P R E S I D E N T ' S M E S S A G E T O G R A D U A T E S

Dear Graduates,

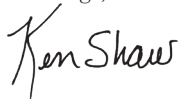

On behalf of every Southern Adventist University employee, I congratulate you on completing your courses of study and receiving your well-deserved degrees. We are proud of you!

We pray that as Southern alumni, you will continue to hold dear the Christian values you have experienced here, that you will excel in your occupations, and that you will continue to listen to and be part of God's calling in your lives, resulting in meaningful service in your churches and communities.

To your loved ones who have provided financial, emotional, and spiritual support, we thank them. The renowned scientist Isaac Newton once wrote that he was able to accomplish so much because he was "standing upon the shoulders of giants." I join you in acknowledging the giants in your lives, the ones who have loved, cared about, and supported you.

You have put in the hard work and completed a job well done. You are now equipped to go and lead. "The Lord bless you, and keep you; the Lord make His face shine on you, and be gracious to you; the Lord lift up His countenance on you, and give you peace" (Numbers 6:24-26).

Blessings,

Ken Shaw
President

Please silence all electronic devices during programs.

Please do not use airhorns or other noisemakers as they can be harmful and painful to those of our guests with hearing devices.

MISSION

Grounded in Jesus Christ and dedicated to the beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, we equip students to embrace biblical truth, embody academic and professional excellence, and pursue Spirit-filled lives of service.

STUDENT LEARNING GOALS

Students of Southern Adventist University will:

- Spiritual Development
grow in a vibrant relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ, while integrating into their lives Bible-based beliefs and values as understood by the Seventh-day Adventist church.
- Intellectual Development
develop a commitment to lifelong learning and demonstrate a mastery of the cognitive skills of critical reasoning, independent thinking, reflective judgment, communication, and creativity needed to confront the issues, ideas, and values of historical and contemporary civilization.
- Occupational Development exhibit excellence and moral leadership in their chosen field of study and/or profession.
- Individual and Social Development
develop socio-emotional maturity that will enable them to be effective leaders and contributing members of their churches, families, groups, and communities in a global society.
- Physical Development
take responsibility for their own well-being through a health-promoting lifestyle.

GRAND MARSHAL FOR ALL SERVICES

Rachel Williams-Smith, University Senate Chair, Journalism and Communication Dean and Professor

SOUTHERN SCHOLARS

In addition to maintaining a 3.50 GPA and meeting normal degree requirements, Southern Scholars complete a special honors curriculum involving interdisciplinary studies, honors courses, and independent study. This semester, five graduates earned that distinction. The titles of their senior research projects are listed below:

Daniel James Burke	"The Change of Italian and United States Banking Systems in Response to the Global Financial Crisis"
Christina Elizabeth Cannon	"The Sound of the Civil War: Examining the Intersection of Music and Emotion"
Matthew Allen Gano	"The Impact of Floral Diversity on Soil Microbial Community Composition"
Esther Akosua Manu	"College Students' General Knowledge of Africa and Their Willingness to do Business in African Countries"
Marie Ariannee Rodriguez	"The Impact of Soil Disturbance on Soil Microbial Community Composition"

THE MACE

The mace is a traditional symbol used to communicate and designate authority. The Southern Adventist University mace was crafted in 1986 by John Durichek, a Southern alum. Southern's mace represents its heritage and raison d'être (reason for existence). The base is of pine from Jones Hall, built in 1917 and razed in 1985. The main staff is of walnut. The seven rings represent completeness. The four-sided ebony segment is seen as Southern's underlying educational philosophy—balanced mental, spiritual, physical, and social development for each student. The brass flames represent the Holy Spirit.

Bearing the mace is the grand marshal, Rachel Williams-Smith, chair of the University Senate and dean of the School of Journalism and Communication. Her regalia is evergreen, the university's traditional color.

PHILANTHROPY MEDALLION

Graduates are wearing a gold zipper-pull medallion in honor of the alumni, family, and friends who have donated to the class gift this year.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The color of velvet trim on the hoods represents the area of study. The color of the silk lining represents the university that conferred the degree. The color of the tassel represents the degree of the undergraduate.

Gold Cord—Summa Cum Laude—3.90+ GPA

Silver Cord—Magna Cum Laude—3.75-3.89 GPA

Green Cord—Cum Laude—3.50-3.74 GPA

All other colors represent honors societies in the various academic areas.

CULTURAL GRADUATION STOLES

The cultural stoles celebrate Southern’s Asian, African/Black Christian Union, European, Latin American, Native American, and Oceania Islanders student groups. They represent the fabric that makes this university a diverse community and spiritual family in faith. “After this I looked, and there before me was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, tribe, people and language, standing before the throne and before the Lamb. They were wearing white robes and were holding palm branches in their hands. And they cried out in a loud voice: ‘Salvation belongs to our God, who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb’” (Revelation 7:9-10, NIV).

Passionate about educating others as well as expanding her own learning experiences, Professor Krystal Bishop, EdD, demonstrates an exceptional level of commitment to her students, who qualify “the time, dedication, and care she shows [as being] like none other. You can tell she loves teaching and pours her heart into it.” She is a “great adviser and always willing to help.”

Bishop received her early preparation for teaching on the same campus she now serves, graduating from Southern Missionary College in 1975 with a bachelor’s degree in elementary education. Committed to making education special for all children, she completed a master’s degree in learning disabilities and a doctorate in special education at the University of South Florida.

Following 20 years in the educational system of the Florida Conference of Seventh-day Adventists that included serving as associate superintendent of education, Bishop returned to Southern 1996 and joined the teaching faculty in the School of Education and Psychology. She is also director of the Teacher Education Program. One peer champions Bishop for “huge impacts in both the public and private sectors. She makes a difference in every life she has the opportunity to engage with.”

Complementing her impressive contributions within classroom settings, Bishop also writes for educational journals, advocates for literacy, and serves as a liaison for county, state, and regional programs. Her professional affiliations include the International Literacy Association and the National Council for Teachers of English. Presenting at conferences and conducting workshops in areas related to education and spiritual life are additional interests for this unparalleled professor.

Previously honored by Southern as Adviser of the Year (2010) and with the President’s Award for Teaching Excellence (2011) and the Distinguished Service Medallion (2022), Bishop especially appreciates the privilege of being a spiritual mentor to her students and advisees.

Once again celebrating her remarkable legacy of impacting and caring for generations of educators in training, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Krystal Bishop with the President’s Award for Teaching Excellence.

Hailed for teaching and research expertise, Professor Sunia Fukofuka, PhD, has an impressive academic and professional career that spans the globe, including Australia, Fiji, India, Kenya, the Philippines, Papua New Guinea, Tonga, Ukraine, and the United States. He joined Southern’s School of Business in 2017.

“Sunia reaches students academically and challenges them to think critically about subjects,” notes a fellow professor. “He also incorporates a biblical worldview into his teaching—not a separate thought at the beginning, not a worship thought at the end, but as a part of the body of knowledge being presented. His courses challenge students to be better versions of themselves.” Another peer describes Fukofuka as “often conducting informal research and constantly developing conclusions.”

Fukofuka has received awards from the International Association of Multidisciplinary Research as best researcher (2014), from CPA Papua New Guinea for distinguished achievement (2006), and as teacher of the year (2003) in Tonga. He is a resource speaker and trainer in qualitative and quantitative research for the Philippines Association of Institutional Research and one of the founding executives of the Asian Qualitative Research Association.

A prolific author, Fukofuka's most recent articles address research for practical theology, the integration of faith and learning, and ways to improve effective teaching. Additionally, he is co-authoring a book titled Principles of Management that is under contract with a publisher.

Currently, Fukofuka serves as a reviewer for the Journal of Management and Organization published by Cambridge Press as well as for the International Forum Journal published by the Graduate School of the Adventist International Institute of Advanced Studies, where he was employed prior to Southern. He willingly chairs dissertations for many faculty members and humbly prays that his life is a blessing to all with whom he interacts, giving God the glory for leading in his life and thanking his wife and six children for their sacrifices and support.

In recognition for extraordinary commitment in his ongoing quest for knowledge and growth in skills and experience, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Sunia Fukofuka with the President's Award for Excellence in Scholarship.

FOR COMMITMENT TO STUDENT SUCCESS

Born and raised in Northern California, Conni Cash moved to Tennessee and joined the School of Nursing in 1997. As office manager, organization and patience are her superpowers, and cohorts of nursing majors praise her skills, attributing them as vital to their achievements. "She is always making sure [we] are prepared for the next semester, for graduation, and for certification exams," one notes.

"She is literally the backbone of the nursing program," another insists. "The staff and the students would be lost without her. She can answer any question or direct you to the person with the answer. She's kind and always bright and cheery. She helps us navigate everything: getting all of our documentation, completing papers, finding classrooms—she's just amazing. I don't think I would have had everything together without Mrs. Cash."

Both faculty and staff describe Cash as "thoughtful, intelligent, and knowledgeable" as well as "a pillar on which the School of Nursing stands." She stops what she's doing each time a person approaches her and makes that "need her highest priority—always and with efficiency and a smile. Her juggling act in the front office and as the face of nursing has been one of Christ-like joy and beauty every day." A "steady, calm force," Cash has learned and retained hundreds of students' names during her 25 years of service, and "there is nothing she doesn't know or can't fix." One peer has always wanted a T-shirt with the slogan: "I don't ask Google; I ask Conni."

Cash is married to her high school sweetheart, and they have two daughters, both nurses in the area, as well as two grandchildren.

Southern Adventist University is pleased to recognize Conni Cash as a true champion for those pursuing careers in the field of nursing and to honor her with the President's Award of Excellence for Commitment to Student Success.

D I S T I N G U I S H E D   S E R V I C E   M E D A L L I O N S

Southern alum Robert Bengé, '77, PhD, joined the School of Health and Kinesiology in 1998 and has served as dean for the past 10 years. Described by fellow faculty as having a “Texas-sized heart” and living the motto “Service, not fame,” he is known for helping, encouraging, and inspiring students, colleagues, and community members alike. “His philanthropy knows no bias because he truly cares about people.”

In addition to his administrative duties, Bengé teaches numerous classes—including Basic Swimming, CPR, First Aid, Fly Fishing, Lifeguard Training, Secondary Methods of Physical Education, Softball, Statistics, Tennis, and Water Safety Instructor—all while supervising internships for student teachers and wellness majors. His quiet, efficient work ethic begets long days and sometimes weekends running multiple facilities and activity spaces, and he is frequently found doing pool maintenance on Saturday nights. He donates the majority of his teaching salary back to the university.

Bengé’s other acts of servant leadership include transporting busloads to Nashville hockey games, providing suppers for students and friends in the Culinary Arts Program kitchen, organizing formal Christmas luncheons for his team, and directing/organizing various triathlons in the area. He also is an associate deacon at Collegedale Church of Seventh-day Adventists on campus.

With 50 years of experience as an American Red Cross lifeguard and water safety instructor, Bengé has served local communities as a coach, commissioner for youth sports, fundraising coordinator, and sports official. For more than two decades, he has voluntarily directed timekeeping while organizing all of Ooltewah Middle School’s track and field home meets. Additionally, he instructs groups in First Aid CPR/AED without accepting a fee.

Bengé graduated from Southern in 1977 with a bachelor’s degree in health, physical education, and recreation, and then earned a master’s degree in health education at Virginia’s Old Dominion University in 1986. In 2001, he received his doctorate in physical education from the University of New Mexico. A former elementary physical education specialist, Bengé has 46 years of teaching experience in health and physical education.

His professional affiliations include Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society; Society of Health and Physical Educators; USA Triathlon; and Tennessee Association of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance. On campus, Bengé chairs the Employee Wellness Committee, participates as a member of the Alumni Committee as well as the Faculty Promotions Committee, and is the beloved sponsor of the Southern Striders running club. He regularly trains for and participates in sprint triathlon events.

For an exemplary record of leading by example in giving his time and talents to employees and students on campus as well as to members of the community, Southern Adventist University is pleased to recognize Robert Bengé as a worthy recipient of the Distinguished Service Medallion.

Associate Professor Stephanie Guster, MSW, in the School of Social Work is cited by her peers for spiritual leadership, a positive mindset, and an exceptional work ethic, among other impressive qualities. She exemplifies a life lived as the hands and feet of Jesus, constantly seeking out the overlooked and those in need and providing knowledge, compassion, encouragement, and comfort. Both thoughtful and prayerful, Guster has become a true friend to many across campus and throughout the local community.

A licensed clinical social worker in both Tennessee and Georgia, Guster holds a master's degree in social work from Ohio State University and a bachelor's degree in psychology from Andrews University in Michigan. Her background includes providing clinical services in hospice and bereavement. Prior to joining Southern's faculty, Guster first served as an adjunct professor while also working as a school social worker in Dalton, Georgia, city schools.

While serving as senior adviser to Southern's president, Guster invited employees to participate in lunchtime "cultural conversations" focused on diversity and other social issues. In collaboration with senior administration, these monthly dialogues led to many thought-provoking and growth experiences for colleagues. One faculty member described the events under Guster's guidance as a "safe space to talk through important topics," and many benefitted from her lessons in listening actively with grace and love.

Guster has a reputation for exceeding what is required of her in fostering professional relationships with students and colleagues, often forming friendships and caring for needs outside of the classroom. These extra and often long hours are a "huge witness" to other professors. One observed Guster "spending a great deal of time with a vision-impaired student during an activity, not only helping her navigate but also explaining content and strengthening that personal connection." Additionally, Guster plays a key role in passionately advocating for the Feed My Sheep food pantry for those on campus facing food insecurity.

Initiating field trips to the Equal Justice Initiative in Montgomery, Alabama, Guster goes "above and beyond" in coordinating logistics, recruiting students, and fostering awareness and understanding about the significance of the museum and the history of civil rights in the United States. An advocate of environmental justice, she also champions alleviating food deserts through agricultural start-ups and home gardening.

As school board chair, Guster freely gives her time at Avondale Seventh-day Adventist School in downtown Chattanooga. She enthusiastically supports social work students striving to begin careers in schools and enjoys mentoring others into the profession. She recently used her skills to benefit Collegedale Academy, housed on the university campus, with crisis intervention services, assisting conference officials, local principals, faculty, and parents with valuable proficiency. Her volunteer efforts in uncharted territory encompassed debriefing and counseling with staff, drafting communication, sharing resources with families, coordinating counseling support, and serving as a crisis response supervisor—all while being "graceful with her words" through a very difficult and painful experience.

For her shining example in modeling the gentleness and kindness of Christ while committing both her heart and expertise to classrooms and to the community, Southern Adventist University is pleased to present Stephanie Guster with the well-deserved Distinguished Service Medallion.
