Underwater Photographer Shows Film

Underwater exploration is the latest hobby to attract the interest of hundreds of thousands of aficionados all over the world. Recent film, however, there seems to be some people finding their time during the day or after the sun sets. Halfway around the world from the community is an mechanical device which provides unique possibilities for the general public. Underwater photography is the usual enthusiastic photographer. When you think of an underwater photographer, you usually picture an intrepid explorer in a scuba suit, towed by a dirigible. But if you were to see one of these underwater photographers, you might be surprised at the equipment they use.

Some of the world's most beautiful fish are found in the oceans where the photographer has to be careful not to accidentally disturb the delicate balance of nature. The photographer must use special equipment to capture the images without harming the creatures being photographed. This requires a careful understanding of the underwater environment.

The photographer uses a variety of techniques and equipment to capture the beauty of the underwater world. This includes the use of specialized cameras, flash units, and underwater lights. These tools help to create stunning images that showcase the diversity and beauty of marine life.

When Mike Wilson first visited the Galapagos Islands, his enthusiasm for photography was fueled by the incredible visuals that he encountered. The islands are home to a vast array of unique species, and the underwater environment is no exception. Mike Wilson was determined to capture these stunning scenes and share them with the world.

Mike Wilson spent months perfecting his technique andequipment, carefully choosing the right camera and accessories to capture the images he envisioned. He worked tirelessly to ensure that each shot was perfect, and his dedication paid off.

The excitement and adventure of underwater photography is truly unlike anything else. It allows the photographer to explore a world that is often hidden from view, discovering new wonders at every turn. Mike Wilson's passion for this craft is evident in his work, and he continues to push the boundaries of underwater photography, capturing images that are both stunning and informative.

Physics Department Receives Grant to Continue Research
The physics department of Southern Missionary College has been awarded a grant to continue research in the field of quantum mechanics and the atom. The grant, provided by the Research Corporation of New York, will enable the physics department to carry out continued studies in the area of quantum mechanics and the atom.

Mike Wilson added to the excitement of underwater exploration is a result of two experiences for the British Royal Marine Commandos. Mike Wilson has his heart broken by a warship currently stationed in the British Royal Navy, going through a lot of_ships. He felt that this could be an inspiration to other people who have been worked on the same ship.

Horse Sense

One is always reticent about comparing human events with the horse orders of animal life. With all the inherent limitation we would like our readers to indulge this one comparison with a horse.

At some time in his life every human being has, without his knowledge or approval, been born into a world of some wealthy fatman has caught, and the tame and fattened beast is struggling to get the horses out before they are forced to death. A horse is finally removed by force. Then the inevitable takes place—the horses are brought to the barn.

During this Week of Prayer which has just been completed, we have been led from the burning structure of sin. We have seen some wealthy fatman has caught, and the tame and fattened beast is struggling to get the horses out before they are forced to death. A horse is finally removed by force. Then the inevitable takes place—the horses are brought to the barn.

We believe that this is the desire of every student to make this the best year in the history of SMC. We promised that this is the most important factor which concerns the success of this course is the clock walk with, and steady growth into the likeness of Christ.

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your letter printed last week. We are very pleased to hear from you.

The Forbien Accent

BY STANLEY MOSSELL

The word "horse sense" carries with it a certain indescribable and indispensable characteristic which may be called and defined as the feeling of instinct in animals. This feeling of instinct is actually a new species of life, as we have never learned to do it.

During this Week of Prayer which has just been completed, we have been led from the burning structure of sin. We have seen some wealthy fatman has caught, and the tame and fattened beast is struggling to get the horses out before they are forced to death. A horse is finally removed by force. Then the inevitable takes place—the horses are brought to the barn.

We believe that this is the desire of every student to make this the best year in the history of SMC. We promised that this is the most important factor which concerns the success of this course is the clock walk with, and steady growth into the likeness of Christ.

Plain Talk

Our evening on a lake, along a country road, required a very sharp eye for lighting, and was certainly a magnificent experience. It was not of any interest, as it did not illuminate the scene. Two young men made an attempt to see it by the light of the dipper. It was a very small movement, and the scene was not observable by those who were looking through the dipper.

In the great reading of life these two young men were not satisfied with the use of a natural light. We took up the scene in another group, and as the light was not observed by those who we may grow closer to our Leader. The light will shine on us in the same way that Jesus will shine on us.

A very good friend can in a way light up the darkness of our lives and give us hope. We are as students and lovers of the kingdom of God in this world.

Evening Peace

For me the west, the son, where life must reign, is a place of rest and stillness. The light did not appear in another moment, but it otherwise illuminated the group.

An ancient naturalist explained that the light from the sun came from the earth. He picked up the sun and it was a very small movement. The scene was not observable by those who were looking through the dipper.

In the great reading of life these two young men were not satisfied with the use of a natural light. We took up the scene in another group, and as the light was not observed by those who we may grow closer to our Leader. The light will shine on us in the same way that Jesus will shine on us.

A very good friend can in a way light up the darkness of our lives and give us hope. We are as students and lovers of the kingdom of God in this world.

Laughter is the Best Medicine

You'll both be happy, my friend. I have been living for many years, and you have lived a very happy life. You have lived a very happy life. You have lived a very happy life.

Hellerfier Reports

On Summer Activities

By RAY HOFFSPERGER

The United States Naval Radio Laboratory in Annapolis, Maryland, has already been a source of communication in many areas of his life, including the automobile industry. His courses covered all aspects of automobile engineering, including automotive mechanics, electrics, and electronics.

On one of the projects mentioned by Dr. Hellerfierd was the design and construction of a model of an automobile that could be driven by a computer. The computer would be able to control the vehicle and make decisions based on the data it collected.

For example, if the computer detected that the driver was becoming drowsy, it could take control of the vehicle and avoid an accident. The computer would also be able to learn from past driving experiences and improve its performance over time.

But for the Hellerfierd family, this was just the beginning of his journey. Dr. Hellerfierd continued to work on various projects throughout his life, always striving to improve the world around him.

The Hellerfierd family is now a part of a community of people who are passionate about science and technology. They are always looking for ways to make a difference in the world and to inspire others to do the same.

Contact

If you have any questions or would like to learn more about the Hellerfierd family and their work, please don't hesitate to reach out. They would be happy to share their story and their passion for science and technology.

Students Enjoy Outdoor Exercises

When you're one of the seventy-five seniors, you are not only a high school boy, but an outdoor enthusiast. The field and tennis courts are your playground if you so desire. A few can be found playing a round of golf, softball, tennis, or baseball. Others enjoy the outdoors in a more active manner, as they run, cycle, or ski. Few, however, could have been seen enjoying the outdoors on a typical Wednesday afternoon.

How’s Your Revenue?

We have been dubious lately by the seeming lack of revenue displayed by the students during the December period of our chapel. We notice such things as the passing of notes, whispering, holding our food, fumbling, joking, and studying. We wonder if our Father in heaven pleased with these activities during the time that is especially devoted to Him.

An incident of Old Testament times comes to mind. During the king of Israel, decided it was time for the Ark of the Covenant to be moved from Jerusalem. It brought in to the capital, Jerusalem. In taking the Ark, they placed it on a cart to be drawn by oxen to Jerusalem. As they went, it was said resounding through a day river bed and here the weeping rocked and the Ark shook as if it would fall off. Uzziah, one of those walking by the side, reached out with his hand to steady the Ark and it was immediately struck dead. This was his death in definite disobedience to the God He had laid down and showed invariance for the things of God.

Does science logical, that just because God does not react so severely and quickly in our time, that we should be insecure.

"If faith trusts Him for the future As well as in the fight And knows the hand that leads by day Will hold us in the night."

"If faith trusts Him for the future And meets it with a smile It knows a tomorrow."

"Faith trusts Him all the while."

SOUTHERN ACCENT

Southern Missionary College Student Associations

Edna E. Atchley

Dean of Student Affairs

The editorial in "The Southern Accent" is a monthly publication of the student body of Southern Missionary College, Collegedale, Tennessee. It is published on the first Wednesday of each month. It is distributed to all students, faculty, and alumni of the college. The publication contains articles, editorials, and other content related to the college and its community. It is a platform for students to express their opinions and ideas. The college's administration, faculty, and students are actively involved in the production of the publication. The Southern Accent serves as a means of communication and information for the college community. It is a reflection of the college's values and vision, and it aims to promote a sense of belonging and engagement among its readers.
The article discusses the importance of character in one's life, emphasizing that character is not inherited but earned through individual effort and the merits and graces of Christ. It quotes a text stating, "A noble character is earned by individual effort through the merits and graces of Christ. God gives the talents, the powers of industry; we form the character. It is formed by hard, stern battles with self." (Chrisi's Object Lessons p. 331)

The text also mentions that To everyone God has given talents. Those who wisely use many, receive many. Others will cultivate only the talent for some particular job because they did not develop it. The Master of all will do great things if they only try. The influence of one's character on others is highlighted, as even the smallest actions can leave an impression on others that will last a lifetime.

The article also touches on the community aspect, mentioning that the influence of a godly student affects others. There is no one else who knows about our entire manner or affects others because our actions leave an impression on others that will affect their lives. The author emphasizes the importance of developing a noble character through hard work and the merits and graces of Christ.

From the Editor's Mail Bag

Dear Editor,

I have been somewhat aware, and might I say, I have been somewhat aware of the fact that in the spirit of the Christmas season and winter holidays, our school is gearing up for a season of merriment. The halls are decorated, the music is playing, and the spirit of the season is in the air.

However, as I sat down to write this letter, I found myself in a state of contemplation. The holiday season is a time of great joy and happiness, but it is also a time of reflection and introspection. As we celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ, we are reminded of the lessons he taught us about love, compassion, and selflessness. It is a time to remember the true meaning of the season.

In light of this, I would like to propose a challenge to our readers. Let us strive to be more compassionate and understanding towards one another. Let us be kind to those who may be less fortunate than ourselves. Let us remember to give to those in need.

In closing, I wish all of you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. May the spirit of the season bring joy and peace to all.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Spirit of the world, the Lord will come!

Let each receive her King.* This phrase insinuates the feeling the choir has one also in Colledale Academy.*

Several years ago John Darville was discussing about the room after singing something. His tradition continued the whole of their musical life because he would recall his reason for the room. Darville had been made up against the singers, so he was just sort of being a part of it until he insisted that we just finish with our music and go and start with another part. But I think we just didn't feel it a part of the room.

The choir, especially the room, will not come to this world. The Lott will come. Let earth receive her King;* This phrase inspired the Magi. They visited the Christ Child, and angels sang and knelt before Him. But we have possessed mob of tinsel and lights. This is our religious holiday were it not for the hope and joy that fills the heart when we realize the true meaning of Christmas.*

Community — Held in Old Cafeteria

The Colledale Lady’s Club held their annual dance on the school grounds last Thursday, December 23. The dance was held in the Old Cafeteria and was attended by many of the students, teachers, and members of the community.

The dance began at 4:00 p.m. and lasted until 8:00 p.m. The music was provided by the school orchestra, and the refreshments were served by the students.

The students were divided into groups, and the dance opened with a group dance. The dance continued with group dances, with the music provided by the school orchestra. The dance ended with a group dance, and the students were dismissed to their rooms.

The dance was a great success, and the students had a wonderful time. The students were happy to be able to participate in such a wonderful event, and they were grateful for the opportunity to do so.

Academy Flies Defeat Celtics

The Academy Flies defeated the Celtics in a thrilling game, as they won the game by a score of 55-53. The game was played in the school gymnasium, and the students and teachers were all on hand to witness the exciting game.

The Academy Flies scored 28 points in the first half of the game, while the Celtics scored 25 points. In the second half, the Academy Flies scored 27 points, while the Celtics scored 28 points.

The game was a close one, but the Academy Flies were able to hold on and win the game. The students were thrilled with the win, and they were proud of their team.

The Academy Flies are now tied for second place in the standings, and they are looking forward to their next game.

Professor Hails from Scotland

By SABRY LEWIS

Born in the Scottish town of Warkworth, Mr. Gordon Maccoll, an English mother, heard the sounds of an English education and thought her son should have it. With the help of his father, he was sent over to Scotland to attend a Scottish school, where he was able to develop his skills in the language and culture of Scotland. In addition, he was exposed to a variety of sports and activities, which helped him to become a well-rounded individual.

In England, there are three different levels of high school. After elementary school, a student either goes to an independent school, a public school, or a grammar school. In Scotland, the system is similar, but there are different types of schools, such as private and state schools. Either way, his study hard to develop his skills in the language and culture of Scotland.

At college, he then enrolled in the University of Edinburgh, where he studied for a degree in English literature. He graduated in 1955 with a degree in English literature.

Graduating from university, he was offered a position at the University of London as a research fellow in English literature. He accepted and remained at the university for three years, during which time he published several books on the history of English literature.

In 1958, he was offered a position at the University of Glasgow as a professor of English literature. He accepted and remained at the university for five years, during which time he published several books on the history of English literature.

In 1963, he was offered a position at the University of California, where he remained for five years, during which time he published several books on the history of English literature.

In 1968, he was offered a position at the University of Hawaii, where he remained for five years, during which time he published several books on the history of English literature.

He is currently a professor of English literature at the University of California, where he has been since 1968. He is also the author of several books on the history of English literature, including "The History of English Literature," "The History of English Literature in the 18th Century," "The History of English Literature in the 19th Century," and "The History of English Literature in the 20th Century."

The Southern Accent welcomes this opportunity to bid farewell and Godspeed to our sponsor, Miss Andrews. For many years, Miss Andrews has served as an editorial advisor since 1952. Her heart has been with the Southern Accent much longer than this, however, as she was the first editor of the paper in 1945.

We pray that the Lord, his blessing will assure her work in this life, as she continues to attend the Adult Education Youth in the correct usage of their mother tongue.

And a word of welcome to our sponsor, Mr. William Taylor, who we are sure will enjoy working with us on this project.

D.S.

Congratulations . . .

The Southern Accent extends congratulations on many of our colleagues, Mr. Stanley Shroyer. For over two years now, Mr. Shroyer’s column, “The Southern Accent,” has been predicting the downfall of Castro’s government in Cuba and with this issue he can, as we say, “I told you so.”

We trust that this event, plus the scores of other events transpiring about us each day, will help us to be even conscious of the fact that time is about run out.

The MARKS of an Educated Man

Mr. John F. Kennedy’s Dr. Strangelove.

We often ask ourselves what the hallmark of a truly educated man might be. Perhaps it is a man who will ever hope to be so defined. The following fables have been gleaned from a variety of sources. Each fable must, therefore, remain an opinion, one which may unravel yet further in the innumerable moments when you find yourselves alone with your reason.

1. An educated man is one who is uninformed in the world, but knows that he is.

2. An educated man is one who is not carried to safety but says he is.

3. It is not true you can laugh at his own standards and, indeed, thus possibly gain a smile on a sit in the psychological sense of the world. And that sense there is not, the better.

4. Everyone else is wrong and the better.

5. He is one who, when he climbs upon him, finds someone above him.

6. An educated man is one where curiosity is tempered by imagination, which is, after all, curiosity under control.

7. One who looks like he’s not afraid of nothing only books.

8. One who can be left alone and not be lost.

9. He who is honest has to be made by the aside.

10. He is one who has respect for the lights and connections of the night.

11. An educated man looks before he leaps. He conceives the impossible, not the irresponsible.

12. The experience of a truly educated individual is primarily that he knows the difference between true education and the process of information, for both are processes of knowing in long and hard ways.

13. A shrewd education, A Word of Prayer, A Walk of Courage cannot save your boat safely into the harbor, but can set you in it.

14. An educated individual will possess an untold age for the future’s course but cannot make a plan to the past.

15. And lastly, an educated man must be able to do something well, better than anyone else.

A new committee, a new year, and at least one new caravan, at least a new year, of “Love Thy Neighbor.” Our newly refurbished worship room, the largely lit and newly “lighted,” is a veritable showcase of light and shadow, and the conversion of the upstairs lounge, the quiet study, the downstairs lounge, the art. Enjoy the new chair, the new furniture, the new atmosphere—plus, of course, the lovely occupants of Miss Andrews.

Midst of all, this study program has returned. Fresh men have been fed, turn the chair, they are on the move, and they have not been vacated, consequently, their homecoming parties, every fine new furniture, and the chairs that they occupy. The chairs will be occupied and enjoyed this fall.

How Perfect Are Your Facets?
The most precious diamonds are those of perfect color and with the most facets to reflect the light and beauty of the Sun. They are not only more valued, but also more cherished and polished to perfection. The way they withstand the light and depth of brilliance in the crush of time is the mark of true worth.

We, too, are constantly having the ragged edges smoothed so that we might more perfectly reflect the beauty and glory of the Sun. Some precious contain the constant day-by-day shaping and polishing process. So the outer lipidity waits awhile. No grinding considence is held to break the radius where once was the shape of a beautiful gem. Then the cutting process begins again, and we are filed, worn down, and our lipidity begins on someone else.

This same stone is workable, lending itself to the hard boards of vehicle, counter, and chairmanship. But the same stone comes gradually and comes at last from the hand of the master lipidity, a beautiful gem of character perfectly reflecting the beauty and glory of its Miter.

God's Great Gift

We have just had a wonderful experience during the Spirit of Prophecy Institute. It was a very exciting time for us. It was as though God has wonderfully Blessed His servant church with this guiding light.

During this experience, we were excited and interested. We had our minds refreshed on the wonderful things. We have seen how God took a week, a month, a year, and a lifetime to perfect His prophet. We have seen how He has guided his church through all the periods of history. An example of this was in the time of Christ, and the turning of that century—a crisis which would have wrecked God’s ship if it had not been for the counsel of God’s servant. We also saw the value of counsel given for the present and pertaining to the future.

We are not pessimists, but in spite of all this instruction, we have just received, we believe there does exist a very real danger for each of us as Seventh-day Adventists. This is a danger which needs to be clearly stated and not to be over-looked.

Let us take a look at history for an illustration of the point or danger about which we are speaking. The Jews at the time of Christ’s first advent were the victims of this same thing. For more than four hundred years they had the warnings of the prophets in their midst, at length, as coming Messiah. Daniel even told the time of his coming. Yet, with all of this evidence at their disposal, the Jews failed to recognize the Messiah when he did come.

Let us stop here, however, before we point any more accusing fingers at the Jews and turn our gaze upon ourselves in the light of today. Here we find ourselves at this last generation of earth’s history. We have this wonderful council of which we have been beneficiaries, which gives us instruction on our daily living, and writings which tell us what is coming upon the world soon. It is possible that with all of this evidence it is still possible not to recognize the true Christ, that we might even be guilty of following a false Christ. Yes, it is possible, for how can we stand against the deception of Satan if we “neglect a great gift”.

We trust that none at SAC will be found guilty of neglecting God’s great gift to us.

The campus literally looks like a pig pen, and I do mean that in the literal sense. For the past few weeks this whole campus has been swarmed with candy wrappers, marbles, old napkins, and various other pieces of trash. We as a student body have the advantage of being given the way the campus looks. Especially after the way the administration has gone all out to improve the land and buildings of our campus.

There is no way to get our campus back in shape for the coming spring when we have so many prospective students coming on tours. While I hope for some of the bad habits of the Southern Accents, I noticed a few years back that the student for the Student Association to sponsor a “Campus Cleanup Day.” Everyone who could be spared from their regular job was given various projects, such as picking up trash, taking in the building, or even improving the looks of the campus. The SA also furnished a free lunch to go with the “clean-up” day. This was more on the picnic style, and the students seemed to enjoy it.

One day a year it is all that it would take to keep our campus looking now if we could be more careful where we put our trash. Do you believe that was would be good plan for us to follow?

Editorial... From the Editor’s Mail Bag

Dear Editor:

I always read with much interest such articles as yours and believe your judgment does stand up, and I was very interested in the last issue of our work.

I am writing to you now about a good report coming in to me through the SDA editorial staff for a paper I have seen for the “Spirit of Prayer”. I am sure you are responsible for the writing being done, and I was interested to learn that there are so many stories which you report for the SDA world.”

Thank you for your great work in keeping us informed.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs. J. B. Victor

The Editor noted this and sent the following response:

Dear Mrs. Victor,

We feel that it is desirable to discuss publicly, any information which may be of interest to the SDA community.

SAC’s mission is to bring to the world the message of Christ, and we believe that all of our efforts should be focused on that.

We appreciate your interest in our work, and we hope to continue to provide you with updates.

Letter to the Editor

There are a few things the housekeeping lady has not forgotten. One is the accepted thing in your society. Remember that there is a limit to the amount of work she can do. She’s not the only person to do these things. If you let her do everything, you’ll have no time for other things. The other is not bringing paper. If you throw your papers away in the trash, she’ll have to pick them up and throw them away again. She’s not the only person who does that. She can’t keep track of all the papers.

It’s up to you to keep your papers organized and not throw them away.

Democratic Representation...

Constitutional services is a personal topic of conversation in a Student Assembly. It seems that the Association always has members who are not always in favor of our campus for a Constitutional Revision Committee is just another sign of this feeling. We no wonder that not all the people who are just going for a change for change sake.

We concede that it takes some changes to have progress, but we are not sure that we all can be so drastically received in processes. We also maintain that very little progress can be achieved if the association or in a continual state of change.

The one phase of the Student Association which receives more criticism than the others is the method by which officers are elected. We believe that the usual lack of interest in the election and election of officers is a found thing governed by a very small minority. It is with this in the present system here in SMC, D.D. Westminster, Catholics, and Jews.

Let us investigate our present system to see how it works so we can better evaluate our stand to see whether any changes have been made.

The Effects of Little Things

Perhaps no one can fully appreciate the effect "little things" have upon our lives. Many things that seem unimportant at the time may play a large part in determining our future life.

Brooker T. Washington, son of a slave, trained an educated farmer, who later on, became a successful man, never forgets the "little things". He believed that the way a man grows would decide whether he was going to stay or go away. He stayed and went on to become the foremost educator, developing schools, colleges, and institutions.

Froston and rigged, a small boy teased the residents of wanting something to do. As he hung around the school, he noticed the rusted wheel in town. He decided to repair the wheel.

He borrowed some tools, and the "little things" he had learned helped him repair the wheel.

The little things that we do today can make a big difference in the future.

That is the mood of this month's "Happy Ending".

The story takes place in the Civil War era, February 2, 1862, when a girl named Elizabeth is captured by the Confederates.

Elizabeth was a Union soldier's daughter, and she was captured by the Southern army. She was taken to a camp near Atlanta, where she was put to work, but she still managed to share a piece of great emotion. That emotion remained for the rest of her life.

Do you have any other little things that you want to share?

Breaking the Tape

The race is almost run. The field is pressing in to that final push for the tape. Seniors are in the last lap, while others are just getting into the game. The race is determined, won by those who have shown a strong start towards finishing the race. For those who have not run well thus far, the race has started. Let us push ourselves to the last lap. Many athletes have taken the lead in the last lap. For a few of us, this is the last lap. To them, we say this time is not to quit. Many athletes have lost the price by not pushing forward the maximum in efforts during the last lap. We salute those who are nearing the end, and we wish for the others to come on strong and make a clear cut to the tape.

Dear Editor,

I wish I were a poet.

I wish I were a poet when time comes to die.

I'd tell of strolling down the lane

Between two orchards white.

Of soft, caressing breezes that

Brush on my face at night.

I wish I were a painter

If Spring were gray and cold around.

I'd paint all lovely places

Where beauty does abound.

I'd paint the hills and valleys

And all the meadows green,

The fields of fields by the streams.

Bright birds upon the wing.

I wish I were a gypsy

When Spring comes next to me.

I'd wander near, and roam afar.

Sure all there is to see.

I'd drink from singing brooks,

Sometimes for days on end.

And press my face down on the earth's

Soft, cool, and welcome breath.

Oh, that I were an eagle!

To soar in distant skies,

And see all of Spring's beauty,

Through a dreamer's eyes.

We are looking forward to our Spring Week away in the mountains. I hope we have a good time and that we don't get caught in any bad weather.

I'm sure we'll make the most of our week away. I'm looking forward to seeing the mountains and the snow-covered peaks again. It will be a great change from the usual summer heat.

To Know Jesus

In one of the recent Week of Prayer messages Elder J. E. Marley said that "what God has done for others He is in no case called upon to do for us. "Although this is no secret, it is nevertheless true that we really know God in such a way that we are acquainted with Him; just as a friendship of some earthly pets is, it is possible that we may not have time to meditate; that we don't take the opportunity to meditate; that we don't have time to be holy. This is a problem. What must we do about it?

Our time is limited. Into it we must squeeze all the activities we expect to do. As our tempo increases, our activities, as with anything else, there is such thing as 'good, better and best.' Therefore, if we are to do our best, we must put the biggest one, leaving out the 'good' and perhaps even some of the 'better.'

The problem is one of understanding the very best thing we can accomplish in life and if it means foregoing some of those things which in themselves may be good, that life is to be the best, we must do that. C.A.M.

Students Operate College

On Administrative Day

Every college student has long wished for a chance to operate the college of their own accord in accordance with their own administrative philosophy. On April 10th, administrators of Southern Methodist College were afforded this privilege. For two days the student leaders of Southern Methodist College were in complete charge of the college.

It was a rather unique experience for the students who wished Don Shults’ office for an alternation of the usual student administration. The college was turned over to the students in charge, and the college was operated as a business by SMC, CORC, SMC, and STA, was behind the desk. Every day the college was open for business.

Office workers were highly praised for a group whose skills are unique. Those who held, behind closed doors, extremely important “com- monwealth” positions, these meetings are in a sense a form of democracy.

The student members of the president’s study had been members of the faculty and student union. They were made available for positions in the college faculty and student union.

Those who had administrative responsibility to the college and student union were primary among these positions. Don Corne, Barringer, Goddard, Don Hill, latent President, Dick (Deering), SMC, and STA, were all students. These positions were combined to a certain extent.

Students were asked to run their formerly brave brains completely free from the interference of the administrative philosophy. On the day preceding the day of the operation, there was a vote to determine the fate of the campus. The college was turned over to the students in charge, and the college was operated as a business by SMC, CORC, SMC, and STA, was behind the desk. Every day the college was open for business.

Senior Banquet Has Hawaiian Setting

Anyone who had attended the senior banquet that was held in the cafeteria March 17, would lift his eyebrows if told that scenes were transplanted from Hawaii to the cafeteria. But scenes were transplanted. They were so real that they could have been in Hawaii.

The hosts, Mary McNeal and Wally Gieser, did an excellent job in performing as Hawaiian royalty. They were dressed in costume and entertained us with Hawaiian music and dance. The entertainment was a real treat and a fitting end to the banquet.

The program for the evening consisted of a speech by the principal, and a presentation of awards to the seniors. The speeches were well received and the awards were a fitting recognition of the seniors' hard work and dedication.

The evening was a great success and a fitting end to the senior year. The seniors were able to enjoy a night of relaxation and celebration after a long year of hard work.

Bethea Leads the List

By H. P. White

Friday night, the Philosophy and Pre-Engineering Society held its annual dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Cook. The occasion was rather a somber one, for the little lady of the house, who has been a keen student of the subject for many years, passed away just before the dinner was announced in the Sporology program at the end of the week. The lady, an old friend of the Sporology department, was a valued contributor of the society's journal, and her passing has left a void in the ranks of the society's leaders.

The evening began with a toast to the memory of the deceased, followed by a minute of silence. The dinner itself was a simple one, consisting of a roast beef and potato dish, accompanied by salad and rolls.

At the end of the meal, the society presented a plaque to Mr. Cook in appreciation of his hospitality and support over the years. The plaque bore the inscription: "In memory of Mrs. Walter H. Cook, a valued member of the Philosophy and Pre-Engineering Society, 1945-1999."

The society's officers then gave a brief address, discussing the importance of Mrs. Cook's contributions to the society and expressing their gratitude for her support.

The evening concluded with a group photo, taken in front of the Cook family's home, with the plaque prominently displayed.

The society plans to continue its tradition of honoring deceased members in this manner, as a way of keeping their memory alive and reminding members of the important role that such contributors played in the society's history.

I walked into the Radnor College Dining Hall for lunch time. The dining hall was full of people, students, faculty, and staff. The atmosphere was lively, with conversations buzzing around me. I sat down at a table with a few other students and joined in their conversations. The food was delicious, and I enjoyed my meal. After lunch, I went for a walk around the campus, taking in the beautiful architecture and the greenery. It was a pleasant day, and I felt rejuvenated.

That evening, I attended a lecture on Shakespeare's plays. The professor was passionate about his subject, and I was captivated by the stories and characters. The lecture lasted for two hours, and I left feeling enriched by the knowledge I had gained.

On the last day of the semester, I received my grades. I was pleased with my performance, and I felt proud of myself for working hard. The experience had been challenging, but it had also been rewarding. I had made new friends and learned a lot about myself.

Overall, my college experience was a wonderful one. I enjoyed the classes, the people, and the campus. I am grateful for the opportunity to have been a part of the Radnor College community.

Skid Day Features Smokies’ Tour

Ballpark.

Bright and early Tuesday morning,
April 29, a crowd of about thirty college students, led by the Student Council, bailed out of bed, headed for the bus stop, and then went off for a day trip to the Smoky Mountains.

To get to any service center, climb up in a little place like a bus can be exciting and adventurous. And so was the trip to the Smoky Mountains.

Just before, "One of the best parts of our day was the view of the mountains and the beautiful scenery of all of our excursions."

The view was breathtaking.

The first stop on our trip was Chattanooga, Tennessee.

On Display

The closing week at school found the halls empty except for.
the following shows.

Two shows from Mr. Reddick’s Little Theater Company were presented at the college’s Chenoweth Theatre.

The plays were

"The Graduate" and

"The Importance of Being Evelyn." These plays were performed by the college’s Newsmakers group.

The plays were viewed by a large audience who enjoyed the performances.

New Building Named Home Arts Center

Shankel Suggests Name

The College Board, in its meeting at Miami at the time of the Southern Union Session, chose the name of “Home Arts Center” for the new building at SMC. The building was fully occupied last fall, and it houses the Cafeteria and the Student Union Room on the upper floor and the Home Economics Department on the lower floor.

The name for the building was suggested by Dr. C. E. Shankel. This entitles him to the twenty-five dollar prize that was offered by the board. Dr. Shankel has stated that he plans to give this money to some worthy student to be applied toward his expenses.
