was a patriotic program of musical numbers interspersed with excerpts from great moments in our history which covered our nation's history from October 12, 1492, through the War of Independence, the War of 1812, the War Between the States, The Dying of the West, World Wars One and Two, and the way for freedom to the present time.

The Collegedale Academy Band, led by a concert as a prelude to the pageant. The patriotic numbers which Mr. Jackson, the conductor, threw to set the mood for the evening included the following: "King Author Overcome" by Thomas; "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" arranged by Reynolds; and "Lone Jane" arranged by Reynolds. Many of the songs on the program were presented by the musical chorus equipped of special costumes.

Six SMC-ites Get Loma Linda Bids

Six seniors from Southern Missionary College have just recently received their acceptances from the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, California, for medical school, so stated Dean Unbehler in a recent press interview.

The Dean further commented that those who were accepted to be congratulated for their diligent studies and will undoubtedly be a larger percentage of acceptances for medical school than any of the colleges or universities in the surrounding area. Those that were not accepted were all above average students and will undoubtedly be accepted here already been accepted at another medical school.

Loma Linda receives the applicants on personal and over all average grades, even though the minimum average grade point is 3.5 (about "C-"). There are very few that get in with lower than a 3.75 to 1.85 (or about slightly less than "B").

The following are those that received their acceptances to Loma Linda medical school: Paul Allen, Ronnie Haupt, Carl James, Harold Messinger, Jerry Newberger, and Vernon Speaks.

Elder Banks Holds Week of Prayer

Elder E. C. Banks plans to conduct the Florida Southern Week of Prayer, March 24-30 in Orlando, Florida.

Elder Banks, the head of the Division of Religion here at Southern Missionary College, plans to present a series of sermons, entitled "Acquire now thyself with God."

During his meetings, Elder Banks' purpose is to look at some of the most pictures in the Bible that God has given of Himself in order that we might understand Him better, love Him more, and trust Him more.

Elder Banks looks forward to week filled with spiritual blessings as he meets with our members and friends at the Florida Sanitation

Elder Roland Hegstad Conducts Spring Week of Prayer Here

Elder Roland R. Hegstad, associate pastor of Trinity Center, in the Spring Week of Prayer spoken at Southern Missionary College. He is presently connected with the Southern Publishing Association in Nashville.

Voice of Youth Continues Effort

Sunday night, March 2, marked the tenth in the eight-year series of the Voice of Youth effort being held by the students of SMC. The title of the meeting was "The United States in Prophecy." The speakers were given by Jody Bunch, Sandra Wilcox, Roland Stone, and Dwight Hillerbrand who are members of Speakers Band Number 2.

The week which features the first meeting is being done before each of the other meetings at the same time. The speakers are, very vital part of the success of the meetings. He mentioned in particular the Bible study training band which is contacting students and, though not asking for give Bible studies as their offering by the way making friends and visiting in the homes. As a preparation for the week they had received instruction on how to give "Bible-studies."

There are four speaker bands with four to five speakers in each band. Each band consists of students, both men and women, chosen without regard to their college curriculum. There are a few theologically and religious students, but the majority are students of other fields. Some areas represented are: business, nursing, theology, religion, and pre-med.

Elder M. N. Nelson, Southern Union M.V. secretary, not only was on campus about two weeks prior to the meetings helping make arrangements for them, but comes up each Wednesday evening to consult with the speaker.

The M.V. Voice of Youth Committee expressed their gratitude to the custodian committee headed by Eugene Burke. According to Crane the custodian sometimes misses their evening meal in order to set up chairs before the meeting, have to stay late afterwards and take down all the chairs and clean the auditorium. He stated that this is just as important a function as the speaking itself.

There has been a Voice of Youth meeting each Friday and Sunday evening since January 31. The last featured Opportunity Club which was made available and its capacity of around 200 has been reached each night. Most of these were Adults who have loyally supported the meetings, but there have been around 20 non-Adventist present each week.

Science Holds Open House

The Division of Natural Science held an "open house" on the evening of March 8, as the evening program consisted of more than 150 exhibits and demonstrations in the fields of biology, chemistry, and physics. The entire science building was filled with demonstrations, and other demonstrators and films were shown in the administration building.

The biology department had a museum section retaining numerous stuffed animals and birds. Many were given a drive look at drinking water, and those who cared to were given an opportunity to show just how big a "blow" they are.

The laboratory methods of many industrial processes such as metallurgy and electrolyzing were shown in the chemistry department. A large group with a demonstration of how to obtain a metal from the price of one attracted the thrifty. A demonstration of explosive spray bubbles was heard by all at the building.

The electronics show of the physics department was shown along with a method of lighting up a burned-out fluorescent tube. An out-of-the-world lecture on how to build a "sprinkler" was also given.

Seniors Welcome For College Days

By BOB PICKETT
College Days, an annual event presented by the Student Association, will soon be held! This year the fun will begin the 13th of April and related to the morning of the 15th, 1958.

The welcoming of the seniors from the various academies, the gaudy, the laughter of a young old student, and shouting with old buddies will soon take place.

On the occasion of the 13th of April the seniors will start arriving on our campus. During the morning the seniors will get settled and register, which will be the first step in an enjoyable and busy week.

Registration will take place in the A. G. Daniels Memorial Library from 10:30 A.M. until 12:00 P.M. After registration the students will be free to do what they please.

After lunch at our cafeteria, starting at 1:30 P.M., industrial tours will be conducted by the Student Association. These tours will include all of the industries which set our college apart. (Continued on page 4.)

Students Here Aid Two Fire Victims

By VERNON NICK
The recent Brotherhood Week afforded an opportunity for the members of the Southern Missionary College faculty to put into practice what this specific period of time enjoins. On February 18 at 12:30 P.M., Leslie McDonald and Jo Ann Miller, student teachers at the Standley Gap Laboratory School, advised us everything they had here at school was destroyed by fire within a few short minutes. That evening the plight of these young ladies was presented to their "sisters" in Ables Jones Hall, and within a period of time comparable to the time in which the disaster occurred, some 230 articles of clothing, besides accessories and needles, were packed together. In addition, $12.00 was donated, some of which came in the form of 18 envelopes addressed to the contents of some unlovely girl's paper bag.

The following Friday, in response to an appeal made by the Student Association, the members of chapel, students and faculty joined together in adding more than $50 to the gifts presented to the victims of this misfortune.

We are thankful that upon occasions such as this we are willing to participate in such an activity, and we hope and pray that the Lord will keep us humble that we may be able to respond to the needs of our fellowmen.

SENIOR SKETCH
C.P.A. McClellan
Graduates Soon

John Frank McClellan. Heard the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Frank McClellan by arriving on July 19, 1951, at Clark, Wisconsin.

After completing the DeLoe Church School in Clark, N. C., he entered Mt. Pisgah Academy where after four years he graduated.

He lives in the village with his wife and two sons, ages 7 years and 6 months.

In October, 1952, John became a member of the United States Army. During this time he received 15 months in Korea. At the present he is a Master Sgt. in the 302nd United States Army Hospital.

Teaching Career

A brief case, a crown, and a ready smile. That's Cliff Keller, a senior from Louisville, Kentucky, who will graduate next September as a teacher in mathematics, natural science, and history.

Back 'N' Forth

Just in case the reader edition of this paper did not use the name that was given to this—whatever you want to call it—let us say that it would be "Back and Forth."

"Back and Forth." Have you ever gone back and forth? You probably say that you have, but I wonder if you really have. If you did, it is beyond my present comprehension as to how you would do it.

By way of informing you of something, I will state that this is no way, shape, or form intended to be in competition with "Helter and Thither," of whatever you call it.

One more little gem of thought. The other day I heard someone utter someone else, if someone and someone were still going instead. How tangy does this tangy but these days tangy tangy!

Spring Arrived
In Collegiate!

Yes! And a Little Spring is up again as Hatz plants are traveling through old mother earth's barrier. Some are already reaching their debut with the Fall. Others are merely looking for their way with a tender ray of light.

Scholars "Play"
In Gymnasium

On any evening of the week you can step into the Tabernacle and witness the action of a professional league in a place on the playground for the elite of the city.

Spring Has Sprung

The first gusts of spring have blown over the valley of Collegeville. A chorus of frogs leaping forth with a constant, croaking resonance. A few days ago, as we came down the steps of Maude Jones Hall, a speckled bird on the lowest limb of a holly tree was warbling a prelude to spring.

But with the coming of spring there's one thing we should remember: statistics show that year after year the disease most fatal for G.P.A.'s (particularly those with low resistance) has been spring fever.

Letter to the Editor . . .

To the Chief of The Paper, I always dread dribbling garbage people but I feel that a remedy needs to be done. I'm not from too far, I'm from the back woods of a small city. But we do have things that surround people in our city. Not that our downtown institute does have adequate recreational facilities. But for the community as a hole, I feel the more having. More precisely, variety.

To display several examples. Because the workers of the cafeteria insist on going to breakfast too early in the hour, I find it difficult to progress to parks of my more vibrant enjoyment than the simple confines of my room.

My doctor-andian, by name (who is a very good doctor) has impressed upon my consciousness the necessity need for protein. But my weak stomach will not allow hard protein to pass through it. Therefore I find it of a necessity to eat a very good breakfast. When I was in the store I was not able to find them unadvised Wayne Durrell, who is a reasonably good individual. I found them and proposed a letter to professor G-mead of the management. This I understand. Upon understanding this, I was horrified to be told that the store did not even entertain this. This is only just my instance.

In the home of the girls in which I live, one of Member Student's status is the curfew which is marked at 10:15. This hinders my observance of the late late late late late live show at 2:30 because America might nation which the is, owes more than we, of the modern era, will realize to that constant cold the re, the issue, the blank old art as man's greatest enemies, and they are. Temperatures being well cooled long, the most robes can soon freeze a man to death. Billionaire can count a man to become lost within a few feet of camp.

But perhaps even greater than has been thus on the awful cold of that strange thing called "disinfectant." Take a few notes, confine them to their bed, and brew up a storm fever as only the antibodies can know, and leave them to themselves. Soon they began to get an awful fever. Then the arguments begin; if left unhooked, they turn into fire-floods!

Individuals, the kindness and thought of mind, the confinement, the cold and wind, the unpleasant habits of others, all these begin to lay siege to the mind of the man as he lies ailing at the blank editing.

These are just a few of the disabators which these men at the South Pole may face. And yet, they are all volunteered for the job; they are taking a monumental and discovering that which will make the eyes of the world start from their.

The men who are willing to meet and withstand the forces of Nature at its most ferocious, back the same frontier our forefathers pushed back, only their way is in some ways easier and in other ways more difficult.

A difficult, dangerous, lonely task, this, and so that the Foreign Accent respectfully dofs its hat.

Letters to the Editor . . .

Dear Editor, I have quite an irregularity in receiving the ACCENT this year. If I remember correctly I paid $2.50 when I registered at the beginning of the year. I'm wondering if I'm going to get my money's worth. Maybe the staff doesn't turn in their assignments. Maybe the Press doesn't get it out when they are supposed to. Whatever the reason, I would appreciate it if you could give me an explanation for its irregularity in publication.

Your truly, Name withheld by request

Dear Author of Hilder and You, Sir, for the enlightenment of the many youth in darkness, do you please it would be at all possible for you to write me up, informing me when writing your next, informal words of wisdom?

Ad C. Tenso. Dear Author of Letters to the Editor of Hilder and You, Sir, you are not a member of Hilder and You, would like to say that I do not believe that you need to write such letters. You did I believe that if said author wishes to withhold his name it is perfectly at your right.

And anyway, you didn't give your full name. Very sincerely, Ad Christ.

Dear Writer of Letters to the Editor of Letters to the Editor of Hilder and You, My dear Sir,

I believe the same way that you do about the privilege of the associate member as to his right to use his own name. I was merely making a suggestion.

By the way, why didn't you put your full name in? Most very sincerely, A Dav.

Dear So and So, etc. Let's stop. Most very much sincerely, Ad Chris.

Dear: OK. Most ever to very much sincerely, Alv D. Ist.

Katydid for Sale "Niek" Names

Pat Mathers and Lois Finney are the proud owners of brand new, artificial pony tails. On the evening of the science open house they decided to bring them to the open house. When one fellow young person remarked about the sudden rapid growth of their, Matters retorted, "Oh, we eat lots of spinach."

Wrest matiers and screech of delight (from Lou DeLoz) were heard when the girls pulled out their pony tails. When one fellow young person remarked about the sudden rapid growth of their, Matters retorted, "Oh, we eat lots of spinach."

Feeling into the dark at about ten p. m. evening Anne, Jean, [Johnson was heard to remark, "I just came from Mide Church practice." Rash statements like that could make a person wonder about one's sanity.

Our most revered, if cruel, editor leads a hectic life. On Tuesday morning while returning from Cincinnati with a carload of friends he had an moderate amount of trouble. The gasoline burned out, the battery died, they had a flat tire, they ran out of gas at 4. m. in a wilderness, and, as a final touch, when they turned off the main highway to return to SMC they practically crashed into a large sign which declared ambiguously, "ROAD CLOSED." When they finally did arrive at SMC the car stopped in front of Talge and absolutely refused to budge.

So you think you're economical, lady Smith decided that she was wearing out her shoes on one side faster than the other, so she began wearing them on the wrong feet. No one noticed so she switched them back to their respective and rightful feet. There are many ridiculous uses in M.I.H. Some of those used include: "Palican" Elliott, "Gypsy Caravan" [Crawman], "Turle Carlo" Lyle, "Revver" Bidye, "Bustin" Butler, "Little Knuckthead" Weeds, "Wier" Weider, "Caravan" Leeward, and "Fossil-Flower" Shanks. If you're not explicitly chiding just holler "UTI Petal" and at least one-fourth of the girls will waver.

John Kivlor reports that one evening, just after she had gone to bed, Anne Cunningham declared loudly and positively, "I won't go off tomorrow; I haven't a thing to wear!" Unfortunately, Anne did not.

Know anyone who likes Katydid? Locusts, crickets, vibrant-pinked Katydid? They're delicious, nutritious, and make you feellicious. If you care to purchase a can, or twelve (they're actually 12-cans), contact Carolyn Lowry, Dianne Wright, or the writer of this column. Contacted at the following address: the Drowswicket Sewing Circle, and our mission in life is to sell 144 cans of Katydid.

"Dee" Biddle has a bettering opinion of her roommate, Onight Ah! She thinks she has the best hair in the world. Her hair is on the bed by a rag doll with bright red hair. "There she is. She dyed her hair!" replied Dede.

One noon in the cafeteria Anne Cunningham emotionally gave the pep talk that she had in an "ancient bible" - her favorite piece of Dantine gum, which she had been chewing steadily for five months. She said it was the "best she could do." It was!

Tucker Raffles Waffles Vacation Vanishes

Due to an unfortunate encounter with the assistant editor of the last issue my column has been shunned to about 15. No kidding, it seems as though nothing has happened so far. Last issue - even all the things have happened there were written about it.

Friends, if you like waffles - real, wonderful waffles, let Tucker go for the good stuff. He got up a waffle shop in our modern (?) kitchen. I know that they are good because I have eaten some. I decided to make a few things before writing about them, because I didn't taste his waffles. So I went to his waffle shop.

Another thing of prime importance that you will undoubtedly be most overjoyed to learn is that the other evening we had no water which to wash with.

Dick Tucker is a great guy. When asked if he had any new hair, the column he said, "I just told them what a good fellow I am. Dick, I would be, I want to write about other people, for now. Something came out not too long ago and spring weather. Boy, was it good to get home! We surely felt for you guys that had to stay here while the rest of us were at home.

This coming week and is homecoming week end here at SMC. The Tumbling Troup is supposed to perform for this occasion, and I'm glad to see that it'll be a good one. They won't be taking my neck in this. I broke my toe! There is more than one way to get the better off a pig.

Although it has not been within the last day or two, it has happened, and you don't know about it so I will inform you. There was a couple of times that the fire siren has gone on and the middle of the night. I don't know if it was a fire or a drill or at least one occasion he rolled over and said "geocities." Roommate, the -dorm -is on fire - I guess we had -better- get out. Then we would roll over and go back to sleep.

Mary Dietel Receives Title of Professor Emeritus in Languages

Mary Helder Dietel, who has taught in the languages division of Southern Methodist College for a number of years, was recently given the title of Professor Emerita by the college board. When the Society of Arts received her for a sabbatical of her life, she graciously consented.

Sixty years ago I was born in Gaesmer, Ohio, though my childhood and youth were spent just outside the "city limits" of Lorain, Ohio, a tiny dot on the map containing some 250 inhabitants. My father and I did not then realize how privileged we were to grow up under such an unusual and interesting environment. The "Link White City," all of the houses of which were painted white, is the home of the Ohio Farmers' Institute Company, with branch offices in the cities. By the population increased considerably as office workers from the surrounding towns of Seville, Lodi, and Medina (all Spanish names) passed their cars in front of the main company. Even on Sundays many touring cars from Akron and Cleveland stopped near the only hotel and eating place, called Ye Tavern, where even at that remote era of flared bowls, each chicken dinner cost $1.00. There was a park to the very center of town, around which the solid cement street divided in all four directions. We had one general store and two churches, Universalist and Methodist. We belonged to the latter and were proud of the fact that our organist had carried the globe and had studied music abroad. There was a consolidated school which held such high standards that our beloved Latin teacher was asked to resign later because he had no dollars. The company had its own bean band and minstrel shows for the workers, and plans were being made for an extensive golf course. As a family we never missed the frequent Lyceum numbers given in the company's auditorium. All prizes and honors, as well as in the park and the cemetery, were kept in admirable condition. We children roamed the woods, fished and swam in the creek, learned to make garden and to grow flowers. This was country life at its best.

During my second year of high school I was baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist Church, when a new and more wonderful life began. The following September found me at Mt. Vernon Academy, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, where I was granted an 1897, I earned three scholarships in the college work in order to receive my natural diploma and to be able to attend Washington Missionary College where I spent four extremely happy years and received my B. A. degree in 1919.

In order to better prepare myself for mission service in Spain, I asked to teach elementary school for one year. Mr. O. S. Harshbarger gave me the first low grades near Mt. Vernon Academy and arranged for me to live in his home. The years 1920-1929 found me in Spain serving as a wife of an evangelist, departmental secretary for the M.V. work, and Sabbath schools for the Spanish Mission, while learning how to keep house and to be mother to ten children under new laws, at times, very discouraging conditions. Finally, as he was affectionately called, died at the age of twenty-eight months which made the birth of Margarita Levora a very important occasion, especially since she resembled the native children.

Upon returning to America on furlough I was asked to teach Spanish at Washington Missionary College, where I continued teaching until 1938, except for one year spent at the University of Maryland where I received my MA degree in 1933. The summer of 1938 found me traveling in England, France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, and Spain and studying for two months in Paris at L'Alliance Française.

In 1938 I was invited to head the modern language department in this college. The happiest twenty years of my life have been spent in Collegiate I consider being here ideal because my home is in the country, yet I enjoy the conveniences of city life, each day I taste the sweet fruit of Christian joy, love and helpfulness. I married at the annual and dramatic presentation of the members of the large Collegiate family, and the event is a pleasant (this winter expected).

In 1948 three carloads of students and chaperons left this campus for Mexico. It was fortunate during those five weeks south of the border I chatted the yams, muddled over Chapultepec Park, Toluca Market, Fortín de las Flores, and other points of interest, bathed at dawn and at sunset in the beautiful waters by Vera Cruz, and bought two kind-carved, ivory-carved at the floating markets at Xochimilco. These came out during decais, my classroom because I was forced to see them for another.

My hobbies used to be playing the piano, gardening, and visiting college days. Cramping arthritis aggravated by a broken hip changed my pastimes to extensive reading, writing, and chatting—preferably with students. I love young people—all of them—and I hope to meet every one of the thousands whom I have taught when our Saviour comes to us in the school above.

PHYSICIST VISITS SMC

Dr. E. M. Davis, physicist and head of the California Institute of Technology and Princeton University, visited SMC last week. He is on his way to Bryn Mawr College since 1946 and has been head of the department since 1946. During World War II he was promoted to Commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He is a member of the following societies: American Physical Society, American Association of Physics Teachers, Franklin Institute, New York Academy of Sciences, Optical Society of America and Sigma Xi.

The board of trustees of Southern Missionary College regrets to announce the resignation of Dr. R. A. Underhill, who has been dean of the college for the past two years. Attorney Speaks On Sunday Law

Recently the Business Administration had as its guest Mr. Sam McAllister, Jr., a Chattanooga attorney who was prominent in defending a recent Sunday law.

He spoke on the current problem of Sunday law in the city of Chattanooga. He also answered questions of the club members on other current law topics.

A called meeting of the club was held for the election of the new president. Jerry Holdridge was chosen, and Judi Stevens was elected public relations officer. There will, with the assistance of Ann Elliott, vice-president, Barbara Smith, secretary, Wayne Daniels, treasurer, and Professor Wayne VandeVeer, sponsor, carry on the future activities of the club.

Pierson Begins and Ends School in Mission Field

"Travel" should have been Bob

Pierson's middle name. When in 1937 in Surat, India, he was five years in India with his missionary parents in 1941 he returned to South Africa and Beaufort, Washington, D. C., where he lived for a time, then moved to New York City. The new five-year job spent attending grade school in Mandeville, Jamaica, then he moved to Truroed, Africa, where at Collegiate for a short time. Bob and his family returned to the United States for four years. Bob spent his last year at Vanceport Hill School in the wilds of northern Indiana.

Having completed a year of study at Madison College, he recently finally made his way back to SMC to take the remainder of his year. He will graduate in June with a theology major and a minor in history.

Returns to Parents' School

During his three-year stay at SMC, Bob has attended all of the seminar bands, and his biggest dream of the Ministerial Institute, president of Christ's Love, and the Southern Accents. As a hobbyist Bob has Greek, stamp collecting, and Tom (Lamb).

A Florida wedding for June 25 is the most important thing on Bob's mind just now, but summer plans also include evangelistic work in the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference. This fall his destination will be the Seventy-day Adventist Theological Seminary in Washington, D. C., where he will take advanced work. After returning to the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference he hopes to return to the mission field

SA Sponsors Egg Hunt in Park

The first annual Easter Egg Hunt at SMC was sponsored by the SA on Sunday, April 6.

At 1:30 P.M. with the sun shining brightly, the students met in the chapel and from there proceeded to the Student Park. There they were given instructions at the gate and immediately started the search. There were eggs everywhere in the park, and many students found more than they could carry.

Frauds of silver dollars were given those who found the gold eggs.

Following the hunt fast eggs were given to prize takers, trophies, and prizes with ice cream was served.

The event came to a close with a group in the park, where a band is singing choruses.

Clineson Receives U. N. Fellowship

Dr. J. M. Clineson, a senior pre-medical student, has recently been granted a fellowship at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, in the field of Radiological physics.

The fellowship was granted by the Atomic Energy Commission, Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. The fellowship is for nine months of academic work, the study of radiation hazards, and dosimetry at Vanderbilt University following this September, and three months field work at Oak Ridge the following summer.

Dr. Clineson plans to attend medical school and specialize in radiology after he finishes this course.

SMC Students Participate in Chattanooga Art Exhibit

Seventeen SMC art students entered their work in the sixth annual exhibit of the Artistry of Chattanooga and Family, March 9-30, at the Hunter Gallery of Art in Chattanooga. There were 216 entries representing work in sculpture, watercolor, oil, and ceramics.

Five of the SMC entries were mentioned: "Night on Market Street" by Alvin Christensen, "Tropics of Love," Don Davidson, "Workshops Paradise," Shirley Edwards, "Los Angeles 2 x 4 in.," Bruce Ruppel, "Fruit Supremacy," (Mrs. Finney), "Alex Pinter, Sculpture

Home Ec Supper; Grundset Emcees

The home economics club of Southern Missionary College held a neighborhood in the college dining hall last Sunday evening, March 30. Three courses were served—a salad course, a main course, and a dessert course.

After the meal Mary Sue Estes, club president, turned the program over to Professor Edna Grundset. Professor Grundset began the evening's program with the words, "And seeing Tom beat tonight reminded me of a story I once heard. There was a bunch of moose. . . ."

Professor Grundset then announced Ann Wilson, who sang "A Cottage Small by a Waterfall," accompanied by a piano. She also played two piano solos, and Marilyn Miller gave a reading.

The climax of the evening came when the tables were pushed back against the wall in preparation for the grand march. Librarian Underhill sat at the piano being played by two columnists, Living Professor Grundset, the director "All night now—March!" commanded Director Grundset, and promptly backed quite unceremoniously into the fold-down. Thereupon half the water in the pond was transferred splatly to the floor, and the large plant in the center of the pond was made to twice miss becomingly about his head. But he is not to be undone by such an incident, and he rose, wiping himself out and led the march to its final conclusion!

SA Elects Officers Wilson, Crane, and Godwin; Short and Luce are Editors

The annual election of the officers for the Student Association and publications editors of SMC was held here Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4.

To serve as president of the SA for the 1953-54 school year, Donald Wilson was elected. Wilson has a simple background for his new duties, having served on the Senate for the past two years—this year in the capacity of vice-president. He is the son of missionary parents and has received his education in several different sections of the globe. Presently he claims Covington, Kentucky, as his home.

Don Crane, sophomore theology major, was elected to serve as vice-president. Crane's past experience includes president of his student body at Collegiate Academy, '50 and Religious Interest Chairman on the Senate this year. He also led in the Youth Forum which was conducted by the young people of SMC recently. He received the earlier part of his education in a mission school in India, where his parents were missionaries.

Don Hall, a resident of the Collegedale community, was elected to be the SA treasurer. Hall is a business major and is receiving practical experience in his chosen line by working in the accounting office of SMC.

Remmy Godwin, a junior English major from Alabama, will serve as SA secretary for 1953. Miss Godwin has had a wide background of experience along the secretarial line, having worked in the registrar's office during her stay at SMC. When the register, Mrs. Elva Godwin, was injured in an automobile accident last summer, Miss Godwin took over her duties and has carried them out very nicely while Mrs. Godwin was able to resume her activity.

For editor of the SOUTHERN ACCENT, Donald Short was elected. Short is a junior sociology major. He was born in Washington, D. C., but spent a number of years in South Africa, where his parents were missionaries. This is his second year at SMC. He is employed at the College Press.

Cecily Luce was elected to the office of editor of the South

Monthly, college yearbook. Miss Luce is from Washington, D. C., and is a sophomore. Planned studies. She has worked with the editors of both this year's and last year's Monthly, having served this year as assistant editor. She will be remembered by readers of the ACCENT for her Made Good, Miss Hall Column.

Others running for office in this election included: Dick Toler, Ken Lorenz, Leonard Vialoff, and Curt Maddox.

Election of the various committee chairmen will take place sometime the last of April. Organization of the 1953-54 Senate will take place shortly after the coming election. Don Wilson stated.

Sam Campbell Presents Lyceum Here April 26

"Animals of the North Woods," a film and lecture by naturalist Sam Campbell, will be presented in the Tabernacle auditorium at 8:30 P.M., Sunday, April 26.

This lecture presents the facts, features, beauty, and appeal of the great North Woods—that vast area of forests and lakes stretching across northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan. It is rich in animal life, presenting both the friendly wild life who live in Sam Campbell's woodland sanctuary and here appeared on his many books, and the wilder ones that roam the forest. The audience is first introduced to the forest and immediately the great service this wood land and its residents to mankind physically, mentally, and spiritually. The simple facts are identified, the marvelous patterns of seasons revealed.

Then such delightful and amusing characters as the Lemmings, porcupine, Rats and Rats the raccoons, Gonna Bruin the skunk (He's "Gonna Be A Skunk's") Nip and Tuck the foxes, and other creatures are introduced. The lecture is as humorous as well as informative. It is a fine "family-like" presentation, holding the interest of children as well as adults. No one would ever forget the antics of Loony Coot, the amazing raccoon character, digging his way right inside a watermelon, or Bubby the Chipmunk, buying peanuts on a forest gear's month. No will

Lab Assistant Says Work Is Beneficial

My experience as a lab and student assistant in the chemistry department has helped me immeasurably in my chemistry courses; in fact, in a few of my courses it has improved my grade by a letter.

My duties include helping students with their chemistry experiments, answering (?) questions about chemistry courses, checking equipment and reagents out for experiments, making up reagents, and washing test tubes.

Although I could earn more by working elsewhere, I find that the good working conditions, pleasant atmosphere, and the wide latitude of work and working hours, more than make up for the meagre salary. I mean, then, too, I enjoy being my own boss, that is, using my own initiative and ideas in my usual washing test tubes.

I heartily recommend that you work to anyone who is interested in chemistry.

Alumni Gathers on College Campus

Classes of '32 and '47 honored

Members of the Alumni Association of Southern Missionary College met on the SMC campus April 3 and 4.

Activities began on Friday night, April 3, with a supper service in the college chapel. Elder Joe Criss, president of the first graduating class, presided at the supper. College '46, gave the address at the supper hour. After his remarks, the SMC '46 class of Missions was presented by Elder Paul Boynton, with the assistance of A. A. Adams, missionary parents. Following this color slides were shown of the families of Billy Harkell and James Gaffer, now serving in foreign fields. Elder Boynton announced that it would be a good idea to have a library of slides at SMC, with copies of the slides also to go to foreign fields periodically during representative visits.

On Saturday morning, April 4, the alumni were in charge of Sabbath School on each of the various campus divisions. The eleven o'clock hour found a wide representation participating in the church service, with the sermon "Hearts a-Grate" by Dr. J. M. Clineson, given by being my own boss, that is, using my own initiative and ideas in my usual washing test tubes.

At three o'clock Sabbath afternoon a program was given.

Editorial . . .

>Welcome to Collegedate

Welcome, academy seniors, to the campus of Southern Missionary College! It is the sincere desire of the Editorial Staff of the SOUTHERN ACCENT that your stay will be a most enjoyable one.

We would urge you to get acquainted with our campus. Our Student Association has planned for you an all-inclusive program, but it is up to you to avail yourselves of the opportunities which are presented.

Perhaps you won't like some of the things you see, no place suits everybody to a perfect. But remember, that it is by co-operative, united effort that we strive toward perfection. That is one of the reasons why we need you.

However, we hope that the things you don't like will be in the minority. We hope that you will feel the warmth of the friendly atmosphere, and that you will like it well enough to become an integral part of it come September.

It is but a few days until you will graduate from academy. You will have attained a goal, and this is admirable. But in this day a high school diploma just is not enough for those who would rise above the mediocre. A college education is desirable—yes, even necessary.

Southern Missionary College, the "School of Standards," holds for you the key to tomorrow. It waits for you with open doors, bidding you to come and receive a Christian education with Christian teachers and associates. Once obtained, this priceless education can never be taken from you.

Maybe these buildings with their bells and whistles and the hum of classroom activity seem cold and forbidding to you. Allow us to say, they once seemed so to us, too! And now, with every building on the campus is as familiar as our own homes, and it really wasn't bad, after all! Another thing—please bear in mind that this is a visitors' day—there ordinarily are not half this many people hurrying about.

You will find college a challenge—different and intriguing. So bring your various talents and personalities and come to SMC. This is the place where you may develop and use them to their fullest.

SEE YOU NEXT SEPTEMBER!

Future President's Message

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to welcome you, seniors! We, the students of SMC, have been looking forward to your arrival for many months now. We have opened our doors and our hearts to you, and we hope you will feel completely at home with us.

I know that as you participate in the program we have planned for you the warm spirit of SMC will captivate your hearts and imaginations. It is a wonderful privilege to contribute to a Christian school such as this for a college education. Here you can associate with young people who hold high ideals and Christian principles.

Your student association officers for next year are already planning for a bumper year. There are many formal and informal socials in the offing when we shall have the opportunity of getting better acquainted with each other. We will be working on projects, such as a Student Center, to make life at SMC more enjoyable for all. It is our desire to serve you in every possible way, so plan now to come back next year and help us!

The Foreign Accent

By STANLEY SHOWALTER

Strategically situated south of Saudi Arabia, west of India, and east of Egypt, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, although not delimiting the Arab world as a part of the world's newspaper recently with rumors of a major change in national policy, is rolling backwaters to be shifted from present King Saud to his brother, King Prince Faisal.

During my own time and probably yours, the life and Saudi, through their forms of character and their (and with a little grudging) from the scene of sword and rifle) formed a majority of the warping, nomadic tribes of the Arabian Peninsula into the semblance of a feckless nation, with some work, has come down to the present-day Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Blessed with a dynamic personality which was practically indefeatable, the Saudi managed to keep that kingdom united together with a little glue which you and I call my Arab and then, the old King.

Causes of Fire

The throne passed to his eldest son, the present King, "Jafik" old King was commonly known as the "Lion of the Desert," today's King King the fierce boldness and nobility of the old King. He has been somewhat content to sit back completely while graft, corruption and intrigue were his first resort on his kingdom.

In the mid of the Arab, another monarch Saud has made his mark in Saudi Arabia, especially the United States, where he was recently elected President.

The Arabs dislike Westerners, here's the fact. Thus their king's more-than-equal relationship with this country has been looked upon by his people with hard looks and broken hearts. The silence has been broken by mutinies and modern plans, growing ever louder and more aggressive.

As if to add coal of fire to the King Saud's head, Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, now the most popular man in all the Arab nations, lost to him with a spiteful barrage of accusations ranging from supposed attempted block to the Egypt-Syria merger to the plotting of Nasser's assassination. Pan-Arabism, Saudi Arabia, along with some of the more prominent (but pious) that is this field was a grave error on his part.

Out in the desert on a hunting expedition, Prince Faisal was made aware of the critical condition of affairs back home in Saudi Arabia. A duty-bound being having been Faisal thanked into the palace.

Things, as mentioned by Nasser, had gone far enough. The country was in an economic mud-hole, the people were gunning against the old King's family, corruption was at an all-time high. Either Saudi would have to change or he would have to die. Faisal is the real power in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, not his brother, the King.

This change of administration meant a great deal to the United States, for Prince Faisal is decidedly pro-Western (even though he declares thus).

When any administration shows signs of weakness or weakness, most people appreciate a major change, but not appears that the Arab world is due for a complete shift in the lines of political affairs. If, of the crisis comes, it is doubtful that the West can count any help from Saudi Arabia, regardless of the fact that Faisal claims he wishes to maintain friendly relations with the United States and will remain neutral in any and all disputes among Arab nations.

If President Nasser of Egypt can somehow manage to convince Faisal that Saudi Arabia should be all means join the United Arab Republic, he will certainly have earned for himself the title of the modern-day Saladin. We Saudis will wish to watch the Middle East and in particular, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, for it is inevitable that the sands of time are fast running out for King Saud and his policy of Pro-Westernism, and we can expect him at any time to give up his stately state away into the desert and anonymity.

College Daze

Frush on Third

After your college days have flown (well, crawled) by, and you've a full-fledged, delightful years spent in Maude, you'll probably remember your first impression. At first glance you thought the dorm was an after market. They were right about September 1st, a great number of girls began coming into college with formal sets, hairdos, huge laddy bears, and gold-leafed "the necessary" paraphernalia for dorm living.

As a dear Miss Frush, you were immediately concerned to feel the floor, and naturally, you had big bodsprints in a great. Your favorite color combination!

Lines, lines! That sums up registration week, an ordeal to be healthily forgotten. It was over, you'd climbed from behind a mountain of newly acquired books and trotted off to classes.

You'll remember Candlelight Hour, that exquisite little after-program-y gathering where you sat in the cafeteria and whipped "sweet talkings." One April night you were adorned Easter eggs. How college! The Easter egg hunt held next day in Student Park was even more interesting, especially since they served laddy boys. "Wacation" is a glorious word to any dorm inhabitant. Spring, Christmas, Thanksgiving, bad trip—any excuse to show your looks was welcomed with shouts of gle. During Christmas vacation every faculty hoped to be snow-bound, whether in Minnesota or Florida.

During semester exams an ominous quiet fell on dorm and campus. Everyone studied diligently for one week, then the normal upper returned. Lost you misunderstood, some people DO study around here. Well, I guess so.

Spring breaks on a rash of excuses for having picnics; the junior picnic, freshman-sophomore picnic, Junior's Club picnic, and innumerable smaller picnics and swimming excursions. There is absolutely no reason for anyone to drink between April 1st and graduation. (Unless they want to graduate.) Reverse Courtesy Day, ball games, man-of-war, skating, and a sumptuous soup dolly feed, sponsored by the DeWahlville Forum and Updell DeWahlville, all these added to your good times.

(This was a paid political pamphlet.)

Sunny Skies

Higgins Marches

Back in the groove again—It's now 4:00 a.m.

But before we get started on any wanderings let me extend to all of you a hearty welcome to a very special day.

We hope that you will make yourselves right at home and have a great time and come back next year!

With our best wishes, Alvin Higgins, I hope that as you read it this paper don't get the idea that it rains all the time here. We guarantee at least three sunny days per year!

The weather here has some kind of something or another to go on in the cafeteria during our regular upper hour, so at times we picked up some such lunches to stave off the pangs of hunger while waiting time. Well, that is, most of us did. There was one Herrunder, Wendel Widdifield, who forgot and went down to study establishment only to find that he could not enter.

A couple of days ago there was a precipitation upon the earth in the general area of Collegedate which time many took walking to keep dry, avoiding themselves of umbrellas. It is hoped that the rain stopped, but the souls contributing to be cautious would open the door, put up their umbrellas, had a few yards, held out their hand and then fall down under their umbrellas.

Dick Brunk is one of those people known as a moulted, and it is part of his job to check books at night and see that we don't have too many people in the dorm. Well, the other night while he was checking he found Carlton Higgins in bed with his boots on. Bring Carlton called over, and some one on the way to his room thought "Hiller was coming back and I wanted to be ready to march."

Just a little bit before four this morning I went wandering into the ex-terminator's office to see how the "G" people were doing. I found I run into bed behind Ted curled up on three chairs trying to sleep. He said he was working. I guess it will be worth it to try to sleep like that!

Intramurals

By JOHN HINES

The four teams—Clowns, White Sox, Angels and Rebels—have been incorporated into the Spartan's League.

The Rebels, with Chuck DeValle as the leader, are picked for first place. He is a well-balanced team, but it is weak in pitchers unless Carl Janison can be talked into pitching. But it is thought that the excellent leading he has in Don Wilson, L. E. Hamilton, Nick Taylor, and Jerry Williams will make up for this.

The Clowns, headed by Sam Hubbard, will probably come in second—three stacks. Ted Anderson, Don Kieck, and George Pendergast will be enough to hold the team up. If Don Kieck can't get a full game line, have seen him pitch, this team will take fire.

Third, the Angels, led by Hal Arns, will take this team. They ought to have enough to hang in, and being in John Dorstick and Buamont—White Sox managed by Don Dykes has the team lead their name takes—no list. They aren't a patch unless it is their place. The White Sox principal will be Don Stiver who can hit a slug when and if he connects.

New The Girls League would consist of a bunch of ballbats or two whom for they are so known. Hello Hoppers (Linda Overton), Stamp Jumpers (Joyce Cato), and the Long Leagues (Gladys Crawford). All these teams are going to be head to head.

Stamp Jumpers have a great time jumping in and during Joyce Moe, Inger and Marilyn Downs.

Powwow Treasures has no one. Hester, Alice Cox, and Karen Howard. Alex Cox and Karen Howard. Alex Cox and Karen Howard. Alex Cox and Karen Howard.

Heller Hoppers have what they need in Cary Maddox, Don Middleberry, and Linda Overton.

ACCENT ON . . . Collegedale Academy

College is a concert of activity in preparation for our Academy Day guests. Mother Nature, concert master, plays her part to perfection as the grass carpet absorbs the warmth of spring where soon students will bask and dream of the eternal summer. Wearing long sleeves is considered distasteful, white thought of an umbrella—while once imprudent—is treasonous.

School spirit has been annually high this year. Regular readers will remember junior-senior competition to learn who the rival class officers were, active forum officers, excellent articles by underclassmen, and programs good enough for the college to "crash" on dean's night. Now a senior trip in sharp new jackets and junior plans for a junior-senior picnic have pushed this school loyalty to an all time high.

Visitors to our campus will find students who, because of our proximity to the college, consider it socially acceptable to study. "Squares" are the exception, but "A" students are very much in demand. We have a staff strengthened by its sister staff in the college and enriched by eager practice teachers, who, like us, still thirst and drink great draughts from the Pizcan spring.

Prospective students will discover an environment here where all social affluence and wealth is forgotten in the search for genuine strength of character and leadership. First year dorm students anywhere often find roommate and dean more challenging objects to noise and immature stunts than Adam was at home.

We realize that some of these things which make the real character of our school may not be easy to discern. To make our guests' stay more profitable for all of us we have arranged a place in one of our academy dorms for each visitor. You will see our school pride in all we do. Some of us have gone across the country to be here. We invite you to join us next year. We depend on you, Academy Day guests, to raise our school to new glory next year.

More About Amic

Hells again! Here is hoping that you had an enjoyable vacation. As for myself, I really had a nice time down in the deep, sunny south. It seems to me as if it has been just about every where. Even Collegedale! And I love to see you and mine of it too!

Last Thursday morning about 8:30, a group of chatting, excited, bustling seniors were assembled down at the store ready to wait for the bus they had chartered to take them off on their nice trip. A group of juniors was in hand to see the seniors off, and I, with them a pleasant trip. The buses got back about eleven that night and were pretty well tired.

Next Monday will be a very important event to the campus—Academy Day. An interesting program has been planned and we're expecting a large crowd of visitors.

The Casa Lena Club has been busy making plans for an outing the last part of May. Several committees have been chosen to make the arrangements for the food, entertainment, and other phases of the trip.

Mr. Baynton's second period Bible doctrine class went for a hike Saturday afternoon, March 29. We met at the academy building and went back into the woods and up the ridge. We all enjoyed it immensely.

Well, I guess that about winds it up for this issue, but I'll be right here next time. See you then.

NOTICE

HIGHLAND ACADEMY ALUMNI

Our Annual Alumni Week and will be held on the campus of Highland Academy, April 25-27. The Class of '48 will be the honor class for this year. All graduates and former students are invited to attend. Special programs that you won't want to miss are being planned. Thank you very much.

Ausherman Chooses to Remain On Campus After Graduation

SMC is my school, or so it seems, since I have lived on the community while attending Collegedale Academy during my junior and senior years and have spent four of my five years of college life here.

As a place to get an all-around education, SMC rates top on my list and here's why. There are numerous spiritual activities in which one may participate, the academic standards are high, there is adequate opportunity for social life, and work opportunities are excellent.

Now this may sound like a paid political announcement, but since I like SMC well enough to recommend that you choose SMC as your school.

School Songs

SMC SCHOOL SONG
Southern skies seem always blue,
Southern charm will live forever.
Collegedale, we're true to you!
Nestled snugly in the foothills
Pierced by leaves for decades trod
Southern Missionary College
Grows in your growing land.
Draw and hold us, School of Steadfast,
By what's noble in your name.
Chorus
Southern friendships root the deepest,
Lies our college sweetly resting
Near the very Heart of God.

FOREST LAKE

From Gulf to Sea from Southern Key
We came to this,
Where crystal lake and flowing plain
Make beauty free.
We reverence its name sublime
We'll sing its praise throughout lifetime
Dear F. L. A.
Our hearts beat high with love and loyalty
We pledge ourselves to thee.
For various ground in every land
Dear F. L. A.

HAIL TO PISGAH

In the beautiful land of the sky
Is the school that we all love the best.
Here, we love oak and valley,
We love roses that twin
In this place that by nature is blessed!
Hail to dear Pisgah!
We will boost for you;
To your leafy purpose
We'll be ever true.
We love your hills and valleys,
Your bells and classes too,
We're loyal to Pisgah's red and white,
And love standards true!

OUR HIGHLAND ACADEMY

Our cheers go to Tennessee
To the school that we love,
It's our Highland Academy
With its blessings from above,
So, students, while we are here
Let's do our best and not sigh.
We're glad attending
High hopes are fast approaching.
Let us cheer with our heads held high.

STUDENTS OF LITTLE CREEK

Sneakers of Little Creek,
Happy are we,
Rejoicing the countryside,
Billowings and froes,
Learning 'til we do
Lessons of truth,
Serving the God of love,
In the days of our youth.

FLETCHER ACADEMY SONG

Down in the Southern mountains where the French Broad flows,
In the hills of North Carolina where the laurel grows,
There's a school of closest friendship that we all hold dear,
School of the mountains, School of standards high
Ideals and courage, Faith, and loyalty,
School of the mountains. School of standards high,
Fletcher, our school.

COLLEGEDALE ACADEMY

'Tis here you, Collegedale Academy,
Mind Made in dirt
'Tis closer you, Collegedale Academy,
'Tis with a song loud and clear!
'Tis to pledge to you our loyalty,
'Tis to struggle to stand in unity,
In honor true to you we'll ever be,
Collegedale Academy!

Registrar's Office Proves Worthwhile Experience

By RICHARD GIBSON

Sue Johnson and Homayra Goffman find work challenging in registrar's office.

One cannot find a busier and more interesting place to work on the campus than the Registrar's Office. Every student enrolled at Southern Missionary College must visit that office at one time or another.

The prospective juniors and seniors for next year have been going there for a check-up for at least a year. This is a very helpful service which enables the student to learn exactly what he has taken and just exactly what he needs to take to complete the requirements for graduation. This is one of the chief jobs of the office, and students appreciate the information they get.

When the grades come out each week, the Registrar's Office is a busy place. To have the comments made as students pick up their grades is worth the time it takes working late getting the grades ready for distribution.

The girls working in the Registrar's Office are a teaming link between faculty and students. They have to contact both the faculty members and students on some problems that come up. To create a close relationship between faculty and students is one aim of the Registrar's Office.

It is not an easy task for a new person to come in and begin work. It takes quite a while to learn the "ins and outs" of what constitutes the work in an office of this kind. This work is a gradual process of learning and takes continuous work.

Each girl in the office is primarily concerned with helping anyone who goes into the office. They can help but be annoyed, however, at some of the questions that are asked. A few choices are: "We can't be married because in church I'll sit out in the hall!" "How many A's must I make to keep my GPA up to 1.00?" "Can I get an excuse from chapel because I was up until four o'clock, taking my neighbor to the hospital to have a baby?" "What could we do for the graduation robes for the women at Forest Lake Academy last year?" These and the numerous questions that are constantly asked are of interest to the work.

The girls all love to work for Mr. Gardner. To work for him is an education in itself. He has such a wide experience and is so interesting that the visits stop and late to the work itself. This year has been a strain on her since her husband is absent last summer, but the freshmen '58 are all practicing and will likely gain back to the office to do as much work as possible. She has the badge of the college and "her girls" are working for her.

The Registrar's Office is an interesting and outstanding place in which to work. The experience gained there will benefit the girls in whatever work they take after graduation.

Ministerial Seminar Visits Churches In Areas Surrounding SMC

By BOB PRIZANT

The ministerial seminar, an organization of religious, encourages the interest of men as they devote out to various surrounding churches, assisting in the Sabbath services. Each week, groups of students experience the warmth of southern friendship and the privilege of Christian service as they visit the churches.

One theology major said, "I enjoy meeting in the smaller churches, the people are so friendly and appreciate our coming. The good home cooking atmosphere is wonderful, too!"

College Can Be Fun

By BETTY JOAN MARTIN
 JOAN: Who, me go to college? No sir, I want to have some fun and enjoy sports, music, and not just go to school and work while I am still young.

HETER: Do you ever have a wrong impression of college? Just sit right down and let me tell you some of the many things we do to entertain ourselves and be entertained at SMC. You said you wanted to enjoy sports. Well, there is no better place than college. The girls have a softball team and can you ever have fun on it, but if you don't want to participate, sit on the sidelines and enjoy a good game.

JOAN: Did I hear someone say something about tennis?

OTIE: Yes, you surely did. We have a number of tennis courts open and it is easy to find someone who is willing to play a few sets with you.

BEATRICE: And if you are tired of us you enjoy taking, and we at SMC have some of the best places for this type of sport you have ever seen.

JEAN: Above all things don't leave out the Saturday night lectures when everything is in order. Usually on these nights we have films, musicals, musicals, and things of that type. Oh yes, afterwards there is always "Candlelight Hour" when you may enjoy the company of your date, with soft music in the background.

OTIE: You all forget to mention the picnics. The school picnic is on campus where all the members of the school get together for some fun and a picnic lunch. At the end of the year we have the class picnics, off campus, and that is when the fun begins.

GRACE: Has anyone mentioned the fact that there is usually some thing going on down at the gym? Basketball, shuffleboard, basketball, and skating, plus a variety of other things.

HETER: So you see college life isn't all work and no play.

JOAN: I had never seen it at that light. You know something, I think SMC is the place for me.

by the students of SMC. This program began with a group of songs by the Collegiate Choir under the direction of Mable Hill. A wide selection of vocal solos, duets, trios, and a two-piano number followed. These participating in this part of the program were: Jeanne Arnold, Mary Rhodes, Anna Dorellan, Anna Jane Robinson, Caryl Maddox, Paul Allen, Vinson Burnhill, Amy Bushnell, Dorothy Kalkke, Barbara and Beverly Schmidt, Barbara Strahl, and Betty Jean Martin.

In conclusion the College Band played a group of selections, under the direction of Buxton Jackson.

The Alumni Banquet was held in the college dining hall Saturday evening. A short vesper service and business meeting followed.

The two classes which were honored this year by the Alumni Association were the class of 1932 and the class of 1947.

Sam Campbell Hunts Animals With His Camera

Sam Campbell, famed cameraman of the Wisconsin Northwoods, produced his wild animal footage for the final lycium banquet on the year Saturday evening, April 5, in the tabernacle-auditorium. Mr. Campbell and his wife, who have lived close to nature for almost fifty years. According to him, there have been two great seasons on his life; the first and the greatest is his wife, Ginny; and the second is when he stopped hunting animals with a gun and started studying them with a camera, twenty-one years ago.

Drawing ideas from his varied experiences Sam Campbell has written a number of books for a nature-love public, including "Ten March 1st and Report," "You're 1st," "Even, Mean, After, Day, and Still More," and his most recent, "Bible of Nature." These animal characters were made more real through his film "Animals of the Northwoods," which included all of them.

SMC Entertains School Masters

Southern Missionary College was set to some sixty-five ladies and gentlemen, members of the Lookout Club Masters' Club, their wives and husbands, on April 22, 1958. Its organization consists of regular club meetings monthly at the University of Chattanooga cafeteria, and once each year it goes to Temple Hill, Baptist College and Southern Missionary College.

The purpose of the club is dual, leading both professional and school fellowship to any and all who are of the greater Chattanooga area and the present time six of our instructors are active members in the club.

Home Economics-Cafeteria Building Under Roof; Road Ready to be Paved

Heavy weather has postponed work on new Home Economics and Cafeteria buildings. It is tentatively expected that the Home Economics building will be completed by the end of the year.

The new home economics building is now taking shape and growing very fast. The big heavy beams which will hold the roof are being put into place with heavy machinery. There are huge girding poles and large windows will be placed in a picturesque view of the valley below the building. By September, 1958, the building is expected to be ready for use by the home economics department, cafeteria, and the student center.

At present the road system on the campus is "a mess," however, this is due entirely to the process of setting a new road system. The new road is now beginning to take shape and it is hoped that it will have its first coat of asphalt,

Christensen Gets Phi Kappa Phi

Mrs. Otto Christensen recently received membership in a national honor society, the Phi Kappa Phi. The honor came as a surprise to Mrs. Christensen after she was selected by the society for her achievements in the field of education.

Mrs. Christensen attended the University of Tennessee at Knoxville last summer, enrolling in the upper ten percent in the class of students.

Only those who meet certain qualifications requirements scholastically and otherwise are permitted membership in this society.

Rittenhoses Spend Spring at N. Y. Center

Mrs. G. E. Shanley and Mrs. Helen Rittenhose are spending the spring at the New York Center on Times Square in New York on the music program for the evangelistic effort being conducted there. Such a feature as an orchestra is something not previously enjoyed but deeply appreciated by the officials there.

They report that an extraordinary number of people are attending. One of these gave a substantial amount with a note attached saying "I'm a Christian." Another one, a business woman whose husband was a violinist in Vienna, presented Mrs. Rittenhose with her late husband's valuable violin.

On a recent occasion Dr. and Mrs. Rittenhose conducted to spend the evening at a concert by the well-known American violinist Carl Glenn. Upon arrival at the concert hall they found closed doors. It was an invitation affair named on the local register "Knowing Carl Glenn very well they sent letters to the committee."

Sophs. Eat Supper At Student Park

The sophomore class had its first outing of the year Tuesday, April 22. They met in front of the administration building at 5:30 and proceeded to the student park.

Upon arriving at the park, it was found that they played a table game while waiting for the girls to set up the tables for supper. Don Crane had had the ice cream on the site at the mountain with only one bus showing. The object of the game was to see who could spot the box. Someone saw a right off and others had some difficulty spotting it.

Supper was a spaghetti feed with strawberry seed rolls. Dessert was strawberry shortcake with ice cream.

Following the devotions by a Holy Ghost, Elder Hyde told a story as it began to grow dark the group of sophomores returned to the campus.

FLA Hears SMC Musicians in Voice, Marimba Recital

Professor Blanton T. Jackson and Dorothy Evans-Ackerman were invited by the administration of Eastern Lake Academy to represent Southern Missionary College by playing a recital at the academy on March 29.

The first appointment was at the College of Florida, a high school, accompanied by Mrs. Jackson, at the piano. The number included "The Holy Spirit" by Chopin, "The Holy Spirit" by Delius, "Bride in Blue" by Moore, and "Tales of Hoffman" by Longy. Mrs. Ackerman followed by singing three groups of British and American songs. The concert in its entirety was recorded by Mrs. Jackson.

The students called up in the park where they dug into burgers, potato salad, cookies, ice cream, and punch. Nancy McMichael and her food committee were responsible for this.

After supper, all gathered and sat in a semicircle while Orville Swainson, class president, led a discussion of the class picnic to be held in the near future. Several committees are selected to work on this feature.

Inter-Collegiate Workshop Held at Madison College

The eighth annual intercollegiate workshop of eastern SDA colleges was held on the campus of Madison College April 2-9. Colleges represented were: Madison, Union, Washington Missionary, Atlantic Union, Emmanuel Missionary, Southwestern Junior, Oakland, and Southern Missionary.

Chairman of the executive division included: J. B. Gibbons, administration (SA), Presbiter, Madison; Shirley Duff, secretary (SA), Union; and Paul Robinson, secretary (ACCENT editor, SMC); and Paul Robinson, secretary (ACCENT editor, SMC).

These workshops had formerly been held in the last fall of the year and have been moved to be held in the spring, with the newly elected officers attending in order that they might be used in preparation for their programs.

The objectives of these workshops is to build better student associations through the exchange of ideas. It is hoped that the workshops should be a real benefit to all who attend. The delegates felt will be the working policy of their programs.

The month annual intercollegiate workshop of eastern SDA colleges will be held in the spring of 1959 at Madison College, Lincoln, Nebraska.

"Monument Valley" Film Shows Experiences of Adventist Missionaries; Francis Line Brings It to SMC

Francis R. Line, photographer and lecturer, carries history which will be presented here in his film, "Monument Valley," May 13.

"Monument Valley Adventure," a film by Francis R. Line, will be presented on the tabernacle-auditorium Saturday evening, May 17, at 8:30. The film will be in color and will be narrated by Mr. Line, in person.

For years Line has been traveling to remote parts of the country, bringing his vivid documentary films. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and a member of Phi Kappa Phi Magazine for which he has written include the "National Geographic," and various of his films have been translated and distributed in twenty-three foreign languages. He is a member of the Los Angeles and New York Adventure Clubs, the New York Explorer's Club, and the Circumnavigator's Club.

In 1954 Line reached a high point in his career when America's largest illustrated lecture circuit, the World Adventure Series of Detroit, awarded him all-time honor as the most popular film lecturer in its 21-year history. This first-place award was in competition with virtually every "big name" lecturer in the world.

Line has a very program in himself. He has a degree in education and has been a teacher in public schools in Michigan. He has been a member of the National Geographic Society and has been a member of the National Geographic Society and has been a member of the National Geographic Society and has been a member of the National Geographic Society.

Band Plays in Nashville and Points East

With intense excitement and anticipation, the Southern Missionary College Band, under the direction of Barton L. Jackson, left Friday, April 18, on their annual tour. Irene Cross and Ann Conover were piano accompanists.

The Southern Parkway Association of Nashville, Tennessee, was the first stop on the tour. After eating a delicious supper, the band presented a sacred program in the church of the Publishing House. Shortly after the concert, the musical group left for Highland Academy where they were given a tour of the school.

Soddy-Daisy High Hears Male Chorus

The Soddy-Daisy Male Chorus gave a program of music at the Soddy-Daisy High School on April 15.

Declarations were given by Marvin Rogers of Collegedale, who is on the faculty at Soddy-Daisy. After his talk the chorus sang. The program proceeded as follows:

"Soddy-Daisy Song," "Sweetest of Songs," "Halls of Ivy" sung by the Adolphians.

Leola Taylor sang, sung by guest soloists Barbara Smith, Anna Davidson, and Beverly Schrank.

One An Year Thru, Your Best (addressing), sung by the Soddy-Daisy High School, sung by the Soddy-Daisy High School, sung by the Soddy-Daisy High School, sung by the Soddy-Daisy High School.

The ladies chorus, a trumpet duo (Jim Taylor, Bob Burnett, and Gordon Catts), and tympanist member, Eddie Howe of the Soddy-Daisy High School, sung by Bob Ray, a sophomore.

in the illustrated film during the last program. The film "Monument Valley Adventure" concerns Marvin and Gwen Walter, Seventh-day Adventist missionaries in Monument Valley. It was recently shown at PUC, Lewis Linn, and Newberry Academy of California.

Elder Gordon Hyde, lycium coordinator, states that the lycium committee has long yearned to hold Mr. Line for the first two years, but this due to the demand for him in other parts of the country he was not able to include the South. He has history at this time some glowing lines on the College table area, and his film will be presented as a special feature of the lycium series film 112.

According to Mrs. Hyde, Francis R. Line "is a very program in himself. He has a degree in education and has been a teacher in public schools in Michigan. He has been a member of the National Geographic Society and has been a member of the National Geographic Society and has been a member of the National Geographic Society."

Voice Department Presents Students In Recital Here

Mrs. Anderson, vocal teacher, and Cliff Burzom, using practice methods, presented a vocal recital in the tabernacle-auditorium on Sunday, April 20, in the Fine Arts Chapel.

The Star by Rogers and "The Old Maid" by Leber, sung by Mrs. Anderson; "I Had You, Oh, My Dear" by Forster, sung by Lois Emmer; Come by Hill and Martin, and "The Good Bye" by Leber, sung by Cliff Burzom; "The Good Bye" by Leber, sung by Cliff Burzom; "The Good Bye" by Leber, sung by Cliff Burzom.

The students of the band members strongly protested to the change-over to central standard time. The peak issuance from the dealer bill was welcome, indeed, as those sitting in the newly furnished portion of the girls' lounge. After an enjoyable Sabbath afternoon, members were held under the direction of Professor Jackson with several members of the band participating. A marimba solo was given by Professor Jackson to begin the vesper hour. Several selections were given which included a baritone solo by Ray Beach, a sophomore.

Editorial . . .

"You can start class now..."

The 23:00 Old Testament class quiets itself down to muffled mutterings as the last class begins. Professor Smorgasbord cites his bifocals and peeps over them as he calls the class roll. The class then proceeds with the lesson.

Crash! Whoosh! Titter-titter! Tee-hee—and with a mighty swirl of scarlet skirt, Minnie Belle MacGilldraddy collapses, breathless, into her front row seat, shilling, "Oh, Professor Smorgasbord, I'm here! I thought maybe you didn't see me come in!" Once again Minnie has scored a victory. Everyone in the entire class is looking at "O! Oh her... Oh, glorious day!"

Ask any exasperated teacher if this is an isolated case. He will vigorously assure you that it is not. Do a little original research on your own and you will see how many students do "steal" the whole class's time in this way. Of course it is taken for granted that you will be in your seat when the bell rings and will observe, not join, the late-coners.

The Chronic Complainer

Collegiate is occasionally blessed with the absence of unhappy transfer students—but not very often. Somehow these outstanding misfits wander onto the campus and let themselves be generally loved.

Many times they are well-dressed, clean and smart-looking. They make you an intelligent outlook on life, but somehow a great vacuum settles in their ability to change environments.

They grant if it's cold, grant if it's hot, rant when it's dry and rave when it's wet. Their creed is perfection at home, perfection as some other school, or just perfection anywhere but here.

These people are actually wonderful people. They shouldn't be dealt with harshly, but rather they should be praised. Their well-developed physical bodies glow with health, but unfortunately their mental aptitude is not equally mature. One should not consider them juvenile delinquents—just juvenile.

Somehow they are convinced that they're ill-treated and stepped on here at school, and when someone encourages them they become either frustrated or irritated. From the beginning man has been afflicted with the curse of some misandry or other, so it is not unusual for SMC to possess some highly-developed grippe specialists.

Orchids to the Artists

Anchored brightly to the walls in the corridors of the residence halls and hung from pegs in the various academic buildings are the posters which announce events from SMC's. Names and times each year these gay, eye-catching devices somehow penetrate our subconscious, prompting us to attend a rivalry, a club, or some similar function.

But how many of us ever really stop to look at these posters? It is a proven fact that such a device must be quite outstanding and appealing in order to make the least impression on preoccupied collegiate minds.

Some of the posters this year have been superb. If you have ever made one, you are aware of the fact that it takes concentrated thought, time and originality. Various posters which have adorned our halls this year have truly represented the aforementioned facts. They have displayed an intricacy of detail and carefulness of workmanship which would merit the approval of the most critical eye.

The remuneration, if any, for those who are responsible for the posters is certainly never commensurate with the amount of effort and time put into them. These behind-the-scenes people deserve our gratitude. Let's give them a hand!

The Foreign Accent

By STANLEY SHWALTZER

Fu over a year, this column has doggedly insisted that there was nothing new about the old-time habit of hawking on the island of Cuba. That trouble has come and apparently—his question, there has arisen numerous questions on the part of certain readers of this column concerning the subject seem to fall down into five distinct categories, all of which I shall attempt to answer in this column.

1. "It's all the general strike in Cuba!"

The strike in Cuba failed for many reasons, among them such things as ill-timed, ill-disciplined, ill-thought-out troops, a lack of cooperation between the various small factions and the Castro authorities, poor timing (the strike was still during the Easter holidays, but Castro, feasting reportedly from the Catholic Church, called a postponement).

But perhaps the greatest reason for the complete failure of the strike may be attributed to one man, the former head of the former SMC organization in the city of Havana.

"It would be for any revolution in Cuba to be successful, Havana must fail, if it is to be both the capital and largest city. Thus, if Havana is not to cooperate, the strike is quashed."

Perca was ordered to kill the general strike at a certain time and in a certain place. He failed to do so. And so it was that, independent of each other, the small rebel bands eventually tracked out each other and made their sporadic attacks.

Had Perca done as he was told, the story might have ended differently. As it stands now, Perca is wanted both by Director Batista and Rebel Castro. I wouldn't want to see his shoes when either falls back!

2. How do things stand with Batista in present?

As of this writing, General Batista is still the strong-man on the island. His word is still law, unopposed. He has the army and has been re-elected to the people just a few weeks ago. However, he retained the annual forces have not failed to shoot first and ask questions afterward; the city of Havana is fast melting, any city in Cuba, is practically devoid of all tourists who are wisely staying in the United States groups that I believe I can't speak his mind without being shot... usually.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor: In your March 10 issue you state that it was a policy of the ACCENT to solicit constructive criticism.

I have been away from College the past three years, and I have watched the ACCENT die a slow death. When I saw the issue reprinted after I read your issue (the academy) I really went word by word. The editor of this column gets more and more sure. He has gotten to the place that just about the only thing worth reading is the front page.

I suggest that you go back in the files and get some of the articles written by former columnists and let some of the present ones read them over... .

No way for that I am an authority on journalism in the way that an article should be written, but I don't think that I am the only one who has a few things to say on the content and quality of the paper.

Before you throw this letter in the trash and consider it as a pipe dream from a reckless place as I suggested and check the old papers over, I have a few things to say to themselves as fast as this one is convenient.

Yours truly, Donald Auster, Hiltnerberg, Miss.

How it is going with Fidel Castro? Not very well. Cuba has had to retreat back to the so-called "borderline" struggle for the last few months. She has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle.

Not very well. Cuba has had to retreat back to the so-called "borderline" struggle for the last few months. She has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle, has lost 17,000 men in battle.

Another significant feature is that the wealthy Cubans who have thus far loyally supported Fidel Castro, both with wealth and influence, are beginning to lay down the law to him. There is no more. Mindless, but rather an opening of the eyes to the fact that perhaps the rebel leader is not the great conqueror and military strategist he thinks he is. His supporters are beginning to ask the why's and whereof's of politics and economics in Cuba. They are asking both on his own and rule on the possibility of too much reliance on the word "Castro-ism."

3. How is the war going with Fidel Castro? NA, I am not. I don't support Fidel Castro, as such I am. I support the people who have pushed upon the Cuban people. However, I am for any initiative which would get the rebel out of the presidency, and, it means that Fidel Castro is the sole means, then I support him. I support him, but I believe that he has more power than he should have. I believe that he has more power than he should have. I believe that he has more power than he should have.

4. How is the war going with Fidel Castro? The SMC band tour must have quite an experience, especially for the young boys and the girls who are still a little spite to the tip by "abducting" the treasurer-elect of the student organization. In fact, they arrived in Little Creek one-half hour after the rest of the band.

5. How is the war going with Fidel Castro? Editor's note: We have an authentic report from Miss Luce and Mr. and Mrs. Luce Cochran were accomplices in the crime. And since this is probably the last of those irrational bits of nonsense I shall be compiling for the sake of my readers.

This is not counsel—I have two parents.

Vocational Subjects Provide Employment, Enjoyment, Relaxation and Remuneration

As modern man peers backward into the haze misty of antiquity he is forced to recognize man thriving by the labor still left of hands. Not only does he recognize ancient times, but it is also to recognize the vast variety of white collar professions in a sea of labor. He finds his remaining strength all being used and he finds his vocation upon which to rely is richly awarded.

A vocation not only provides work in time of need but recreation and enjoyment in the busy life and the wild afterglow. He finds his remaining strength all being used and he finds his vocation upon which to rely is richly awarded.

During the present period of a man's life, some practical activity stimulates his body, his mind and his spirit. He finds his remaining strength all being used and he finds his vocation upon which to rely is richly awarded.

Bushnell Gives Senior Piano Recital; Allen and Wood Assist

Vernon Claire Bushnell, recitalistic major, presented his annual piano recital at 8:15 Tuesday evening, April 25, in Harold A. Miller Hall.

Each Brahms, Poulenc, Schubert, and Mozart were the composers of the works performed. Two duo piano works, one at the beginning by Bush and one at the end by Mozart were presented, the former being played with Paul Allen at the second piano, and the latter being presented with Mrs. Jean Mable Wood, who instructs Bushnell, at the second piano.

Following the recital a reception was held on the ground floor of A. A. Miller Hall. Bushnell plans to continue his music education on scholarship at Eastman School of Music, in Rochester, New York.

SENIOR SKETCH

Smith Continues Studies at SDA Seminary

This season, Gilbert Smith, has had experiences in many varied fields, both on and off the SMC campus. Before coming to college he served for two years in the army as psychiatric technician. Then while pursuing a BA degree in theology with a minor in history he has served both as president and as vice-president of the ministerial seminar, church deacon, and vice-president of the men's forum. Gilbert has worked a great deal toward his school expenses as a college trustee, a Fuller Brush salesman, a workman at the bookshop, and at the college press where he acted as laundry room foreman for a time.

Next year Gilbert plans to further his education at the three liberal seminaries in Washington in preparation for pastoral work. Gilbert is married and has three children—two girls and a boy. Rhode Island is his home state. He is very fond of the out-of-door, consequently, his hobbies are camping, baseball, and making home movies.

CHAPEL

Business Education Department Shows Shorthand, Office Work Can Be Fun

Miss Irma Jean Kiplage, instructor in typing and shorthand, introduced the chapel program to the student body April 21. The program was divided into three parts: 1. demonstrations of incorrect and correct uses of the telephone; 2. a quick lesson in shorthand; and 3. a skit on what can happen when secretary disobeys her boss.

In the first part Dwight Dickerson, Fatty Evans, John McInyre, and Ann Elliott demonstrated some of the ways in which our telephones are abused.

After this Dorothy Nelson and Dean Pence showed us the proper way of using the telephone. Miss Thelma Hickman, instructor in the business department, acted as narrator for this part of the program.

In the third part of the program Chris Watson, secretary to Bob Burkhard, found herself in a predicament when the boss made a decision of decreased salaries rather than object against her boss' instruction. The "salesman" included Jan Bushing, David Hamilton, Charles Fife, golfshuns, and Dick Toler.

Following the recital a reception was held on the ground floor of A. A. Miller Hall.

Swayze Flies Thru Graduation

"Zoom! Is it a bird? No. Is it a satellite? No. Then what is it? It's just Jerry Swayze, leaving the campus.

The words "Swayze" and "Flying" are synonymous around Southern Methodist College. Jerry, who served with Uncle Sam during the Korean War in the 371st Bomber Squadron, has been flying private planes for the past two years, and now has his private pilot's license.

Associate Sabbath school secretary, vice-president of the college team club, president of the Kappa Delta Phi, and president of his freshman class are some of the offices which he has held while attending SMC.

Jerry will probably tell you that the greatest thing that has happened since he has been on the campus was his marriage June 9, 1947, to Anne Jensen Ann, a taking flying lesson and expects to solo soon.

It has been an interesting experience having Jerry on our campus, and we will miss him after he has gone.

Following the recital a reception was held on the ground floor of A. A. Miller Hall.

After a most enjoyable evening of visiting with the distinguished guests, they left with an invitation to be the guest artists for next season's concert, which is an honor at least if not a bonanza financially.

Dr. Harvey Rittenhouse resigned his surgical residency at the Bellevue Hospital because the program was changed so that attendance at medical lectures was required on Sabbath. This was a disappointment for Bellevue is a great name in medical circles. However, he was immediately accepted as another fine hospital where he is free from 5 P. M. Friday to Monday evening.

In spite of all the excitement of the big city they report that they are counting the days until May 15 when they will be back in Collegeville to cook an honest-to-goodness dinner for the double-duty professor.

Shepherd School, Southern Missionary College, Temple Baptist College, and the University of Chattanooga.

Business transacted included the election of officers for the following year. Dr. A. A. Clarke, Dean of Temple Baptist College, was chosen president.

There are definite helpful contacts available to Southern Missionary College through this organization.

BAND PLAYS

(Continued from page 1, col. 5) solo by Wayne Sandwith, a vocal solo by Jeanette Arnold and Lane Schmidt, and a baritone solo by Mr. Kenneth Dixon. A matinee debut by Professor Jackson and Don Hall concluded the program.

Immediately following verses the band members assembled to unload and set up the equipment on a record-breaking time of twenty-five minutes (it formerly took two hours!) At eight o'clock the academy chapel was filled to overflowing as the SMC band presented a fine set of secular music. One of the highlights of the program was the "German Band, consisting of John Taylor, Lane Schmidt, Bob McCarty, Harold Johnson, and Kenneth Dixon.

Everyone spent a peaceful night except for Tom Walters, who became ill and had to be kept in the hospital. Sunday morning the models at Highland and hosted by Little Creek Academy for their next presentation. The afternoon concert was scheduled for 3:30, but due to the unknown whereabouts of the band members, the program was delayed. After a few minutes of an impatient waiting the band began the performance, only to be interrupted "several" minutes later by the arrival of the long-hair wanderer, Professor Jackson's public interruption of Don Hall, the driver of the car, revealed that the group had lost their way and had been winding all over the countryside inquiring their way to Little Creek. The "unhappened one" in their various roles made quite a contrast to the rest of the band all arrayed in their neat green and white uniforms. The crowd, just continued uninterested, and by the time the last strains of "Stars and Stripes Forever" were sounded, "Aaaaaa" everyone was still more at ease.

After enjoying a most wonderful meal in the academy cafeteria the band returned to Knoxville for their final performance—a sacred program for an evangelistic meeting. Immediately following the concert the band returned to the SMC campus.

It's Here At Last—and Just As Pretty As Former Times

The drawing of the twentieth day of March officially ushered in the season we call spring... a season full of the beauties of new life and happy, memorable days. Several weeks ago residents of Collegedale awakened on the morning of this day to face the world with mixed emotions and varied countenances. For some time most of the students of SMC had been looking forward to this day with dread and yet at the same time joyful anticipation. Now it had arrived. Perched around over page after page of mid-semester examinations to March's journey from psychology to Man's home cooking; from Marriage and the Family to a beach in sunny Florida... and on... and on.

The morning's greeting walk drew to a close and with it came the sudden realization to those about to depart for "spring" vacation that "spring" had not as yet made itself manifest in Collegedale. Indeed, if any day might have easily been mistaken for the first day of winter. Snowflakes swirled from an overcast sky as students packed and set out for their various homes! (Though there were some delays due to the inclement weather, we are thankful that no disasters occurred during the season.)

Some five weeks have passed since that day, and what a transition there has been wrought upon our spirits! The surrounding mountains are once again covered with green. The hills are speckled with pink and white dogwood. Jonquils have come and gone; many pines and fir trees' tips are vying to outdoom each other, and our little flowers (which friends are again dithering with their lovely melodies) have "brought 'em back." Barring the sportsman's camp air floating upon a fine pytha, and lilacs with several blue-sans-laden cherries trees in the back ground near the buildings, there are additional lovely views which include fragrant wild plum trees, blue-bells, and a ruyling mountain oak. Such an inspiring picture of a state not to be forgotten the day we left one's spirit toward our native state. Plans have been made for the students and faculty of the school to enjoy the beauty of this season by an engaging in nature walks on Sabbath mornings.

Do You Dare?

THOMAS W. WALTIES, President

The future of SMC is assured to the extent that it fulfills its divinely appointed purpose which consisted in being called into existence. Among the scores of colleges in the Southland it is characterized by unique objectives to be realized in the lives of the Christian youth who choose to learn more precisely the Adversity way of living and serving. It was meant to be different. Its proficiencies believe that an education which does not prepare the student for the joys of adversity in this world and the higher joy of wider service (in the world to come) is of no value. The one who was given special instruction regarding the establishment of schools would plan for our schools should be vastly different from those of the world in order to get out of Babylon. And again: "The work of our schools must bear a different stamp from that borne by one of the most populous schools," F.C.E., p. 216.

In an age of conformity and relative indifference, Southern Missionary College makes its appeal to youth who dare to be different, to the extent that they are determined to please God and be more thoroughly prepared, spiritually and academically, from Greek mythology through the story of Procrustes, the prohibitions which were not content merely to rob and plunder, His exhortations to make each of his victims lie down on an iron bed and be fitted to it. If they were too short, he laid them stretched on the rack. If they were too long, he lopped off their extremities. At just the right point, exhortations wished to "adjust" everyone. No one should be taller or shorter than he.

There is ample evidence to indicate that society today is putting a premium on conformity. The spirit of Procrustes is abroad. Men and women follow blindly the behaviors and mores of the world at large merely because it is the pathway of least resistance, a whole generation is afraid that knowing different, and there is a mirage on ahead of itself beckoning us on with its illusions.

SMC calls youth to a life that is different. Do you dare to obey the Adversity? In the plan of God each soul is endowed with talents and commodities which are distinctive. Each is urged to develop himself to the highest point of excellence. There is to be found no vicarious success. Each is called to enjoy a life of wisdom and success and eventually an eternal reward. Such growth is most completely hindered upon the campus of a college planted of God for youth living in this particular "age of conformity."

Southern Missionary College needs youth who will help it to more effectively fulfill its appointed purpose. Do you dare to be different and do you live?

Recruitment Plan Works in Summer

On the evening of May 11, the Student Senate unanimously passed a plan offered by the public relations committee which would segregate an annual but effective plan for promoting Southern Missionary College and increasing the student enrollment each year.

As he leaves the campus for the summer holidays, each student will be a student recruiter, making contacts with any who might be interested in attending SMC. The student recruiter will work with the prospective new student an application blank with the recruiter's name already signed at the bottom.

If the prospective student is accepted by the Admission Committee, his name, along with that of the student recruiter, will be placed on a special list. At the beginning of the next academic year, this list will be tabulated, and those student recruiters who were responsible for enrolling the most students will receive a cash award: $25.00 first prize, $17.50 second prize, and $10.00 third prize.

These recruiters who enroll three or more students will be invited to an informal banquet, and their recognition will be presented with a $25.00 from the Student Association.

This is the first time in the history of the Student Association of Southern Missionary College that such a program has been attempted. The officers of the S.A. are looking forward with great expectation to the results of this most exciting plan.

Mrs. de Leon Visits Miss Stoneburner

Mrs. Eliza de Leon, dentist and instructor in nutrition and diet therapy at the Manila Sanitarium and Hospital in the Philippines, visited our campus recently as the guest of Miss Edna Stoneburner, dean of women. A graduate nurse at well as a dietitian, Mrs. de Leon has been a very valuable member of the 1958 Hospital staff through the year. She has served in the Manila Hospital for five years, between 1948 and 1947, when she accepted a call as nutrition nurse for the Central Legion Hospital.

In September, 1957, Mrs. de Leon left her family in Manila to come to the Florida State University on Tallahassee to continue study. She hopes that her family will be able to go here later in the States this year, and she will then, with her husband, continue studies for two more years.

Mrs. de Leon's husband, Elder Francisco de Leon, is pastor of the English church in Manila and their two children, Edelin, age 9, and Alicia Beth, age 7, are with them here. Both girls are at the home of the young mother during a semester part instructor in the Philippines.

Miss Stoneburner was closely associated with Mrs. de Leon during her term of mission service at the Manila Hospital and during Mrs. de Leon's visit to the college during the chapel service on May 9 she introduced her guest to the student body and to the faculty. Mrs. de Leon had the pleasure of meeting Miss Stoneburner's visit from that lovely Christian wife and mother of her beloved laborer on the service of God.

Why I Believe in SMC

Don R. Rees, President, Southern Ontario

The future life of every young person—where he will live, how much money he will earn, what kind of people he will have as friends, the amount of satisfaction he will get out of life—is determined by the type of education he receives. A young person who has the opportunity for satisfying, rewarding service and the challenge to accomplish something worthwhile for the Lord is available at SMC. The entire program of our college is built around the ideals we hold as to dominion and is concerned with promoting the fullest possible development of the abilities of our young people.

SMC teachers are dedicated to their trust of guiding the footsteps of our Seventh-Day Adventist youth in the right path. We are truly grateful for their devotion, and their ability to inspire thought in the minds of the students. They successfully combine their knowledge of material subjects with a genuine love of God and desire to be used of Him to train others.

God's cause today needs concentrated talent as it has never been needed before, and the dominion man to our colleges in schools of youth unafraid to face the events of the future. From SMC have come some of our most faithful and contented leaders, and we continue to look to our college for future workers and leaders who will have an substantial part in the tremendous task that is set before us.

The advancing spirit of SMC is evident in the long-range plans for future construction of new buildings to enlarge the facilities to more adequately train our young people for greater service. This program really began in a serious way in 1945 with the construction of the A. C. Daniels Memorial Building. By the close of 1954, two more beautiful buildings had been constructed which added beauty to the campus as well as much needed facilities for their respective divisions of instruction, the Earl F. Haddock (Science) building and the Harold A. Miller (Fine Arts) building.

During the years since the construction of these three units, an addition to the Collegedale College, Inc. building, a new halber building, with square footage of 40,000, and a new home for the elementary children, the A. W. Spalding School, have successfully advanced. During the ensuing years, the following program will be carried out: the completion of the construction of the home, Tennessee; during the years since the construction of these three units, an addition to the Collegedale College, Inc. building, a new halber building, with square footage of 40,000, and a new home for the elementary children, the A. W. Spalding School, have successfully advanced.

So the young faculty, the quality of the instruction, and the devotion of the staff is actually improving and be assured that you and your daughters will receive the best training that it is possible for them to secure anywhere.

Pastor W. W. Christensen, director of the mission training at Denver Missionary College in Africa, has worked and visited Southern Missionary College to urge students to participate wholeheartedly in the Seventh-Day Adventist church's million-dollar program.

On the platform during the Friday chapel service with him were faculty members who had served in mission fields and the sons and daughters of missionaries who are now attending SMC. It was reported by Elder I. C. Banks, SMC's business of the Million Dollar Fund, that the faculty members had served in 71 countries of the world and had been a total of 374 years of mission service.

Elder Christensen stated that the world is choosing God between communism and Christ. He contended, "It depends upon the response to this appeal just how much of the present-day world will be Christian. It has been estimated that $11-37 is needed every second of the 24-hour period in order to keep the church's mission program on a program around the world. Students were persuaded to contribute part of their July wages to the fund."

According to Pastor R. R. Egelund, president of the General Conference, the offering is a world-wide movement to be led by God for world evangelism and mission advance. Most countries are to be visited in the next few years, but the focus is set on nations of the world that are slowly peopled.

The offering is to be taken in three years: College, May 9, churches, June 7, General Conference, August 1, which will result in the expected one million dollars to be received on a single day.

Guides Invest Largest Number Ever at SMC

The largest investment ever to be held at Southern Missionary College took place in the Tabernacle at the beginning of the night of May 2. On this evening the large group in attendance saw 155 Missionary Volunteers and their Master, Guido Kerthof, and pins.

The program was divided into three sections in the first three present are shown. How Master Kerthof's training can be useful and practical in daily life. They were told the need for leadership in our churches and how the master guide program is helpful in fill that need. They were also shown a list of the many new guides that had learned in their first Aid classes.

Elder E. S. Reile of the Georgia-Cumberland Conference and Elder M. Nelson of the Southern Union Conference led out in the invitational ceremony. Elder Reile stated that over 800 vocational homes were awarded, evidence of much hard work.

The service was conducted by a complete service depicting several youth and their leader around a campfire. The leader urged youth to start a step and to care they had gone to bed their counselor offered a prayer of thankfulness for the work of the program and for the help of the Lord in so noble a cause.

The Master Guide had this year been proclaimed by Elder Jim Tanker with E. O. Grunwald as the sponsor.

Wilson Accepts Gavel To Begin New Term of SA Officers

In chapel Monday, May 12, the important ceremony of inauguration of the Student Association Officers for the 1958-59 school year took place.

After the devotions by the retiring chaplain, Don Crane, the should-yog was sung and allegiance pledged to the flag.

Mr. Haug, in his speech, stated that the Student Association was now in the hands of the new officers. He stated that the primary purpose of the S.A. is to better prepare young people to be workers for God and be fitted so that they may be kept in view.

By gratitude for the privilege of having been able to work with the Student Association Officers for the 1958-59 school year.

Miss Helen Case, S.A. secretary, was chosen by the Senate as Secretary of the year. This is an honor which is conferred every year on one of the seniors.

Mr. Wilson then accepted the gavel and introduced those who would be working with him as the Senate next year. In his speech he urged that with the cooperation of the faculty and student and between student and student, a program should be planned for the year. He stated that with the cooperation of the faculty the seniors were wanted to make the SA an actively engaged organization for the good of the college.

Graduate Class of 1958

Southern Memories Presented To Educator Hira Curtis

Dean Jack Upchurch begins the May 7 chapel program with the sobering announcement: Several of the students are being sought by state trustees for the theft of "very valuable school property." He then left hurriedly.

At the appearance of two very sinister-looking characters, Tom Walters, editor of the 1958 Southern Almanac, and Bruce Koppeke, an editor, the startled students began to leave. Walters, who was appropriately bedecked as a "Doll-Lace" pin-model.

Soon thereafter, a stern and doctored were heard outside into the chapel where two more young "hoodlums" under armed guard. On stage they "trailed" and received of pistols (water), baby clubs, knives, an axe, and assorted loss. Finally, as they trailed Tom Walters, Bob Collins and Mr. Upchurch toward the "valuable school property" — the 1958 Southern Almanac.

The yearbook was dedicated to Professor Hira T. Curtis, associate professor of business. Professor Curtis, who has been at Southern Missionary College for many years, has taught in Southern-day Advance schools for sixty-five years. He is now retiring as Professor Emeritus of Business Administration. The first copy of the yearbook was presented to Professor Curtis.

Faculty Quarters Supper

Faculty Fetes Seniors of '58

Seniors of the Class of 1958 were entertained in Auditor Jones Hall dining room on Sunday evening, May 11, at a Homecoming banquet given by the Faculty Tables were attractively arranged seating groups of eight with a Faculty host and hostess serving the seniors at each table. Pastel pink, yellow, and green carried out the tropical color scheme.

Before the divison chairman presented the seniors in their respective fields, the faculty male entertainers, including the seniors at each table. Pastel pink, yellow, and green carried out the tropical color scheme.

The ladies trio consisted of Dorothy Anderson, Edwin Jackson, and Mirella Anderson. Professor Wayne VandeVere played "Two Guitars" on a clarinet solo, and Mrs. J. M. Ackerling sang "Old Man River" and "By the Bend of the River." The quartet, brought back by popular request, performed during the Faculty Talent Night at the beginning of the school year and was widely acclaimed. Hosts, Professor A. Woodcraft, Dr. H. H. Gordon Hyde, and J. B. Cooper are encouraged to continue singing together.

The keynote speaker was Dr. T. W. Walters, who admonished the seniors that college graduates are always in demand, therefore, strive for the best always.

The divison chairman presented the seniors under their major fields and told interesting, humorous incidents about them.

Dr. Bushnell Gets Degree On Alvarez

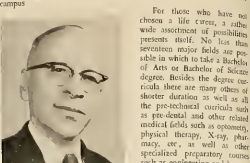

"I am convinced that the main asset in getting a Ph.D. is persistence. Possibly tenacity would be a word which would better describe our Chairman of the Division of the History and Political Science, Dr. Clyde Bushnell, who has recently completed work on his doctoral thesis with the University of Texas after over two years of extensive study.

Dr. Bushnell, writing his dissertation on the subject, "The Maritime and Political Career of Juan Alvarez," has been asked why this particular subject was chosen. The quick answer is, because Alvarez (one-time general and president of Mexico) has been characterized by the historian as an ignorant, illiterate, back-country Indian. In the archives of the University of Texas, however, Dr. Bushnell discovered some personal letters written by Alvarez which gave evidence of some discrepancy in this gross misrepresentation.

Why is so little known about Juan Alvarez? One concept is that there are certain religious groups which have been anxious to keep him from reaching any degree of renown or popularity due to the fact that it was Alvarez, along with Benito Juarez, who successfully

What Course Shall I Take?

W HAT course shall I take in college? Fortunately that question is settled by the majority of freshmen before they arrive on the campus.

For those who have not chosen a life career, a rather wide assortment of possibilities presents itself. Not less than seventeen major fields are possible in which to take a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree. Besides the degree in such fields there are many others of shorter duration as well as all the pre-collegiate curricula such as pre-dental and other related medical fields such as optometry, physical therapy, X-ray, etc., as well as other specialized preparatory courses such as engineering and law.

Fortunately in these day schools are set up to give valuable counsel in choosing a life career. Skillfully directed vocational aptitude tests as well as vocational interest tests are available to the student, who are of definite value in determining where his natural abilities lie.

It is estimated that more than fifty per cent of the American people are following an occupation in which they are not especially interested. This is in itself a somewhat of a tragedy. The first job of the college is to assist the student to arrive at an intelligent conclusion on this most important question.

Except for certain pre-technical courses the freshman year in college is quite similar for all curricula. This is fortunate, for those who may be undecided as to what course to take when they arrive need a year to crystallize their life plans. After the student has been in college for a year it is much easier to determine the advisable course to follow.

Degrees are offered in the following fields: Home Economics, Food and Nutrition, Industrial Education, Business Administration, Economics, Secretarial Science, Medical Secretarial Science, Teacher Education, Nursing Education, Education, Music Performance, Modern Languages, English, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Textile, History. A degree course for Bible instructors is also offered.

This affords a wide scope of interests from which to choose. Beyond the field of the Bachelor of Arts there are two-year courses leading to a diploma and one-year courses leading to a certificate. Some of these shorter courses are Printing, Industrial Arts, Home Economics, Clerical Training, Elementary Teacher Certification, etc.

Besides the degree, diploma, and certificate curricula there are a number of fields in which the student may take work not leading to a degree or diploma. Some of these are Auto Mechanics, Mechanical Drawing, Accounting, Physical Education, Art, Speech, Sociology, Public Speaking, and Geography.

With this rich line of offerings most any student will find that he will fit his need. Southern Missionary College endeavors to anticipate the greatest possible range of interests and to meet that need as far as possible.

Others of the Senior Class
Dr. Carlos Castañeda shared as the chairman of Bushnell's doctoral dissertation for a Mexican politician of those days. As a result of his study he and Dr. Castañeda became good friends, but unfortunately, "Don" was not prominent historically, died of a heart attack on April third of this year.

Dr. Bushnell's study was that most interesting ever made on Juan Alvarez; it is interestingly written and will be published as soon as it can be translated into Spanish.

31 Take Part in 42nd Graduation 6 Cum Laude

Friday, May 23, will find the Southern Missionary College seniors of 1958 marching to the front of the Tobacco Auditorium for the commencement exercises. Elder Don R. Rees, president of the Southern Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists and chairman of the college board, will be the speaker.

The baccalaureate session will be given by Elder Roland E. Hegstad, who is the Book Editor at Southern Publishing Association in Nashville. Elder Hegstad was on the campus March 7 through 15 conducting the MV Spring Week of Prayer.

Speakers for commencement Sunday morning will be Dr. Myron M. Moore, Dean of Education at Point University, Potomac University, the N. C. State University near Washington, D. C.

Of the class of 34 spring graduates, six are graduating cum laude. Professor Hyde, class speaker, stated that this is an unusual number considering the size of the class. "A number of students felt," he said, "that this was a very large proportion of the 1958 class is going into graduate studies."

Dr. C. N. Rees Elected President of SMC

Shankel Appointed

Several new appointments to the college and administrative staff will fill vacancies in these areas which have been announced by the college board.

When Missionary College's Board of Trustees recently announced the appointment of Dr. C. N. Rees as president of the college, he and his wife and son, who have arrived on the campus are anticipating a fine school year.

Rees has strong leadership qualities, having served as dean of the Southern Missionary College years and as president of the Southern Junior College for many years. He has held conferences in the department heads who are campus and with the president of the Student Association in planning plans for the beginning of the fall term on September 15.

The college board also announced the appointment of Dr. George E. Shankel, Jr., as general manager of the college. Both have similar capacities before them and well qualified for their positions.

William H. Taylor will be in charge of student affairs, and Dr. C. N. Rees will be in charge of the Student Association. He will be in charge of Public Relations.

EMC Officials Press Views on Revision

Dr. G. E. Shankel, dean, and Dr. Fleming, business manager, of the Southern Missionary College appear on station WDEF-TV, Chattanooga, Sunday, July 27 at 1:00 on Channel 12, on a program titled "A Point of View."

The program was moderated by Dr. Connor, and two panelists, Mr. Whitehouse and Marvin Harper. Dr. Shankel and Mr. Fleming discussed the academic and social policies of the college. The program features of our whole educational philosophy and the balance of intellectual, practical, and social were discussed at some length.

The place of the industries as a vital asset to the college and to students was a feature of considerable interest. The program lasted thirty minutes and was given over entirely to college.

Mr. Taylor held a similar position at Southwestern Junior College and Union College and has been working on his doctorate in journalism at the University of Missouri. The new dean of women will be Miss Alford Costner, formerly freshmen composition instructor.

George E. Shankel

Dr. Clifford A. Reeves will preside over at Emmanuel Missionary College. She is already on the campus and is becoming acquainted with the routine of Maude Jones Hall. Mrs. Costner has been an elementary school teacher, a high school teacher, and a dean of girls, as well as a college instructor. She has taught in schools in Baraboo, Beloit, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and has been dean of girls at Highlands Academy in Rockland, Wisconsin.

She has a Master of Science degree in education from the University of Wisconsin.

A'bebe Costner

Dr. G. E. Shankel, Jr., a Bachelor of Arts degree from EMC with majors in education and English. With a keen interest in people.

and understanding of the SMC. Mr. Costner meets the students on their own level. She has proved to be a wise counselor, and SMC is fortunate to be able to add her to the administrative staff here.

Conrad N. Rees

Dr. Clifford A. Reeves will preside over the religious department beginning with the fall term. He has been highly successful in evangelistic work both in this country and in Canada. He has also conducted large efforts in England and in Australia, which have been responsible for many souls being won to the gospel.

Elder Reeves has a bachelor of divinity degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, and his bachelor of philosophy degree was granted by American University in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Gordon Mulgrew will supplement the teaching staff in the English department where he will teach classes in both freshman composition and literature. He was born in Scotland and received his education in England and in the United States at Washington Missionary College. He also attended the Seminary and received his master's degree in church history.

Relieving Mrs. Elva Gardner of the registrar's duties will be Mrs.

Charles Fleming, Jr.

Theresa Wink Lambeth, who is no stranger at all to Southern Missionary College. She served as registrar at Southern Junior College from 1937 to 1943.

In that same year she moved to Washington where she assumed the duties of registrar at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary. She served in that position until 1954.

She is qualified to teach typewriting, bookkeeping, and general business subjects, which she has done at Pacific Union College and La Serra College. In the latter school she was also assistant registrar. Mr. H. C. Lambeth will serve as director of the service department, and an interview with him will appear in the next issue of the SOUTHERN ACCENT.

Eleven Graduate

As potential leaders, you graduates of 1958 must have your leadership on the two main qualities of Christ's life — love and service," said William H. Taylor, newly appointed dean of student affairs, at the August 16 commencement exercises.

He spoke on "Christian Leadership in a Pressured Era." Other speakers for the week end activities were Elder N. C. Wilson, our new Georgia-Cumberland Conference president, who gave the Baccalaureate address Sabbath morning, and Dr. G. E. Shankel, dean of the college, who spoke Friday evening at the Commencement exercises.

Dr. C. N. Rees, president of SMC, conferred one Bachelor of Music Education, seven Bachelors of Science, and three Bachelors of Arts degrees upon the eleven graduates of the Commencement Sunday night.

Officers of the 1958 summer convocation are: Jan Rushing, president, Carolyn Hoodard, vice-president, Frances Clark, secretary, Ira Demmon, pastor; Dr. G. E. Shankel, speaker.

REGISTRATION

The plan of registration for September varies somewhat from former years.

The freshman testing program will be held on Sunday, September 14. This means that all freshmen should be here not later than Friday, September 12.

On Monday there will be an orientation program for all freshmen. While this is in progress, former students who are here at that time may register. All freshmen will register on Tuesday, Wednesday, the last day of registration, all students other than freshmen may register.

G. E. SHANKEL, Dean

"Prospects for a large enrollment are excellent," said Professor J. M. Ackerman recently. Ackerman, secretary of admissions, reports that as of August 7, Southern Missionary College had accepted 457 students. On August 12 last year only 550 had been accepted.

"These figures show," said Ackerman, "that 107 more applications have been accepted this year over last year." Figures show that approximately 75 per cent of those that apply come. Therefore, enrollment should exceed 500 since the applications are still coming in rapidly.

If you have not sent in your application, don't delay, but do it today. Write to the Secretary of Admissions, and send your application to him. You will not want to miss being in school this fall. Plans are being made for a bigger and better SMC. See you September 14!

Come -- Because ...

Southern Missionary College has a rich history—God has directed in its establishment. I like to think that God saw each student who will be enrolled this year and directed the preparation of this school for him. This helps me to realize my responsibility to each student.

Years of struggle and earnest, prayerful study have gone into making Southern Missionary College what it is today. As a student you will be the recipient of all these blessings. As God led in founding Southern Missionary College, so He will lead in all of your student endeavors.

Christian education at Southern Missionary College offers the best in opportunities for development spiritually, scholastically, and physically. Here the best of books is recommended as the greatest study for human intelligence, as the education essential for this life and for eternal life.

At the risk of sounding like a "commercial" I would like to give what I consider a few reasons why you should be in attendance at Southern Missionary College when school opens in the fall:

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College provides a rapidly growing student body with a religious, cultural, and scientific education at reasonable cost.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College is ideally located in the heart of one of the beauty spots of the South.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College is traditionally a friendly college maintaining the highest ideals in spiritual, scholastic, and social training.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College offers on its beautiful campus modern, substantial buildings, having good facilities and equipment.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College graduates are in increasing demand for positions in all fields of endeavor.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College has a faculty of friendly, helpful men and women whose greatest joy is to see students make progress toward worthy goals in life.

BECAUSE—at Southern Missionary College work is a privilege and an honorable opportunity to earn while you learn. Work clothes are no social handicap on this campus.

BECAUSE—at SMC you will make friends whom you will cherish throughout your life.

BECAUSE—a most cordial invitation is extended to you to apply at once for admission to Southern Missionary College. "If you fail to prepare, you prepare to fail."

Dr. C. N. REES

A Word From the Dean

As dean of the college I am happy to tell you that everything is shaping up for a fine school year. To date we have over 100 more acceptances than a year ago at this same time. We are well pleased with the new faculty personnel. Other articles in this issue will speak of this in more detail.

Other articles in this issue will speak of this in more detail. If you were to visit the campus these days you would find a new spirit of enthusiasm for the future. The sound of the saw, the hammer, and the power shovel all speak the language of urgency to have things in readiness for September 15.

This is a day of education. There are more taking degrees today than finished high school less than a generation ago. In every sphere of life the demand is more and more for men and women who have had the basic foundation of a college course. We are sure that SMC will prove a wonderful place to be in 1958-59. "Come with us and we will do thee good."

Students Plan Varied Summer

By STEVE WARR
As the ACCENT deadline approaches, Fate finds this reporter frantically searching for answers to the question posed in this survey—What are SMC's diligent scholars doing to do to keep busy this summer? Felge Hall seems to be the residence of several industrious collegians, and here are the gleanings from a brief investigation:

Freshman class president, Orville Swartz, will continue to develop his qualities of leadership by serving as a counselor at camp KIA KIAMA, a Boy Scout camp in Arkansas.

Lamar Phillips is going to invade the world of the brick and mortar and earn next year's expenses working with his brother in a large commercial bee-keeping operation in California's San Jacinto Valley.

Cliff Keller will be assistant art director for the Louisville Amphitheater. Next year he will be teaching math and science at Battle Creek Academy.

Gay Miami will find Robert Arian making dentures for a large dental laboratory. To get the best of the Florida sun, she plans, among other things, to wax cars in his spare time. Robert's roommate, Bill Lord, will keep busy at the Hialeah Sea (working, he says.)

The Charleston Navy Yards have need of a marine draftsman, and that's where Ed McCants will spend his working hours.

To relieve the monotony of winding brooms back home in Nashville, Jerry Williams plans to make use of baseball, swimming, and cave exploration.

Alan-drew Auld Christensen heads for the Florida keys in July. He has a hunch about some sunken treasure, and if that doesn't keep him busy, spear fishing and the thrill of the hunt will go along with beach life will occupy his time.

All local thuds had better take warning that sleuth Gene (Shellock) Stone is staying here to night-watch. Crime does not pay.

Charles Hann will be engaged in the occasionally shocking job of electrician, wiring houses in a new Orlando Housing project.

“Cavassing in Jacksonville, sking in Orlando — anything but monitoring in a dorm,” says L. E. Hanstrom. We doubt that he will be bored, no matter what he does.

In the heart of the southwest of country, Herman Washington, Jim Tucker, Bill Berry, and Bruce Koppitz plan to hit the canvassing trail. We hope they bring back good reports from Okla., Texas.

Prospects of a profitable summer's canvassing seem to beckon Wayne Darnell, Sonny Hallis, Gary Pearson, Herschel Sudam, Ronald Shealy, Julius Garner, and Steve Taylor to Greebles.

Opinions in St. Petersburg will be calling on Don Davidson as he works as airserver boy for an optical supply firm.

Victor W. is going to seek his fortune in New York. He plans to see if he is a Chinese restaurateur.

But we mustn't forget the enterprising residents of Maude Jones hall. Since this reporter does not reside in that building, the report from that end of the campus will not be as complete.

We hope Sandra Collier doesn't

The Good Ol' Summertime in "Ma Jones Hall"

We may be short—we may be tall; But each of us live in Maude Jones Hall. We have some news to share with you. And hope you're there when we are, too.

No, we haven't changed the dorm name, but a letter came addressed to "Ma Jones Hall!" The summer months at SMC are rarely dull ones. Those who are taking summer classes practically kibitzed, peering out sneakily from behind a book long enough for a watermelon feed or so.

Second floor parlor has been turned into a "Stuffer" and Salon with famous personages as Diane Ludlum, Loree Kynn, Gloria Draper, and Joy Willett as patrons.

Life would not be complete without the happy laughter of night parties, watermelon feeds, and acrobatics to Klamon Bay pool. Some people's minds—and mouths—work continuously, as Lu's was overhead yelling strange oases about 2 o'clock in the morning. But how strange are they, Rath?

Friends have come and gone this summer, and each has behind memories. Who could forget Mary Lu Cochran and her "onechy-bird" whistle? Or advice, Cochy, is "don't pass your fate on to your students." Please!

We have via the grapevine that Patty Muzey is seen each morning at the store buying bubblegum. One wonders why a college student more who works in the library indulges in such pastimes.

There's a question we'd like to pose to Edma Franco—two fact. Edma, which room do you live in; and where do you hide when the painters come up on second?

If the kitchenette could talk, it would tell the nature of its strange ventilating coils coming from the back of the stove. But also disclose how many bottles of Pepto Bismol have been used.

Roberta Wey, Jo Ann Miller, Jeanne Patis, Ailsa Flinn, Les Perlin, and Erlene Moller went on the Biology field trip last week. When we get back to the dorm, let's learn the bugs to curdle. That's all for now. See you when school starts.

Spectrograph

Four-foot photographs of the optical spectrum have been taken with the Physics department spectrograph, as part of the work done by Jan Rushing in the "Topics in Physics Courses." Jan presented an oral report of his work on Friday, the 23rd of May.

The twenty-one-foot spectrograph was an original Johns Hopkins invention grating which produces a spectrum (rainbow) about four feet in length. It takes an entire roll of twenty exposures, 35 mm film, no photograph the colors from red to violet, and almost an equal amount of film could be used for the invisible colors beyond the red and beyond the violet. These spectra can be used to test the chemical composition, the density, the temperature, the velocity, and the pressure of any source which is emitting light. Such spectrographs provide almost all of what we know about the universe outside of the earth and about the interior of the atoms of which the universe is made.

Jan summarized some of these aspects of the problem, as well as showing some of the photographs he has taken with a special device which he constructed.

Jan's interest in the spectrograph is an early hobby, because the plans to fill in as a relief secretary for the IPI Ink Company in Louisville. Don't upset the ink babies, Sandra.

Secretarial work has always interested Tena Anderson, and the Home Study Institute in Washington has called her to fill a position as a general secretary.

The U. S. Army base at Hampton, Virginia, will open its gates to Joyce Mull every weekday morning as she goes to work as a stenographer. Joyce thinks the position has good possibilities.

Miss Herin Visits Nurses in Europe

Miss Mzie Herin, Chairman of the Division of Nursing will lead on the steamer "Berlin" to Pier 97, North River, New York on the twenty-seventh of May for a summer-long business-use trip to Europe.

Traveling largely under the patronage of the American Nurses' Association and the International Council for Nurses, Miss Herin will visit many places of interest in connection with the visiting professorship she plans to take during the nursing year in England's while there will visit Vienna, Nightingale's famed St. Thomas Hospital in London, and other spots. She will be the first American nurse to visit this hospital.

She will be vacationing with friends of long standing, Marie Whitfield, Miss Betty Cummings, and Miss Alice Smith, all of whom are also visiting professors.

The tourists will disembark at Berlin, Germany, before going to some sightseeing, shopping, then fly back to Berlin where they will pick up their Volkswagen which will be the means of transportation on their tour.

Other areas on their itinerary are Denmark, Sweden, Norway, England, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria. They will spend a few brief days at the World Fair in Brussels and will spend two or three more (eventually more important, of course, to the nurses), will be the Mozart Theater at Strassburg.

Miss Herin and her friends will go by car up along the Rhine to return on the "Berlin" to New York, where they are scheduled to dock September sixth.

Dr. and Mrs. Walters Move to West Coast

Dr. and Mrs. Walters left Collegedale on Wednesday, July 23, for the West Coast marking the termination of three years of a full measure of service. Dr. Walters' term of service was marked by many advance moves on the campus. A beautiful elementary school fills a long felt need. This addition has made possible the transfer of the academy to the former elementary school. The new cafeteria and home economics building now nearing completion is also a part of the plan of an expanded campus envisioned by Dr. Walters.

Mrs. Walters' fine Christian spirit and her activity in the work of the church has been a highly appreciated service. Dr. and Mrs. Walters have given unstintingly of their energies for the advancement of the college. They have consistently held high Christian standards before students and community. Their contribution will grow in value by the passage of time. Tom, Jr., and Kenay, too, will be missed for their keen interest in everything that advanced the interest of the school.

Our prayers and interest go with this family that has given so generously of their time and effort in behalf of the college. We wish them an even larger measure of success in their future place of service.

E. C. Banks Goes to EMC as Dean of Students

Elder and Mrs. E. C. Banks will be leaving Collegedale the first of September for Emmanuel Missionary College where he will be dean of students.

SMC and EMC both can claim Elder Banks as an alumnus for he graduated here from the junior college and received his Bachelor of Theology degree at Bethan. His Master's and his Bachelor of Divinity degree were earned from the Seminary in Washington, D. C. His most recent degree, he tells us, is SDG—Silly Old Grandpa—acquired this summer.

Throughout his twelve years of service at SMC, Elder Banks has endeared himself to students who have come and gone. Ministerial students have caught a greater vision of the task ahead and received very practical instruction as in the "how" of it.

Mrs. Banks has assisted Dr. Anderson as clinic nurse for the past two years.

Patients visiting the clinic will miss the friendliness and interest which were an integral part of her work there.

As they leave we send with them our prayers and best wishes for as fruitful a term of service at EMC as these past 12 years at SMC have proven to be.

Southern Missionary College Continues to Grow

By DON FERDM

While looking through the old ACCENTS dating from 1945 to 1948, I noticed a few interesting things, and I hope that they will be of interest to you also. Among these was the picture of the first men's dormitory. It was first printed in the February 1, 1919, issue of Faith. It is printed here in contrast with the present Talge Hall.

Southern Missionary College continues to grow in 1945 there were many changes brought about for the betterment of school life. The curriculum was increased, and due to this, the faculty staff and to be enlarged by the addition of ten new members.

The women's dormitory, North Hall, was officially dedicated and renamed Maude Jones Hall on September 29 of that year at a special service honoring Miss Maude Jones. Two weeks later the ground-breaking ceremonies for the auditorium were held.

The Southland Scroll, the school paper, was renamed SOUTHERN ACCENT in 1945. Miss Frances Andrews, '49, the present editorial advisor, was the first editor for the ACCENT.

During this time many servicemen and ex G. I.'s began to inquire about entrance into the college. They wanted to resume their studies after a tour of duty with one of the various branches of service. World War II had just ended.

The first four-year class was graduated in 1946. Only six received degrees.

The summer of 1946 brought new developments. Thirty trailers were received from the Atomic plant at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. They were allotted to SMC by the Federal Public Housing Administration to relieve the housing shortage caused by the return of the servicemen. The trailers were placed in the Veterans' Trailer Camp behind Talge Hall.

The fall of 1946 brought more than 80 veterans with their families. They were housed in the trailers and ten tents that were erected for that purpose.

The A. G. Daniels Memorial Library was dedicated May 14, 1947. The late Elder Carlyle B. Haynes gave the dedicatory address.

Elder V. G. Anderson became the chairman of the college board in 1948.

In 1951 the science building was dedicated and named Earl Hackman Hall.

The new Fine Arts building was dedicated and named Harold A. Miller Hall in 1954.

A sad day came in 1956, for the furniture factory burned on July 3, leaving many students without work. Other industries were expanded to meet the demand for work.

This is the final installment of the history of SMC for this year. I hope you have enjoyed the brief trip into the past.

Dr. and Mrs. Holm Say Good-bye

Dear Students and Friends at SMC,

After four very pleasant and happy years we are saying good-bye to our many friends at SMC.

We have come to love the young people of the Southern Union and particularly as you have studied at SMC. Wherever young people subscribe to the principles and ideals of the third angel's message and strive to live by them, their lives will testify of it. We have appreciated the enthusiastic and devoted spirit of the young people at SMC.

The best days for the church are still ahead, and there is nothing more important than for the youth to keep their vision clear of what God expects of them in our time. A Christian education is the best preparation for these important days.

We shall think of you in our quiet moments and live with you again in many fond memories. . . .

"So walking here in twilight, O my Friends;

I hear your voices softened by the distance,

And pause, and turn to listen, as each sends

His words of friendship, comfort, and assistance

Thanks for the sympathies that ye have shown;

Thanks for each kindly word, each silent token,

That teaches me when seeming most alone,

Friends are around us, though no word be spoken."

Henry Wardsworth Longfellow

May the Lord bless and keep each one of you. We will be at home in La Sierra. Our address is 11227 Pierce Place, Arlington, California. Come and see us, or if that isn't possible, drop us a line. Best wishes for a good school year.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Holm

Library Keeps Pace with Accreditation Standards

The number of books in the A. G. Daniels Memorial Library at Southern Missionary College has more than doubled in the last ten years. During this period more than 13,000 books have been added. The inventory taken last June reveals the official number of books at 26,116, as compared with 12,706, the official figure on June 1, 1948. Currently, the library is receiving about 270 periodicals, nearly two hundred of which are by paid subscription.

The library has frequently been called the heart of a college, doubtless meaning that it should be the center of intellectual vitality. If so, SMC has been provided with a strong heart, with the boutiful, spacious building constructed especially for library purposes, an efficient library staff, and strong and ever-growing numbers of materials gathered together to serve well the needs of the students.

According to Mr. Stanley Brown, the librarian, the book collection has grown every year, and has been a continuous policy of the library requirements for an accredited college and to provide books and periodicals of a high and variety appropriate.

Are the books being used? During the nine months embracing the last academic year, there was a total of 20,943 withdrawals at the charging desk. These statistics do not include much use of the books directly from the shelves or use of magazine material privately. A special check has recently been made by choosing one book at random from each of the 100 cases in the stacks and holding rooms. Of 178 books thus examined, 150 revealed that they had at one time been borrowed one or more times from the library.

The library building, of distinctive Georgian architecture, invites to study. Conveniently sited on the main entrance is the large, air-conditioned reading room, with an excellent collection of reference books. Nearby is the "center" book room with inviting leather chairs and interesting displays on the shelves. The bulk of the book collection is housed on the stack area embracing the floors of book cases with individual study carrels for month activities.

In charge of the library are Brown, the librarian, and Myrtle Watrous, the assistant librarian, both of whom hold a national university degree in education and have had long experience. Assisting from last year were two part-time student workers and an average of three other students engaged in uniting and film projection.

All student staff members help for library work and receive credit in the college, with a science (six semester hours) of the teaching of the class. Myrtle Watrous, the assistant librarian, greatly enhances the efficiency of the library working force, and provides student work in the use of library material, with a manuscript of areas which better able to assist and guide students using the library. Ever, the class is open also who desire to improve their knowledge of how to use the library, though they may not yet be becoming a library worker.
