Alumni President's Message

What's Happened?

This school year is about half gone and a number of interesting events have taken place on the campus. One of the most significant was the inauguration of Dr. Sahly as the twenty-second president of the college. This event provided a very positive image of the school to many visitors to the campus.

Alan Collins, sculptor from Loma Linda University, provided meaningful presentations, "The Passions of Man" and the "The Ages of Man," for the President's Lecture Series. The photos on the next page only hint of the artistry and inspiration shared with the audiences.

The main event for the Alumni Association has been Homecoming '86. The officers worked hard to provide an interesting and worthwhile weekend for those who were able to attend.

I believe that each alumnus of this school holds a golden key to the future of our college. If each one of us encourages the young people that we know to attend Southern College of Seventh-day Adventists, it would be invaluable in increasing its enrollment.

I have appreciated the opportunity to represent each of you thus far and look forward to the coming year.

With kind wishes,

Robert A. Lorren, D.D.S., '57

I hope that the people of the Chattanooga area and specifically of Collegedale and Southern College understand the great degree of acknowledgement and respect which has come your way as a result of the installation of the new organs on campus. It is with amazement that many of these "westerners" comment on this great accomplishment for such a "small" heretofore "unknown" school. We all, of course, know better. Anyway, the respect is there and I hope that the college will capitalize on this unique opportunity for advancing music as well as the name of the school.

Judy Glass is a performer equal to the caliber of all the guests of the dedication weekend. Were it not for her friendship and work with many of these guests, you well may not have enjoyed what became nearly an historic event in organ circles.

I am so proud to have been a student at Southern. This feeling intensified as I sat in one of my graduate classes, in the School of Education on the La Sierra campus of Loma Linda University.

Last class session we happened to be discussing communication and we got sidetracked on the subject of friendliness on Adventist college campuses. My professor had just returned about three weeks earlier from Southern College and he remarked that out of all the college campuses he has been to, Southern was the friendliest. Believe me, he has been to all of the campuses and that made me feel super.

Sculptor Collins Awes Audiences With Portrayal Of Mankind

"Clay in the potter's hand" took on new dimensions of meaning for audiences attending the President's Lecture Series in September.

British-born sculptor Alan Collins transformed 100-pound pieces of modeling clay through the emotions of living and the stages of life in a Thursday convocation and a Friday night vespers. To a background of fine music, and a literary script written and directed by Dorothy Minchin-Comm, the audience watched the chronicling of fear, anger, pride, greed, mirth, and contentment. (Pictured at right.) The second program depicted infancy, childhood, the lover, the soldier, maturity, old age, and a joyful epilogue of immortality.

Sculptor Collins is a professor of art and Dr. Minchin-Comm, a professor of English, at Loma Linda University. Besides meeting with several classes during the week, on Thursday evening the duo conducted a seminar in creativity.

Collins, a Fellow of the Royal Society of British Sculptors, has created sculptures for churches and public buildings in Britain and America. He was commissioned by the Kennedy Memorial Trust to design and carve the memorial to the late President Kennedy at Runnymede, England. Dr. Comm is the author of four biographies, including His Compassions Fail Not.

Official greetings arrived from scores of colleges and universities across the country.

THE INAUGURATION: REAFFIRMED

Harvard was here. Yale was here. So were Clemson and UTC and official delegates from 40 other colleges and universities.

It was an occasion like none other in Southern's 96-year history. Though President Don Sahly is the 22nd president to undertake the challenge of leading this institution, his was the first formal inauguration.

Rather than focusing on the new president, however, the event centered on a reaffirmation of Christian values, and celebrated commitment to the mission of the college. Faculty and board members joined together in reconsecration.

A number of students attended, in addition to those singing with Die Meistersinger, playing in the Brass Ensemble, or helping as ushers.

Dr. Norman J. Woods, president of Loma Linda University, gave a brief inaugural address, but not until greetings were presented on behalf of various entities, such as the Board of Higher Education in Washington, D.C., and the Chattanooga business community. Bill Bass spoke for the Student Association, and Ray Hefner for the faculty and staff. Other student delegates included Brenda Gabbert, senior; Rodney Dixon, junior; Jill Rice, sophomore; and Keith Di Domenico, freshman.

"From a student viewpoint, I thought it was an impressive and colorful event," said one student. "I especially liked the speakers because they got right to the point. Though there were quite a few of them, they kept moving right along with very little repetition."

A freshman added, "I really like those flags out in front. I wish they could stay up all the time." He was referring to the first unfurling of the eight state flags, a recent gift from an alumnus, which will be flown with the American flag for graduations and other special occasions.

In Dr. Wood's main address, he told of recently asking "What is ultimate freedom?" of the new class at Loma Linda (which, incidentally, includes 17 students from SC who had just entered the School of Medicine). He was pleased to report that a frequent answer expressed the idea of "losing myself in service to others." He spoke of perspectives and pointed up in a number of ways why a private school such as ours has its own vitally important place in a society which strongly supports public education.

After Board Chairman A McClure's Challenge to Leadership and Dr. Sahly's response, Gordor Bietz presented him with the Bible.

"The inauguration made me feel ten feet tall," said Laurel Wells, financial aid director. "It was the most impressive thing I have ever attended. People are going to know we are on the map, and I feel we are going to reap some definite benefits. The board members who so generously financed the inauguration from their own pockets could not have made a better investment," she went on.

"I know a lot of kids who wish they had been there," said one coed who was present. "If they had come, they might have understood a lot more about what an inauguration is like and how good it was for us to have one."

The president's platform party included representatives of several groups.

CHRISTIAN VALUES

Somebody who chatted with the delegate representing the University of California at Berkeley also reported favorable impressions. He had attended several inaugurations in the Southeast, and "This one topped them all. The ideal campus setting, the organ, the pageantry, the organization of the entire program—it was really worth coming from Oak Ridge to participate."

Apparently, there were only a couple of hitches in the program and those connected the Clydesdale horses with the parade wagon in which the "Newly Inaugurated" president and his wife rode with Board Chairman Al McClure and his wife from the church to the inaugural banquet.

Moving right into his responsibilities as president, the next morning Dr. Sahly met for the first time with the Board of Trustees for its annual fall meeting to consider a broad agenda.

Souvenir copies of the printed program are still available by writing to the Public Relations Office at Southern College.

THE MACE AND THE GRAND MARSHAL

Pictured on the cover is Wayne VandeVere, professor of business, and grand marshal for the inaugural procession. His green and white regalia is in the school colors. He carries the Southern College mace, crafted this year by John Durichek. Its base is of pine from Jones Hall. The seven rings indicate completeness, and the four-sided segment represents balanced mental, spiritual, physical, and social development. The copper flame speaks both of the Holy Spirit and the torch of learning. (Photo by Dave Jenkins)

White Memorial Chair of Religion Gets Its Start

by Tina Frist

Enhanced Christian growth was the objective of an inaugural lectureship for the Ellen G. White Memorial Chair of Religion which took place in November.

Dr. Gerhard Hasel, dean of the Theological Seminary at Andrews University, was the first guest to lecture under the auspices of the newly endowed chair. His morning and evening lecture series were "Christian Living in a Secular World" and "The Bible Today." He also spoke on Sabbath.

The endowed chair was established last June. Interest earned from the initial gift is providing for visiting lecturers during this school year. It is anticipated the religion chair will be occupied by a full-time professor after funding of close to half a million dollars is completed in 1987 through the generosity of undisclosed benefactors.

Dr. Gordon Hyde, professor of religion and division chairman, initiated the concept of the chair and sought out the funding. "A second purpose for the chair is to underwrite the publication of occasional papers in a journal-sized bulletin," Dr. Hyde explained. The bi-yearly publication would include articles, news about the division, and research being done by campus teachers.

"This is the first chair in the reli-

CARE (Collegiate Adventists Reaching Everyone) is led by six student leaders who provide the campus with over 30 varied programs designed to cultivate Christian growth and service. Pictured, left to right, are: Bob Folkenberg, Jr., of Charlotte, N.C., chaplain's assistant; Allar Martin, of Williston, Fla., Campus Ministries assistant and CLAS (Christian Leadership Advancement Source) leader; Mike Fulbright, of Apopka, Fla., Campus Ministries leader; Ted Huskins, of Arden, N.C., CABL (Collegiate Adventists for Better Living) leader; Jill Bishop, of Benton Harbor, Mich., secretary; and Kevin Costello, of Bronx, N.Y., president of the Collegiate Missions Club. Jim Herman (not pictured) is campus chaplain.

A reception for Bob Edwards, second from right, host of "Morning Edition," the award-winning news and information program from National Public Radio, followed his lecture in celebration of FM90.5 WSMC's Silver Anniversary. On November 13, 1961, the radio station became the first noncommercial radio station in southeast Tennessee. With identity as "The Classic Experience," it now broadcasts 24 hours a day.

gion area of Adventist denominational schools on the undergraduate level," said Dr. Jerry Gladson, professor of religion. "It's a wave of the future, and I hope to see more on this campus and at other institutions."

Early in the fall semester, students enjoyed a religion division retreat at Cohutta Springs Camp in Georgia. Dr. Joe Battistone administered profiles on leadership. The retreat and guest speaker were also funded by the chair.

Inaugural speaker Dr. Hasel, a native of Germany, taught at Southern College for several years and pastored in New England before joining the Andrews faculty in 1967.

"Our college holds a leadership position within the denomination a pioneer of endowed chairs," commented Dr. William Allen, vice president for academic administration. "Endowments not only enrich departments, but also add quality and interest to the campus. As enrollment and the college's financial situation fluctuate, endowed chairs provide stability to the school as separately funded teaching posts that are immune to these changes," Dr. Allen continued.

FOUNDERS' DAY

The R. L. Odoms pause a moment at the home of Genevieve and Russell Williams, hosts for an open house at what was once Maude Jones' home.

Alumni gifts had helped finance Miss Jones' cottage in the 1940's. She lived in Collegedale from 1917 to 1961.

So-Ju-Conians who had known Maude Jones as an English, math, or language teacher participated in a memorial service at the Collegedale Cemetery.

Dozens of her students sought out Maude Jones' love and advice while she was still living. Now they returned to visit her former home.

Helen Boykin and Ruth Jacobs joined Miss Jones' great-grandnephew John Richert to honor the grave of Maude Jones.

Southern College is its students—and its graduates. Three individuals were recognized this year for outstanding achievement and exemplary service. Two 20-year graduates shared the honors as Alumni of the Year:

David C. Taylor, '66, is now working with the Adventist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA) in the Sudan, and formerly was a missionary in Peru and Bolivia.

Lloyd H. "Buddy" Fisher is a certified public accountant in Loma Linda, Calif., and an especially active alumni chapter president.

The alumni association executives pulled off a surprise for Debbie McKee, '81, one of their number, by selecting her as Young Alumna of the Year. She is vice president for personnel at McKee Baking Company.

SOUTHERN PEOPLE

Jeanette Bryson

Peg Bennett

Bill Oliphant

Katie Lamb

Dean Kinsey

Marvin Robertson

■ The Board of Trustees has appointed Jeanette Bryson as an associate dean. She moved to Collegedale from Garden Grove, Calif., where she taught English at Orangewood Academy. She and her late husband, George E. Bryson, spent 12 years in mission service in West Africa. Mrs. Bryson is the author of the book Kudar.

■ The post of director of libraries has been given to Peg Bennett, an associate professor of library science and former head cataloger. McKee Library has a collection of about 180,000 volumes, 10,000 of which form a nursing material resource center on Southern's extension campus in Orlando, Fla. Miss Bennett, a graduate of Southern College, received her B.A. degree in chemistry in 1956, later shifting her career from medical technology to library science. She earned her master's degree in library science at Florida State University in 1971, after which she returned to Southern College as a faculty member. Miss Bennett is a member of Beta Phi Mu and various library associations.

■ C. A. (Bill) Oliphant has joined the faculty as chairman of the journalism and communication department. He will assume teaching duties in January. Dr. Oliphant has immediate plans to add classes to the present curriculum in the areas of public relations, journalism, and broadcast production. A Journalism Professional Advisory Council is being set up to help meet goals of the department. Dr. Oliphant, who holds a doctorate in mass communication from the University of Iowa, previously served as senior vice president for Coffey Associates, Inc., and editor of the journal Health Scene. He has 13 years of college and university teaching experience.

■ The acting chairman for the Division of Nursing in the absence of Cathy Knarr, who is on doctoral study leave at Loma Linda University, is Katie Lamb, associate professor of nursing. In her new management role, Mrs. Lamb oversees the activities of the division and represents both Orlando and Southern College campuses. She is also the curriculum coordinator and upper division coordinator for the nursing division, and is responsible to the State Board of Nursing. Mrs. Lamb joined the staff in 1972. She graduated from Union College in Nebraska, and from the University of Central Arkansas, and is now working toward her doctorate. She and her husband, Ed Lamb, a behavioral science teacher at Southern, have a son and a daughter, both attending Southern College.

■ The new associate vice president for development and planned giving is Dean Kinsey. Mr. Kinsey has taken the place of Stewart Crook, now director of endowment for the Southern Union of Seventh-day Adventists. Mr. Kinsey previously served as endowment director for the Florida Conference, and as vice president for administration at Southern College's Orlando campus. He also spent eight years as principal of Forest Lake Academy. Mr. Kinsey, '56, earned a history degree at Southern, and a master of education degree at Boston University. The Kinseys have two sons, Scott and Rick, who currently attend SC.

■ Marvin Robertson has been appointed director of summer sessions and director of continuing education as part of his new position as director for the Division of Adult Studies and Special Programs at Southern College. Dr. Robertson's duties include coordinating long- and short-term conferences, seminars, workshops, and programs for continuing education. A special program for gifted children and programs connected with the college departments are among future goals for the division. The division headquarters is in the Conference Center, a housing facility for campus and community guests. In addition to conducting Die Meistersinger, the 31-member male chorus, which is working toward a Soviet Union tour in May 1987, Dr. Robertson is the minister of music for the Collegedale Church.

■ Wayne VandeVere, chairman of the business department, has been named to the Ruth McKee Chair for Entrepreneurship and Business Ethics. This is the first fully endowed chair on a North American Adventist college campus. Because Dr. VandeVere was already on the faculty funding was opened up for another teaching position in the business department. Screening of candidates is still in progress. Kent Campbell, previously invited to join the department, declined due to personal circumstances. The chair honors Ruth King McKee who has displayed strong entrepreneurial skills as vice president for purchasing and receiving at McKee Baking Company, working alongside her husband, C. D. McKee, since 1934.

SOUTHERN PEOPLE

■ Five lay individuals have been elected to the Southern College Board of Trustees: James Boyle, Harvey Murphy, Robert Murphy, Winton Preston, and Bonnie Wilkens. The new president, Donald Sahly, is also new to the board.

James Boyle recently joined the Adventist Health System/Sunbelt corporate offices in Orlando, Fla., as executive vice president. In his new position he will chair the board of managers at Tennessee Christian Medical Center in Madison, Tenn., where he formerly was president. Boyle graduated from Southern in 1966 with a theology major, and minors in biology, education, and Greek.

Harvey Murphy is semi-retired from Murphy Body Works, a firm which manufactures refrigerated truck bodies and trailers. An elder and treasurer of the Roanoke Rapids SDA Church, in Roanoke, N.C., he served nine years on the Carolina Conference Executive Committee. He has served on the board of directors of the Truck Body and Equipment Association in Washington, D.C. for the past 15 years.

Robert Murphy, who has owned and operated Murphy Builders, Inc. in Longwood, Fla., for the past 14 years, graduated from Southern in 1965 with double majors in communications and religion. He presently serves on the Florida Conference Endowment Committee, the Southern Union Endowment Investment Committee, and the Endowment Committee of Southern College.

Winton Preston, president of Preston Graphic Communications, Inc., in Cleveland, Tenn., has spent most of his life involved in printing, publishing, and the graphic arts. A former manager of the College Press in Collegedale, Preston has served on numerous committees, and is currently the president of Cohutta Springs Development Associates. He graduated from Southern in 1948 with a degree in business administration, and is a member of the Bowman Hills SDA Church.

Bonnie Wilkens, a wife and mother, is in her eleventh year as board chairman for the SDA elementary school in Jellico, Tenn. She has served on the Georgia-Cumberland Conference Board of Education and the Georgia-Cumberland Academy board. Mrs. Wilkens attended Columbia Union College and Loma Linda University, receiving her master's degree in nursing. She and her husband have two sons attending Southern College, Greg and Todd.

■ Marsha Rauch has returned to the faculty of Southern College as associate director for the division of nursing at the Southern College Orlando campus. She assumed her duties on August 1.

■ Board member Eugene A. Anderson has provided funds for the Heiler Organ Concert Series which began the end of October. On Tuesday, February 17, guest organist Peter Planyavsky continues the sequence and on Thursday, March 26, Guy Bovet will wrap up the series of four concerts.

■ Frank Di Memmo, instructional media director, announces the availability of Dr. Gerhard Hasel's recent lectures on copyrighted tape (see article on page 6). The entire set of 11 audiotapes is $28.95 including postage and handling. Call (615) 238-2111, Ext. 726, or write to Instructional Media Department, P.O. Box 690, Southern College, Collegedale, TN 37315-0370. Information is also available concerning VHS videotapes of the series or single audiotaped lectures.

■ Thirty-two students are spending the current school year as Student Missionaries in various countries. Seven of the 32 are serving in Seoul, South Korea. They are: Bryan Boyle, Dennis Golightly, Blanca Grand, Scott Kemmerer, Chris Lang, Clark Larrabee, and Robert Portugal.

Another seven are serving in Bangkok, Thailand: Karen Carter, Liz

Cruz, Sharon Dyke, Debi Pickle, Pam Sadler, John Solo, and Brenda Sparks. Four students—Shannon Born, Anita Moreland, Randy Reece, and Mark Wedel—are teaching on the Marshall Islands. Becky Boyer and Loretta Francis are serving in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, and Lisa Springett and Werner Stavenhagen are serving in Agat, Guam.

Other student missionaries are: Dana Austin, in Montemorelos, Mexico; Gary Bradley, serving in Taiwan; David Fries in Zambia, Africa; Don Goodwin in Kolonia, Pohnpei; John Grys in Grand Lancy, Switzerland; Rhonda Larrance in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, West Indies; Twyla Shank in Tokyo; Kevin Spicer in Menton, France; and Karen Williams serving in Osaka, Japan.

Food Fair Raises Funds

Vanessa Radovan, left, vice president of the Collegiate Missions Club, coordinated the International Food Fair held in November. Nalini Manukonda, right, one of the students representing 27 foreign countries at SC this year, participated in the Southern Asia booth. Exotic dishes typical of the Orient, Europe, and other regions were served. Profits of $2,299 from the fund-raising event will assist Student Missionaries who devote a year of service in an overseas post. The Student Missionaries raise at least three-fourths of their travel expenses, but sometimes need additional help. Jan Rice and Chaplain Jim Herman are the club sponsors.

THOSE WHO GAVE

FISCAL YEAR 1985-86

“We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.”

—Winston Churchill

Thank you . . . from Southern's students, faculty, and staff . . . to each donor.

Donors listed are current, having given within the past three fiscal years (between July 1, 1983, and June 30, 1986). Gift club placement is determined by cumulative contributions of record.

Every attempt has been made for accuracy in these listings. If by chance your name has been misspelled, inadvertently omitted, or misplaced, please accept our apologies and advise the Development Office so that records can be corrected.

Monetary gifts and gifts-in-kind from alumni and friends in 1985-86 represent a grand total exceeding $2 million. Within this total is almost $156,000 from alumni participating in the Business Executives' Challenge to Alumni (BECA).

All gifts to Southern College are appreciated. Voluntary gifts expand educational opportunities for students needing a financial boost and encourage quality learning for every student through up-to-date equipment, lecture series, etc.

Gifts are gratefully received and promptly receipted by the Development Office at any time of year. The current alumni annual fund (BECA) concludes June 30, 1987.

Increasing in popularity are donations of "gifts-in-kind" to SC. This 25' O'Day sailboat was donated by John W. Henson III, of Chattanooga, for the college's sailing class, bringing the number of college boats to three. Some 60 students register each semester for the class.

Other gifts-in-kind include this IBM-compatible terminal shown here with operator Douglas Hursh, a senior religion major. The gift of four terminals, three printers, software, and programming support was made to the Division of Religion by Paul and Bille Burdick. Also in the package: a Scantron Optical Mark Reader Data Terminal for automating grading procedures.

"If a man be endowed with a generous mind, this is the best kind of nobility."

John Durichek, a former president of the Alumni Association, stands happily next to the MGD Offset Press donated by Howard Sutton. This and 5,000 pounds of paper are just two of many gifts-in-kind donated each year to Southern College. If you would like to know more about donating gifts-in-kind, please contact the Development Office at Southern College, (615) 238-2111, ext. 828.

"He that does good for good's sake seeks neither praise nor reward, but is sure of both in the end."

Committee of 100 at Work

Among recent projects undertaken by the Committee of 100 for SMC, Inc., was a $45,000 renovation of the Convention Center. Guest rooms received fresh paint and new queen beds, and the lobby was completely redecorated to provide guests with an attractive place to register and visit. A new signboard has also been installed near the entrance just south of Thatcher Hall. During the past year, nearly 5,000 guests have stayed at the Center.

Another major project now being completed is an upper campus promenade between Brock Hall and Lynn Wood Hall. The Committee of 100 appropriated $105,000 for this concrete, stone, and lighting project which increases the safety as well as the aesthetic beauty of the campus.

The committee, organized in 1963 to assist Southern in capital projects, has generated approximately $8.5 million in such outlays over the past 23 years. William A. Iles is president of the group. Other officers are Bill McGhinnis, senior vice president/executive director; Thelma Cushman, vice president/secretary; K. R. Davis, coordinator; and Robert Merchant, vice president/assistant treasurer.

Carolyn Niemeyer Memorial Scholarship Fund Established

In honor of Carolyn Cothren Niemeyer, born May 18, 1943, who died July 17, 1986, in Avon Park, Fla.

Carolyn graduated from Southern College twice—A.S. in 1978 and B.S. in 1980—and subsequently developed curriculum and taught operating room and recovery room procedures for Southern's students on the Orlando campus. She also taught pediatrics and had undertaken master's degrees in counseling and nursing.

She is survived by her husband, Wayne; sons, Matthew and Mark; a sister, Betty Mikk; and the Cothren family.

Former classmates and friends wishing to add to this permanent nursing scholarship fund in her memory may contact the Development Office.

At Rest

LILAH NESTER LAWSON LILLEY, 82, died September 4, 1986, in Chattanooga. She had taught in the education department at Southern from 1969 until her 1975 retirement. Prior to that, for four years she was principal at A. W. Spalding Elementary School in Collegedale.

Born in Indiana, Lilah began teaching there at age 17. After her marriage to Albert Lawson, a teacher who became a pastor, she taught in Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. Pastor Lawson died in 1952 and she returned to college. She graduated from Southern with honors in 1953. She deaned here and taught English the following year, then in 1955 received a master's degree from George Peabody College at Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

Lilah was supervisor of education for the Texas Conference from 1955 to 1959. That year she married Herbert Lilley, a widower employed at Washington Adventist Hospital, and began six years as educational supervisor for the Potomac Conference. While in retirement at Collegedale, she remained actively involved in Christian education and church activities.

Mr. Lilley predeceased her in 1980. Lilah's son, Cedric, died in 1946. Besides his daughter, Glenda Lee Pappas, who was a year old at that time, survivors include two stepsons, Herbert Lilley of Hagerstown, Md., and Donald Lilley of Fulton, Md. Two sisters, Bernice Wilson and Gladys Godwin, both live in Albany, Ind.

Presidency Off to a Galloping Good Start

"Donald Sahly's term as president of Southern College in Collegedale got off to a galloping good start Monday (September 22) as his inaugural ceremonies concluded with a Clydesdale horse-drawn wagon ride through town." This is how the Chattanooga Times described a similar picture which was also carried on the wire service throughout Tennessee. Dr. Sahly was joined in the parade wagon by his wife, Weslynn, and college Board Chairman Alfred C. McClure and his wife, Frances, waving. (Photo by Dave Jenkins)
