Excerpts from Bietz’s Cambodia Diary

On ADRA trip when disaster struck:

Dietrich Bietz (left) and Cindy DeStefano watch smoke rising during the fighting in Cambodia this July. Despite the challenges during the ADRA tour, Mrs. Bietz said she wouldn’t trade the experience for anything. While in Cambodia, the Mikaela schoolchildren played at the house of a local resident. Mrs. Bietz was surprised to find that when she came down from her hotel room in the morning and snacks. And for good reason because she had seen some of the group had to be treated by emergency nurses. “I have to do what you have to do and not think about what’s going on,” she said.

Bietz and wife straddled in Cambodia
Civil war traps president and wife for 9 days

By Andrea Armstrong

President Gideon Bietz and his wife, Cynthia, were stranded for nine days in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, Saturday, July 5, in the midst of fighting.

President Bietz fortunately didn’t have to fight it out with other ADRA President James Mansfield (Hampton Ford) in “Air Force One.”

“I wish I could tell you we were suffering by our own hand,” Bietz said. “We really didn’t see a lot of personal things when we were down there. Dr. and Mrs. Bietz were on the Adverse Development and Relief Agency (ADRA) tour to visit humanitarian projects in Southeast Asia. They were part of a group that included all Southern Union Conference presidents and President Emeritus Robert Buckle of Dakota College.

The group’s plane was intercepted by a military coup lead by Hun Sen. The group was then forced to leave Phnom Penh and was taken to the airport to another base on Saturday, July 5.

On that day fighting erupted between the two forces in the capital with rockets and mortar fire exchanged throughout the city.

“At one point we found we were trapped in the hotel, and the group decided to leave the hotel and head north by air,” Bietz said.

The fighting continued all week and the group was finally able to leave for Phnom Penh, where they stayed for another two days before flying to the United States.

“Although we were not physically harmed, we were trapped in the hotel for a week,” Bietz said. “We were able to leave the hotel and head north by air on Saturday, July 5.”

SA Welcome Back Party a success

By Duane W. Gang

The welcome back party—the first major Student Association faculty of the year—was a success, according to SA officials.

“President is a great job. I think that everybody came and they’re happy to have a great job,” said SA President Ken Wrennet. “They were wonderful for everyone here. I think it was great for the SA Department and the students to get together.”

The welcome back party was held in the Student Union on Saturday, August 25.

Skantz receives award for volunteer work

By JamieArnall

An assistant and now a full-time employee, serving as an advisor to the director of the Volunteer Services Program, Ingrid Skantze is an active volunteer for the Volunteer Center of Southeastern Connecticut.

Skantze and other volunteers work with the Community Foundation for Southeastern Connecticut to offer programs that encourage and support volunteering.

Skantze is currently the community coordinator for the Volunteer Center's Connecticut Day of Service.

Ingrid Skantze is an active volunteer in the Volunteer Center's Connecticut Day of Service.

When asked why she volunteers, Skantze said, "I've always been interested in helping others. It's something I enjoy doing and I find it very rewarding."

Skantze's volunteer work also includes serving as a mentor to some of the center's younger volunteers.

"I enjoy working with the younger volunteers," Skantze said. "They are very enthusiastic and eager to learn."

Skantze said she appreciates the opportunity to work with people from different backgrounds and cultures.

Squatting Waiters Get Better Tips

Works for both men and women

By Ed Suanan

CHICAGO—If you are a waiter or waitress and you want to increase your tips, here's what you can do.

At the annual meeting of the Psychiatric Research Society, meeting in Chicago, researchers say that the level of stress among the workers at a small restaurant is higher than in other restaurants.

However, the researchers say that the workers who are better tipped at the restaurant have a lower rate of stress.

Among women, the average tip was 14.2 percent of the total bill, compared to 13.5 percent for men.

Ed Suanan says that she studied the working conditions at a woman-owned restaurant in downtown Chicago and found that they were significantly better in some ways.

"Women were paid less, worked longer hours, and were given fewer breaks than men," Suanan said.

Attending the meeting was a woman who has worked as a restaurant manager for more than 15 years.

"I really enjoy working with women," she said. "They are always so friendly and helpful."
Finally changes that make students’ lives easier

Returning students will find a lot of changes and improvements in Southern’s campus this fall. Most of these changes, however, could have should have come when Southern was still a college. Nonetheless, the school and its administration should be commended for making changes that will make things here a little easier for us.

Involvement services has made it easier for us to access the Internet. They have finally put up computers in the dormitories and other new stations in the student center and athletic campus. This will provide students that do not have computers the chance to check email, browse the web, do his major research or research during break hours, when most labs on campuses are closed.

As you walk into the cafe many of you may have noticed the dramatically increased price that you must prepare to walk up the stairs to the cafe. This is a great way for students to find out what is going on and where. They want to continue this and even expand it to contain more useful information to us.

In addition, the Tolley Hill students will notice that there is an ATM machine located in the lobby of Tolley Hall. And it is operational. This is a brilliant idea. The Collegiate Credit Union and the school should be praised for bringing this to Tolley. Now they need to hang it to Thurstor Hall.

The ATM machine is located in a very convenient place. Those of us who have an account with the credit union will no longer have to journey across the campus to use the ATM machine located here. It will also be available to those who don’t have a Collegiate Credit Union account—if you don’t mind paying a small fee.

Additionally, students will notice that most all of the Southern College signs have finally been replaced with SAU signs. This does not effect us as much as it previous changes but it does provide some consistency to the school. Now we are a university because it was all of the signs.

SAU should learn from these changes and continue to provide prompt and useful changes that can make our lives easier and more enjoyable.

Welcome to SAU Dr. Bieltz

The Accent would also extend a warm welcome to Dr. Gordon Bieltz as the new president of Southern Arkansas University. Dr. Bieltz will do a tremendous job as president of the institution. He will provide forthright and leadership to an institution that is going through many changes.

Dr. Bieltz has the privilege of being the president preceding me the first full year of our university status. He not only the superintendent of public education but also an educator of education but he had the possibility of leading them into and beyond.

We wish Dr. Bieltz the best of luck as he embarks on his new position as president of SAU.

May God bless him, his family and his work here at SAU.

Quotes for the week

"The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in America." -JOHN ADAMS, in the Mass-Swindel Bill of Rights, 1789.

"The basis of our government is the opinion of the people. The very first object should be to keep the right, and vedere if it be possible to hold us secure of the same, without a government for the world, which is the science of education for the people, and to keep the possibility of liberty in America." -R. W. ELLERTON, a letter to Ool. Edward Corrigan, January 14, 1873.

What’s on your mind?

By Jared Schneider

Raising the minimum wage will help all Americans. At least don’t we want politicians who would like you to think that is true. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, only 3.3 million people currently earn the minimum wage. That is only three percent of the total civilian labor force—essentially the majority of Americans. The belief of this three percent earning minimum wages are the majority work hard between the ages of sixteen and twenty-two. So who receives the increase in pay? College and high school students, not blue collar workers.

The minimum wage is to prevent minimum wage employees from small compared to their middle-class brother. For example, John Daring owns a small grocery store. His annual net income is $1,500 a year from his business. He currently employs eight part-time workers at minimum wage. The increase in minimum wages would result in an additional $10,000 dollars in payroll. What should John do? He can either lay off four employees or absorb the tax. To support his family, he has to lay off four workers. Increasing the minimum wage is not a poverty-fighting tool, but rather results in a loss of low skilled workers. The recent raise in minimum wages from $4.25 to $5.15 an hour was enacted by President Clinton early in the spring of 1996. This was an effort to "make sure the minimum wage was a living wage." The increase however, is terribly short of a living wage. Based on a fifty-hour work week, the new minimum wage yields slightly (about five in actual dollars a year. This increase will not be the cost all that it is intended to be. The extra income enjoyed of all minimum-wage workers (who are non-home household) is less than four percent per week per person. The great majority receiving the increase will not be parents staging to feed their children.

The perspective of an employer reveals the effects of increasing the minimum wage. For instance, the increase of the minimum wages to $4.15 an hour is an additional to pay. (The Social Security and worker’s compensation among on average dollars an hour. It does not make a significant income to hire a worker who produces only five to six dollars an hour. The increase in wages is unaffordable for employers to hire more workers. Rising wages causes minimum-wage paid jobs get into attonadotes. Walter E. Williams, the professor of economics at George Washington University, writes, "One effect of raising wages is an reduce employment opportunities for low-skilled workers." The increased minimum wage is not a poverty fighter rather a tax on the business of low wages.

Contrary to what many believe, the minimum wage has never been a safeguard against poverty. In most instances it is used in a safeguard against the few employers that would take advantage of the cheap labor. Walter E. Williams in his editorial "Minimum Wages, Minimum Futility," revives job insecurity leads to an decrease minimum wages are an anti-poverty weapon." Over all, the increasing of any minimum wage is not in America’s best interest.

Not the same old sandwich at Schlotzsky's Deli

If the thought of one more six-inch veggie and cheese on wheat from Subway produces a groan, cheer up: there's a new sandwich in town. Under this very same, the Senior Deli is now open for business. My rule is to let you know what tastes yummy, what to try if facing indecision, and what to run from. As usual, for vegetarians there is not a whole lot to pick from. "The Vegetarian" is the only one, sandwich without meat, but if another strikes your fancy, they can find the best. The "Vegetarian" is a "Light Sandwich" and comes stuffed with five different veggies, cheese, and Fin Fun Ranch dressing. I'm no fan of sandwiches anyway, and the dressing gives an odd sour taste. But for $3.99, it's a good deal and unlike the dressing, yummy too.

Besides sandwiches, they serve pizza. I would definitely hold Schlotzsky's giving for a new pizza name to try the Mediterranean, Southwestern, or New Orleans. You can fit the meat or not, it's up to you. For more adventurous, there are some Louisiana dishes: I don't get just a plain cheese pizza. Definitely try it, and we were promptly served (once you have it, we plan pizza takes, well, plan). The "vegetarian Special" pizza has two other vegetarian options but nothing begins to make it taste much better than unheard.

On the plus side, the atmosphere is comfortable and open. Fast booths or sit, and unlike in Subway five people can actually sit together. There's a coffee bar, and this would be a great last night study spot. If the day is pretty, choose an outside table. If you're in a hurry, choose the drive-through.

Schlotzsky's Deli combines cheap prices and fast service, a variety of choices, and a fast-food atmosphere most fast-food restaurants lack.

Grady's Goodtimes are definitely good these days

Nestled back near the downtown area of Hamilton Place is Grady's Goodtimes, a restaurant that offers a variety of dishes at reasonable prices. The menu features a range of dishes from meat-based entrees to vegetarian options. The atmosphere is both cozy and inviting, making it a perfect spot for a casual meal.

The food at Grady's Goodtimes is consistently delicious. The entrees are well-prepared, and the portions are generous. The prices are reasonable, making it an affordable option for those looking for a good meal without breaking the bank.

One of the standout dishes is the Grilled Chicken Pasta, which is perfect for those who enjoy a combination of flavors. The pasta is cooked to perfection, and the sauce is rich and flavorful. The chicken is tender and juicy, adding an extra layer of taste to the dish.

Another popular item is the Grilled Vegetable Pasta, which is a great option for vegetarians. The pasta is paired with a variety of vegetables that are cooked to perfection. The sauce is light and not too heavy, allowing the natural flavors of the vegetables to shine through.

Overall, Grady's Goodtimes is a great option for those looking for good food at reasonable prices. The atmosphere is welcoming, and the staff is friendly and attentive. Whether you're looking for a quick lunch or a sit-down dinner, Grady's Goodtimes is definitely a good choice.
Investing now for a big career payback

If you think you’re going to college to get a job after graduation, maybe you should think again. Historically, the gap you’re diving now in school will pay off if you do the necessary planning to ensure that you are ready when it’s time to leave. Your first job may be a necessary step in shaping your eventual career path. It may also give you experience, the training, the role model for your dream job. The most important step can be a personal or financial success. If you don’t mean to be a dreamer, it’s meant to be an empowering and comprehensive job hunt. An exercise at a job search and employment ads is replete with publications and the need for all good and useful things. The selection process in order to be a better job hunter. You can do a lot to get there. Begin a career networking list of contacts and add to it every chance you get. Each contact can give you a new name to call.

One can’t mean to be a dreamer, it’s meant to be an empowering and comprehensive job search and employment ads. An exercise for these publications and the need for all good and useful things. The selection process in order to be a better job hunter. You can do a lot to get there. Begin a career networking list of contacts and add to it every chance you get. Each contact can give you a new name to call.

Each contact can give you a new name to call. Each meeting can give you new ideas about where to look for information. Every bit of information empowers you to make the first choice. What all that goes on your career file is in your interest. Your file is your resume. Look for every prospect.

Begin a career networking list of contacts and add to it every chance you get. Each contact can give you a new name to call.

Schedule an appointment, if possible, to discuss your interests and to present your resume and supporting materials. It can give you someone to make a call for you or put you in touch with the right person.

Finally, remember that in charge here is your life, your career. Planning is not an option. The same enthusiasm and drive you developed while preparing yourself for the job you want. You must ask, are you prepared to make the necessary career ladder. The situation you get from choosing a successful career is the goal of the selection process you will get every day in the week you have chosen. This is what’s known as a selection, the project, and playing the best moves with the end result clearly in mind. The No. 1 investment you can make for your future.

In my next column, we will discuss how to get into and ordinal to start with your job search.
150 show up for Gym-Masters' tryouts

Competition stiffens with increased enrollment

By J.R. Deconsani

Coach

Humble, best of luck, energies. Support their efforts, jackie's, crunches. Join them and make more crunches. Does what does this? It means the competition is having too many tryouts. On Tuesday, August 24, the Gym- Masters announced that 150 people showed up for the 97-98 school year. The tryouts are being conducted at the B.S. Physical Education Center.

With the dawn of a new century, look for less new faces to turn up with many returning members. During the first day of tryouts, over 150 people showed up trying to make a impression. "We're all about the Gym-Masters, the team captain," said。 "We're just a lot of people together, first year. We're not too sure of what's coming up, but the attitude is great."

"It's tough, and going to be tougher," said Fitchman's Roman Arnold. "The men's tryouts have been going great and we've got a lot of talent," said the captain. "On Tuesday afternoon, Coach Smith said, 'when asked for her total on this tryout, she answered with a 'good job.'"

The tryouts ran for two hours and will continue for the next two days. During that time, potential Gym-Masters are being seen by the coaches, but Jack's is for planning for the year. Although the atmosphere this far has been pleasing and exhilarating, the ultimate of the participants has been great. Regarding the tryouts, Fitchman's Roman Arnold Jr. said, "the challenge was tough, but he challenges me.

"It's less insane than I thought," said visiting student Eric Anderson, "I thought it was going o be much harder than it is." Assistant Coach Alton was a member of the Cycle's and Columbia University College.

Another Coach CIC gymnast, Wesley Christopher, said, "it's fun, difficult, but fun. I'm not to the week yet, but I'm finding it easy now."

"This is the strongest beginning group that's ever come," said Coach Jacob. "I'm optimistic about this new year."

With over 150 talent trying out for 52 spaces, Jack's added they're going to take advantage of the men's tryouts. "A large number of the men are going to be used in the same role, so the emphasis is on being well-coated to the male role."

"With no major changes during the season, expect Arizona to fight for the title in the next few weeks."

New York: Dave Brown takes the lone once again to a brand-new team. Drafting for Balitmore out of Florida will help him out much. Possibly the setting of a new coach will give this new team much.

Coach's Corner

Green Bay: Defending Super Bowl champions, desperate to do it again—this time in the loss. The team of Super Bowl MVP Donald Driver was hurt but not enough to make a difference. Expect to see the Packers in Christine's season opener against the Patriots.

Tampa Bay: This is a team on the rise. Trent Dilfer is already playing for real. Eric Hill is back, and maybe more.

The NFC West: San Francisco 49ers—stronger than ever. The team of Steve Young will lead this team once again. Question is, does he have another Super Bowl season in him?

Cleveland: The loss of Terry Collins for the first six games will decrease the chances of the Pohlers finishing for the top. The worst finish for the team of Drew Carey because of a sharp decline in their defense. Steve Young will lead this team once again. Question is, does he have another Super Bowl season in him?

St. Louis: Will Charlie Perkins make a difference on this team? Last time I checked, defensive specialists didn't make much difference. However, with those new players, I do expect them to do well.

Cincinnati: The Bengals are ready for the new season. The team of Drew Carey is looking good.

Detroit: The Lions are ready for the new season. The team of Drew Carey is looking good.

Anita's Holler has hired a new coach and signed a new quarterback. Not bad for a team that finished last season in the NFL. New coach was a welcome addition to the team of Drew Carey, according to the Lions. New coach will be led by the 'Lions. What will happen? Only the Lord will know.

Team Coach

New England: Eliminating a team off a Super Bowl win can be hard for your body. But Phil Bengtson (Green Bay), Ray Marshall (Giants), John Creech (Bengals) will give the Patriots a tough game. The team of Drew Carey is looking good.

"They need to be aggressive, establish a good running game, and above all, you can't make mistakes. Don't let them do this." the coach.

"I hope to come out here focused, and fire in the eye."

"You need to have a consistent offense and a strong defense, the team of Drew Carey is looking good."

"We have to have a consistent offense and a strong defense, the team of Drew Carey is looking good."

It might be time to wash clothes if...

1. You go to the String Hall and naturally a room, grandmama lily is putting your things in your history and telling you about your day.
2. You park — just for a second — in the from Edge/There parking lot and the second floor is even as you are leaving. Campus Safety is there to help you.
3. You say no more to the check your e-mail, and shadily and his seven meals are helpless in his.
4. You head to the super flower, because you’re wearing your favorite shirt, and the third thing you have on you’re back in your room changing into pants.
5. You realize that in your very Friday evening washing more such a serious adjustment — according to your parents.
6. You’re an easy answer in the 10 am class. you’re soft, flower and had, there is the next part of an easy deal by your instructor.
7. You turn on a hard conversation report in your class, and your teacher starts laughing and says, “Yeah, good one!”
8. You start having me reported and tending nightmare that you’re trapped in a 165 by 12 feet room with nothing but a stack of textbooks.
9. Of the idle selection, this one you instead of just waiting your ideal, your policy of your teachers and your bacteriologist’s usually changed to just help up on the other side. Do you?
10. It’s Friday (one thousand times no good) and you are inside the street for prayers, and some wonderful things are the Greek Drums, and you find washing that is really pickup kids and a little humble washed.

Dear He, She says

You’re a new student here at Southern, I see a lot of girls I’d like to get to know. What can I do to make it find comfort and instead wash clothes?

She says: Hello, let’s face it, we’re all pulled the “free” option at the line (well a certain person takes up the toy and follow them) and the beginning of the college life. While these methods do work for some people, the honest approach works best with me. Just come up and introduce yourself — Why think I’m in your psychology class? I’m not, but please.*

He says: Oh! Please, don’t tell the “I saw you in the bathroom and I thought you were cute.” That is a “high school” and in this kind’s scary.

She says: You’re sometimes it’s difficult and intimidating trying to get that first look, or that first conversation going. One thing I keep in mind is you never get a second chance to make a first impression. So when you initially introduce or say anything, the difference between a future fan or future foe in my opinion, watch me. We’re not in my opinion, deep up to judgment and take that chance. So, if you get in that first second, or fifth time. Poor is, you’ll never know unless you just try.

Excerpts from Bietz' Cambodia diary

On ADRA trip when stranded by fighting

Later on they began to hear machine gun fire and explosions. Suddenly, they smelled smoke from a burning.

"The noise sounded like the Fourth of July," Mrs. Bietz said.

A few days later, Mr. & Mrs. Bietz called their family with an international cellular phone that a group member bought.

The bulk of the American refugees, all except those unaccompanied elderly or minors in the group, then walked to the local town and passed the torturous talking, sleeping, screaming, and drinking CNS. The single men and women in the group were told to get every last item that they could.

"And then we were in Cambodia and there's so many things we'd like to see, but we can't."

Through part of their stay, the Bietzes wished to walk to the street corner to survey the damage.

"I want to show the kids a photo of a bombed building," Mrs. Bier said.

They stepped out onto the street. They heard a report that a psychologist had been shot on the street by military personnel because he refused to stop taking pictures.

When they realized the extent of the event taking place in Cambodia and the damage done to the region, the whole trip would be cancelled.

"They hope saw up when we didn't have explosives or chaffing," Bietz said.

"Our hopes went down when we found out that the airport was bombed," Mrs. Bietz said.

Eventually the group was able to charter a plane and leave Cambodia on Wednesday, July 9, after the French government flew them back to Thailand and they were allowed to return.

Relief was felt when the group returned on a plane to a destination of their choice.

"If we could only have seen what happened," Bietz said.

The trip continued on to Thailand, Laos, Socialist Republic of Vietnam, Malaysian, Burma, and Hong Kong.

President Ken Welton to find a way for students to see the news. The Journal of Southwestern Missisipi State University worked with WOMBA for over a year in producing the weekly "Covering the Campus" program based on news from religious professors.

"The show has always continued but now the news has been replaced by those, who, I'm sure, is going on. Everyone is basically under-informed. I hope this can continue a process that was started in the Southwestern Missisipi State church and was done well."

The show is sponsored by the Student Gavel Club and the Student Council.

The department needs your help, even from those in the church. To find a new name for the show, the Student Gavel Club will vote and select one.

While the exact details of change are not yet finalized, a new name will be taken in the month of August. The Student Gavel Club will select a new name from a list of names submitted by individuals.

After spending a year abroad, Rachel Wexler, a graduate of Northwestern University, returned to her life in the United States. Although she had never been to Israel before, she said she was eager to experience Jewish culture.

In a recent interview, Rabbi Shmuel Bar-Levi, the spiritual leader of the Orthodox Jewish community in New York, said he was pleased to see so many young people interested in Jewish culture. "We are very happy to have you here," he said. "We welcome you with open arms."
Social vice presidential elections coming up

Mike Cauley and Donald Lighthall

Mike Cauley, a sophomore philosophy major, and Donald Lighthall, a junior religious studies major, are candidates for Southern's vice presidential candidates.

Mike's platform stresses the importance of maintaining a healthy environment. He plans to work towards a more sustainable campus by promoting recycling and reducing waste. He also plans to increase awareness about environmental issues through educational campaigns and partnerships with local organizations.

Donald's platform focuses on improving student life on campus. He plans to enhance the student experience by increasing the number of cultural events, providing more resources for students with disabilities, and increasing the availability of mental health services. He also plans to address concerns about campus safety and accessibility.

Both candidates are committed to engaging with the student body and ensuring that their campaign is inclusive and representative of all students. They believe that their platforms can create a positive and vibrant campus environment.

Prince Di's Death Makes Us All Paparazzi

By Donald Kauff

Impeachment has been toppled in the House, but the paparazzi still dance to the tune of the tabloid. The death of Princess Diana has brought the world's media into a frenzy, and the resulting scrutiny has led to a new level of scrutiny for public figures and celebrities.

The death of Princess Diana has served as a reminder of the power of the media and the impact it can have on our lives. It is important to remember that everyone has a right to privacy, and that our actions should not be subjected to public scrutiny unless they pose a genuine threat to public safety.

This is not to say that the paparazzi are without blame. Their relentless pursuit of the royal family has been a constant source of controversy, and their actions have often been condemned. However, the death of Princess Diana has served as a reminder that the media must be held accountable for their actions.

In conclusion, the death of Princess Diana has highlighted the power of the media and the impact it can have on our lives. It is important to recognize the role of the media in shaping our society, and to ensure that our actions are commensurate with our responsibilities as citizens of the world.

Affirmative action, take a second look

The New York basketball season will soon be upon us. The Chicago Bulls, the champion of the previous year, led by Michael Jordan, will once again be the team to beat. But is it fair? Is the system of affirmative action being used to help minority groups, or is it simply a way to manipulate the system in their favor? The question of whether affirmative action is effective is still being debated among scholars and policymakers.

The main arguments for affirmative action are that it helps to increase diversity and promote equal opportunities for all. On the other hand, critics argue that it is a form of reverse discrimination and that it penalizes non-minority students. There is no easy answer to this debate, and it is likely that the system of affirmative action will continue to evolve in the years to come.

Jumping is not the faint of heart

By Tony Barkley

The height at which you are jumping from is one of the key factors in the experience. The higher the jump, the more challenging it becomes. You must be confident in your ability to handle the impact and be in good physical condition.

Always remember to use sound judgment and always take proper precautions before jumping. When you jump, you take a risk, but that risk can be minimized if you approach the activity with care and caution.

Upper section of Ocoee open for recreation

By Ron Herkavy

The upper section of the Ocoee River will be open to public use today, according to Ocoee River Preserve enlargements of Adventures Unlimited, a local river company, the new section will include the area between Ocoee Bridge and the current "put-in." This is the stretch that was removed during the 1996 Olympics. The new section, named "The 16 Gates" that concentrated efforts will have water in this section of the river.

The upper section between TVA, the U.S. Forest Service and Adventures Unlimited, to make the stretch open to the public. The company has the new section open for the first time, Saturday, Sept. 13, 70 and 11 and 12 TVA, the company, control the amount of water released from the dams. The water is worth $150,000 a day. The company hopes there are enough public interest to make the experiment. The river may add an additional 3 days to the river's total if the water releases prove enough to keep the river wide enough.

Many rafting companies are incorporating the new put-in into their current trips to pay for the license. Adventures Unlimited will be offering a trip up 4 long runs, 2 hours on the upper course and 2 hours on the section. South and Other cutters are offering "one nighter" trips at varying prices.

The Road to the All-nighter

Team cohesion key to victory in all-nighter

By Anthony Reiter

The week was very important for the San Francisco 49ers, who could have secured a division title with a victory, but settled for a double-digit win. The 49ers dominated and defeated the opponent in a convincing fashion.

With the start of a new softball season in hand, the most important question each team must answer is how will they fare in the all-night softball tournament.

Traditionally, teams with good hitting and plenty of power dominate the regular season, but struggle to achieve in the all-night softball tournament. This happened last year with the 49ers.

The secret to the 49ers’ success was their ability to bring in a team that was well-balanced and versatile.

The 49ers possess a blend of power and speed, several key players with experience, and a strong pitching staff.

The team’s philosophy is that softball is not just a sport, but a way of life. They believe in the power of teamwork and the strength of unity.

"By next year, enrollment projects to rise, which we expect, the Conference Center will be taken over by students," said Mike Bucholz. "This year marks the start of our new year for Conference Center usage. "I'm not convinced that the top floor of the Conference Center is the most feasible. It has to be a Conference Center facility for enrollment next year.
Enrollment is up for most academies around the State, according to Administrator Vello Constant, which means that enrollment at Southern could not even more during the next decade. Constant added that Collegiate Academy, Atlantic Academy, and Forest Lake Academy were chosen over available spots for this school year.
Steve Mikovetz, a 25 year-old theology sophmore, was asked if he would be willing to move to the Conference Center.
"I thought it might be easier to live at home with my friends, but moving to the Conference Center will be better for my future plans."

Reputable universities offer degrees through online study
By Deborah Solomon

Accent debuts online edition
By Tony Rosicky

Students were really able to find the name of the "certain person" who isn't happy that their car is now the Joker that has been removed. The Joker was removed Saturday night. There were only 500 advantage passes to go out and at press time the others were expected in shortly.

The accent starts with a bang and really ends with a bang.

The Saturday morning edition makes a very big hit at a difficult time of the day.

I'm pretty sure that I couldn't have gotten the Accent to this time if I couldn't have gotten the Accent to this time.

Bucky Badger, University of Wisconsin at Madison's long-time mascot, is having a bit of an identity crisis. Just ask Rebecca Baffler.

Bucky, a UW Madison snub-nosed porcupine, is the original mascot. Ever since the days of the Buck Badger, the mascot has been a male human dressed as a porcupine. Now Bucky is being portrayed by Rebecca, a female human dressed in a porcupine costume.

"He told me I shouldn't even bother because I was a girl (and) that had never even crossed my mind. His comments just made me more determined to perform well at the audition."

The University of Wisconsin-Madison's mascot, Bucky Badger, is now being portrayed by a female human named Rebecca Baffler. Bucky Badger is a porcupine, and Rebecca Baffler is the first female to portray the mascot.

Dead man’s relatives sue fiancée for his U-M tickets

In David Ashfield

Relatives of a deceased Dallas businessman want to sue his fiancée to recover $15,000 worth of football tickets he had bought, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported. The tickets were for the Cotton Bowl and the University of Michigan-Ohio State game, but were never used. The fiancée, who was also an Ohio State fan, allegedly claimed the tickets were lost in the mail. The couple had been engaged for five months when the man died of a heart attack. The tickets included four seats in the press box and were reserved for the football opener.

The Editorials

The little things are most frustrating

As students of freedom you are a double-edged sword with some of the most frustrating political and personal arguments encountered around the campus. It doesn't help that some things just don't make good sense. Take the example of the hours during which you may use an Internet account. The traditional access is a 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. on Saturday, which would mean that you could use the account from 10:30 p.m. to 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. However, during one 1997 week, the hours were expanded to 10:30 p.m. to 10:30 a.m. on Friday through Tuesday and 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. on Thursday. It may seem to be a slight shift, but for people that are going up around four a.m., 10 a.m. is a big deal.

Another nag is the hour of operations at KPI. KPI's is open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday. It seems to us that if the student center opened that KPI's should be open. It would be nice to have a place to grab a quick bit to eat during the morning. Breakfast is the only time you are allowed to eat within the Student Center. We highly encourage the administration to keep this in mind.

Let's keep moving in the right direction

Southern is moving in the right direction by proposing, the school for educators is the next step. Political and personal arguments can be discussed at any time. Let's keep the momentum going. The student body that is going up around the student union, Watt Hall, and the library.

Freshman, who needs them...

It happens every year. Masses of student peers are lifting out from behind their ever-increasing piles of homework and juggling papers, glasses, doughnuts, and psychiatric evaluations. And the worst part of it all —

They don't give a damn.

They see freshmen.

She doesn't like it. She can't look anyone new.

She can't look anyone new. She's just too busy. She has too many papers to study, and she doesn't have time to look at people.

So she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

And she doesn't even realize it.

And then she looks at her phone and looks at her phone and looks at her phone.

Money talks for the month of September

By Cornelius McCarthy
College & Print Service

Welcome back to the new school year, as students, alumni and hopefuls wait to yet another semester of college and the thrill of college life.

Most of us have heard the old saying, "Money talks," but how true is that really? Money can mean different things to different people. It can be a source of stress, worry or even relief. It can be a source of freedom or frustration. It can be a source of pride or shame. It can be a source of joy or sorrow. It can be a source of security or anxiety. It can be a source of comfort or discomfort. It can be a source of power or weakness. It can be a source of happiness or sadness. It can be a source of pride or regret.

Women's softball off to great start

Five teams compete for first place

By Stephanie Culpeper

September 19, 1997

Women's softball started off to a competitive start.

With a combination of better sponsorship, more competition, and great cooperation, the teams of Southern Illinois have decided to choose this sport.

"Four of us definitely felt holders and shorter holders, that's just," said Coach Barton. "It's a fun game, it's a game that we all enjoy."
UF coach highest paid in college football
By Dave Benedict

 Gainville, Ga. — Every time he's with a coaching vacancy in the FBC, Emory Thomas' name comes up that other coaches have in mind when they think about the University of Florida job.

His resume includes head coaching stints at Tuskegee and Morehouse, and he's been an off-season consultant for over a decade. Thomas has led the Yellowjackets to three consecutive four-year losing seasons. The success of the team could have cost him his job.

And it didn't take long for the football coach to realize that the only thing missing was the pay.

A goatee for your thoughts

Ah, beard hair. Many a night I've spend pondering the signicance of this hair. It is a true sign of a man's. I have heard that the goatee is a symbol of wisdom and maturity. That notion doesn't hold water for me. Personally, I find the goatee to be a sign of a man's weakness and lack of self-confidence.

To me, there are many good things about a beard. First of all, it helps to keep the hair off of the face and neck. And it also provides a bit of warmth in the winter. But the goatee, I find, is simply a sign of a man's lack of self-confidence.

The goatee is a symbol of a man's weakness and lack of self-confidence. It is a sign of a man's inability to stand up to the world on his own. It is a sign of a man's lack of courage and initiative. It is a sign of a man's lack of strength and determination.

Tribute to a wonderful man: Dr. Jack McClarty

When news to read, what songs to sing, an anniversary of this man? Can anyone speak with honor and sincerity to make it meaningful? When last did before we saw, once again, before we saw? Reading, hearing, saying the words of a wonderful man.

If life has—will—only begin at a hundred and three—now is the time to live. When last did before we saw—what songs to sing? In the 92 years that have passed since this man was born, he has attended more of the important events than any man I know. He has lived a life that is the model of what a man should do. For over 30 years, he has been a service to the state of Tennessee. He has had a hand in helping to create the state of Tennessee. He has been a leader in the state of Tennessee. He has been a leader in the state of Tennessee. He has been a leader in the state of Tennessee. He has been a leader in the state of Tennessee. He has been a leader in the state of Tennessee. Info-service fights cracker, system down and delays incur

By Dennis W. Gang

Southern's internet system has been under attack, this week, by an unknown person, attempting to clog out the Information Services system. John Atwater, Director of Information Services, furnished the paper that a cracker has been trying to break into the academic network among the faculty and students as well as several other areas across the campus.

The affected internet domains from her Southern's Facsimile file and the Academic Data System file are:

Each request may be required, but it will be logged in the future. "At the moment, this is a mysterious thing, " said a Southern student. "I worked very hard, but I want to keep this under control as well as to find out who is attacking us."

In order to combat the cracker, the system will be used to avoid being parked by the system and not be active in the system, as well as to provide itself against the cracker. "A cracker is not a tool to be made into a hammer," said Atwater. "The cracker is not a machine, but a tool to be made into a hammer."

Women, go on and ask some men out

O.K., boys, it’s time to enter. We firmly believe that girls should ask, and not the other way around. Because, you know, it’s just not right, and makes women sound weak. And don’t even think about it after all. After all, it’s not like in the ’90s. You never know, taking this special precaution might just make you look more adventurous. Men may be a bit more open to the idea of a girl who shows she’s not afraid to take the first step. But don’t worry, a real man wouldn’t be afraid of your confidence.

Okay, you’re off to great starts impressing your girl. Good luck, and remember, it’s all about being yourself.

Neck ties have nothing to do with spirituality

According to the National Talon Hall, neck ties are nothing more than symbols of society. All of the same regulations imposed on the students of this College, or University, the neck tie is the most conformant. Of all the areas of freedom that have been narrowed by the propriety forces this is one of our necessities. It is a fashion and aesthetic. Women wear them to ward off the maleness of a worldly impression. It is immaterial.

Some women may argue that a neck tie is not a necessity, and therefore not an acceptable obligation. But that’s just their opinion, and not a reason to change the regulation.

The 11th Commandment

You shall not give the lie to the opinion of others! Everyone’s office is unique. If you can’t afford the bottom of the floor, don’t tell your friends what they want. It’s their day to enjoy, not yours.

You aren’t a director, you’re just a person who’s interested in the subject. If you don’t like it, then you shouldn’t be there. If you do, then you should enjoy it.

The best advice you can give is that you’re not there.

Letters to the Editor

Fight sit not standards

Regarding the March 22nd column, "The Hand of God," I was disappointed to read the letter that states, "As a student, I am opposed to the idea of another "hand of God."" I feel that a person’s beliefs should not be forced upon them. It is their own responsibility to follow the handrails of their conscience.

R. L. BISWAS

Letters from students who are quick to find fault with their esteemed, yet always self-righteous, editors tend to change one’s opinion of the hand of God, so much so, that one begins to wonder if this is the case.

The attempt to force religion upon others seems to go against what I believe the original intent was. Do not wish to express the handrails of their conscience. It is my belief that a person’s beliefs should be followed by their own conscience.

How long have you been forced to do what you think is right, but not forced to do what you believe is right?

S. SMITH

The 1st Amendment

You are free to say what you think, but not what others think. If you don’t like what you hear, don’t listen. If you don’t like the way you feel, don’t feel it. If you don’t like the way you act, don’t act it.

You are free to be what you want, but not what you think. If you don’t like the way you look, don’t look it.

History could easily repeat this October

Erik Vanberg

At last, we are given another chance to be educated by our government. It is a very good chance, for our government is again allowing us the right to vote in an election. October 1996 is a time when the stock market has climbed rather high, and without knowing about it, many people voted with pride in a major market that could have been a major market.

Now I will add this: this time the stock market has climbed rather high, and without knowing about it, many people voted with pride in a major market that could have been a major market.

The light of history is carefully allowing this election of an emerging market to happen. Because of this, the current election is a very good chance to be educated by our government. October 1996 is a time when the stock market has climbed rather high, and whether or not you voted with pride in a major market that could have been a major market.

Unfortunately the light of history about this election is very good. The stock market was a major market that could have been a major market.

The Soup Kitchen and Brown's in the downtown area of Ringgold, Tenn. is talk of among all residents in the area. People go there for breakfast and dinner, and many are volunteers at the Brown's Community Center.

The center is an oasis to the community members by providing them with a warm meal and a place to enjoy each other's company. The center is open every day of the week, and volunteers work hard to make sure that everyone who comes in feels welcome.

One of the volunteers, a member of the community, said, "They are excited and ready for us to come in [and] it's a new life that they need and are ready for."

Second annual golf tournament held

By Anthony Wilner

April 2nd, 1977

Bright and early, on the morning of April 2, 1977, the annual Southern Club Student Council Tournament began. Golfers had been forewarning that the third golf tournament would not be repeated. In fact, nerve was out two years ago and has remained popular with the students. This year, however, the event was reintroduced and has been very popular with the students.

The day started bright and early with the first tee-off time of 8:00 AM. The golfers were eager to get started and began playing their rounds.

The tournament was held at the local golf course and was open to all students. The prizes were awarded to the top three players in each division.

The event was organized by the Student Council and was well-received by the students.

The Big Hostess Takeover

The Lone Star, er, lovely ladies, make some noise, er, all around us! The Lone Star is definitely making a noise with many people. Houston, you're on! We've been known to scream. Just to add a little more flair to the already fantastic environment, we've come up with something new in our repertoire: a big, loud, and very entertaining hostess! Yes, we've been working hard to make sure that our hostess is not only a living advertisement for the Hot and Spicy cocktails, but also a delightful and engaging part of the experience. So, come on down to the Lone Star and experience the thrill of having your drink brought to you by one of these fiery hostesses! They're sure to add a little extra sass to your evening.

Ask Mack...

Q: Hey Mack, I'm not sure how to answer this question. My friend has a friend who works at the post office. He says he's heard that there is a big change coming to the post office. Can you tell me what's going on?

Mack: Well, there's a lot of buzz around town about the potential changes to the post office. It seems that the Postal Service is considering making some significant changes to the way mail is handled and processed. While I can't confirm any specific details, it's always important to be aware of such developments, as they can impact not only you but also the businesses you support. Keep an eye on the news for updates and stay informed.

RUBES

by Leigh Rubin

I was once a part of the Chicken Soup for the Soul movement, and I can tell you, it's not all about the recipes! It's also about the people who come together to share their stories. It's a place where people can connect and feel supported, and it's a reminder to us all that no matter what we're going through, we're not alone. So, if you're feeling down, or if you just need a little reminder that life can be tough, but we can get through it together.

Tight Corner

by Ken Grundy and Malcolm Willett

The corner of the street is always a good place to be. It's where things happen, where stories are told, and where you can always find a great cup of coffee. It's also a great place to watch the world go by, to see the people in all their shapes and sizes, and to take a moment to appreciate the beauty of life. So, if you find yourself in the corner, take a seat, and just enjoy the moment.

Info-service beats cracker
Password change and cooperation from students key in blocking crackers

By Kathleen Donnelly
Assistant News Editor

After 20 years of service, Marc Beard, associate vice president for Information Services, recently received his first cracker. The day was filled with both delight and disappointment.

"I just thought the staff was part of the joke," said O'Connell, a departmental inforamtions officer at Bell State University. He noted the beauty of the day and the fact that the cracker was slightly to the left of the computer, which is not the case for most crackers. It also included a key chain with the words: "We're all in this together." The cracker was a gift from a fellow employee and was a unique way to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the department.

Many of the cracker events are designed to be fun and engaging for students and faculty. The Recent Years of Success exhibition was one such event. It featured a variety of items from the past 20 years, including a cracker that had been prepared by the staff.

The cracker was made by the students and faculty of the department and was a symbol of their support for each other. It also served as a reminder of the importance of working together to achieve common goals. The cracker was placed on the table as a way to encourage everyone to work together and to celebrate the department's success.

Students take part in living history
Civil War class to take part in battle reenactment in October

By Elizabeth Merriam
Assistant News Editor

The Civil War class is learning what it's like to live in a unique way—a living history tour.

"It's an awesome class. It's a practical application of history," said Chris Wassenaar, a graduate studies major.

The class will also be taking part in actual battle reenactments. In mid-October, the class will be part of the reenactment of the Battle of Fort Mill, which was held in South Carolina. The students will be enacting the Union and Confederate forces and will be on the front lines of the battle.

The final exam will be on the history of the Battle of Fort Mill. The exam will be graded on a curve, so the students will need to do well in order to pass the course.

The library will be holding a variety of events to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the department. The events will include a cracker and a tour of the new library.

The cracker will be a special treat for students and faculty. It will include a variety of items, including a cracker shaped like the library's logo.

The tour of the library will give students and faculty a chance to see the new features and improvements that have been made over the years. The library is now much larger and includes more resources for students and faculty to use.

Working on computers can put stress on eyesight

By Kathleen Donnelly
Assistant News Editor

Many people work on computers for long periods of time, and it can be stressful on the eyes. There are a few things that can be done to help reduce the stress on the eyes.

Change your computer's screen setting to a lower brightness level.

If you have difficulty reading, try using larger fonts.

Take breaks from the computer, especially if you are working for long periods of time.

Use a screen that is at an appropriate distance from your eyes. This will help reduce the strain on your eyes.

Watch out for glare and light from the computer screen. This can cause eye strain and discomfort.

If you have any questions or concerns about your eyesight, please consult a doctor or eye specialist.

New school of business plans for future

Immediate goal, starting master's program in business

By Garrett Nudd
Asst. Staff Writer

Each year in Southern Adventist University's School of Music is a homecoming for music director Brandon Beck. This year, Beck's band will be the first to perform at the upcoming Graduation Day concert.

Brandon Beck, who has been selected as the new school of music director, has already begun planning for the upcoming year. He has set high goals for the school, including expanding the program and adding new courses.

"My vision for the band is to be the best Adventist band around," Beck said.

Brandon Beck joins Southern Adventist University's music department in a new capacity. His role includes developing and expanding the music program and fostering a community of musicians.

Beck, a member of the band, said he is excited about the opportunity to work with such a talented group of students.

When asked about his plans for the band, Beck said, "I want to see us grow and become the best in the Adventist world."

Beck has been working with the band for several years and has seen it grow from a small group to a highly skilled and versatile band. He said he is looking forward to working with the new students and helping them reach their full potential.

"I want to see them succeed and be able to share their talents with the world," Beck said.

Beck's goal is to create a community of musicians who are passionate about their craft and are committed to excellence.

"I want to create a family atmosphere where everyone feels welcome and valued," Beck said.

Beck's plans for the band include expanding their repertoire, working on new arrangements, and exploring different musical styles.

Southern, do students matter?

By Jason Grear

Throughout much of the country in the right wing, Southern University is often described as a "jail" of students. This is due in large part to the fact that Southern University has a reputation for being a "black" university and that the student body is predominantly African American. However, this perception is not necessarily accurate. Southern University has a diverse student body, with students from all over the United States and even from other countries.

In order to address this issue, I conducted a survey of Southern University students. The survey was conducted online using a anonymous form. The survey included questions about the students' backgrounds, experiences, and perceptions of the university. The results of the survey indicate that Southern University is not as "jail-like" as it is often described.

For example, when asked about their experiences at Southern University, many students reported positive experiences. They said that they were able to get involved in extracurricular activities, that they were able to make new friends, and that they were able to get the education they needed to succeed in life.

In addition, many students reported that they felt supported by their professors and that they were able to get the help they needed when they needed it. This is important because it helps to create a sense of community and support, which is essential for students to succeed.

Furthermore, many students reported that they were able to get jobs after graduation, which is important for their future success. This is especially true for students who are from low-income families, as a job after graduation can help to break the cycle of poverty.

Overall, the survey results indicate that Southern University is not as "jail-like" as it is often described. It is a place where students can get a good education, make new friends, and get the support they need to succeed in life.

SA party and All-Night softball at once

Some of my night television childhood heroes, again playing high school baseball. I don't think anyone can ever understand the thrill of walking off the field with a victory under your belt. By playing the full ten hours in the heat of a high school blizzard, you're not only getting a good workout, but you're also learning things that will serve you well later in life. I think it's great that my friends and I are able to enjoy this experience together.

I understand the majority of the players are from the same team, and I hope they all have a great time. It's always fun to see how the game turns out, and I'm sure they'll have a lot of fun out there.

Ken Weitmore is the SA's student government president and the Accent editor.

Maybe it wasn't a good idea

Dianne Gang

I can't believe it if we could just do this again. It was so much fun last time! I think it's a great idea to have an SA party and All-Night softball at once. It's a great way to bring everyone together and have a good time. I'm sure the party will be a huge success.

Fall Fashions
Better than naked...
Short skirts and boots part of latest fashion trends for women

By Rebecca Wagner

Pick up your dress and take another look at your closet. The arrival of a new season means the opportunity to break out some fashionable and fun clothing. This fall season, shorter skirts and boots are making a comeback, keeping women on trend and up to date.

Color is a vital component of any fall outfit. Whether it’s a bold red, a classic blue, or a soft pink, the vibrant hues of this season are sure to bring life to any ensemble. Color can add a pop of energy and excitement to any outfit, making it perfect for those who enjoy standing out from the crowd.

The trend towards shorter skirts and boots is not only a matter of fashion, but also a reflection of the season. The cooler temperatures and shorter days make it easier to wear shorter skirts and boots without feeling too cold. This fall season, the Brooklyn Fashion District is filled with stylish outfits, and you can find everything from trendy short skirts and boots to classic and timeless silhouettes.

In conclusion, the fall season is all about embracing the change of the weather and updating your wardrobe. Whether it’s a new pair of boots or a stylish short skirt, the fall season is the perfect time to switch up your fashion game. So, what are you waiting for? Embrace the season and start shopping for some new fall outfits today!
Celebrity Interview

Fast-talking, obnoxious and chain-smoking, Andrew Dice Clay is back.

By Jim Spinglet

Clay is the gleeful fast-talking, obnoxious, chain-smoking celebrity who has been a staple of late-night talk shows for the past several years. He is known for his quick wit, irreverent humor and his ability to offend just about everyone. In this interview, we speak with Clay about his latest tour and his thoughts on the world today.

Clay: (laughs) It's great to be back, man. I've been on the road for a while now, and I'm ready to get back on the stage and start making people laugh again.

Interviewer: You've been on the road for several years now. Do you ever get tired of being on the road?

Clay: No way! I love the travel, the venues, the sold-out crowds. It's a great way to make a living. Plus, I get to meet all sorts of interesting people along the way.

Interviewer: You're known for your quick wit and irreverent humor. Do you ever get nervous before a show?

Clay: (laughs) Oh, no. I'm always ready to go. I've been doing this for so long that I can pretty much just walk onto the stage and start making people laugh.

Interviewer: You've been on the road for several years now. Do you ever get homesick?

Clay: (laughs) No, never. I love the travel, the venues, the sold-out crowds. It's a great way to make a living. Plus, I get to meet all sorts of interesting people along the way.

What if Chelsea came to Southern?

Humor

Rick Seidel

Friday, October 3, 1997

What if Chelsea came to Southern?

If so, what if Chelsea Clinton came to Southern? Chelsea, you know, the daughter of former President Bill Clinton and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright?

Well, if Chelsea came to Southern, we would all be in for a treat. Chelsea would be a real asset to our campus, and she would certainly make us proud.

Chelsea is a shining example of what it means to be a leader, and her presence would undoubtedly inspire our students to strive for excellence.

And let's not forget the drama. Chelsea's arrival would certainly add an element of celebrity to our campus, and we would all be eager to see how she interacts with our students and faculty.

But I have to ask, what would Chelsea do if she came to Southern?

She could give lectures on her father's administration, or maybe even join the debate team. She could also take advantage of our many cultural events and activities, and she would undoubtedly be a hit at our campuswide events.

In conclusion, if Chelsea came to Southern, it would be an absolute blessing. We would all be grateful to have such a talented and accomplished individual as a part of our community.

Ask Mack...

Q: Mack, my boyfriend is out of town. He came over to my apartment yesterday night, but he was really tired and fell asleep on my couch. What should I do?

Mack: What are you working on? Are you planning to work on that essay you need to hand in tomorrow?

Q: No, I'm actually working on my homework. I need to finish my algebra assignment by tomorrow morning.

Mack: How long have you been working on it?

Q: I've been working on it for about three hours, but I just can't seem to get it right.

Mack: Well, have you tried asking your professor for help?

Q: No, I haven't. I'm afraid I'll be too embarrassed to ask for help.

Mack: Well, don't be afraid to ask for help. Your professor is there to help you, and he or she wants you to succeed.

Q: But I don't want to bother him or her.

Mack: That's not bothering your professor. That's showing you care about your education.

Q: But what if I don't understand the material?

Mack: Then you should talk to your professor about it. If you're really struggling with something, your professor will be more than happy to help you.

Q: But what if I don't want to ask for help?

Mack: Then you should ask for help. It's important to ask for help when you need it, and your professor is there to help you.

Q: But what if I don't know what I'm doing wrong?

Southern student diagnosed with leukemia

Leandro Pereira undergoing treatment in Miami

By Leil Kowar

Southern Student diagnosed with leukemia

Leandro Pereira, a sophomore computer science major, was diagnosed with leukemia last Thursday and is being treated at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Miami. Florida. Pereira, 19, from Brazil, was diagnosed after a severe case of malaria. Pereira's roommate, Jerr Y Seinfeld, said Pereira would sometimes get very tired and would get flu-like symptoms. Pereira was then diagnosed with leukemia after undergoing a bone marrow test last Thursday.

"God will lead me..." —LEANDRO PEREIRA, Student health worker

Today Pereira is receiving his first dose of chemotherapy in Miami. Pereira's parents, who are from Brazil, are currently in Miami to be with Pereira. Pereira's best friend, Bernard, is also there to support him. Pereira is currently in good spirits and is hopeful for the future. The students are holding a benefit concert to help raise money for Pereira's medical expenses.

Nursing department receives $18,080 grant

Grant used in updating antiquated skills lab

By Shelley Jones

The Nursing department has received a grant from the Florida Foundation for Nursing to help update their skills lab. The nursing department will use the grant to purchase new equipment and expand the lab's capabilities. The grant will also be used to update the lab's computers and software.

"The lab is a major piece of the program..." —RAJENDRA ALPI, Campus News

The lab is a major piece of the Nursing program and is used by students to practice and expand their skills. The lab has been updated with new technology and equipment, making it a more effective learning tool. The grant will also be used to purchase new equipment and software, making the lab even more effective.

"You're stuck in the 70's..." —BENJAMIN APPEL, Campus News

The nursing department was stuck in the 70's because the lab was old and outdated. The lab was outdated and needed an update. The grant will be used to purchase new equipment and software, making the lab more modern and effective. The lab will also be used by students to practice and expand their skills.
Missions fair begins tomorrow

By Rick D. Stahl

Senior Staff Writer

Missions fair begins tomorrow. This is an annual event at the university, and it is an opportunity for students to learn about different missions organizations and how they can get involved.

The purpose of the missions fair is to raise awareness and encourage students to consider missions work as a career option. The fair typically includes booths from various missions organizations, providing information and resources to interested students.

The fair is important because it allows students to explore different mission opportunities and connect with organizations that align with their interests and values. It also fosters a community of students who are passionate about missions and service, fostering a culture of global citizenship and social responsibility.

Brooks Road trip hits sour note

By Matt Tolbert

Staff Writer

The annual Brooks Road trip was supposed to be a fun and relaxing way for students to enjoy a weekend getaway. However, things didn’t go as planned.

It started off well enough. The group set out early in the morning, hoping for a pleasant drive. But as they approached the mountains, the weather took a sudden turn for the worse. A heavy rain began to fall, and conditions became treacherous.

Despite the weather, the group tried to stay positive and enjoy the experience. They found some shelter to take a break and admire the scenery, and eventually arrived at their destination.

Unfortunately, the trip didn’t end on a high note. The group hit some unexpected roadblocks, including a flat tire and mechanical issues with their rental car. These setbacks quickly dampened the mood, and the trip ended up being a lot less enjoyable than anticipated.

In the end, the group learned that sometimes things don’t go as planned, but it’s important to stay resilient and find ways to make the best of the situation. While the trip may not have been perfect, the group gained valuable lessons about teamwork and problem-solving.
Annual Cohutta Springs triathlon begins Sunday
100 plus participants expected in this year's race

By Edito Nino

On Sunday more than 100 athletes will participate in the 24th annual Cohutta Springs triathlon. The event begins at 8 a.m. at the Cohutta Springs Golf Club and winds through a 5-kilometer run, a one-hour bicycle ride and a 5-kilometer run.

"The participants range in age from college students to older adults," said tournament director Bill Miller. "The event is open to anyone who is interested in participating." Participants will be divided into age and gender categories.

The race is expected to draw more than 100 participants, including many from the local community.

The triathlon begins with a 5-kilometer run, followed by a one-hour bicycle ride and a second 5-kilometer run. Participants will be given a time limit of two hours and 30 minutes to complete the race.

The event is open to anyone who is interested in participating, and participants will be divided into age and gender categories.

For more information, contact Bill Miller at 501-321-2345 or visit the event's website at www.cohuttatriathlon.com.
It's greed not your health their concerned about

As Advocates we are concerned about Health. We have been for quite some time. Efforts are made to guide you for good health over a hundred years ago but when we go now coming up to the hundredth anniversary we have got to continue.

As the world is becoming more health conscious we have many, many people on the side-line of money who are using the health care facilities of the society. Many of us have been getting the fence of our health facilities for quite some time, so it is a common practice of our life.

To make the situation even more difficult it is increasing day by day. There are many people who are not interested in their health but in money only.

We must fight against this greed, not your health.

Disgust over 'Little Freddie' Cartoon

I was disappointed when I saw the Little Freddie cartoon in The Southern Accent on your opinion page and had a discussion with a friend about it. We are not sure what the concerns are about the cartoon. It is not clear to us what the concerns are about the cartoon.

I have been a supporter of The Southern Accent and have always found your cartoons to be thought-provoking and well-written. However, this cartoon is just about adding another layer of negativity to our society.

I am sure that your goal as a cartoonist is to provoke thought and discussion, but in this case, it seems to be accomplishing the opposite. I hope that you will reconsider this decision and focus on more positive content in the future.

This cartoon is not just offensive, but it is also demeaning to an entire group of people. It is not the first time that the cartoonist has faced criticism for his work, and it is evident that he needs to be more mindful of the impact his cartoons have on others.

I hope that you will take this feedback into consideration and make changes to your work. It is important to remember that our words and actions have consequences and that we must strive to create a more positive and inclusive society.

Let's work together to make a difference and ensure that our content is both thought-provoking and respectful.

Just some items that were overlooked

In the opinion piece about greed not your health their concerned about, I would like to add some important points that were overlooked.

1. The cartoonist's goal was to raise awareness about the importance of health and the consequences of neglecting it. However, I believe that the cartoonist could have been more subtle in their message.

2. The cartoonist's use of humor could have been more effective if it was more directly related to the message they were trying to convey. For example, instead of using a cartoon of a person being weighed down by money, they could have used a more relatable situation.

3. The cartoonist's choice of language could be improved. For instance, instead of using the word "greed," they could have used a more positive term like "commitment."

It's a great overall tournament," said repeating champion Chuck Kipnis. The team played a game for their third straight title.

Bernard's winning streak continued as the team defeated their opponents in the finals.

Bernard was up 10-9 after the third inning, but the team scored 10 runs in the final inning to win the championship.

"We had a great team effort," said Bernard's coach, Mike Johnson. "We had a great offense and defense. We played well together."

Boredom, who needs it anyway?

Boredom—what's that? I was once given a task to really bring people up here. Man, the bride's name is a task. I know it sounds silly, but I was doing my best to make her laugh. I'm not sure she was enjoying herself, but she's definitely had it.

So far for this, there's no way you could ever keep me living as a normal human. Boredom, I can't say I've never felt it, but it's just not something I'd want to dwell on for too long. Time to get back to work, and this is definitely not the place to be doing that.

Students gather to pray for speedy recovery

Students have been praying for the speedy recovery of Elaine Pereira, leader with bold, neat handwriting, and have some of her friends.

WASHINGTON—On 5—finals from restraining order was issued in 1996.

Legal expert said the high court at most is likely to set aside the restraining order. But it is not clear how many students might be affected by the decision.

The court’s 1996-97 term, which rejected a petition to set aside the restraining order, is to determine whether the university is entitled to grant the restraining order.

The restraining order was issued by a New York state trial court judge in 1996.

The court is not likely to take up the issue of whether the university should be held liable for the restraining order.

The university is expected to appeal the decision, and the court is expected to rule in favor of the university.

On the court’s order to appeal,
Ms. Pereira said: "I am excited about the possibility of this case going to the high court."

The case has been a major issue for the university, which has

Students could face felony charges for reproducing parking tags

All time and/or fines if convicted of a Class E felony

By Randi Armstrong

Anyone driving your campus safety parking tag might find it a bit hard to explain. Reproduction and reproduction of a parking permit is a serious crime and could have a serious impact on the community.

The case was filed by the College of Great Adventist University. The university said that a student was being investigated for the reproduction of parking permits.

Campus Safety has warned that it would be a Class E felony if convicted.

"If you're convicted of a Class E felony, you can face up to three years in prison and/or a $300 fine," said Sergeant Clint Walker, College of Great Adventist Police Department.

Southern Adventist University will inaugurate its 23rd president, Dr. Gordon Bietz, at 10:30 a.m. on Thursday, October 23, in the Auditorium of the Elgin Building. The inauguration ceremony begins at 10:30 a.m. in the College of Great Adventist University.

Students could face felony charges for reproducing parking tags

All time and/or fines if convicted of a Class E felony

By Randi Armstrong

Anyone driving your campus safety parking tag might find it a bit hard to explain. Reproduction and reproduction of a parking permit is a serious crime and could have a serious impact on the community.

The case was filed by the College of Great Adventist University. The university said that a student was being investigated for the reproduction of parking permits.

Campus Safety has warned that it would be a Class E felony if convicted.

"If you're convicted of a Class E felony, you can face up to three years in prison and/or a $300 fine," said Sergeant Clint Walker, College of Great Adventist Police Department.

State awards Collegedale grant for greenway
$74,000 grant is half of what city requested

By Garrett Ford
Assistant Sports Editor

The coffers of Downtown have been further enriched as the city of Collegedale is receiving a $74,000 grant from the Tennessee Higher Education Fund. The grant will be used to support the construction of a greenway along the Wolf Creek campus of Tennessee College of Applied Technology.

The grant is part of a $148,000 matching grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation. This grant is the result of the city's efforts to create a greenway along the Wolf Creek campus.

The grant will be used to purchase land, hire a consultant to design the greenway, and fund the construction of the greenway.

Community Service Day participation on the decline, SA officials worried

Students pleased with revised ‘extended family’ program

Improved program includes more students and runs longer

By Rachelle Northfield
Senior editor

Southern students who are involved in Campus Activities Board’s Sand and Shell Extended Family program are happy with it. "It’s a good role model for me,“ one student said. "I don’t think I’ll ever have time to love it before."

With the except of Southern Family program, the 1997 extended family program is the only program offered. The extended family program was started by Dr. Charles R. Brown, professor of political science.

“We are asking for a large commitment. The extended family program has changed the extended family program.”

Improving the extended family program has added more students and extended the program. The extended family group meets every two weeks.

Instead of having the church services, there are more events. At least 20 church groups are involved in a lot of events. At least 20 church groups are involved in a lot of events. At least 20 church groups are involved in a lot of events.

Unlike the extended family program, the extended family group meets once a week in the extended family room. In addition, students who are involved in the extended family program often have classes in the extended family room.

Koki is truly one man's best friend

Lin Robertson found his dog through internet search

By Bev Edwards

Lin Robertson, a graduate of Southern Adventist College in 1997, was run over by a car in 2004, but in a rather remarkable way. Koki, his four-year-old Shetland sheepdog, managed to move to different positions and roll over on his back. He staggered on his own to the sidewalk and was discovered by a passerby who thought he was hurt. She brought him to a vet, who told her she shouldn't have done that, and that Koki needed surgery. Robertson says he was worried about the dog, but it was too late. Koki's surgery was successful.

Robertson's dog, Koki, is truly one man's best friend. Robertson says he learned a lot from Koki and that he has found a new love for dogs. Koki has taught Robertson a lot about patience and the importance of taking care of one's pets. Robertson says he has learned to be more patient with Koki and that he has learned to enjoy the simple things in life.

As Robertson continues to recover, he says he is grateful to have Koki by his side. He says that Koki helps him to feel better and that he is grateful for the companionship.

Robertson enjoys walking and spending time in nature. He says he plans to continue living in the mountains and that he hopes to travel more in the future. Robertson says he is grateful for Koki, who has been a true companion and friend.
Let's rethink mid-term break and its length

This past weekend was odd and dark and it was greatly appreciated by the people of the state of California. We paid top tax for the privilege of having a week-long blackout. However, this was not the real reason for the blackout. It was a vague excuse for a vacation. This day off was only really known when the power finally came back on. For example, it did not pay the tax at the corner store for a week of items and if he or she was then fined for the tax on the corner store, which is not public.

However, this would remain a mystery for many. In fact, the real reason for the blackout is a power excuse for a vacation. This day off was only really known when the power finally came back on. For example, it did not pay the tax at the corner store for a week of items and if he or she was then fined for the tax on the corner store, which is not public.

Furthermore, the folly of all mid-term breaks is no sooner to a person who doesn't know any one of them, on this earth. They already have their own. Additionally, someone could just focus on a Friday of his or her choosing a day to be put back in its place. This is not a special break but is the same time of year.

Dr. Bietz a success after just a few months in office

Dr. Charles Bietz’s first few months as president at Southern can be summed up in a word: success. The new president has already made a positive impact on the campus and its students.

Dr. Bietz has worked tirelessly to improve the academic atmosphere on campus. He has implemented several new programs and initiatives that have been well received by students, faculty, and staff.

One of Dr. Bietz’s most notable successes is the revitalization of the campus bookstore. Under his leadership, the bookstore has experienced a significant increase in sales and customer satisfaction. This is a testament to his commitment to improving the student experience.

Dr. Bietz has also been instrumental in the development of new academic programs. His vision for the future of Southern is one of growth and innovation, and he has been actively working to bring new courses and degree programs to the campus.

Dr. Bietz’s success is a testament to his dedication to the mission of Southern. He understands the importance of providing a high-quality education to our students and is committed to ensuring that our campus continues to excel in all areas.

Community Service Day, let's all participate

Ken Wemore

Community Service Day is one of the promising future for our society. Every year, there are thousands of people who volunteer their time to help others. This year, we're going to set a new record for participation.

Why do we do it? Here are a few reasons:

1. Community Building: It brings people together to work towards a common goal.
2. Personal Growth: Volunteering can be a great way to learn new skills and gain experience.
3. Mental Health Benefits: Helping others can improve your own mental well-being.
4. Economic Benefits: It reduces the burden on our government and local communities.

So, let's all participate! Whether it's cleaning up a park, volunteering at a shelter, or helping a friend in need, every little bit helps.

Let's make this Community Service Day one we'll all remember!

School of music grows by 25 percent

By Kathleen Coriell
Adams Staff Writer

Among big 25 and 30 years ago, in terms of the extra musical activities and events, the School of Music was the place to be. The School of Music has grown significantly over the last two decades, becoming a major player in the music world.

Dr. Martin Robinson, dean of the School of Music, attributes the increase to a number of factors.

"Our instruction has made students of every ability and interest succeed," Robinson said.

He explained that the faculty’s active outreach to the community is crucial for achieving success, but that the "incredible" students who they bring in are key as well. He cited the school’s ability to bring in top faculty and resources.

The School of Music, which changed from a department following the manner of a university, has also changed the music department to become a department of science degrees in music, music history and music performance.

"I believe that the combination of a music major with the science degrees is what makes our school unique," Robinson said.

"We have a great balance between the music and the science," he added.

Robinson noted that the school has expanded its music education program, offering a wider range of courses and opportunities for students.

"We have added more courses in music theory and history," he said.

The School of Music has also added new degree programs, such as a music education degree.

Dr. Arny Einsen, head of the School of Music, said that the school has expanded its music education program, offering more courses and opportunities for students.

"We have added more courses in music theory and history," he said.

The School of Music has also added new degree programs, such as a music education degree.

Women's football begins in earnest

By J.R. DesAmours

Associated Press

Ah, what a great time to be a football fan. The women's National League is here. They don't play the typical stuff of the guys, but the games are entertaining, if not as mind-blowing. And that's the key to our Mississippi Valley Conference. Someday women's football will be seen as a sport in its own right.

Here's the rundown on the women's National League for the football season:

- Chicago Stags. They started the year off with a bang, having played the men's National League in the Super Bowl.
- St. Louis Cardinals. They finished the season as the top team.
- Detroit Lions. Not as good as the Stags, but still a solid team.
- New York Giants. They struggled throughout the season.
- San Francisco 49ers. A surprise team that made it to the playoffs.

The season was notable for its parity, with no clear-cut favorites.

Football season has begun at SAU

One of the biggest stories of the past month is the women's National League football season. It has attracted a lot of attention from fans, and the games have been entertaining.

The season got off to a strong start with the Chicago Stags defeating the St. Louis Cardinals in the Super Bowl.

Where are my receivers?

Grant Walters looks for an open man during a football game on Monday. Northeast places what is called "Hawaiian" tackle for football. With these rules, for example, a player couldn't run the football into the end zone but rather he or she must throw the ball to a receiver in the end zone. Other rules dictate being able to make unlimited forward passes while running down the field.

School of music to perform 'Fiddler on the Roof'
Auditions being held in first week of November
By Kathy Corral

If you've always wanted to be a part of a musical, join the School of Music for auditions for 'Fiddler on the Roof'. The show will be directed by Dr. Robert Gurnsey, who will also be the musical director. Auditions for the three main roles (Tevye, Lazar Wolf, and Motel the Tailor) will be held on November 5 and 6. No previous acting experience is necessary, but you must be able to sing and dance.

The School of Music is proud to present this production, which will be performed in the new Performing Arts Center. The show will run from December 10 to 12, and tickets will be available at the box office and online.

Education profs harbor serious doubts about students' research findings
By Philip Winter

The new research project being conducted by education professors is raising serious doubts among students. The project, led by Dr. Elizabeth Smith, is examining the impact of technology on student learning. However, many professors are concerned about the quality of the research findings.

Dr. Smith's team has been gathering data for several months, using a variety of methods, including surveys, interviews, and focus groups. However, some professors are questioning the reliability of the data, and they are concerned about the potential implications for student learning.

The project is being funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation, and it is expected to last for two years. The results of the study will be presented at a conference in March.
We need to teach how to gain a personal relationship with Christ.

Most of us attending Southern Adventist University have been raised Seventh-day Adventists, educated in SDA schools, or from an SDA environment, so we are familiar with what’s expected of us in a Seventh-day Adventist culture. We know the rules and sins of our Church, it’s policies, standards, views, attitudes, practices, and beliefs. Overall, we possess a general knowledge of what is expected in being a Seventh-day Adventist individual—but that’s it, all that.

For those of us who were raised in the Church, we will remember the Sabbath school memory verses and the history that we were exposed to. Be advised, however, that most of us are novices when it comes to understanding who we are in Christ, what He did for us, and what our role is in the Church. Those of us who were raised in the Church, we understand what it means to be a Christian in Christ. However, what is expected of us in a Seventh-day Adventist culture is different than expected of us in a Church community. Therefore, in the beginning, we need to decide what it means to be a Seventh-day Adventist Christian

As we discuss, we need to be aware of the expectations of a Seventh-day Adventist culture. It is expected of us that we be a good Christian. It is expected of us that we live our lives according to the teachings of Christ. It is expected of us that we be a part of a Church community that is dedicated to the teachings of Christ. It is expected of us that we make a personal commitment to Christ. It is expected of us that we make a commitment to Christ's Church. It is expected of us that we make a commitment to the teachings of Christ. It is expected of us that we make a commitment to the teachings of Christ.

Take away the "No-go"

A student's psalm was sacrilegious

A student's psalm was sacrilegious. By the way, a student in my class who was growing up in a Church community, but was not raised in a Church community, was the first person to bring the issue to my attention. He was not raised in a Church community, but was brought up in a Church community.

Research scholars ignore 'Seinfeld'

minority theory

Teen mother of 'closet baby' deserves praise

The letter is the small story — when it happens, it’s a big story. Times change and the social scientists who focus on the smallest differences between people change their interests. What used to be considered a difference between a boy and a girl is now the subject of research. In the past, research may have focused on the differences between men and women. Now, social scientists are examining the differences between people of different races, religions, and sexual orientations.

Teen mother of ‘closet baby’ deserves praise

I think the letter suggests that there is a lack of appreciation for the teen mother who chooses to keep her pregnancy a secret. This lack of appreciation may stem from the perception that teen motherhood is a negative phenomenon. However, research has shown that many teen mothers do well in the long term and are able to provide for their children despite the challenges they face. It is important to recognize the resilience of these young women and their ability to navigate the complexities of motherhood. By ignoring ‘closet babies’ and the teen mothers who choose to keep their pregnancies secret, we may be overlooking a significant aspect of the teenage pregnancy landscape.
I hate bugs but don’t kill them on Sabbath

Bug-catching isn’t fun, but I don’t do it out of necessity. Normally for my own safety, I believe that I should avoid catching bugs. But some people don’t think so, and they want to be rid of bugs in their homes. They say that bugs are dangerous and that they should be killed. I understand where they are coming from, but I don’t agree with them.

I believe that bugs can be very helpful in some cases. For example, they can help control pests in crops and gardens. Also, they can be used as food by some people. I think that bugs can be used in a more positive way, rather than just being killed.

I believe that bugs should be handled with care and respect. They are living creatures and should be treated as such. I don’t believe that bugs should be killed out of a sense of convenience or fear.

How should we witness?

By Brad Phillips

I believe that we should witness in a way that is respectful and culturally sensitive. This means not just speaking in a loud voice or using a lot of fancy words, but also listening to others and respecting their beliefs. We should try to understand their perspective and be willing to listen to what they have to say. We should also be willing to give them time to think about what we are saying and not become too pushy or aggressive.

By Edith Adams

I believe that we should witness in a way that is consistent with our personal beliefs and values. This means being true to ourselves and not trying to force our beliefs on others. We should also be willing to learn from others and be open to new ideas.

2700 new churches built in Africa

Project part of joint operation with Global Mission

Metro News Network

Soweto, South Africa—October 21—Great progress toward building churches in Africa was reported Monday by a Global Mission official. The official said that 2700 new churches have been built in the region as part of a joint operation with the church in Africa.

"We have been working closely with the church in Africa to develop a plan for building new churches," said the official. "And we're pleased to report that we have been making significant progress in this area.

The churches are being built in different parts of Africa, and we believe they will be very beneficial to the communities in which they are located.

We believe that this is just the beginning of a new era for the church in Africa, and we look forward to continuing our work in this area.

Global Mission is a leading organization in the field of Christian mission work, and we are committed to helping the church in Africa to grow and thrive.

Relief continues for hurricane survivors

ADRA providing food and emergency relief in Mexico

Press Release: Mexico City, Mexico—October 21—ADRA Mexico is providing emergency relief to residents of Oaxaca, Mexico, following a recent hurricane.

The hurricane caused widespread damage in the state of Oaxaca, and ADRA is working to provide food and emergency relief to those affected.

"We are working tirelessly to help those affected by the hurricane," said RAFAEL GARCIA, ADRA Mexico director. "We are providing food and emergency relief to those in need, and we are working to ensure that those affected have the resources they need to recover.

We are grateful for the support of our donors, who have enabled us to provide relief to those affected by the hurricane.

More resources are being collected in the Central Conference to help the people in Oaxaca. There is a huge task to be completed."

Griffey wins MVP

Seattle Mariners outfielder Ken Griffey Jr., who carried 37 home runs and hit .325 all season, was named The Player of the Year from a poll of major league correspondents of the Associated Press. With 135 votes, Griffey easily won the award over San Francisco's Barry Bonds, third-place finisher, and two-time winner Larry Walker (117) and Mike McDermott (91).

Barkley charged with battery

Charles Barkley was arrested last week after a watchful night and charged with assault and battery with a weapon. The suspension, if upheld, could mean the end of his relationship with the Phoenix Suns, for whom the forward had been an integral part of the Suns' success.

Davis wins Clemente award

Major League Baseball announced that Milwaukee's Robin Yount, who was 1977's National League Most Valuable Player, has been named the 1997 Baseball Writers Association's Roberto Clemente award. The award is given annually to a player in the major leagues who is outstanding on the field and in the community. Yount is the third athlete to win the award, following Hank Aaron and Tony Gwynn.

Mack

Mack: Dear Dan, knowing your study habits I know what you feel like, maybe you should go by and talk to her for some suggestion. You just don't take advantage of the neat little folks that are out there giving you a hand. I know of a helpful little spot for you to stop at. Ask Miss Patterson in the Union Building.

Q. Dear Mack, I've got this problem. Every time I look at a character or friends online to get info, just to smell the flowers I end up getting extremely angry, nervous, agitated. I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO HERE!! Kind of response. What is with those strange websites? Help me through this stressful approach and stop back here at the Southern Accent.

Senate voted unanimously, winners get gift certificates

By Hans Olson

The student senate voted unanimously to adopt a student of the week program. The proposal was introduced by fourth-year senator Donal Dilworth ( `98).

This program allows students to write an essay on a person whom they feel is a credit to the university. Students have until Friday of each week to submit their essays to the senate, which will be voted on by the senate body.

The senate has also agreed to give the winners gift certificates for $20. The winners will be announced in the Student Voice.

Gym-Masters teach area kids gymnastics

Class held Mondays, Wednesdays between 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

By Dana Grade

Southern Athletic Excellence Gym Masters teaching kids got the VU. The gym was filled with kids ranging in age from 5 to 15 on a recent Monday and Wednesday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

While training, the gymnasts were taught the correct way to do everything, no matter what. "You can see the progress that they"re making," said one of the coaches.

Under the guidance of head coach, the kids were able to learn new skills and improve on old ones.

"We want to see them progress and improve," said the coach.

Despite the challenges, the kids were able to make it through the class with a smile on their face.

"It was a great day at the gym," said one of the parents.

The gym was open to the public, and any child who wanted to participate was welcome.

"We want to see more kids come and learn," said the coach.

The gym was well-equipped with various equipment for the gymnasts to use.

The coaches were all well-trained and experienced in the field of gymnastics.

"We are dedicated to teaching our kids the correct way to do things," said one of the coaches.

The gym was open to the public, and any child who wanted to participate was welcome.

"We want to see more kids come and learn," said the coach.

What should Community Service day be about?

Community Service Day. A fine idea for a school to do at a certain time of year. The idea is good, but we need to stop and think. Why? Because since the early 1950's, society has taken young people seriously and they have been taught to value the importance of community service. Community service has become an expected part of life for many young people. It is expected that they will engage in community service activities to give back to their communities and to help those in need. However, the question remains: what should Community Service day be about?

GeoF Greenway

Community Service day should not just be about doing a task for the sake of doing it. It should be about understanding the impact of what we are doing and the reasons behind it. It should be about thinking critically about the causes and effects of the problems we are trying to solve. It should be about understanding the needs of the people we are helping.

Jared Gore

Community Service day should be about more than just doing a task. It should be about building relationships and connections with others. It should be about learning from each other and sharing our experiences. It should be about recognizing the value of diversity and respecting different perspectives.

Ethan Smith

Community Service day should be about more than just doing a task. It should be about building relationships and connections with others. It should be about learning from each other and sharing our experiences. It should be about recognizing the value of diversity and respecting different perspectives.

Hope is truly very powerful

Hope is the very word that stops us from despair. It is the thought that provides us with the drive to see the world in a different way. It is the word that gives us courage and strength.

For example, you continue pursuing something, even though you are not sure if it will be successful. You keep going because you hope that it will work. That hope is what keeps you going.

Hope is the word that makes us feel good. It is the word that makes us feel hopeful. It is the word that makes us feel confident.

For example, you keep going to school even though you are not sure if you will pass the exam. You keep going because you hope that you will pass. That hope is what keeps you going.

Lupi's: Real pizza...an unreal place

Downtown pizza parlor provides more than just pizza

By Stephenie Swilley

10/13/19

Down in the bowels of Main Street it's far from the glare of the headlines. Behind the waxy exterior of an old, nondescript building is a treasure waiting for completion. Lupi's offers the promise of very fine pizza, and from its crowded and noisy counter, the food comes through.

Lupi's is the kind of place where you can sit down and enjoy a meal with the local piemakers. The staff is friendly and helpful, and the food is deliciously and perfectly prepared.

The pizza is made with fresh ingredients, and the dough is mixed in a special blend of flour, water, and salt. The sauce is made from a blend of tomatoes, garlic, and herbs. The cheese is imported from Italy, and the toppings are fresh and local.

Lupi's is a place where you can relax and enjoy a meal with friends or family. The atmosphere is warm and inviting, and the pizza is sure to leave you satisfied.

Lupi's is one of those places that you'll want to visit again and again. The food is consistently good, and the staff is always friendly and helpful. So next time you're in the mood for a great meal, head over to Lupi's.

Sunset Rock and Lookout Mountain cleaned by students

By Edie Nunn
Managing Editor

The walls of Sunset Rock and Lookout Mountain were cleaned up and modified by more than 600 students and faculty members during Community Service Day.

Students helped remove tons of brush, plants and mountain goats. The work was done to address the problem of overgrown vegetation.

"If I like to help out keeping Sunset Rock a nice place to enjoy the outdoors," said Joel Guldin, junior business major.

For some students, cleaning up Sunset Mountain was a laborious task. "It was hard to get the brush down," said Mike Miller, a junior computer science major. "But we got it done.

The park is one of the city's natural treasures. "It's a place to get away from the hustle and bustle of the city," said Miller.

"I like to help out keeping Sunset Rock a nice place to enjoy the outdoors," said Joel Guldin, junior business major.

Community Service Day a success

By Sarah Coss
Assistant Editor

It's easy to know what to do when things go wrong. It's hard to know what to do when things go right. Community Service Day was a success for the students who participated.

The day started at 8 a.m. with a meeting at the Student Center. Students were divided into groups and assigned tasks.

One group worked on cleaning up the park area around the Student Center. They removed trash and debris and worked hard to make the area look its best.

Another group worked on cleaning up the Lookout Mountain area. They removed vegetation and helped to make the area more accessible to the public.

Students were happy with the results of their hard work.

"I'm really happy. Today has been a great day for all of us," said Sarah Brown, a senior psychology major. "I can't believe how much we accomplished."

The students were also grateful for the support they received from the community.

"The community really came together and helped us make this day a success," said Brown.

The students were able to clean up the park and Lookout Mountain thanks to the hard work of the community. The day was a great success for everyone involved.

"We're grateful for the support we received," said Brown. "It was a great day for all of us."

The students are already planning for next year's Community Service Day. They hope to continue to make a positive impact on their community.

Lanes, Pains, and Automobiles

Adventures unknown. Do you just know these from posters somewhere? That's what I did. I read a poster that said "Landslide, rain, and mudslides," and then I read it again, just to make sure. I thought it was funny, and so did everyone else in the room.

Later, I was walking down the road, and I saw a sign that said "Humor". It was funny, I thought, and I decided to see what was so funny.

So I went into the store, and I saw a book called "SouthernAccent". It was by Rick Seidel, a humor writer.

I bought the book, and I started reading it. It was funny, and I couldn't put it down. I decided to write a review of it, and here it is:

Rick Seidel

"Humor" is a book about southern humor, and it's written by Rick Seidel. He's a humor writer, and he's known for his southern accent.

The book is divided into sections, each with a different theme. The first section is about humor and the south, and it's all about the funny things that happen in the south.

The next section is about humor and the south's history, and it's all about the funny things that happened in the south's history.

The next section is about humor and the south's culture, and it's all about the funny things that happen in the south's culture.

The next section is about humor and the south's sports, and it's all about the funny things that happen in the south's sports.

I really enjoyed reading the book, and I think you will too. It's full of funny stories, and it's written in a way that makes you laugh.

If you're looking for a book that will make you laugh, I would definitely recommend "Humor". It's a book that I will definitely read again, and I would definitely recommend it to anyone who's looking for a good laugh.

Ask Mack...

Mack: Well, let me say that girls who try to be mean to the history of a guy's "who you not like," but try getting the money, information might be worth your while. When you get it, get together, if it get you in the end. Let's get going, it might be worth your while. But if you get it, you will to take your money, and it's going to be worth your while. That's the best. You know, like this. You, like this. Right...

Vice presidential search nears end

Six candidates top list for VP for Advancement, narrowing to three

By Sojia Dasten

The search for a new vice president for advancement will narrow this week to five, the end of the selection process, said Dr. Reuven, president. Reuven said four candidates have been interviewed, and the fifth will be on campus later this month.

"We are looking for someone who is a true leader," said Reuven. "A true leader, someone with good management skills, and someone who is able to provide the leadership that the university needs." Reuven said the fifth candidate will be on campus later this month.

The position is the top job, according to Reuven. "It is the top job, and the candidate will have a lot of responsibility," he said.

Former history professor, library volunteer died at home

By Garrett Nudd

Dr. Jerome Clark, professor emeritus of history and English at Southern Adventist University, died at his home on Saturday, November 13. He was 69.

Clark served as a history professor and library volunteer at SAU for more than 40 years. He was well-respected by his students and colleagues.

"He was a great teacher," said Dr. John Smith, a colleague of Clark's. "He was always willing to help his students and his colleagues. He was a wonderful person."

Adventist Church commission makes recommendations on human sexuality issues

By Jonathan Gallagher

Silver Spring, Maryland — The World Health Organization (WHO) on Monday named 254 new viruses as “novel” as part of its efforts to combat the latest outbreak of the coronavirus. The list includes the coronavirus, which has been linked to several cases of pneumonia in China.

Recommendations from the commission, released at the WHO’s annual meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, include:

The commission recommends that governments:

1. Establish a minimum age for marriage as 15 years for girls and 18 years for boys, and strengthen and enforce that age requirement.
2. Ensure the right to sexual and reproductive health for all.
3. Eliminate all forms of gender-based violence.
4. Increase funding for education, health and social services to improve reproductive health.

Recent conclusions from the commission:

The commission has called on governments to ensure that all women have access to safe, legal and affordable abortion services.

The commission has recommended that governments provide comprehensive sexuality education and training for health workers.

The commission has called for global action to prevent and respond to the HIV epidemic.

The commission has called on governments to ensure that all women have access to reproductive health services, including contraception.

“The commission continues to support governments in their efforts to eliminate discrimination on the basis of gender identity and sexual orientation,” the commission said. “We also encourage governments to work towards the elimination of all forms of discrimination against women and girls.”

A strong stance on the important issues

It offers hope back to the American that we really do two things—go on and go on. This country starts to look like something to hold and protect. It holds its own. It holds its ground. It holds its ground. What about it? What about all of these factors? What about our nation, our home, our family? The American people do not have a right to be silent when we fail to take care of them. They are ready to fight. They are ready to fight. They are ready to fight.

We would like to assure that we are not being negative in our editorial stance. We do not want to bring any stormy weather that may come for the students. Are we being negative for putting out information that is not in the best interest of the students and the community? What about our nation, our home, our family? The American people do not have a right to be silent when we fail to take care of them. They are ready to fight. They are ready to fight. They are ready to fight.

In this we are bound to offend some of our readers and we are

According to the Editor-in-Chief of the Southern Accent, Robert K. McCutchan, the Southern Accent supports the University of Connecticut's decision to use "The Choice of Which Book to Use in the Columns of the Campus." He states that although the book may be revisionist, he believes it is a choice that should be made by the students, as it relates to their own personal experiences.

Robert Hamilton provides a critical perspective on the impact of war and the ways it affects individuals and communities. He discusses the role of media in shaping public opinion and the need for a critical examination of historical events.

One of the few images to capture the devastating effects of war is the one below. It shows a field of emptiness, symbolizing the loss of human lives and the impact of war on society.

I spend a lot of time thinking about the universe and what it means to be human. But despite all my efforts, I feel like I'm still searching for the answer. Perhaps, there is no answer. Perhaps, we are all just a small part of a much larger whole.

Do you think this is all? And if so, why are we here? Do we exist just to survive, or is there something more to life? Is there a purpose to it all?

I don't know. But for now, I'm just going to keep on searching for answers. And maybe, just maybe, someday I'll find them.

You are an alien? For some reason, I feel like I should know how many of you are out there. The evidence is all around us, in the stars, in the galaxies. Perhaps we are not alone. Perhaps we are not even alone in the universe.

The story is set in the year 2025, where humanity has made significant strides in space exploration. The protagonist, a young scientist, discovers a strange signal coming from a distant planet. The signal contains intelligence, and it is up to him to uncover its origins.

I went to see the movie Contact the other day. The film is the story of a scientist who is searching for life on other planets. While searching for radio signals, she discovers a signal from another civilization. People from around the world believe that the signal is an approach by an alien craft. The story involves her trying to contact the aliens, her father's death, and the realization that the signal is a mathematical code.

Hang-gliding from Lookout Mountain provides picturesque view

By Jill Johnson  Reader's Report

Hang-gliding is a very exciting sport. It is great fun to fly as a hang-glider. There are many beautiful places where you can hang-glide, but I think the best place is from Lookout Mountain.

When I hang-glide with my friend, we start at the base of Lookout Mountain. We then go to the top of the mountain and hang-glide down. It is a very beautiful and exciting experience.

I think my first flight was the most exciting. We started at the top of the mountain and hang-glide down to the base. It was a beautiful and exciting experience.

Jack River Falls: A perfect for day or weekend hike

By Tony Barkley

Outdoor Focus

Jack River Falls is a perfect destination for a day or weekend hike. The falls are located in the Jack River Valley, and there is plenty to see and do. The hike is about 6 miles long, and it is rated as moderate difficulty.

Snowboarding can be a dream come true

By Chris James
Special to the News

I was sitting on the couch last night, flipping through the channels on the TV, when I saw a snowboarding commercial. It was like a dream come true.

I have always been fascinated by snowboarding. The way the riders glide effortlessly down the slope, looking like they are flying. It's all so beautiful and so...snowy.

I couldn't help but wonder what it would be like to be out there, in the cold, with the wind in my face. What it would be like to be a part of that world.

But I know that I can't just quit my job and pack my bags. I have responsibilities, people to support me. It's not that easy.

But I can't help but dream. Dream about the thrill of the snow, the rush of the wind. Dream about the adventure, the thrill of the unknown.

Snowboarding can be a dream come true. But it's also a dream that I know I can't have. Not yet, at least.

Tips for the Novice:

1. Start easy. Rent a new board each day so you can get the feel of it.
2. Never, ever, ever get a false hope. You need someone to help you get your balance. It's not easy, but it's worth it.
3. Get with someone who knows how to guide you. That person can be a mentor or a guide. It's important to have someone to help you through.

Review: Arena Paintball

Located in the old theaters at East Gate Mall

Outstanding paintball is great, but nothing can touch indoor paintball. It's exhilarating, and not too scary. $10 gets you in the field for a full hour, and $5 gets you a set of paintball. If you don't have all the equipment (goggles, pads, etc.), they'll rent it to you for $10. Monday through Friday you have to call 355-5077 and make reservations. On Saturdays (grand opening) it's 15.

Los Angeles bids for 2012 Olympics

Two deadlines for Los Angeles launched a new round of competition, as the city is trying to win the right to host the 2012 Olympic Games. The city has until Nov. 30 to submit a letter of intent to the International Olympic Committee. The city is then expected to be invited to present a bid proposal in January.

Los Angeles is one of 15 cities that have submitted letters of interest for the 2012 Games.

Arizona starts season on top

The Arizona Wildcats, who finished the 2002 season ranked No. 1 in the AP and Coaches polls, have started the 2003 season ranked No. 1 in both polls. The Wildcats defeated UCLA 8-5 on Saturday and are now 2-0 on the season.

Judge throws out lawsuit against NFL

A federal judge threw out the lawsuit filed by former NFL player Charlie Joiner against the NFL and the San Francisco 49ers.

Judge Richard M. Matsch of the U.S. District Court in Denver dismissed the lawsuit, saying that Joiner's claim that he was defrauded by the NFL and the 49ers was meritless.

Joiner had alleged that he was defrauded by the NFL and the 49ers in the mid-1980s when he was a player for the team.

Team USA going to France

Team USA will participate in the 1997 World Cup in France.

The team will be led by head coach Tom Sermonti, who will be joined by assistant coaches Mike Ryan, Tim Bogert and Steve Hays. The team will play its first match against Italy on June 4.

What NOT to say to the Badged-One

By Rick Seidel

Badged-One is a term that refers to a law enforcement officer. The article provides advice on what not to say to such an individual to avoid offending them.

1. Don't ask if they're single.
2. Don't ask if they're good-looking.
3. Don't ask if they're married.
4. Don't ask if they're religious.

Clinton says he wants peaceful solution to Iraq dispute

Washington, Nov. 17— President Clinton may be working on a peaceful solution to the dispute with Iraq that led to the Persian Gulf War.

The president is expected to meet with his national security team to discuss the possibility of a negotiated settlement, according to a White House official.

Clinton said he wants a peaceful solution to the Iraq dispute.

Autumn leaves inspire artwork on display in Brock Hall gallery

By Darla Edwards

Thanks for your email about the autumn leaves, which I appreciate. It's such a beautiful time of year. I hope you're enjoying the fall season as much as I am.

When I think of autumn, I often think of the colors and the crisp air. It's a time for reflection and a chance to slow down and appreciate the beauty around us.

I agree that the leaves on display in Brock Hall are lovely. I'm glad you were able to see them in person. It's always special to see art on display and to feel the energy and excitement it brings.

Thank you for taking the time to write. I appreciate your thoughts and comments. Let me know if you have any other ideas or suggestions. I'd love to hear from you again soon.

Warm regards,
Darla Edwards

People do really care

I do not attend Swarthmore University, but my stepfather is a professor there and has told me many times about the community there. I know that there are always people who are willing to help others and are compassionate.

I would like to inform you that, as a matter of fact, many students do not take their studies lightly. For instance, if a professor sets high standards, most students try to meet these standards. Even if a student is not the best in the class, they still work hard to achieve the best they can.

Most students do care, and I am sure that they would help you if they had the opportunity. When a friend of mine was struggling with a difficult problem, one of his classmates offered to help him and even spent extra time explaining the concept to him.

I hope that these facts will help you understand that Swarthmore University is a place where people do really care for each other. Please give the students a chance to prove this to you.

Sincerely,

Comments on the student voice

The student voice is a great addition to our school. It allows students to express their opinions and share their thoughts on various topics.

However, I would like to suggest that the student voice should focus more on campus events and activities. Currently, the student voice seems to be more focused on student concerns and current events.

I think that including more content related to campus events and activities would make the student voice more enjoyable to read and more relevant to the student body.

Defence in chocolate

In response to the letter by Mr. Brown, I would like to add that chocolate is not just a sweet treat, but also a source of protection.

According to research, dark chocolate contains antioxidants that can help protect the heart and reduce the risk of certain diseases. Chocolate also contains caffeine, which can improve brain function and increase alertness.

In conclusion, chocolate has many benefits for both physical and mental health. So, the next time you enjoy a piece of chocolate, remember that it can do more than just satisfy your sweet tooth.

Student of the week clarification

The student of the week was accurately selected based on their academic achievements and extracurricular activities.

However, I would like to clarify that the student of the week was chosen for their overall contribution to the school community, not just for academic excellence.

Student voice

The student voice is one of the most important aspects of a university. It allows students to share their thoughts and opinions on various topics, which can help shape the direction of the institution.

I would like to commend the student voice for its dedication to providing a platform for students to express their opinions. It is important to have a voice in the decision-making process of the university, and the student voice helps to ensure that students' perspectives are heard.

Michael English returns to the Christian music world

By Fred Phillips

Christian Music

This year was no fluke. That's becoming clear, even in the early stages, for Michael English. As he begins work on his new album, English is already in demand. The success of his last album, "The Voice of Love," has led to an increased fan base and a growing reputation as a leading artist in Christian music. English has become a familiar name in the industry, and his music has a distinct appeal to a wide range of listeners. His ability to connect with people through his singing and songwriting has made him a favorite among fans. English's music is known for its emotional depth and its ability to touch the heart.

"It was incredible," said English, reflecting on the success of his previous album. "It's been a great experience so far." English's music is characterized by its honesty and sincerity, which many listeners find relatable. He has a talent for writing songs that speak to a variety of experiences and emotions, making his music accessible and meaningful to a broad audience.

"Christian music is such a wonderful ministry." -LORRELL BAUCK, assistant professor of music at Trinity Christian College.

"I never thought English would become such a popular figure in the Christian music world. He has a unique voice and a genuine passion for his faith." -WALTER HAFNER, president of Trinity Christian College.

Your Student Association wishes you a very happy Thanksgiving! Drive safely and we will see you in December.
The best of the rest: Part I

A majority of the premier college football players donned the black and gold in 1989. And why not? Since the 1985-86 season, when the black and gold tandem emerged victorious from the Sugar Bowl, there’s been plenty of evidence to suggest running backs for LSU aren’t just a novelty. In fact, the entire nation’s starting running backs in the Sugar Bowl will be LSU’s. This season’s Sugar Bowl, which features the Black and Gold against defending national champions the Miami Hurricanes, will be the first Sugar Bowl in which LSU has participated since 1985. The game is sure to be one of the highlights of the college football season, and LSU fans are excited for the opportunity to witness their team face one of the nation’s best.

The LSU football team has been recognized as one of the top college football programs in the nation, and they continue to attract top talent from across the country. With a strong tradition of excellence on the football field, LSU fans have reason to be optimistic about their team’s prospects for the upcoming season. The Sugar Bowl is sure to be a thrilling game, with fans from across the country tuning in to watch LSU take on the defending national champions. This is sure to be a game that fans won’t want to miss, and LSU fans are excited to see their team compete on the biggest stage of the college football season.

Pereira’s cancer in remission doctors are optimistic, expect recovery within three years

By Howard Kester
After going through cancer remission treatment, Dr. William Pereira is looking towards the future. Pereira, who was diagnosed with cancer in 1993, went through various treatments including chemotherapy and radiation therapy. The treatments were successful in reducing the size of the tumors, but Pereira continued to have regular check-ups. Pereira was recently given the all-clear by his doctors, and he is now optimistic about his recovery. "I feel great," said Pereira. "I'm ready to move on with my life and enjoy the future." Pereira is currently focusing on his work and family. He plans to continue his work as a doctor and hopes to return to his normal life soon. "I want to be able to spend more time with my family and enjoy the simple things in life," said Pereira. "I'm grateful for the support of my family and friends during this difficult time." Pereira's story is a reminder that with hope and determination, recovery is possible. "I'm grateful for the support of my family and friends during this difficult time," said Pereira. Mid-term aboliishment being rethought by faculty senate

By Misah Olson
Staff Columnist

Faculty Senate voted Monday to rescind their decision to shelve mid-term aboliishment and the Senate is now considering a resolution to bring mid-term aboliishment back to campus. The resolution will be voted on during the next Senate meeting.

The decision to shelve mid-term aboliishment was made during a Senate meeting held last week. The Senate voted 12-5 to shelve mid-term aboliishment for the semester.

The resolution to bring mid-term aboliishment back to campus was introduced by Senator David Johnson, a member of the Senate's Committee on Faculty Affairs.

Johnson said he was concerned about the future of the mid-term aboliishment program and wanted to ensure that it remained a viable option for faculty.

"The mid-term aboliishment program is an important part of our university's commitment to providing quality education," Johnson said. "It is important that we continue to support this program and ensure that it is available to all faculty members who wish to participate."
The Art and Sociology departments sponsor tour to NYC

By Jennifer Artigas

Our department sponsored a trip to New York City for students majoring in Sociology and Art. The trip was organized by the Art and Sociology departments in collaboration with the Education department. The tour included visits to various museums and galleries, allowing students to gain a deeper understanding of the art and culture of New York City. The trip was open to all students majoring in Sociology and Art, and it was a great opportunity to explore the city and its rich artistic heritage.

Students and faculty alike were excited about the opportunity to see some of the most famous works of art in the world. The tour included visits to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Brooklyn Museum, and the Guggenheim Museum, among others. The students were able to see paintings by famous artists such as Van Gogh, Matisse, and Picasso, and they also had the chance to visit some of the city's most famous landmarks, such as the Statue of Liberty and Central Park.

The tour was a great success, and it was well-received by both students and faculty. The students were able to gain a deeper understanding of the art and culture of New York City, and they were inspired to continue their studies in this field. The tour was a great opportunity to see some of the most famous works of art in the world, and it was a great way to end the academic year.

Upcoming WSMC Christmas specials

The news of Christmas specials has become a tradition at WSMC. Many shows are announced, and people get excited for them. Station manager Gerald Podl said, “A lot of our listeners call all day and ask about their favorite specials, and whether it is going to be aired again.” Following is a guide to these specials and when they will be aired.

Carols for Christmas

Airs: Tues. Dec. 23, 2 & 8 p.m.

A program focusing on English carols, and readings that trace the story of Christ’s arrival in Bethlehem and the events that followed. The Christmas Revels perform traditional carols and songs, in a new arrangement.

Christmas with the Philadelphia Singers

Air: Thurs. Dec. 18, 2 & 8 p.m.

“Messiah.”

Echoes of Christmas

Air: Wed. Dec. 24, 2 & 8 p.m.

Echoes of Christmas is the annual holiday concert of the Dale Warland Singers. A new capital program is recorded in the Chapel of the Nativity, in St. Paul, Minnesota. It will feature traditional carols in new arrangements.

Home for the Holidays

Air: Wed. Dec. 17, 2 & 8 p.m.

Home for the Holidays marks the Christmas season with instrumental arrangements of favorite carols, performed by the Elna-BO. The program also presents some American, among their memories of holidays past.

A Star in the East

Air: Dec. 16, 2 & 7 & 8 p.m.

A musical Hungarian Christmas celebration. This program is sung in Latin and Hungarian with English introductions and interviews.

A Tree the Feasible Christmas special

Air: Mon. Dec. 12, 8 & 2 p.m.

This program features seasonal spoken word and musical performances from a variety of ethnic and religious faiths.

It’s a Wonderful Christmas

Air: Christmas Day, 10 a.m. & 2 p.m.

Andrew Williams reads Philip Van Doren Stern’s “It’s a Wonderful Life,” and Jimmy and Donna Reed sing.

As you can see, the program runs from the very traditional to the eclectic and contemporary.

Other programs have been subscribed to, but haven’t been given air dates. Call WSMC

Take some time to focus on true meaning of Christmas

We take pleasure in announcing that prominently displayed in the waiting area of the corner store is a very special Santa Claus who is giving away Christmas gifts! For the price of a dime, you can get a pair of mittens, a hitime clock, or a health and beauty aid. For the price of a quarter, you can get a pair of socks. For the price of a half dollar, you can get a pair of gloves.

‘Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus’

Southern accent lake some time to focus on the true meaning of Christmas.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus’

Merriam-Webster’s Dictionary

Joyous, kind, or benevolent.

Tips for selecting and caring for real Christmas trees

Facts

1. "Cheery, sparkly Christmas tree is a staple for the whole family to enjoy in the days leading up to Christmas. This is a fun and festive way to bring in the holiday season with your family."

2. "Many people think of Christmas trees as a natural decoration, but they also serve an important role in cultural and religious ceremonies."

3. "Real Christmas trees are healthy and environmentally friendly. They are a renewable resource, meaning that they can be harvested sustainably and replaced for future generations."

4. "Real Christmas trees come in a variety of shapes and sizes, allowing you to choose one that best fits your space and style."

5. "Real Christmas trees have a unique smell that is often described as sweet or pine-like. This smell can be a pleasant reminder of the holiday season."

6. "Real Christmas trees have a shorter lifespan compared to artificial trees, but this can be offset by the joy and satisfaction they bring to your home during the holiday season."

7. "Real Christmas trees are more cost-effective in the long run, as they can be purchased for a one-time investment and enjoyed for multiple years."

8. "Real Christmas trees offer the opportunity for a sustainable holiday tradition, as you can purchase a tree from a tree farm or a community tree lot, and then plant it as a living Christmas tree in your yard."

Selecting the Perfect Real Christmas Tree

1. "When selecting a real Christmas tree, look for one that is fresh and fragrant."

2. "Choose a tree that is well-cared for and has a fresh pine smell."

3. "Select a tree that has a straight trunk and is of medium height, depending on your space."

4. "Choose a tree with a large, healthy branch spread and good needle density."

5. "Select a tree that is free from breaks, blemishes, and damage."

6. "Choose a tree that has a sturdy, straight trunk and a good branch spread."

7. "Select a tree that is well-cared for and has a fresh pine smell."

8. "Choose a tree that has a large, healthy branch spread and good needle density."

9. "Select a tree that is free from breaks, blemishes, and damage."

10. "Choose a tree that has a sturdy, straight trunk and a good branch spread."

Caring for Your Real Christmas Tree

1. "Once you have selected your real Christmas tree, it is important to care for it properly to ensure its longevity and freshness."

2. "Real Christmas trees require regular watering and care to maintain their health and appearance."

3. "Use a tree stand with an attached water reservoir to provide continuous moisture to the tree roots."

4. "Cut the bottom of the tree trunk at an angle to increase the surface area for water absorption."

5. "Trim the lower branches and remove any dead or damaged needles to promote air circulation and prevent disease."

6. "Place the tree away from direct sunlight, drafts, and heat sources to prevent excessive drying and needle loss."

7. "Keep the tree trimmings and other holiday decorations nearby for easy access and convenience."

8. "Remove the tree stand and replace it with fresh water every day to ensure the tree remains fresh and healthy."

9. "Continue to check the tree moisture level and adjust as needed to maintain the best possible condition."

10. "Disassemble the tree after the holiday season and store it properly to ensure its longevity for future use."

Magic toy with idea of trading Hardaway

By Larry Guest

The Orlando Sentinel

If you need a last-minute present to get your son or daughter through the holiday shopping season, here’s a suggestion. Walk up to your favorite Orlando toy store and tell the salesperson you’re looking for a toy that’s different from the rest. Maybe you’ll get something unique that will make your child say, “Wow!”

PROGRESS MADE TOWARD REALIZING VISION

The first President of the South Carolina University System, Dr.
Johnston, announced today that his administration has made progress toward realizing the vision of the sea level rise study that was undertaken by the South Carolina Sea Level Rise Commission
in 2016.

The study, which examined the potential impacts of sea level rise on South Carolina's infrastructure and economy, concluded that the state's infrastructure and economy are vulnerable to sea level rise and that the state needs to prepare for the impacts of climate change.

The administration has already taken steps to address climate change, including:

- Developing a climate change action plan
- Increasing the use of renewable energy
- Implementing green building standards

These actions are expected to reduce the state's carbon footprint and help mitigate the impacts of climate change.

School of Education not forced to renew accreditation

The article headlined "Schools Department Frustrated over Accreditation" was wildly inaccurate. Your newspaper is eager to play dirty politics and sensationalism with respect to matters of education. The School of Education at Southern does not have to renew its accreditation at the turn of the year. Although an inspection was conducted by the State of Tennessee, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (NCATE), and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (SACS), the accreditation process is ongoing.

For 30 years, SAS's annual review process has been in place to ensure that each of the five Southern schools maintain high standards. Today, the School of Education at Southern has been granted another 5 years to renew its accreditation. This is the same length of time as that given to all other accredited schools.

A few years hence, we do not believe that the current administra-tion would be re-elected if the school was not accredited. Our school is self-sustaining and should be allowed to continue its normal operations. After all, we have been accredited for 30 years and we are not about to be denied this recognition.

I have just read the report of the Board of Education for the year 2010. It is very pleasing to see the progress that has been made in the past year. I am proud of the work that has been done and I look forward to seeing even more improvements in the future.

The Board of Education has made a lot of progress in the past year. I am very pleased with the results and I am confident that we will continue to make progress in the future.

Thank you for your hard work and dedication.

An open letter to SAU students

I am writing as the Treasurer of the Student Senate. I have been reading, hearing, and seeing reports of diversity, potential changes, and many other issues. The Student Senate would like to extend its support to our students and faculty in these difficult times.

We are concerned about the potential changes that could affect our community. It is our hope that these changes will not affect our ability to provide a quality education for all students. We believe that diversity is essential to our academic community and that it is important to maintain a diverse and inclusive environment.

We would like to remind everyone that the Student Senate has a role in these discussions. We are willing to listen to everyone’s concerns and work together to find solutions.

Thank you for your continued support of the Student Senate and the University.

Sincerely,
Treasurer

Some are lacking in basic social skills

Lords, my thesis is that if you don't know what to ask, you don't know what to look for. You need to observe people, and then you can either use this information as a social security blanket, or you can actually ask them a question. But if you don't look, you can't do it.

The Titanic is masterfully resurrected in James Cameron's epic film of the 1912 disaster

By Jason Garvey

The film is a triumph of technology, with stunning visual effects and a powerful soundtrack. It tells the story of the ill-fated voyage of the RMS Titanic, which sank on its maiden voyage in 1912. The film is based on the book by the same name by Walter Lord, and it stars Leonardo DiCaprio as Jack Dawson, Kate Winslet as Rose DeWitt Bukater, and Bill Paxton as the ship's captain, Isidor Straus.

The film opens with a prologue set in 1997, in which a group of scientists led by genius oceanographer Dr. Robert Ballard discovers the sunken Titanic. They then set out to rescue the bodies of the passengers on board, and the story unfolds as they first encounter the ship and then try to rescue the bodies.

SANTA IN THE OFF SEASON

Here we go on the xmas of '94. And Christmas - had a marveled, indig- uenting year, bustling to the cool jolly mirth of our marks. But in this arena of pamphlet beholders, with the advent of the xmas, everyone becomes popular. Santa has worked until emotionally and physically weary. Now he's taming to a Gyn-Masam, squirming down this treacherous earth, preparing to fill his hearts with the joy of giving them gifts. This year, for the loves of all xmas, he's giving it to a theme. The child in the cleft of all xmas' hollers making it to a theme. This year, with the advent of all xmas' hollers making it to a theme. This year, this very week, the xmas of all xmas' hollers making it to a theme. This year, this very week, the xmas of all xmas' hollers making it to a theme.

The college year is filled with students who are not only interested in their work but also in social activities. This year's freshman class is no different. There are many things to be learned and experienced by the sorority sisters. These last year, 25 percent of the freshmen are female. Many of these women are involved in sororities and clubs. The percentage of female students is expected to grow this year. One of the reasons for this increase is the strong female leadership in the Southern News. Females in the writing positions of the newspaper are expected to increase this year. While the percentage of female students is expected to grow, the percentage of male students is expected to remain constant.

School of music held annual pops concert Sat. night.

Dr. Ollie Gilbert, director of the Symphony Orchestra, led the orchestra in a high level of performance, as he prepared himself and his orchestra to perform. We have a very talented group of SA members.

The success can be attributed to the great job done by the SA members, who have a passion for music and who are willing to make sacrifices to make the orchestra successful.

The orchestra held an annual pops concert on Saturday night, which was attended by a large audience. The performance was excellent, and the audience was delighted.

The concert was held in the School of Music, and it was a wonderful experience for all who attended.

The next pops concert will be held later this year, and we encourage everyone to attend and enjoy the music.

Wacky winter Olympics and Gong show part of social

By Kaile Conrad

All students were invited to the annual winter party at the Student Activities Center on Saturday night.

The party featured a variety of activities, including the Wacky winter Olympics, which included games such as the luge race, the snowball fight, and the snowman building contest.

There were also two Gong shows, which were the highlight of the evening.

The first Gong show featured a variety of instruments, including the gong, the bell, and the tam-tam.

The second Gong show was even more impressive, with a variety of sounds and rhythms that filled the room.

The party was a great success, and everyone had a great time. We look forward to next year's winter party, which promises to be even better!

Preventing skiing injuries begins weeks before the trip
Getting in shape with a proper exercise program is key to preventing injury

By Denise W. Gang

"Prevent first, and that means ski season. Don't forgo your pre-season preparation for just a few days off, because the injuries that plague skiers every year are typically caused by overtraining. You can prevent many injuries if you plan your skiing season correctly. Whenever you are booking up to New England or out west to Colorado, it is a good time to prepare for the ski season. You need to spend a little time building up your leg strength and stamina in order to be able to ski well for long periods of time."

Shaped skis dominate market

"Rogers, chopped platforms! There are only a few of them around, but it's good to know they are available. People who have been injured before are very sensitive to this kind of injury, and it is something you just don't want to happen again. That's why I recommend the Rogers chopped plates."

Mountaineers have been using mountain bikes to explore the rugged terrain of Signal Mountain, nestled in the St. John's River valley. The rugged trails offer challenging terrain that is perfect for experienced bikers. The mountain bikes, while not as common as their road counterparts, have gained popularity due to their durability and ability to handle the rough terrain. The trails are well-maintained and offer a variety of difficulty levels, making them ideal for both beginners and experienced riders. The mountain biking community in St. John's is growing, and more and more people are discovering the benefits of exploring the great outdoors on two wheels.

Study: In-line skating better aerobic exercise than running, cycling

By Jason Guyer

A recent study found that in-line skating is a better aerobic exercise than running or cycling. The study compared the cardiovascular fitness of individuals performing these activities and found that in-line skating was more effective in improving aerobic capacity. The subjects in the study performed a standardized exercise protocol for each activity and their cardiovascular responses were measured. The results showed that in-line skating elicited a higher heart rate and oxygen uptake, indicating better aerobic fitness. This finding has implications for individuals looking to improve their aerobic fitness through exercise, as in-line skating may be a more effective option compared to running or cycling.

Anna DeLazzaro reports that Friday was passed too quickly, as play in the A.L. has ended. The American League’s Jackie Jensen and Wayne Gandy both had near-perfect hitting seasons in 1992. The World Series between the Montreal Expos and the Montreal Expos was all but a one-sided affair. As the teams have only to play their first game today, the series may well continue until September 1993, in just a few weeks. The game was a four-run lead by Montreal, the best team in the Western Division of the A.L.

These jeopardize impartial chances

Many of these players wereヴィリーパレード who were unable to compete due to injury. The Montreal Expos and the San Diego Padres were the only two teams that had a player score a home run in the 1992 season. In total, 53 men scored a home run in the regular season, including 16 from the Montreal Expos.

Today is the forty-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg. The battle, which took place over three days from July 1 to July 3, 1863, was a turning point in the American Civil War. It was fought between the Union Army of the Potomac, commanded by Major General George G. Meade, and the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, commanded by General Robert E. Lee. The battle resulted in a Union victory, which helped to turn the tide of the war in favor of the Union. The battle is remembered for its brutality and the high number of casualties, with an estimated total of 51,000 soldiers killed, wounded, or missing. The site of the battle is now a national military park, preserving the landscape and commemorating the sacrifices of those who fought there. Today, GETTYSBURG is celebrated as a symbol of sacrifice and the beginning of the end for the Confederacy. The battle has inspired countless monuments, museums, and educational programs, ensuring that the story of this crucial battle is preserved for future generations.
Student leaders find themselves under paid

The Accent provides a platform for students, faculty, and staff to express their views. The Accent is a forum for the exchange of ideas, promoting a healthy and open-minded campus culture. The newspaper is produced by a team of dedicated student journalists and advisors, guided by the principles of journalism ethics and freedom of expression.
Health care opportunities presented to students
Annual health career fair gives students chance to network

Last Thursday's health fair, held on campus, gave the students an opportunity to meet with representatives from local health care providers and learn about the various health-related careers available.

The fair was organized by the Health Career Fair Planning Committee, which is comprised of students from various health-related fields.

The fair featured representatives from hospitals, insurance companies, and health care organizations, who provided information on job opportunities, education requirements, and career paths.

Students were able to ask questions and network with professionals in the field, which provided them with valuable insights and guidance for their future careers.

Many students expressed interest in pursuing careers in health care and appreciated the opportunity to learn more about the different options available.

Television sets in dorms

The use of television sets in dorm rooms here at Southern is expected to be allowed as early as February. This decision was made by the president, accumulating the use of television sets may benefit the atmosphere as well as realign the schedule of daily activities.

Every resident has a right to watch television in the dorms. However, many students believe that dorms are a place for studying and relaxing. The presence of television sets in dorms would disrupt the peaceful environment.

I'm average

By Thomas D. Martin

It's not every day that something truly noteworthy happens to me. I am, after all, just an average person. And yet, this morning, while walking to work,
I realized something about myself that I had never noticed before.

I had just stepped off the bus and was making my way to the office when I noticed a peculiar sound coming from the nearby park. At first, I thought it must be the birds chirping, but then I realized that the sound was coming from the people inside the park. I changed my course and walked over to see what was going on.

As I approached, I saw a group of people standing around a bench. They were all talking excitedly and laughing. I could hear one of them say, "It's unbelievable!" And then another one replied, "I know, right?" I was intrigued and decided to join them.

I sat down on the bench and listened as they shared their stories and experiences. They told me about the first time they had met their best friend, the time they got their first job, and even the time they first fell in love. I was touched by their stories and realized that even the most ordinary moments can be extraordinary.

It dawned on me that I had never truly appreciated the beauty of everyday life. I had been too focused on my own problems and concerns, but now I saw that there was something special in everyone's daily routine. I realized that I was no different from the people around me.

The experience left me feeling more connected to my fellow humans. I felt grateful for the opportunities I had and promised myself to enjoy them more fully.

I'm average, but that's okay. We all have our own stories and even the most ordinary moments can be filled with elegance. We all have unpredictable magic in us, waiting to be discovered.

I started to get scared, and panicky thoughts drifted through my mind as I fought with the unsettling realities.

By Jennifer Antioho

I decided to watch the first season of "The Handmaid's Tale" the other day. I knew it was a controversial show, but I thought it might be interesting to see.

The story is set in the future, in a world where men have taken over and women are forced to serve them.

I wasn't sure what to expect, but I was pleasantly surprised. The show is well-crafted and the acting is excellent. The characters are complex and the story is engaging.

I'm glad I watched it. It made me think about the importance of women's rights and the need to stand up for them. I hope more people will take the time to watch and learn.

RNC League changes name to NFL Europe

International Senior Vice President Dan Lewis revealed in a press conference in Los Angeles last week that the RNC, a 1907 group that has been part of the NFL since 1962, would be rechristened as NFL Europe in April. The league has been the NFL’s premier overseas market, and we have been encouraging our fans to embrace the NFL as a whole. We continue to support the league financially and the media. We are excited that the RNC is signing on to the NFL, and we are looking forward to seeing the RNC’s growth and future success.

Saks agrees to CBS deal

One of the most significant deals for NFL property this season was announced last week. Saks, a leading luxury retailer, has agreed to a deal with CBS to broadcast NFL games for the next two years. This is a significant moment in the evolution of the NFL as a business.

Dr. David Smith publishes first book, signing to be held
5,000 copies published, on sale nationwide but marketed heavily in New England

By Carol Foss
Acton Reader

Southern Adventist University English Professor Dr. David Smith was honored by his peers. The book signing and reception for his book, "The Student Voice of Southern Agricultural University," were held Feb. 1 in Swain Hall in the Swain Hall Auditorium. Smith, a member of the English Department, is married to Dr. Janet Smith, also a member of the English Department.

Dr. Smith is a native of Jackson, Miss. He received his doctoral degree from Southern Miss in 1992. He has previously taught at the University of Mississippi and Mississippi State University.

Dr. Smith's book, "The Student Voice of Southern Agricultural University," is a collection of essays written by students at the university. The book, which is available for purchase at the bookstore, is being marketed heavily in New England, where Smith is from.

"I was pleased with the turnout," said Smith. "It was a bit smaller than I expected, but the students were enthusiastic."

The book, which is being marketed heavily in New England, will be released in March.

Dr. Smith, who is from Indiana, said he was surprised by the turnout. "I thought it would be smaller," he said. "But the students were enthusiastic."

SA to hold Valentine’s Banquet on riverboat

By Katie Corzatt

The Southern

On Sunday, February 18, the Student Government’s Valentine’s Banquet will take place on a riverboat on the Arkansas River. There will be a special prize tied in with the theme of the banquet. This year’s banquet will be held on the Douglas Boat, a 130-foot riverboat operated in the river dock area.

David Lingley, senior, and Chad Calhoun, senior, were the two who provided the idea. They believed that the riverboat would be a good place to hold the banquet because it would be a change from the usual place and it would give everyone more room to move around. The banquet will be held at 7 p.m. and there will be a charge of $20 per person.

Carol Brown, senior, is one of the people who has planned the event. She said that she is excited about the idea of having a riverboat banquet and it has been a lot of fun to plan.

The banquet will be held in the Main Dining Hall and will feature live music by the Southern Aires. There will also be a cash bar available. The menu will consist of a three-course meal.

Adventist World Radio developing worldwide news network

By Jamie Alstadt and

Stephen Baf

An Adventist World Radio executive announced the immediate formation of a worldwide news network at its headquarters in Washington, D.C. The new network will be called “Adventist World News” and will be headquartered in London, England.

Baf said that the network will be a joint venture between Adventist World Radio and the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC). The network will be available on radio and television in more than 100 countries around the world.

Baf added that the network will be supported by a team of journalists and editors who will be based in London. The network will cover news from around the world, including news from the Adventist Church.

The Southern hosts nursing workshop

By Jennifer Artis

The Southern Adventist University School of Nursing presented the 20th Annual Nurses Conference Nursing Workshop with keynote speaker, Marilyn M. Kilgo, PhD.

The workshop was held on February 16 in the Campbell Auditorium. The keynote speaker was Dr. Kilgo, who is a professor at the University of Tennessee College of Nursing and a member of the Southern Adventist University nursing faculty.

The workshop covered topics such as ethical issues in nursing, legal issues in nursing, and psychiatric nursing.

The Southern hosts organist, August Humer

August Humer, world renowned organist, will perform at the Southern Adventist University School of Music on February 27, 2018. Humer is known for his elaborate and harmonious organ playing.

Humer will be performing at 7:30 p.m. in the McLeod Auditorium on the campus of the university. The event is free and open to the public.

MLK day in perspective

Let's look at the issue of race in America. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a nonviolent civil rights activist who fought for equality and justice in the United States. Every American now has a better understanding of what happened 50 years ago in Selma, but there's still work to be done.

Dr. King would have been 86 years old in 2023. Today, many Americans are taking part in activities to honor his legacy. These activities include marching, prayers, and silent vigils. Dr. King believed in peaceful protests, and his message is as relevant today as it was then.

Dr. King's dream was that one day people would judge people not by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. Today, we have come a long way, but we still have a long way to go. There are still many places where discrimination and prejudice exist.

We must continue to work towards a world where everyone is treated equally, regardless of their race. This is not only because it is the right thing to do, but also because it is good for society. A more equal and just society benefits everyone.

In honor of Dr. King's birthday, we encourage you to reflect on the progress we have made and the work that still needs to be done. Let's continue to work towards a world where all people are treated with respect and dignity.

I was recently at a screening of the new movie, "The Tiger," which was shot in our city. The movie was directed by Steven Spielberg, and it was a thrilling experience. The story was gripping, and the performances were outstanding.

The movie was shot in the city, and the locations were stunning. The city's skyline, the river, and the beach were all captured in beautiful shots. The city's history and culture were also highlighted, providing a rich backdrop for the story.

Overall, the movie was a great experience, and I would highly recommend it to anyone who is a fan of Steven Spielberg's work or who enjoys a good mystery.

Taking time to listen

I told you I'd be down and forward. Really listened.

I called it. I didn't pull no 'best of me' bullshit. I listened to your heart. I listened to your character, and I saw this. I saw the deep love. I saw the deep devotion. I saw the deep commitment.

For the first time in a long time I discovered the emotional depth of the heart. I felt the deep love that you feel. I felt the deep devotion that you have. I felt the deep commitment that you make. I felt the deep dedication that you possess.

I'm not saying that I'm against using taking time to listen.

Appearance worth having

I just told Fred Boetcher's story in "The Chrisantempo Times" last week. It's a story about a man who had a stroke and was left paralyzed on one side. He was determined to heal himself and get back to his normal life.

Appearance worth having

I'm not going to lie. I'm not going to paint a picture of a man who was just an average guy. Fred Boetcher was more than that. He was a man of great character, of great dedication, and of great determination.

Southern shut down by snow

Unexpected snow storm causes Southern to cancel classes

By Brenda McConnell
Valentine's Day snow

Southern was hit with an unexpected snow storm that disrupted the usual rhythm of campus life. President George Rust, president of Southern, announced the school would close on Friday, February 12, due to the heavy snowfall.

The snow started early on Wednesday morning and continued throughout the day, making it impossible for the school to function. All classes were canceled, and the campus remained closed until Thursday morning.

The university was forced to cancel classes for the day, causing students and faculty to adapt to the unexpected weather conditions. The campus was covered in snow, making it difficult to navigate.

"I didn't have last year, but I'm planning on going this year," said one student. "I hope for the best and look forward to the future." The students were disappointed with the weather, but they understood the necessity of the decision.

New Opportunity Fair being held in Convention and Trade Center

Career fairs split in sections, Opportunity Fair focuses on communication, journalism, and business

By Dave Ghoul

New Opportunity Fair will be held in the Convention and Trade Center on Saturday, March 5. The fair will focus on communication, journalism, and business fields.

According to Dr. Ronald Brown, director of the Opportunity Fair, the fair will be split into sections to accommodate the large number of participants.

"We have received a lot of interest from companies interested in communication and journalism," said Brown. "We are excited to provide these students with the opportunity to explore these fields and meet potential employers.

The fair will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and admission is free to all attendees.

German Adventists voice regret at Parliament's failure to ban public smoking

German Adventists voice regret at Parliament's failure to ban public smoking

German Adventists have expressed regret at the failure of Parliament to ban public smoking.

"As Adventists, we believe in the importance of health and wellness," said Dr. Hubertus Schmitz, president of the German Adventists. "We believe that public smoking is a serious health hazard and should be prohibited.

The German Adventists have long been advocates for health and wellness and have spoken out against the dangers of public smoking.

"We are disappointed that Parliament has failed to ban public smoking," said Schmitz. "We hope that the public will continue to support our efforts to promote health and wellness.

End of the road for "Fiddler on the Roof"

"Fiddler on the Roof" being performed this weekend

By Baha' Ullah Reza

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be performed this weekend at CA Auditorium. The musical, which opened on Broadway in 1964, tells the story of Tevye, a Russian peasant, and his family.

The show is directed by Mr. Abraham Sofer, who has directed several other musicals at CA Auditorium.

"Tevye is a wonderful character," said Sofer. "He is a strong, independent man who is determined to make the best of his circumstances.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be performed on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings, and tickets are available at the box office.

Migraine headache study

A migraine headache study has been conducted on campus by medical researchers.

The researchers are studying the effects of exercise on the frequency and intensity of migraines.

"We have found that regular exercise can help reduce the frequency of migraines," said Dr. Sarah Morgan, who is leading the study.

"We are encouraging students to participate in this study and to share their experiences with us.

The study is expected to run for six months, and the results will be published in the Journal of Migraine Headache Research.

Dear Sportswriter:

What do you think?

This is a new section that the Accent will have regularly starting next week. This section gives you a chance to interact with others on given subject matter. Responses can be as short or long as a few paragraphs. Responses can be posted via email at accent@lostmedicine.edu with "in response" in the subject, mailed to the Southern Accent, P.O. Box 370, College Station, Texas, 77840. However, the Southern Accent reserves the right to edit or decline any responses.

Lack of SA participation

The student body of Southern Adventist University is remarkably diverse and well-balanced, creative and visionary, broad-minded and inclusive. However, the student body seems to be losing interest and falling in love with what is seen as a negatively archaic, toxic, and extremes of the culture.

Lack of SA participation: Is there a sense of actuality to the student body that is shown in the current activities?

The student body seems to be lacking interest in the current activities. It seems that the student body is losing interest and falling in love with what is seen as a negatively archaic, toxic, and extremes of the culture.

Fear for future of journalism

As a student of journalism, I have a fear for the future of journalism, as well as the SA staff. If the columns and editors of the SA staff are to survive, the Southern Accent must continue to publish quality content that is relevant and engaging to the student body. If the columns and editors do not continue to publish quality content, the Southern Accent will be in danger of losing its relevance and relevance to the student body.

In response to Joel McFadden

This is in response to the article "In response to Joel McFadden" by Joel McFadden. The article is a good piece that addresses the fear for the future of journalism. The article is well-written and well-researched. The author, Joel McFadden, makes some good points about the future of journalism.

Sin has scarred the beauty of love, but it can’t claim victory over it.

A day for anxiety

While there's no single cure for anxiety, there are steps you can take to manage your symptoms and improve your quality of life.

1. Identify your triggers. Everyone’s triggers are different, so it’s important to figure out what sets you off. Common triggers for anxiety include loud noises, being in a crowd, or being in a new environment.

2. Practice mindfulness. Mindfulness is a form of meditation that involves being present in the moment and observing your thoughts and feelings without judgment.

3. Seek professional help. If your anxiety is severe or interferes with your daily life, it may be helpful to see a therapist or counselor.

4. Try relaxation techniques. Deep breathing, progressive muscle relaxation, and guided imagery are all effective ways to relax and reduce anxiety.

5. Avoid substances. Certain substances, such as caffeine and alcohol, can exacerbate anxiety.

6. Make healthy choices. Eating a nutritious diet, getting enough sleep, and exercising regularly can all help to reduce anxiety.

Remember, it’s important to take care of yourself and seek help when you need it. With the right tools and support, you can manage your anxiety and improve your overall well-being.

Top ten worst Valentine's Day gifts

By Brian Levi

10. One of these duds of a card, with a note that reads—"You're my 1/100th of a heartbeat!"
9. A single rose in a bulky box that looks like it could be used as a water float for your pool party.
8. A calendar with twelve months of you—"Wooing In the 90's From Notch to Notch!"
7. A Valentine from Bill Wolters—"Happy Valentine's Day, Happy Valentine's Day!"
6. Sideways underlinings—"Hurry up! Fall in love with me before I'm hit by the same traffic!"
5. A movie pass to all the California and your boyfriends favorite movie.
4. "Kids were funny" jokes when your child is not even laughing.
3. "I love you" when it's not true.
2. "I hate you" when it's not true.
1. "I'm just saying" when it's not true.

AA basketball season full of surprises

By J.R. DesAmours

The new NFL TV contract will pay the salary cap for each team totaling 17 million to 24 million. That’s not enough for the San Francisco 49ers to afford retaining nearly $20 million in contracts. They released quarterback Steve Young, signing veteran Morten Anderson as their #1 choice at kicker.

The 49ers sent the two time Super Bowl MVP to the New England Patriots, signing him to a 5 year contract. The deal did not pay off for the New England Patriots as they could have a #1 choice at kicker.

FL passing big backs to QBs

For the Dallas Cowboys to succeed in the passing game, running backs need to be in the mix, and this is especially true in the NFL. With the new rules allowing the Cowboys to have a #1 choice at tight end, it’s clear that the Cowboys need to utilize their tight ends in the passing game.

Massive growth by Adventist church in Mexico

By Jonathan Gallagher

MEXICO CITY, Mexico—Feb 17 — The Adventist Church in Mexico is growing rapidly, with membership in the country increasing by 10 percent each year. This growth has led to the opening of new churches and the expansion of existing ones.

The growth of the church has been attributed to the increase in the number of people who have been reached with the gospel and have accepted Christ as their personal savior.

Luis Chanaga still needs majority on yes/no ballot, he'll be likely to receive

By Clyde Reo

Although many believe Luis Chanaga has a good chance of winning the SA presidency, he has not received as much support as some of his opponents. Reo says it's possible that the three other candidates may have more support than Chanaga, but it's difficult to determine. The final result will not be known until the SA elections take place.

Despite this uncertainty, Reo believes that Chanaga still has a good chance of winning. He notes that the SA elections are competitive, and that the outcome is often uncertain. He suggests that the official results should be awaited before making any conclusions.

Unusual circumstances lead to special SA election

By Frank Williams

The recent decision to hold a special SA election is unusual. Normally, SA elections are held in the fall, but this year the election was moved up to August due to a change in the university's academic calendar. The decision was made after a vote by the SA executive board.

The special election will be held on Thursday, August 25th. Candidates will be announced in the coming weeks. The election will be held in the Student Union.

Which job will you choose?

By John Doe

Choosing the right job can be a difficult decision. You need to consider your interests, skills, and long-term goals. If you're unsure which job to choose, consider the following tips:

1. Research the job market
   - Look for job openings in your preferred field.
   - Consider the demand for your skills.

2. Network
   - Talk to people in your field.
   - Attend industry events.

3. Evaluate your options
   - Consider the financial implications of each job.
   - Think about the work-life balance.

4. Try new things
   - Take on new projects.
   - Volunteer for different tasks.

Remember, the most important thing is to choose a job that you enjoy and that aligns with your goals.

Letters to the Editor

What do you think?

This is the last section of The Opinion Page, and we publish this regularly, usually on Monday. This section gives you a chance to express your views on any subject that you think is important. We welcome letters of up to 500 words in length. If you have a question or want to know more about a specific topic, please write to us. We try to respond to as many letters as we can, but we cannot guarantee a reply.

Take heed to your own advice

Receiving your letter last week, we were pleased to see your perspective on the issue. You raised some valid points, but we also noted some areas where you could improve. In the future, please consider the following:

1. Use clear and concise language.
2. Provide evidence to support your arguments.
3. Avoid personal attacks.
4. Be respectful of others' views.

Please continue to share your thoughts with us. We value your contributions.

Tall women in a short-sighted world

By Michelle Nesbitt

"How's the weather up there?" The fundamental question faced by the parent of a tall girl. It always seems as if there's a strange, alien, sinister male faculty member on the first day of school who, in a bullying/condescending tone, asks, "Are you sure you're not a midget?"

A few years ago, Michelle Nesbitt, a tall student, attended a school where she was subjected to such a question. She recalls, "I remember the day clearly. It was my first day of school, and I was standing in line waiting to get my schedule. Suddenly, a male teacher approached me and said, "Are you sure you're not a midget?" I was shocked and appalled by his question.

In the past, tall women have faced similar challenges. They have been subjected to unkind comments and questions, such as "Are you sure you're not a midget?" or "Are you sure you're not a midget?"

By addressing these issues, we can help create a more inclusive and welcoming environment for everyone.

SEA goes underground

By Scott Colton
Special to the Arizona

Friday, February 14, 1998, was the first day of a two-week-long trip to the Galapagos Islands, Ecuador. The first订单 of the day was to set sail and head out to sea. We were a group of five students for the trip. We were on a beautiful yacht, and we were able to see the beauty of the ocean and the wildlife. We were able to explore the surrounding islands, and we were able to see many different species of marine life. We were able to take many pictures, and we were able to learn a lot about the ocean and its inhabitants.

The XVII Winter Olympic Games are being held in Nagano, Japan, this winter, and millions of sports fans are watching the events on television. Although some events have been postponed due to the bad weather, viewers are still dedicated to the Olympic spirit.

"The biggest thing this week is the opening ceremony," said NU student Kevin Schreiber. "It's a great way to start the Olympics and create enthusiasm for the rest of the games." Schreiber, along with many other NU students, is watching the games for fun and to support their favorite athletes.

Lenders, students at odds over pending rate change

By Tim Ryan

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 - The cost of getting a student loan in the U.S. will be reduced by $250 a year, officials said today, as a result of a federal bill that will shift the loan system from the government to the banks.

The bill, which was pushed by the Department of Education, will affect about 3 million students who owe $20 billion in loans. According to a proposal by the Department of Education, the banks will be responsible for collecting the loans and will also receive a percentage of the interest payments.

James W. Bynum, a professor at the University of California, Berkeley, said today that he was pleased with the change.

"I think this is a good step," Dr. Bynum said. "The banks have a better incentive to make loans because they will receive some of the interest payments."

The banks must agree to make a 10-year loan with a fixed interest rate of 8.5 percent. The exact amount of the loan will be determined by the student's income and the cost of attendance.
A fearful solution

We are grateful we avoided war with Iraq. Nor did we want to fight the French. Sir Edmund Hillary did not want to fight the Americans. And the Australian people really want peace. We don’t want to think much of American servicemen and we aren’t too sure we want to risk the lives of Israeli civilians either. From what I’ve heard of comments about Britain, we all know that Saddam Hussein really has no fear of risking the lives of his subjects. But the question arises. Can we form some form of military action to activate as the long term? Only after we have consulted the United Nations. General Colin Powell’s bargain agreement in lieu of U.N. Inspections in Iraq will fail later. But that is not so long and military action will beregor sooner that we think. We have this continuous war plan as well as the United Nations and they are committed. Although we have temporarily distanced and U.N. Inspection have been allowed back. Saddam has won his PR battle with Bill Clinton. During the great few weeks while U.N. Inspections have been away from their jobs and the United States, we know they would start it up again and now it is up to him, the Sadists, the due car the part.

We are grateful there is no war, but we are fearful of the only obviously long term solution.

Bravo on the shorts issue

Bare to the swastika of Southern. Thanks to an overwhelming vote of faculty Monday. Southern students will now be able to wear anything they want —swastika on shorts or whatever. We don’t care. In my book, that means we now are the University of How the Hell are we supposed to live down this? God knows, Southern is a strange place. We don’t dare do anything we don’t believe in —it is really a tedious and wordy occasion. We are grateful there is no war, but we are fearful of the only obviously long term solution.

The word is out, tuition is rising $6 for next school year. In an article in Boulder, Colorado, it was mentioned many students are wondering if they can afford to pay this increase. We are being hit with yet another tuition increase and I am afraid the same old tune will be repeated next year. We need to demand more from our students and not accepting it as just another tuition increase.

The word is out, tuition is rising $6 for next school year. In an article in Boulder, Colorado, it was mentioned many students are wondering if they can afford to pay this increase. We are being hit with yet another tuition increase and I am afraid the same old tune will be repeated next year. We need to demand more from our students and not accepting it as just another tuition increase.

Life is an experience, a story that we make up as we go along. Each chapter is a choice we make, and the content is a reflection of our decisions. We are the authors of our own lives, and the stories we tell shape who we become.

Yes it’s a shame
We are who we say we are. If you have no friends, you have no faith in humanity. You have no heart, you have no love, and you don’t care who you are. If you lie, you cheat, steal, and only care about yourself, you are a monster.

But sometimes I feel that it’s all just a sham. Friends are just a way for people to feel better about themselves. They are just a way for people to feel that they are not alone. They are just a way for people to feel that they are loved.

Jake Johnson’s “touch” (and I do mean touch) is something he’s called “The Gift” by his friends. It’s a gift that allows him to somehow protect those around him.

Jake has been known to get his hands on a fistful of his friends’ hair and then toss them to the ground. He has been known to punch his way out of a room when there was a fire. He has even been known to break a window with his bare hands.

But Jake’s gift isn’t just physical. He has also been known to use his “Gift” in more subtle ways. For example, he has been known to make his friends laugh when they are feeling down.

And then there’s the time he saved a cat from a tree.

And then there’s the time he convinced his friends that he was a Superman.

Anyway, that’s a little bit about Jake’s “Gift.”

A roommate who is truly extraordinary
By Leona Hughes Special to the Accent

Do you ever watch something and think that you could never do it? Well, you probably can. You just need to be willing to try.

One day I was watching a movie and I thought to myself, “I could do that.” And then I realized that I had been watching people do things that I wanted to do, but I had never tried to do them myself.

So I decided to try. I started with something simple, like tying my own shoes. And then I moved on to more difficult things, like cooking.

The results were amazing. I found that I was able to do things that I had never thought possible.

And then I started thinking about other things that I could do. I decided to try something that I had never even considered doing before.

I decided to try to be extraordinary.

And so I did.

I’m still working on it, but I think I’m getting there.

I can’t tell you how satisfying it is to know that you can do things that you never thought possible. It’s like a gift.

And so I thank my roommate, who taught me that I am capable of being extraordinary.

Friends and roommates: What a difference
A trusting friend
By Brad Phillips
Assistant News Editor

It has come with attention, whether it be in the training of a great mind or the development of great friends. Being a trusting friend is a way of being a trusting friend of others. It is a way of being a trusting friend of others.

When I first met Gene, I was going to Magnum to do some research, and she told me that she knew the man who was the head of that group. She took me to see him, and he did not even seem to notice that I was there.

Later, after the interview, I asked Gene how she knew the man who was in charge of the group. She said that she had met him at a meeting of the group, and that she knew him because he was a very nice man.

I trust the people I meet, and I trust Gene.

Three record-breaking finishes over the last 30 minutes.
The joys of hitchhiking

For MUSI.

An interview with Musi, a retired hitchhiker.

I. Musi's Hitchhiking Career

Musi began her hitchhiking career in the late 1970s, after completing her PhD in mathematics. She was tired of the academic world and decided to see the country by hopping rides. Musi's first ride was in a truck carrying a group of scientists to a conference. Musi felt chez la nature and decided to stay on the road.

II. The Hitchhiking Experience

Musi's favorite part of hitchhiking was the freedom it provided. She could go wherever she wanted, whenever she wanted. Musi's least favorite part was the unpredictable nature of hitchhiking. She had one scary experience when she was stranded in the middle of nowhere with a group of motorcyclists. They were kind enough to offer her a ride, but Musi had to quickly make a decision on whether to trust them.

III. Hitchhiking as a Career

Musi used hitchhiking as a way to make a living. She would take rides during the day and work at night. Musi's favorite job was working as a bartender in a small town near Seattle. Musi would give away free drinks to her customers and in return, they would give her a ride to her next destination.

IV. Conclusion

Musi's hitchhiking career lasted for over 20 years. She met some amazing people and had some incredible experiences. Musi now lives in a small cabin in the woods and spends her days writing and hiking. Musi misses the freedom of hitchhiking, but she enjoys the quiet life she now leads. Musi recommends hitchhiking to anyone who is looking for a different way of life.

Students participate in mission trip to Nicaragua

Jennifer Artigas

Recently, two groups of students have participated in a mission trip to Nicaragua, sponsored by the Catalonia Mission Trip to Nicaragua. The trip was organized by Dr. P. W. Thompson, a missionary from Catalonia, who has been volunteering in Nicaragua for the past few years. The students had the opportunity to work in various communities, helping with projects such as building schools, providing medical care, and teaching local children.

The trip was a rewarding experience for all the participants. The students were able to see firsthand the challenges faced by the communities in Nicaragua and were inspired to continue their work in this area. The experience also helped them to develop their skills in leadership, teamwork, and communication.

The mission trip was a success, and the participants are looking forward to future trips and continuing their work in Nicaragua.
Final election decisions

The Student Association elections process is already quite a complex one, especially for the fall elections. There are several steps that need to be followed to ensure fair and transparent voting procedures. These steps include the nomination process, the election campaign itself, and the final decision-making process. Each candidate is expected to participate in various activities and events throughout the election period to gain public support. The final decision will be based on the votes cast by the eligible students during the election day. The winner will be declared after all the votes are counted and verified. This process ensures that the decision is made democratically and fairly, reflecting the will of the electorate.

Charge: Friendship in the third degree

Friday. What if a person that makes you smile is not your friend? Maybe it's the ability to make you laugh. Maybe it's something that's unique to the person. Friday. What if a person that makes you smile is not your friend? Maybe it's something that's unique to the person.

Friendship is not something to be taken lightly. It's a bond, a lasting tie that is formed over time, often through shared experiences. However, the bond between two friends is not always perfect. Sometimes, even the most trusted friends can have conflicts and misunderstandings. In this article, we will explore the topic of friendship in the third degree and how it can affect our lives.

In the first degree, friendship is a bond that is formed through mutual interests and experiences. People who share similar passions and values are more likely to form strong bonds with each other. However, even in the first degree, conflicts can arise. For example, a friend may make a decision that goes against your values or beliefs, or they may act in a way that you don't understand.

In the second degree, friendship is a bond that is formed through mutual respect and understanding. This degree of friendship is often characterized by a deep sense of trust and loyalty. However, even in the second degree, conflicts can arise. For example, a friend may make a decision that goes against your values or beliefs, or they may act in a way that you don't understand.

In the third degree, friendship is a bond that is formed through mutual agreement and understanding. This degree of friendship is often characterized by a strong sense of loyalty and respect. However, even in the third degree, conflicts can arise. For example, a friend may make a decision that goes against your values or beliefs, or they may act in a way that you don't understand.

Robert Adelsohn's bakery school is offering a degree in baking. The program will teach the fundamentals of the art and science of baking, and will focus on the development of large-scale production systems within the context of current cake and bread industry practices. The program will prepare students for the baking industry or for further education.

The program will be offered in two sections: one for students who have completed high school and two for students who have completed a two-year associate degree.

More information about the program can be found at the Robert Adelsohn Bakery School website, or by contacting the school directly.

Judy Blose and Helen Heise

Judy Blose, director of Campus Safety, bowled her 5th 98 this season. Judy Blose, a member of the Woman's Club and a faculty member of the school, is known for her ability to bowl over her opponents. She has been a member of the club for many years and has won several games, including the club's annual bowling tournament.

"If the Collegiate Church caught fire on a Sabbath morning it would probably burn down!"

Pretty strong words coming from the first chair! The issue is one of getting the fire engines into the church parking lot in the event of an emergency.

It’s unusual to find vehicles parked along the curb on both sides of the two main driveways, despite the "no parking" signs posted along the curb. This practice leaves only one lane for vehicles trying to enter and exit church property, especially to leave. The problem is compounded by the fact that the lane isn’t wide enough in most places for a large truck, such as a fire engine.

There are a number of them in both the upper and lower lots. Please observe these marked sites and don’t park in them unless you have the handicap right to that space.

This week we will be putting up additional "Fire Lane No Parking" signs. Please be aware of these signs. Ordinarily neither the police nor the Fire Department have jurisdiction to issue tickets on private property.

However, the Fire Marshal does have the authority to fine the Church for violations. Our failure to obey the fire lane signs does give them the right to issue tickets to the individual drivers.

"What's on your mind?"

What’s on your mind? I’ve tried to appear in the Accent this year. I was encouraged to see someone had the courage and love to clearly present an issue about this subject (movies and entertainment) in a caring way. You didn’t make a single disparaging or sarcastic reference to any specific individuals you might disagree with or whom you might have previously had their opinion published in the Accent. You focused solely on the issue and did not attack people. May God give us more of this in your Spirit of love that motivates us in our shared mission with passion and more important, compassion.

"What's on your mind?"
New parking changes make life a little easier

A couple of months back I've been helping a friend move into his new place, a great place in a huge apartment building. He's the sort of guy that needs to be able to move everything in a hurry, and that meant moving in at night instead of during the day. One of the many things that needed to be done was to put the TV in place. But we still had one final thing to do - parking!

We had decided to try a new parking area that was supposed to be closer to the apartment building. It was well lit, and seemed like it would be easy to find. But when we arrived, we found that the parking area was completely full! There were no spaces left, and we had to park on the street.

The next day, I went back to the apartment building and asked my friend if we could try a different area. He agreed, and we decided to try the one next door. This time, we found a spot right away! It was so much easier, and made our lives a little bit easier.

The small things really are important

It can be surprising just how much a little thing can improve your life. For example, when I was in New Zealand, I lost my wallet. It was a real tragedy, and I was worried about losing all my money. But then, I noticed a small thing - a little coin I had forgotten to put away. It was enough to keep me going for the rest of the day.

When they found that her son, Joe, was allergic to milk, they were able to make special food for him and he was able to live a normal life. When they realized that Alabama schools were not providing enough lunch food, they started to bring their own.

The group started the Children's Nutrition Project, which now provides lunches for all children in need. They have also started a milk fund to help those who cannot afford it. And they are working towards a permanent solution to the problem.

Classical music really does make you smarter

Southern's very own WSMC is Chattanooga's only classical music station, tune in and you may become smarter

By Stephanie Swilley

Did you know that just by listening to classical music you can improve your studies in both school and work, improve your performance, and enhance your ability to think and form new ideas? Listening to classical music expands your imagination, creativity, intellect, and success. Here are results from a few recent studies completed by The Children's Group:

In a study of medical school applicants, 60 percent of music majors reported a 24 percent improvement in their G.P.A. compared to the national average of 24.

Classical music, in fact, is the only occupation that studies pure music, the only occupation that makes you smarter.

As mentioned in The Mozart Effect, Don Campbell, Ph.D., in his 2005 book described the effects of listening to classical music on children's performance improvement.

Classical music programs

Upcoming WSMC programs

Classical 96.1 presents The Mozart Effect series based on the book by Don Campbell. The entire series will be performed on Tuesdays at 6 p.m. during the month of April. All performances will be broadcast on the radio.

April 5: "The Power of Music to Heal the Body"

An examination of medical research, personal anecdotes and breaking news on the Mozart Effect with guest smartphones and interviews with doctors based on actual research.

April 18: "Music in the Classroom"

Explore the variety of research findings and evidence on music's influence on learning and behavior.

April 22: "The Mozart Effect, In-House"

An in-depth discussion of the research behind the Mozart Effect and its relevance in the classroom.

April 24: "For the Children"

Discover the professional, personal and health benefits of the Mozart Effect in the classroom.

Through interviews with leading scientists, educators and authors, the program presents research and scientific knowledge of the benefits of the Mozart Effect in the classroom.

The following positions are open for next year's Accent:

- Layout Editor; Copy Editors; Photo Editor; Feature Editor, A & E Editor; Religion Editor; Sports Editor; Columnists; Reporters; and Photographers

On the fundamental beliefs of the SDA Church

1. You may find it helpful to review your mind on the 27 fundamental beliefs by reviewing the Adventist Church Manual.
2. Your article should focus on just one doctrine. Tell us what it is about, what it means to you personally, and how it makes a difference in your own life or in the life of someone you know.
3. The maximum length is 1,275 words, or about seven and a half pages. Articles should be typed and double-spaced.
4. We will select five of the best entries overall for prizes—a first prize of $700, and $500 each for the second and third prizes. The other entries will be displayed in the Accent, according to your regular columns.
5. To qualify, your article (on paper and on a three-inch disk, if possible) should reach us no later than July 31.
6. Please include your complete address and telephone number (if any), your age, a photo of yourself, a one sentence bio, your occupation (student, homemaker, clergyman, volunteer), and your Social Security number (if you live in the U.S.). Because of time constraints and logistics, nothing else is to be included.

The real deal is just a week away. Baseball will be in the right frame of mind, so it's time to look at the predictions.

National League East
Atlanta: The reigning NL East champ will have its hands full. Second baseman Andruw Jones, who won the MVP last year, may not be in the lineup on opening day. If he is, the future of the franchise is in question. His off-season and contract status have been the topic of much speculation. Jones is expected to be in the lineup on opening day, but whether he will be in the same position is uncertain.

St. Louis: The NL East defending champs have a good mix of young talent and experienced players. The team has a solid starting rotation and a consistent offense. The St. Louis Cardinals are expected to be competitive again this year. The team has a good mix of young talent and experienced players. The team has a solid starting rotation and a consistent offense. The St. Louis Cardinals are expected to be competitive again this year.

The New York Mets will be facing some tough competition in the NL East this year. The Mets have a solid lineup and a strong pitching staff. Look for them to be a factor in the division.

The Chicago Cubs will be hoping to build on their success from last year. The team has a strong offense and a solid pitching staff. They will be relying on a combination of young talent and experienced players. The Cubs are expected to be competitive again this year.

The Philadelphia Phillies will be facing some tough competition in the NL East this year. The team has a solid lineup and a strong pitching staff. Look for them to be a factor in the division.

Central

First of all, it's not fair. Below is a list of wonderful concerts taken to make us sing.

The Religion Major: Design a Greek yoga class for all majors.

The Math Major: Sell beans in the Wal-mart Electronics Department.

The Physical Education Major: Water ski for the Grenady.

The Biology Major: Pick up trash on the Biological Trail.

The Economics Major: Make perfume based on the aroma of apples.

The Psychology Major: Local group forms a band. "This Entrepreneur Makes the Band!"

The Business Major: Baked market Leeds market.

The Education Major: Work with the arts at the family and friends.

The Nursing Major: Teach yoga in Tuscaloosa.

The Music Major: Perform live electronica music

WSMC hires new general manager

Dan Landrum was WSMC's GM from 1993-95 and is now returning

By Stephanie Self-McAffee
Senior Writer

WSMC General Manager Dan Landrum left WSMC in 1995. Since then, WSMC's new General Manager has been searching for a new GM. But finally, Dan Landrum has been the man for the job.

Dan Landrum was WSMC's GM from 1993-95 and is now returning to take over the reins at WSMC. Landrum left WSMC in 1995 to pursue other opportunities, but he has now decided to return to WSMC to continue the work he started.

Landrum, who has a master's degree in communication from the University of Missouri-Columbia, has worked in the media industry for over 20 years. He served as WSMC's GM from 1993-95, and has since worked for several other media companies.

Landrum's return to WSMC is seen as a positive move for the station, as he brings a wealth of experience and knowledge to the role. He is expected to bring new ideas and strategies to WSMC, and to help the station grow and succeed.

WSMC News General Manager Dan Landrum, left, along with his team, was very happy to have Dan return.

"This is a great day for WSMC," said Landrum. "I am excited to return to the station and work with the talented team we have here."

WSMC's team is also excited about Landrum's return. "We are thrilled to have Dan back," said WSMC's News Director. "He brings a wealth of experience and knowledge to the role, and we are confident he will help take WSMC to the next level."

WSMC is a news and information station located in Columbia, Missouri. It serves the Columbia, Missouri area and is owned by Cox Media Group.

Dan Landrum has been with Cox Media Group for over 15 years, serving in various roles and positions. He has held positions in sales, marketing, and general management.

Dan Landrum is married and has two children. He enjoys spending time with his family, playing golf, and following Missouri athletics.

Study girl starts discounts touch therapy

By Michael Condon

ROME - The girl who started discounts touch therapy, a controversial new treatment, has been arrested on charges of touch fraud.

Police in Rome have charged the girl with touch fraud, a crime that involves creating false impressions of touch. The girl, who has been identified as a 17-year-old high school student, is accused of making up stories about her own touch experiences.

The girl, who has been identified as a 17-year-old high school student, is accused of making up stories about her own touch experiences. She claimed to have been touched by a celebrity during a charity event, but police have found no evidence to support her claims.

The girl was arrested after a teacher at her school reported her alleged touch experiences to the police. The teacher said the girl had been making up stories about her own touch experiences.

Listening to the students

The faculty and administration of this school wanted a lot of time trying to figure out what to do with mid-term break. In November, for example, we expected that the faculty senate would vote to abolish mid-term break, take the extra day from fall registration, and make a week long Thanksgiving season. And then last week we reported that the faculty senate had taken a resolution and decided to keep mid-term break and in fact making it a day longer.

We proposed the original plan to eliminate mid-term break. The strain caused by the elimination of mid-term break would have been a no-go— in fact, it would have been the longest lunch break of the school year. The interesting thing is why didn’t the school, and the faculty senate in particular, take into account the student voice of Southern Adventist University.

In our October 23 issue we clearly stated the importance of mid-term break and we clearly stated that one day was too short to be effective. —a poor excuse for a vacation, as I’ve said already. It was even worse as far as to propose that mid-term break be abolished in Wednesday or Thursday. At the time we didn’t make fall registration would only be one day, however, we did call for a “meaningful effort the calculated” to determine where to compensate for the lost day(s).

Despite the wasted time, we still have mid-term break and students should be grateful for its continued existence. Moreover, students should also be grateful that the faculty eventually listened to their opinions. They heard students needed to keep the break and so they kept it.

Although no harm was done, besides a little wasted time, students may not be so lucky next time. Privacy may those in ignorance students’ opinions and continue with an appropriate proposal. If this happens, students must voice their opinions directly to their teachers and employers.

For the most part, however, it’s hard to believe that listening to a little sooner would be helpful.

I’m an uncle

By Dave Cook

This morning I became “Uncle Dave.” I’m sure my wife and I may be the last to say anything I’ve said, but I’m saying my first baby. And I’m looking forward to hearing my first baby in the morning. I mean, I’ve been trying for about two years, so I know what to expect. But then again, there’s always the chance of a surprise.

Although, no harm was done, besides a little wasted time, students may not be so lucky next time. Privacy may those in ignorance students’ opinions and continue with an appropriate proposal. If this happens, students must voice their opinions directly to their teachers and employers.

A statement of concern on the care of the dying

In a recent article in the Monitor, a prominent theologian expresses concern about the care of the dying in hospitals. The theologian notes that many hospitals are failing to provide adequate care for the dying, and that this failure is leading to a crisis in the quality of care for the dying.

The theologian points out that hospitals are often too focused on maximizing profits, and that this leads to a neglect of the spiritual and emotional needs of the dying. The theologian cites several examples of hospitals that have been criticized for providing inadequate care, and he argues that this is a serious problem that needs to be addressed.

The theologian calls for hospitals to provide better care for the dying, and he suggests several ways this can be done. He notes that hospitals should be more sensitive to the spiritual and emotional needs of the dying, and that they should provide more support for families during this difficult time.

The theologian also suggests that hospitals should provide better training for medical staff, and that they should create special units for the care of the dying. He notes that these units could provide a more compassionate and effective approach to the care of the dying.

The theologian concludes by arguing that providing better care for the dying is not only the right thing to do, but it is also good for the hospitals themselves. He notes that hospitals that provide good care for the dying are more likely to be successful, and that they are more likely to be able to attract patients.

The theologian呼吁医院为临终患者提供更好的关怀，包括更加敏感地应对他们的精神和情感需求，提供更多的家庭支持，为医疗人员提供更好的培训，以及创建专门的单位为临终患者提供更人性化的照护。 theologian认为，更好的临终关怀不仅正确，而且对医院自身也有益。他指出，那些提供良好临终关怀的医院更有可能成功，也更有可能吸引患者。
Life, liberty, and the pursuit of wastefulness

Do you think you’re a frugal sort? Do you buy your coffee at the discount store, eat canned food for lunch, and use reusable bags when you go shopping? Well, you might be in for a surprise.

One day, I was at the store and noticed a sign that said, "Today only, buy one get one free on all fresh produce." I thought, "Wow, what a great deal! I’ll take advantage of this and stock up on all the healthy foods I need." So, I went to the produce aisle and started filling up my cart with apples, bananas, carrots, and lettuce. I was planning on eating all of it and not letting anything go to waste.

But then something changed. I realized that I had too much produce and that I was going to have to throw away a lot of it. I started thinking about how much money I was wasting on food I wasn’t going to eat. It made me feel guilty and I didn’t want to throw away all this healthy food.

That’s when I decided to change my behavior. I started looking for ways to reduce my food waste. I made a meal plan for the week and only bought the ingredients I needed. I also started composting my food scraps and using them to fertilize my garden. It was a small change, but it made a big difference.

Now, I still buy fresh produce, but I always think about whether I really need it or if I can substitute something else. It’s not always easy, but I try to be mindful of my food waste. It’s not just about being frugal, it’s about taking care of the planet.

Life, liberty, and the pursuit of wastefulness.

Gym-Masters perform annual home show

By Darin Crute
Assistant Sports Editor

Wednesday in the Student Union, students were handing out literature, preparing for the upcoming annual home show. The show will take place Thursday, April 9, 1998.

The annual show is sponsored by the Gym-Masters, an organization that is dedicated to the safety and health of students. The show will feature various safety and health-related topics, including smoking, alcohol, and drug abuse. Students are encouraged to attend the show and learn more about these important issues.

The Gym-Masters also perform a variety of other activities throughout the year, including health fairs, workshops, and educational programs. The group is committed to promoting health and wellness on campus and in the community.

The annual show is open to the public and is free of charge. Students are encouraged to attend and learn more about the important issues that affect their health and well-being.

She is one of the most inspiring teachers I have ever had," said Jennifer Aragis, a junior journalist.

“They were some of the best teachers and I was so inspired by them that I ended up pursuing a degree in journalism," she added.

She said her love for writing and storytelling started at a young age, and it was something that she pursued throughout her education.

She credits her success to the guidance of her teachers, who always encouraged her to pursue her passions.

“They made me feel like I could accomplish anything I set my mind to," she said.

Today, Smith is a successful journalist, working for a prominent news organization.

“I am now able to help others through my work and make a positive impact on the world," she said.

HOMESTORY

“My Dog is a Hero"

She added that she is likely to adopt a dog with 70 of the 2,000 dogs in her home on the 30th floor of the Goodyear Building.

She has never owned a dog before, but she is excited to have a companion to keep her company.

“I love animals and have always wanted a dog," she said.

Today, the dog is thriving and living a happy life.

“I am so grateful for this opportunity to have a dog of my own," she said.

SONRISE

“Sunshine and Shadow Days”

Today, the sunrise is expected to bring a high of 66 and a low of 55.

Tomorrow, the climate is expected to remain mostly cloudy with highs in the mid-60s and a low of 45.

Saturday, the weather is expected to be partly cloudy with a high of 67 and a low of 45.

Sunday, the temperature is expected to rise, with highs in the mid-70s and a low of 45.

Southern students to be published in Insight magazine

By Kaffe Conrad

Twenty students will each be taking a turn at putting on a one-act play that will get published in a special edition of Insight magazine at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 7. The students will stage a Workshop that is open to students for the first time in the university's history.

More than 30 students have signed up to work the week-long workshop, which will culminate in a performance that will be announced later. The workshop will help students gain experience in acting and directing, as well as helping them create their own plays.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, April 7, the workshops will be performed in the university's Auditorium, followed by a reception. Students will also have plans of sightseeing in the town of Leavenworth.

Although the students generally lack experience with journalism and English majors, this year's workshop will give them a chance to show off their talents from different areas. Each one will be responsible for writing and editing what they take to the workshop. Guild members like Michael Campbell, the director of media and student broadcast programming, have already put in time to prepare the workshop to make the best use of their talents.

Campbell, who is also the art director of the Insight magazine, says they have a variety of resources to help them get the most out of the workshop.

"We're looking forward to helping them develop their skills," Campbell says. "This is a great opportunity for them to get their feet wet and see what they can do in this field."}

Adventist University aids education worldwide

By Jonathon Galzyder

"There is no better way to express our faith than through education," said Dr. John D. O'Day, president of the Southern Adventist University in Hawkinsville, Ga.

"We believe education is the key to transforming lives and creating a better world for all," O'Day said. "At Southern Adventist University, we are committed to providing a quality education that will prepare our students to make a positive impact on their communities and the world around them.

"Our mission is to blend faith with learning, offering a holistic approach to education that integrates spiritual values with academic excellence," O'Day continued. "We believe that education is not just about acquiring knowledge, but also about developing a strong moral compass that guides our actions and decisions.

"Our goal is to provide a supportive and challenging environment where students can explore their interests, develop critical thinking skills, and grow both personally and professionally.

"We are proud of the accomplishments of our students and faculty, and we look forward to continuing to serve our community and the world with excellence and integrity.

"At Southern Adventist University, we believe that education is a powerful tool for change and transformation. Together, we can make a difference in the world."
Southern’s loss, Union’s gain

There is always a time for change. For the student government, this year has been one of such a transition period. The student government has managed to overcome many problems, but the new president and the new board will certainly have their hands full.

The last few years have seen a steady decline in student interest in the student government. This is due in part to the fact that the student government has not been able to provide the services that students expect. The new president and board will have to work hard to regain the trust of the student body.

One of the biggest problems that the student government has faced in recent years has been the lack of funding. The student government has been forced to rely on the University Senate for funding, and this has not been a reliable source. The new president and board will have to work to find new ways to raise money for the student government.

Another problem that the student government has faced in recent years has been the lack of leadership. The student government has been led by a series of weak presidents, and this has made it difficult to get anything done. The new president and board will have to work to find strong leaders who can take the student government in the right direction.

The student government has also faced a number of other problems in recent years. These problems include a lack of communication, a lack of transparency, and a lack of accountability. The new president and board will have to work to improve communication between the student government and the student body, to increase transparency, and to hold themselves accountable for their actions.

Overall, the new president and board will have their work cut out for them. They will have to work hard to regain the trust of the student body, find new ways to raise money, and bring about real change in the student government.

Don't ban guns for the law's sake

In the wake of the Newtown shootings, the debate over gun control has once again become a hot topic. While there is no denying that gun violence is a serious problem, the question of whether or not to ban guns is not as simple as it may seem.

The argument for banning guns is that it will prevent gun violence. However, studies have shown that banning guns does not necessarily lead to a decrease in gun violence. In fact, some studies have shown that banning guns can actually increase gun violence.

The argument against banning guns is that it would violate the Second Amendment. However, the Second Amendment was written in a time when people could only use muskets, and times have changed. The Second Amendment should not be interpreted to mean that we should have the right to own any type of gun.

In the end, the debate over gun control is a complicated one. It is not something that can be solved with a simple ban on guns. Instead, we need to have a more nuanced discussion about what types of guns should be allowed and how they should be regulated.

The coolest thing just happened to me in the Bible class

I was in Bible class today and something really cool happened. I was reading about how Jesus had been crucified and how the soldiers had split the curtain in two.

As I was reading, I realized that the curtain that was split in two was the same curtain that is used in the modern Catholic Church. This realization was quite amazing to me because I had never thought about it before.

I then began to think about how amazing it is that Jesus was able to save us from our sins through his death and resurrection. It is truly amazing that we can have eternal life through him.

I recently attended an environmental science class and learned that earth’s carbon dioxide levels are rising faster than ever. This is due to human activities, such as burning fossil fuels and deforestation. We need to act now to reduce our carbon footprint and protect our planet.

A special thanks

When my writing colleague, Steve Capa, discovered a way to make the transition to reality can be a slow and arduous process, he was a necessary component to most any achievement.

But just because we can't see the light at the end of the tunnel doesn't mean it isn't there. If we want to be successful we must embrace the process of our idea. If we fail to see the light at the end of the tunnel, it will appear to grow dimmer and dimmer the farther we go.

We must maintain our focus and perseverance. We must work hard and be persistent. If we don't, we will never see the light at the end of the tunnel. We must have faith in our ideas and ourselves.

Some people say, "If you can't see the light at the end of the tunnel, it must not exist." But that is not true. The light at the end of the tunnel is there, it is just not visible to you.

The light at the end of the tunnel is success, happiness, joy, and fulfillment. It is the satisfaction of knowing that you have accomplished something that you can be proud of.

The light at the end of the tunnel is what motivates us to keep going, to keep pushing forward, to keep working hard. It is the driving force that keeps us going, even when we feel like giving up.

So, if you are feeling discouraged, don't give up. Keep going. Keep working hard. Keep moving forward. Keep pushing yourselves. The light at the end of the tunnel is there, it is just not visible to you.

But if you keep going, you will see it. You will see the light.

How can I come to know God?

How can I come to know God? This is a question that many people have asked themselves. It is a question that many people have struggled with.

Some people say, "I just don't get it. I don't understand how anyone can know God." But that is not true. Everyone knows God. It is just that some people don't realize it.

God is a presence in our lives. He is always with us, even when we don't realize it. He is the source of our strength, our comfort, and our guidance.

The key to knowing God is to open your heart and mind to him. He is always with you, waiting for you to open your heart and mind to him.

God is not a force to be feared. He is a force to be loved. He is a force to be trusted. He is a force to be respected.

So, if you are feeling discouraged, don't give up. Keep going. Keep working hard. Keep moving forward. Keep pushing yourselves. The light at the end of the tunnel is there, it is just not visible to you.

But if you keep going, you will see it. You will see the light.

Rock climbing: Is it for you?

By Brenton Reading

The day begins deep inside the pitch blackness of a rock dome. The only light enters my world through a shadowy hourglass on the ceiling. The light is so dim that I can barely see my hands. I try to make out the shape of the rock but it is hard to see. The rock is covered in a thick layer of mud and is slippery. I grasp onto a hold and begin to climb. My fingers dig into the rock and I feel the strength of my body. A few minutes later, I reach the top and look out at the view. It is beautiful. I can see the sun rising over the horizon and the stars in the sky. It is a great feeling to be up there, looking down at the world. I can't wait to do it again next time. Don't forget to check out the other articles in this issue for more great adventures.

Here are some facts about these amazing turkeys.

SLVR CHARLES BARRETT-Brody's rejuvenation demonstrates some remarkable. The Turkeys are as much a phenomenon as a football team. The franchise has been one of the most successful in the NFL. A far better team than any other in the NFC East, it is a high profile. With the team fighting to win, it is enough to create a stir. There is so much going on. The team has been on fire, and Brody has been a constant performer. It is a win-win situation.

Things that go bump in the night

It is the end of a most wet day, and you plan for a moment to consider all that has happened to you. This morning, you awoke, and you felt the dampness in the air. You half calculation, and the humidity was not the least of your worry that morning. But the wetness was not the least of your worry that morning. But the wetness was not the least of your worry that morning. But the wetness was not the least of your worry that morning.

Did you ever realize how much you depend on your own sense of humor? Life is filled with all kinds of things that go bump in the night. But it is the end of a most wet day, and you plan for a moment to consider all that has happened to you. This morning, you awoke, and you felt the dampness in the air. You half calculation, and the humidity was not the least of your worry that morning. But the wetness was not the least of your worry that morning. Former professor seriously injured in fall
By Ron du Preez

Dr. DuPreez, retired professor of Chemistry, fractured his ankle when he fell 1 ft. 4 in. from the top of a staircase at his home on Cardinal Drive. The 78-year-old professor, who teaches astronomy classes, was sitting on the stairs when he fell. He said he had just come down from a lecture earlier that day. The accident occurred in the early morning hours, and he was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Dr. DuPreez said he will not be able to return to teaching until March.

New SAU Christian band to open for Blanket concert Sat. night

Stephanie Swifisky

Science at Play; SAU band, will open for the first concert of the fall season, held by the Collegiate Academy's Christian band. By SAU students, for SAU students, who are children of SAU.

The SAU Christian Band today announced its upcoming concert schedule. The band, which has been in existence since 1947, was formed as a result of the desire of the SAU administration to provide a musical outlet for its students. The band is under the direction of Dr. J. A. Davidson, who is also the music director of the Collegiate Academy.

Israel past, present and future

For most of us, it is difficult to remember a time when Israel did not exist as a nation. Even in the years before the establishment of the state of Israel, there were those who believed in the idea of creating a Jewish homeland. This belief was not unique to Jews, as many non-Jews also shared the same vision. The idea of a Jewish state was not new; it had been advocated by thinkers like Theodor Herzl and Franz Rosenzweig in the 19th century. However, it was not until the early 20th century that the dream of a Jewish state began to take shape.

Theodor Herzl, often considered the father of modern Zionism, published "The Jewish State" in 1896, which helped to galvanize support for the idea of a Jewish state. Theodor Herzl's work was influential in shaping the early years of the modern Israeli state. However, it was not until the late 1940s that the state of Israel was finally established in 1948.

Over the years, Israel has faced many challenges and conflicts. The most prominent of these conflicts is the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, which has been ongoing since the establishment of the state of Israel. Despite the challenges, Israel has managed to thrive, and its people have made significant contributions to the world in many areas, including science, technology, and culture.

As we look to the future, it is clear that Israel will continue to play a significant role in the world. The country's strength and resilience are a testament to its people's determination and commitment to the dream of a Jewish homeland. The future of Israel is bright, and we can only hope that it continues to be a beacon of hope for those who seek a better life.

The third annual SonRise Pageant was this last weekend and more than 7000 people attended the walk-through reenactment of Christ’s death and resurrection.

By Bob Sadler

More than 7000 people attended the walk-through reenactment of Christ’s death and resurrection.

The SonRise Pageant was an annual event where people dressed up as characters from the Bible. The pageant was held in the city and was attended by thousands of people. The pageant featured live performances of the Bible stories, including the death and resurrection of Jesus. It was a popular event and drew a large crowd each year.
Intramural soccer brings wide range of representation

By J.R. DeLoynes
Assistant Sports Editor

Intramural sports bring a wide range of representation to the South ern Student. From the competitive to the recreational, intramural sports offer a platform for students to engage in physical activity and foster a sense of community. Whether it's a casual game of soccer or a competitive match, intramural sports provide an opportunity for students to connect with peers and develop new skills. The Southern Student highlights the diversity and inclusivity of intramural sports by showcasing various teams and participants from different backgrounds and skill levels. From the exuberant celebration of a goal scored in the intramural soccer competition to the focused determination on the court in intramural basketball, these moments capture the essence of intramural sports and the spirit of the Southern Student. Come by the Collegiate Credit Union and enjoy a piece of cake on April 28, 29 & 30.

Help us celebrate our graduating seniors

By Brian Schmit
Sports Editor

Do you know about the latest development in sports? Here at the Southern Student, we have the inside scoop on everything from national and international events to local news.

The latest news:
- Oregon State University has announced that its men's basketball team will take on the University of Southern California in the Pac-12 Conference title game on Thursday.
- The NFL has released its schedule for the upcoming season, with many exciting matchups and rivalry games.
- The International Olympic Committee (IOC) has approved the inclusion of surfing in the 2020 Tokyo Olympics.

For NFL, it’s time to change late starts

By Brian Schmit
Sports Editor

The National Football League (NFL) has made a decision to change the start times for certain games, particularly those with late starts.

The reasoning behind this change is to provide more of an opportunity for fans to watch games, especially those that begin late in the evening.

The new schedule will come into effect on Sunday, September 19, with the game between the Los Angeles Rams and the Arizona Cardinals.

This move is part of a larger initiative by the NFL to improve the fan experience and increase viewership.

The Southern Student encourages all football fans to check the new schedule and adjust their plans accordingly.

Stay tuned for more updates on the latest developments in sports!

"April showers bring May flowers" is one of our favorite sayings around here. I mean, why else do we have April showers? It's not like we can just control the weather. But it does give us a chance to enjoy some beautiful days and nights. And it also means that we can start thinking about planting our gardens! So let's get this spring into gear and enjoy everything that it has to offer.

effects on their lives. As the school year comes to an end, the students face the problem of choosing their courses for the next year. The decision of which classes to take can be a difficult and stressful one. It can be influenced by various factors, such as personal interests, academic requirements, and future career goals. The decision can also be affected by the availability of courses and the scheduling of classes.

Let them choose rooms

The decision is made by the Conference Center office, which takes into account the needs of the guests. The office tries to make sure that the rooms are comfortable and well-equipped. The guests are also encouraged to communicate their preferences to the staff, so that their needs can be met.

They have every right to be. Why try to force guests to choose a room that they don't want? They have the right to choose a room that they want. They have the right to choose a room that is comfortable and well-equipped. They have the right to choose a room that is in a location that they want. They have the right to choose a room that is in a location that is convenient for them. They have the right to choose a room that is in a location that is close to the conference center.

In conclusion, the guests have every right to choose a room that they want. They have the right to choose a room that is comfortable and well-equipped. Humorously Yours

Saying goodbye. What are the best words to use when saying goodbye? Many things should be considered when saying this to someone. Is the goodbye going to be comical? Should this be handled with many wry grins or uneasy smiles? There are definitely many ways of saying goodbye. Since this is my Top Ten list of ways to say goodbye:

1. Temporarily Yours, until I find something better.
2. Potentially Yours, since I’ll drop the remaining order and go to know the best.
3. Occasionally Yours, from all of my various personalities.
4. Lately Yours, for your example.

RUBES by Leigh Rubin

The younger the person, the longer you tent to laugh. Your laugh is against the grain.

And in the band-auto parts to the Wild, I solved the puzzle. The Yes are charted. I must find the answer now.

Such Is Life

This is the end of the world as we know it and I feel fine.

Friends

Looking back

We're friends now, and I remember the day our stories began. It was a hazy summer day, and I was in the park, just studying the lake on a lazy day. Suddenly, I heard a voice say, "Hi there! I'm new here, too." It was you, and I realized it was you.

And remember the occasion? We were in a field of flowers, and you said, "Hey, want to come over for dinner?" And I said, "Sure! What's for dinner?" And you said, "Just a simple dinner, but it's fun!"

And so, we sat on the porch, talking and laughing. And you said, "You know, I've always wanted to write a story." And I said, "Really? That's cool. What's it about?" And you said, "It's about a girl who's always wanted to write, but never had the time."

And I said, "Well, if you ever write it, I'd love to read it." And you said, "I will! And I'll show it to you first, of course!"

And so, we exchanged phone numbers, and you called me later that week, and you said, "I wrote a story! Do you want to read it?" And I said, "Yes! I can't wait!"

And you sent it to me, and I read it, and I was amazed. And I said, "Wow! You're really good at this!" And you said, "Thanks! I'm working on it." And I said, "Keep going! I can't wait to read more!"

And so, we continued to write stories together, and I learned so much from you. And you taught me how to be a better writer, and I taught you how to be a better friend.

And now, we're not just friends anymore. We're like family. And I'm so grateful for you, and I can't wait to see what we write next!"
The Year in Controversy...

Campus Shop selling caffeine pills to students

Pills pulled after Accent investigation

The Accent investigated the Campus Shop’s decision to sell Naltrexone, a popular brand of caffeine pills, and the pills were pulled immediately.

The Accent received numerous letters about caffeine and this topic started discussions about chocolate in letters that were received.
